AT LEAST ONE AMERICAN IS KILLED ABOARD SUSSEX

Miss Elizabeth Baldwin of Baltimore Known to Be Victim of Explosion That Damaged Channel Steamer—Numerous Other United States Citizens Not Accounted For.

SURVIVORS SAY SUBMARINE ATTACKED

Possibility of Complications With Central Powers Over Torpedoing Merchant Vessels Again Being Considered by Officials at Washington, Who Are Waiting for Fuller Details of Catastrophe.

By the Associated Press.

London, March 25.—There were six Americans among the seventy survivors of the Sussex who reached Dover today on a British destroyer. The majority of the survivors agree with the opinion of the French admiralty that the Sussex was torpedoed by a submarine.

The Americans landed at Dover were Frances E. Drake, Edward H. Huxley, Edward Marshall, Charles T. Crocker, George H. Crocker and Wilder Penfield. G. H. Crocker and Mr. Penfield are in a hospital with fractured skulls.

The American survivors reported that Mrs. D. W. Hilton, T. W. Culbertson and Daniel Sargeant had been rescued. Dispatches from Boulogne report the safe arrival there of John Hearley and Samuel S. Bemis.

Miss Elizabeth Baldwin was killed by the explosion according to those arriving at Dover, who state also that Miss Edna Hilton is missing.

Nothing has been heard of the other twelve Americans who were aboard the Sussex. However, as a great majority of the rescued passengers were landed at Boulogne it is possible they may be among them.

MANY WOMEN AND CHILDREN ABOARD.

Most of the passengers are believed to have been continentals. There were 270 women and children on the vessel.

The Sussex carried twelve life boats and several rafts. The life boats were lowered quickly after the explosion. Good discipline was maintained, although there was some scrambling for the boats. The second boat lowered, which contained forty persons, was overturned. Passengers state that thirty of those in this boat were drowned.

A number of passengers jumped overboard. Gratings and pieces of furniture were thrown to them from the deck. More than half of those who leaped into the water are believed to have lost their lives. The foremast and wireless apparatus were blown away by the explosion.

Persons who embarked in the boats returned to the Sussex before dark. Rockets were fired and about midnight a trawler came to the rescue. It took as many as it could carry to Boulogne. A British destroyer came up soon afterward and took on the other passengers, conveying them to Dover. Five bodies were left on the Sussex.

CORRECTED LIST OF AMERICAN PASSENGERS.

A corrected list of the American passengers aboard the cross-channel steamer Sussex, compiled from the records at the American consulate in London follows:

Gertrude W. Warren, St. Louis, Mo.
J. Mark Baldwin, Elizabeth F. Baldwin and Helen G. Baldwin, Baltimore, Md.
Alice Ruiz, Lyon, Colo.
Edna F. Hilton, Dorothy W. Hilton, Gertrude L. Barnes, Frances E. Drake, Edward H. Huxley, Edna S. Harde, Lillian D. S. Harde, Henry S. Beer, Ida Beer, Joshua Dickinson Armitage, Edward Marshall, Edna Hale and Calliope Anastasia Fennell, New York.
Tingle W. Culbertson, Lewisburg, Pa.
Daniel Sargeant, Wellesley, Mass.
John H. Hearley, Albany, N. Y.
Samuel S. Bemis, Bedford, Mass.
Wilder G. Penfield, Hudson, Wis.
Charles T. Crocker, Jr., and George H. Crocker, Jr., Fitchburg, Mass.

Complications Possible.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 25.—The channel steamer Sussex, damaged yesterday in the English channel, and the British steamer Englishman, destroyed by an explosion, both carrying American citizens, were torpedoed, according to consular reports received by the state department today. Flat statements that torpedoes were responsible were made in both cases, but the consuls did not give the source of their information.

Twenty-five Americans were on the Sussex. Whether any of them lost their lives or were injured was not established by the official reports, though news dispatches indicated that Americans might have been lost. Four Americans employed as horse handlers were aboard the Englishman. None was among the rescued landed at a British port.

Coming at a time when the state department was awaiting the result of an investigation of the sinking of the Dutch liner Tubantia and considering affidavits regarding an alleged submarine attack upon the French ship Patria, the destruction of the Englishman and the damaging of the Sussex raised again the possibility of complications between the United States and the central European powers.

OVER SIXTY REPORTED VICTIMS

The most important dispatch regarding the Sussex came from the American ambassador at Paris. He reported that the American consular agent at Dieppe had informed him the Sussex was torpedoed about six miles off the French coast while carrying 386 passengers and a crew of fifty-five and that sixty to eighty passengers had been wounded or killed.

Ambassador Sharp quoted Samuel Bemis, an American, as saying that he had seen several persons killed in the explosion.

Ambassador Page at London reported that the British government has informed him of the disaster and supplied the names of the twenty-five passengers.

INQUIRIES WILL BE MADE TO CENTRAL POWERS.

The recent numerous occasions in which ships carrying American citizens have met with disaster or been the object of alleged attacks have been the source of much concern in high administration circles, but the state department is considering the cases with an open mind and will not determine upon a course until all possible information has been secured. The possibility that mines might have been responsible has not by any means been excluded from consideration. In case it is not definitely established just what destroyed the Englishman and damaged the Sussex, the state department probably will make inquiries of Germany as to whether its submarines were concerned. Secretary Lansing made it clear tonight that the reports so far received could not in any sense be considered conclusive.

It is possible all the cases of unexplained shipping disasters now under consideration may be incorporated in a single general note and inquiry on the theory that the evidence is cumulative.

The state department now has ready for transmission to the Austrian government another note regarding the attack by an Austrian submarine on the American tank steamer Petrolite. It reiterates the demands for indemnity and punishment of the submarine commander. It probably will be dispatched Monday.

President Wilson Issues Warning That Certain Influences Are Seeking to Force Mexican Intervention

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 25.—President Wilson tonight issued a warning that "sinister and unscrupulous influences" are spreading alarmist reports about the Mexican situation with the object of forcing intervention by the United States "in the interest of certain American owners of Mexican properties."

In a formal statement the president told the people of the United States to be on their guard and not to credit such stories. He urged those who disseminate news to test the source and authenticity of every report from the border and called attention again to the government's announcement that the sole object of the punitive expedition now in Mexico was to punish Villa and his followers. The news service supplying newspapers had been asked, the president said, to assist in keeping this view constantly before the Mexican people and American people to the end that the expedition should not be given the color of war.

The president's statement follows:

"As has already been announced the expedition into Mexico was ordered under an agreement with the de facto government of Mexico for the single purpose of taking the bandit, Villa, whose forces had actually invaded the territory of the United States and is in no sense intended as an invasion of that republic or as an infringement of its sovereignty. I have therefore asked the several news services to be good enough to assist the administration in keeping this view of the expedition constantly before the people of this country and the distressed and sensitive people of Mexico who are very susceptible indeed to impressions received from the American press and also very ready to believe that those impressions proceed from the views and objects of our government itself. Such conclusions, it must be said, are not unnatural because the main if not the only source of information for the people on both sides of the border is the public press of the United States.

"In order to avoid the creation of erroneous and dangerous impressions in this way, I have called upon the several news agencies to use the utmost care not to give news stories regarding this expedition the color of war, to withhold stories of troop movements and military preparations which might be given that interpretation, and to refrain from publishing unverified rumors of unrest in Mexico. I feel that it is most desirable to impress upon both our own people and the people of Mexico the fact that the expedition is simply a necessary punitive measure, aimed solely at the elimination of the marauders who raided Columbus and who infest an unprotected district near the border which they use as a base in making attacks upon the lives and property of our citizens within our own territory. It is the purpose of our commanders to cooperate in every possible way with the forces of General Carranza in removing his cause of irritation to both government sand to retire from Mexican territory so soon as that object is accomplished.

"It is my duty to warn the people of the United States that there are persons all along the border who are actively engaged in originating and giving as wide currency as they can to rumors of the most sensational and disturbing sort which are wholly unjustified by the facts.

"The object of this traffic in falsehood is obvious. It is to create intolerable friction between the government of the United States and the de facto government of Mexico for the purpose of bringing about intervention in the interest of certain American owners of Mexican properties. This object cannot be obtained so long as sane and honorable men are in control of this government, but very serious conditions may be created, unnecessary bloodshed may result and the relations between the two republics may be very much embarrassed. The people of the United States should know the sinister and unscrupulous influences that are afoot and should be on their guard against crediting any story coming from the border; and those who disseminate the news should make it a matter of patriotism and of conscience to test the source and authenticity of every report they receive from that quarter.

POLITICAL STRUGGLE COMING THIS WEEK

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS TO ASK MORE PROTECTION FOR BORDER.

Washington Receives Word That Carranza Agrees to Proposed Protocol.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 28.—While administration officials described the military situation in Mexico as serene tonight, the day's developments in Washington forecast a political struggle here next week, with the administration's Mexican policy as the storm center.

President Wilson issued a warning to the people not to be influenced by alarmist reports regarding the situation, which he said were being disseminated by "sinister and unscrupulous influences" and in the interest of "certain American owners of Mexican properties." He reiterated that every effort would be made to prevent the pultive operations against Villa from assuming in discussion the color of war.

As he wrote the president had before him the most reassuring reports received from the border since the American troops began their pursuit of General Villa. They were sent by General Funston and satisfied the officials that the Carranza government was doing all in its power toward the pursuit.

REPUBLICANS WOULD SEND MORE TROOPS SOUTH.

In the capital, senate republicans were called into conference by their leader, Senator Gallinger, to discuss the border situation. They will meet again Monday but it was admitted by those present today that the sense of the meeting was that steps should be taken to compel the sending of additional troops to guard the border states.

In effect that would mean the calling out of the national guard, as almost all the mobile regulars now are on the border or in Mexico.

Several of the republican senators asserted that the minority members endorsed the sending of the expeditionary force after Villa and wished only to cooperate with President Wilson in guarding the border states. They repudiated any suggestions that they are playing politics.

"If we cannot get anything done ourselves," one senator said, "we at least can by unanimous action arouse such public sentiment as to force action by the majority."

BORDER SENATORS ASK FOR INFORMATION

Senators from border states telegraphed inquiries to towns along the international line as to the exact situation and the reasons for the alarm expressed in messages they have received. The replies will be considered at the conference Monday.

General Funston's message was a comprehensive review of the situation on the border and in the region where General Pershing's columns are believed to be closing in on the bandits. Secretary Baker announced that it stated positively as a matter of military information that there had been no strengthening of the Carranza garrisons at Mexican border towns since March 10, the day after the Columbus raid.

The secretary added that the department had not asked for the report.

Officials were impressed by General Obregon's statement, telegraphed to the state department today. The Carranza war minister and military chief said there was no friction between the two governments; that adequate Mexican forces were co-operating with General Pershing, but that more would be sent if necessary.

With this statement and General Funston's report high army officials were satisfied that the end of the pursuit was near. It was known that there are 35,000 Carranza troops in Sonora, shuting off all escape for Villa to the west.

Officials today welcomed the report from Queretaro, the present seat of government in Mexico, that a favorable decision on the proposed protocol had been handed by General Carranza to James L. Rodgers, American special representative.

Indications are that General Funston will be able to employ the Mexican railroads, perhaps tomorrow, in supplying his far-reaching lines, thus relieving an increasingly serious problem.

Reassuring official reports from many parts of Mexico continued to reach the state department today. Among these were telegrams from Piedras Negras reporting continued quiet. The settlement of the railroad strike was reported from Eagle Pass.

Another proposal for the call for volunteers found its way into congress today. A joint resolution directing the president to immediately call 100,000 volunteers for an arm of service to last until peace is sufficiently restored in Mexico to guarantee protection to American life and property was introduced by Representative Dyer of Missouri. Mr. Dyer is head of the Spanish War Veterans' national organization and the resolution provides that preference shall be given in this volunteer enlistment to the militia and the United Spanish War Veterans.

Texas Suffs Ask Passage of Baker Suff Amendment

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, March 25.—Messages are being filed tonight from representatives of 30,000 male equal suffrage advocates and more than 200,000 female suffragists in Texas asking for favorable consideration of the Baker suffrage amendment. The messages from 200 women equal franchise societies and seven men's equal suffrage clubs are addressed to Senator Sheppard and each of the twenty-one members of the house judiciary committee now considering the bill. Senator Sheppard is being urged to appear before the committee and argue for a favorable report.

Train Is Attacked by Villa Bandits

By The Associated Press.

Laredo, Texas, March 25.—Americans arriving here tonight from Torreon said their train was fired into by 500 bandits, supposedly Villa followers, near Viesca, between Torreon and Saltilla.

The passenger was followed by and preceded by a Carranza troop train. When the rear military train drew up, the Carranza soldiers fought the bandits off. There were no American casualties.

Everything Quiet on Gibson Ranch

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 25.—Investigation of reports that Mexican brigands had raided the border eight miles from here and killed three Americans today disclosed that they are unfounded. Everything was quiet at Gibson's ranch and there was no trouble there.

AMERICANS SIGHT BAND OF VILLISTAS

LEADER NOT BELIEVED IN THE PARTY AND NO ENGAGEMENT RESULTS.

Pershing's Troops Have Been in No Clashes Since Start Was Made.

By the Associated Press.

Headquarters of the American Punitive Expedition, Colonia Dublan, Chihuahua, Mex., Via Wireless to Columbus, N. M., March 25.—A straggling band of Villistas were sighted about fifty miles south of here today by American forces engaged in the punitive expedition into Mexico to capture Francisco Villa, the outlawed Mexican bandit. It was evident however, that Villa himself was not in the party which consisted only of a few men and no engagement resulted.

Reports of a battle between Carranza and Villistas at Namiquipa, approximately seventy-five miles south of here, were received today. The reports asserted that the battle took place yesterday but there was no indication of the number of men engaged or of the result. Villa is believed to have only a few men with him, some reports indicating that his total force approximates only about 300 men. Army men expressed their gratification today at the manner in which troops under the direction of Carranza are co-operating with the American column.

Sandstorms which have caused increasing discomfort to the Americans for the last few days continued today with no signs of abatement. Despite the handicaps, however, both men an danimals are bearing up well. Because of the heavy demand upon the wireless for army business, orders were issued here today greatly limiting the amount filed by newspaper correspondents, attached to the column.

An aeroplane mail and dispatch service was established today between the border and the advanced base of the American expeditionary force here.

Gen. J. J. Pershing started today to make a two-day inspection trip of all the troops in the field. There have been no clashes involving American troops since the start of the expedition and quiet prevails throughout the district occupied, according to reports to military headquarters here today.

Mayor of Douglas Says Mexicans Not Gathering There

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., March 25.—Mayor C. O. Ellis, the Douglas Chamber of Commerce and Mines and other local organizations and prominent citizens took steps today to stop the circulation of alarming reports from this section of the border, either by newspaper dispatches or personal telegrams.

Mayor Ellis in a statement declared the reports that large numbers of Mexican troops were concentrated within a few blocks of the business center of Douglas was "an unqualified falsehood" and that it was to be regretted that "there is no law providing suitable punishment for its malicious perpetrators."

Stormy Session Held by Reichstag

By the Associated Press.

Amsterdam, March 24, Via London, March 25.—Advices from Berlin indicate that today's sitting of the Reichstag was the stormiest on record and had to be closed by the president owing to disorder caused by the socialist group.

The speech which caused the trouble was by Herr Haase, who declared that Germany would never win the war which would be a drawn conflict. He declared that the German socialists hated war and desired peace.

These remarks provoked a tremendous uproar. Herr Haase again tried to speak but members crowded around him threatening to strike him and the president hurriedly closed the sitting.

It is reported that the "social democratic working alliance" is to be the name of a new faction formed by eighteen socialists who withdrew from the party with Herr Haase as their leader.

VILLA OUTWITS PURSUERS SAYS REPORT FROM EL PASO

BANDIT IS TRYING TO BREAK THROUGH SOUTH OF MADERA

AMERICAN CAVALRY CLOSE ON HEELS OF FLEEING MEXICAN. ESCAPE PROBABLE IF TUTUACA IS REACHED BEFORE AMERICANS CATCH UP WITH BANDIT.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, March 25.—Villa has outwitted his pursuers by splitting his forces, leaving one body to hold in check the Carranza troops in the neighborhood of Namiquipa while he himself, at the head of a picked force, is trying to break through the lines of his enemies south of Madera, according to information brought here today by Americans arriving from Pearson and Casas Grandes.

This information redoubled the interest with which word is awaited from General Pershing that the American troops have clashed with the Villa followers. According to reports from usually reliable sources, coupled with what is officially known as to the progress of the punitive columns, American cavalry reached Madera yesterday and should be close on the heels of the fugitive bandit today.

VILLA STRIKING FOR "PANCHO'S ROAD."

From Madera south as far as Tutuaca, a distance of about thirty miles, a mountain trail winds through the Sierra Madres. At Tutuaca it bends sharply to the southeast until it is lost in the wild and barren country south of Minaca. The trail was known for years as "Pancho's road." It was popularly believed to have been broken by the bandit and its intricacies are known to few but him.

Ben Harrison, a veteran scout who is now living here, declared today that if Villa succeeded in reaching Tutuaca the task of finding him would be a hopeless one.

At Fort Bliss activity was redoubled today to perfect arrangements for the moving of supplies and equipment to Juarez, where they will be sent south on the Mexico Northwestern railroad after permission to use the railroad has been granted.

The using of the Mexican lines by the Americans is expected to be the supreme test of whether friction with the Mexican people is to be averted and real co-operation between the Carranza forces and the United States expedition established. If this is safely passed, it is believed much of the menace in the present situation will have been eliminated.

ALARMISTS KEPT UNUSUALLY QUIET.

The alarmists on the border were unusually quiet today. Threats made by local authorities that persons caught spreading false and alarming reports would be summarily dealt with appearing to have its effect and there are less wild stories than usual being circulated in the barrooms and other haunts of the "rumoristas."

General Gavira announced late today that telegraphic communication had been restored with Madera and he had asked for news of the fight with Villa at El Oso.

The Villa force who were reported two days ago to be engaged in battle with Colonel Cano at El Oso, five miles south of Namiquipa, escaped without any real fighting, according to a message to General Gavira, made public here tonight by Consul Garcia. The message said the bandits were now at San Geronimo, a ranch some miles south of El Oso, and that five columns of American troops were cooperating with the troops of General Carranza.

Torreon Refugees Reach Monterey

By the Associated Press.

Monterey, Mex., March 25.—A special train from Torreon bringing women and children from the American colony there passed through here tonight. The women were seated on the floor of a box car protected by a barrier of trunks. The guard on the train engaged in a running fight with a large number of bandits who rode alongside for several miles from Prevenci to Santo Nino. Wires were cut on both sides and attempts made to burn the bridges.

CARRANZA'S DELAY WORRIES OFFICIALS AT HEADQUARTERS

FAILURE TO SEND SUPPLIES OVER MEXICAN RAILWAY RETARDING PERSHING'S OPERATIONS—ADDITIONAL TROOPS BEING SENT FORWARD TO AID IN CHASE.

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, Texas, March 25.—Carranza's delay in permitting the movement into Mexico over the Northwestern railway of supplies for the American troops has created an impatience at army headquarters that today was hardly disguised. The quartermaster department has proceeded on the assumption that finally Carranza will authorize the use of the railroad and has sent to El Paso a quantity of stores for immediate shipment. Officers here did not credit the unofficial report that Gen. Alvaro Obregon, Carranza's secretary of war, had said that no permission for use of the line would be given.

Failure to send supplies through Juarez would not stop the campaign, but it was admitted that it would materially retard General Pershing's activities. Already there has been so much change in the positions of the mobile forces dispatched from Casas Grandes that the logical railroad to use for getting supplies to a part of them would be the National, which goes straight from Juarez to Chihuahua instead of making the wide swing to the west that the Northwestern does. The Northwestern is the logical line for supplying troops near Casas Grandes, but since many of them now are more than 100 miles further south General Funston says time could be saved by routing the stores over the National, especially since many repairs would have to be made on the Northwestern south of Casas Grandes.

FUNSTON MAY NOT ASK TO USE RAILWAY.

Whether General Funston requests the government to get permission to use the National, however, will depend upon the answer to the request already made, he said. He admitted the desirability of using the direct route, but recognized also the inadvisability of compounding his request.

The utilization of the flying corps for transmission of reports from the field was regarded at headquarters with keen satisfaction. The wireless has not been a success and in the absence of telegraph wires General Pershing has been unable to render detailed reports and for days at a time no report of any character.

Uneasiness occasioned by the lack of news from cavalry columns was evident today at General Funston's headquarters, although he displayed an optimistic confidence in General Pershing's campaign methods. His longing for more news, however, was unconcealed. Monday General Pershing reported the dispatch of three cavalry columns southward from Casas Grandes. Friday he reported that two of them were in the vicinity of Namiquipa. That is the net amount of official information that has reached headquarters. Unofficially stories of a fight near Namiquipa and of another impending at El Oso have been received.

MORE TROOPS WILL JOIN PERSHING.

The other part of the Fifth cavalry should have reached Columbus by Monday and soon afterward the Twenty-fourth infantry is expected. These two bodies with the exception of one battalion will be sent forward immediately and will be used by General Pershing in strengthening his lines of communication.

Further reference to difficulties he is having in getting his supplies was contained in messages from General Pershing to General Funston late today. The messages were brought by aeroplane to Columbus for transmission by wire to headquarters here. General Pershing said that the roads were so heavy along his line of communication that only a small percentage of the volume of supplies the auto trucks should carry was being moved.

The communications from General Pershing were said not to have contained any information regarding the whereabouts of Villa or the operations directed against him.

Embargo on War Material.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, March 25.—Not a pound of war material of any sort has gone through this port into Mexico for many weeks, said Collector of Customs Cobb today in regard to the report that the United States was investigating the shipments to Carranza's army.

Attack on Steamer Sussex Big Feature of War News

By the Associated Press.

The cross channel steamer Sussex, damaged by an exterior explosion Friday afternoon while twenty-five Americans were on board, was torpedoed, according to a report from the American consul at Dieppe, received at the state department in Washington from Ambassador Sharp at Paris. The report gives from sixty to eighty persons wounded or killed by the explosion.

Of the Americans on the steamer, only two had been reported up to a late hour Saturday to the American embassy in London as among the saved. Unofficially, however, several others have been accounted for as rescued.

At least two Americans on board are known to have been injured, and one of the survivors declares that Miss Elizabeth Baldwin, an American, lost her life, while another American is reported missing.

Cable dispatches say that the loss of life on the Sussex may reach a total of forty.

A definite statement that the Sussex was torpedoed comes in a Paris dispatch quoting Samuel F. Bemis of New Bedford, Mass., as declaring that he saw plainly and unmistakably the wake of the torpedo as it came toward and struck the steamer.

The British naval guide in the North Sea headed off on February 29 a German raider which way trying to run the blockade. In the resulting engagement the raider, the auxiliary cruiser Greif and the British armed ship that stopped her, the Alcantara, were sunk, the fight being described as a hot one, recalling the naval duels of the days before the ironclads.

The British and German statements are at variance regarding the engagement. Only one British vessel is mentioned in the London admiralty account, while Berlin declares three British cruisers and a destroyer were in the action. The Greif was struck by a torpedo from a 15,000-ton cruiser and finally blew herself up, the German admiralty asserts. London says a torpedo from the Greif sent the Alcantara to the bottom. The British captured some 120 Germans from the raider.

There has been no renewal of the German attacks on Verdun fortress, but the artillery has been notably active, Paris reports. According to the German war office, Verdun was set on fire by German shells during the artillery exchanges.

On the Russian front the German lines have been subjected to further heavy attacks both northwest and south of Dvinsk, Berlin declares, however, that all Russian attempts to advance were complete failures.

Entire Oklahoma Family But One Killed by Tornado

By the Associated Press

Davis, Okla., March 25.—Eight members of the family of Alex Edgemond, a farmer, living two miles east of here, were killed when a tornado demolished their home at 8:30 last night. Edgemond, himself, escaped by taking refuge under a barn.

The dead:

MRS. ALEX EDGEMOND, aged 59.
MRS. HANNAH THOMAS, her mother, aged 89.
PETE EDGEMOND, a son, aged 25.
MRS. PETE EDGEMOND, aged 25.
ALONSO EDGEMOND, aged 18.
SAM EDGEMOND, aged 14.
EULIE EDGEMOND, aged 6.
BABY EDGEMOND, aged 2.

When the storm, which intermittently swept a strip about eight miles long, struck the house the family was about to take flight to a nearby storm cave, the father being the only member to reach the open before the house crashed in. Edgemond then crawled under a barn which was unharmed by the wind.

The town of Davis was not struck by the tornado, although farm houses in the vicinity were either partially or totally demolished. Other families had sought safety in their dugouts.

AT LEAST ONE AMERICAN IS KILLED ABOARD SUSSEX

Miss Elizabeth Baldwin of Baltimore Known to Be Victim of Explosion That Damaged Channel Steamer—Numerous Other United States Citizens Not Accounted For.

SURVIVORS SAY SUBMARINE ATTACKED

Possibility of Complications With Central Powers Over Torpedoing Merchant Vessels Again Being Considered by Officials at Washington, Who Are Waiting for Fuller Details of Catastrophe.

By the Associated Press.

London, March 25.—There were six Americans among the seventy survivors of the Sussex who reached Dover today on a British destroyer. The majority of the survivors agree with the opinion of the French admiralty that the Sussex was torpedoed by a submarine.

The Americans landed at Dover were Frances E. Drake, Edward H. Huxley, Edward Marshall, Charles T. Crocker, George H. Crocker and Wilder Penfield. G. H. Crocker and Mr. Penfield are in a hospital with fractured skulls.

The American survivors reported that Mrs. D. W. Hilton, T. W. Culbertson and Daniel Sargeant had been rescued. Dispatches from Boulogne report the safe arrival there of John Hearley and Samuel S. Bemis.

Miss Elizabeth Baldwin was killed by the explosion according to those arriving at Dover, who state also that Miss Edna Hilton is missing.

Nothing has been heard of the other twelve Americans who were aboard the Sussex. However, as a great majority of the rescued passengers were landed at Boulogne it is possible they may be among them.

MANY WOMEN AND CHILDREN ABOARD.

Most of the passengers are believed to have been continentals. There were 270 women and children on the vessel.

The Sussex carried twelve life boats and several rafts. The life boats were lowered quickly after the explosion. Good discipline was maintained, although there was some scrambling for the boats. The second boat lowered, which contained forty persons, was overturned. Passengers state that thirty of those in this boat were drowned.

A number of passengers jumped overboard. Gratings and pieces of furniture were thrown to them from the deck. More than half of those who leaped into the water are believed to have lost their lives. The foremast and wireless apparatus were blown away by the explosion.

Persons who embarked in the boats returned to the Sussex before dark. Rockets were fired and about midnight a trawler came to the rescue. It took as many as it could carry to Boulogne. A British destroyer came up soon afterward and took on the other passengers, conveying them to Dover. Five bodies were left on the Sussex.

CORRECTED LIST OF AMERICAN PASSENGERS.

A corrected list of the American passengers aboard the cross-channel steamer Sussex, compiled from the records at the American consulate in London follows:

Gertrude W. Warren, St. Louis, Mo.
J. Mark Baldwin, Elizabeth F. Baldwin and Helen G. Baldwin, Baltimore, Md.
Alice Ruiz, Lyon, Colo.
Edna F. Hilton, Dorothy W. Hilton, Gertrude L. Barnes, Frances E. Drake, Edward H. Huxley, Edna S. Harde, Lillian D. S. Harde, Henry S. Beer, Ida Beer, Joshua Dickinson Armitage, Edward Marshall, Edna Hale and Calliope Anastasia Fennell, New York.
Tingle W. Culbertson, Lewisburg, Pa.
Daniel Sargeant, Wellesley, Mass.

Complications Possible.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 25.—The channel steamer Sussex, damaged yesterday in the English channel, and the British steamer Englishman, destroyed by an explosion, both carrying American citizens, were torpedoed, according to consular reports received by the state department today. Flat statements that torpedoes were responsible were made in both cases, but the consuls did not give the source of their information.

Twenty-five Americans were on the Sussex. Whether any of them lost their lives or were injured was not established by the official reports, though news dispatches indicated that Americans might have been lost. Four Americans employed as horse handlers were aboard the Englishman. None was among the rescued landed at a British port.

Coming at a time when the state department was awaiting the result of an investigation of the sinking of the Dutch liner Tubantia and considering affidavits regarding an alleged submarine attack upon the French ship Patria, the destruction of the Englishman and the damaging of the Sussex raised again the possibility of complications between the United States and the central European powers.

OVER SIXTY REPORTED VICTIMS

The most important dispatch regarding the Sussex came from the American ambassador at Paris. He reported that the American consular agent at Dieppe had informed him the Sussex was torpedoed about six miles off the French coast while carrying 386 passengers and a crew of fifty-five and that sixty to eighty passengers had been wounded or killed.

Ambassador Sharp quoted Samuel Bemis, an American, as saying that he had seen several persons killed in the explosion.

Ambassador Page at London reported that the British government has informed him of the disaster and supplied the names of the twenty-five passengers.

INQUIRIES WILL BE MADE TO CENTRAL POWERS.

The recent numerous occasions in which ships carrying American citizens have met with disaster or been the object of alleged attacks have been the source of much concern in high administration circles, but the state department is considering the cases with an open mind and will not determine upon a course until all possible information has been secured. The possibility that mines might have been responsible has not by any means been excluded from consideration. In case it is not definitely established just what destroyed the Englishman and damaged the Sussex, the state department probably will make inquiries of Germany as to whether its submarines were concerned. Secretary Lansing made it clear tonight that the reports so far received could not in any sense be considered conclusive.

It is possible all the cases of unexplained shipping disasters now under consideration may be incorporated in a single general note and inquiry on the theory that the evidence is cumulative.

The state department now has ready for transmission to the Austrian government another note regarding the attack by an Austrian submarine on the American tank steamer Petrolite. It reiterates the demands for indemnity and punishment of the submarine commander. It probably will be dispatched Monday.

President Wilson Issues Warning That Certain Influences Are Seeking to Force Mexican Intervention

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 25.—President Wilson tonight issued a warning that "sinister and unscrupulous influences" are spreading alarmist reports about the Mexican situation with the object of forcing intervention by the United States "in the interest of certain American owners of Mexican properties."

In a formal statement the president told the people of the United States to be on their guard and not to credit such stories. He urged those who disseminate news to test the source and authenticity of every report from the border and called attention again to the government's announcement that the sole object of the punitive expedition now in Mexico was to punish Villa and his followers. The news service supplying newspapers had been asked, the president said, to assist in keeping this view constantly before the Mexican people and American people to the end that the expedition should not be given the color of war.

The president's statement follows:

"As has already been announced the expedition into Mexico was ordered under an agreement with the de facto government of Mexico for the single purpose of taking the bandit, Villa, whose forces had actually invaded the territory of the United States and is in no sense intended as an invasion of that republic or as an infringement of its sovereignty. I have therefore asked the several news services to be good enough to assist the administration in keeping this view of the expedition constantly before the people of this country and the distressed and sensitive people of Mexico who are very susceptible indeed to impressions received from the American press and also very ready to believe that those impressions proceed from the views and objects of our government itself. Such conclusions, it must be said, are not unnatural because the main if not the only source of information for the people on both sides of the border is the public press of the United States.

"In order to avoid the creation of erroneous and dangerous impressions in this way, I have called upon the several news agencies to use the utmost care not to give news stories regarding this expedition the color of war, to withhold stories of troop movements and military preparations which might be given that interpretation, and to refrain from publishing unverified rumors of unrest in Mexico. I feel that it is most desirable to impress upon both our own people and the people of Mexico the fact that the expedition is simply a necessary punitive measure, aimed solely at the elimination of the marauders who raided Columbus and who infest an unprotected district near the border which they use as a base in making attacks upon the lives and property of our citizens within our own territory. It is the purpose of our commanders to cooperate in every possible way with the forces of General Carranza in removing his cause of irritation to both government sand to retire from Mexican territory so soon as that object is accomplished.

"It is my duty to warn the people of the United States that there are persons all along the border who are actively engaged in originating and giving as wide currency as they can to rumors of the most sensational and disturbing sort which are wholly unjustified by the facts.

"The object of this traffic in falsehood is obvious. It is to create intolerable friction between the government of the United States and the de facto government of Mexico for the purpose of bringing about intervention in the interest of certain American owners of Mexican properties. This object cannot be obtained so long as sane and honorable men are in control of this government, but very serious conditions may be created, unnecessary bloodshed may result and the relations between the two republics may be very much embarrassed. The people of the United States should know the sinister and unscrupulous influences that are afoot and should be on their guard against crediting any story coming from the border; and those who disseminate the news should make it a matter of patriotism and of conscience to test the source and authenticity of every report they receive from that quarter.

VILLA OUTWITS PURSUERS SAYS REPORT FROM EL PASO

BANDIT IS TRYING TO BREAK THROUGH SOUTH OF MADERA

AMERICAN CAVALRY CLOSE ON HEELS OF FLEEING MEXICAN. ESCAPE PROBABLE IF TUTUACA IS REACHED BEFORE AMERICANS CATCH UP WITH BANDIT.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, March 25.—Villa has outwitted his pursuers by splitting his forces, leaving one body to hold in check the Carranza troops in the neighborhood of Namiquipa while he himself, at the head of a picked force, is trying to break through the lines of his enemies south of Madera, according to information brought here today by Americans arriving from Pearson and Casas Grandes.

This information redoubled the interest with which word is awaited from General Pershing that the American troops have clashed with the Villa followers. According to reports from usually reliable sources, coupled with what is officially known as to the progress of the punitive columns, American cavalry reached Madera yesterday and should be close on the heels of the fugitive bandit today.

VILLA STRIKING FOR "PANCHO'S ROAD."

From Madera south as far as Tutuaca, a distance of about thirty miles, a mountain trail winds through the Sierra Madres. At Tutuaca it bends sharply to the southeast until it is lost in the wild and barren country south of Minaca. The trail was known for years as "Pancho's road." It was popularly believed to have been broken by the bandit and its intricacies are known to few but him.

Ben Harrison, a veteran scout who is now living here, declared today that if Villa succeeded in reaching Tutuaca the task of finding him would be a hopeless one.

At Fort Bliss activity was redoubled today to perfect arrangements for the moving of supplies and equipment to Juarez, where they will be sent south on the Mexico Northwestern railroad after permission to use the railroad has been granted.

The using of the Mexican lines by the Americans is expected to be the supreme test of whether friction with the Mexican people is to be averted and real co-operation between the Carranza forces and the United States expedition established. If this is safely passed, it is believed much of the menace in the present situation will have been eliminated.

ALARMISTS KEPT UNUSUALLY QUIET.

The alarmists on the border were unusually quiet today. Threats made by local authorities that persons caught spreading false and alarming reports would be summarily dealt with appearing to have its effect and there are less wild stories than usual being circulated in the barrooms and other haunts of the "rumoristas."

General Gavira announced late today that telegraphic communication had been restored with Madera and he had asked for news of the fight with Villa at El Oso.

The Villa force who were reported two days ago to be engaged in battle with Colonel Cano at El Oso, five miles south of Namiquipa, escaped without any real fighting, according to a message to General Gavira, made public here tonight by Consul Garcia. The message said the bandits were now at San Geronimo, a ranch some miles south of El Oso, and that five columns of American troops were cooperating with the troops of General Carranza.

CARRANZA'S DELAY WORRIES OFFICIALS AT HEADQUARTERS

FAILURE TO SEND SUPPLIES OVER MEXICAN RAILWAY RETARDING PERSHING'S OPERATIONS—ADDITIONAL TROOPS BEING SENT FORWARD TO AID IN CHASE.

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, Texas, March 25.—Carranza's delay in permitting the movement into Mexico over the Northwestern railway of supplies for the American troops has created an impatience at army headquarters that today was hardly disguised. The quartermaster department has proceeded on the assumption that finally Carranza will authorize the use of the railroad and has sent to El Paso a quantity of stores for immediate shipment. Officers here did not credit the unofficial report that Gen. Alvaro Obregon, Carranza's secretary of war, had said that no permission for use of the line would be given.

Failure to send supplies through Juarez would not stop the campaign, but it was admitted that it would materially retard General Pershing's activities. Already there has been so much change in the positions of the mobile forces dispatched from Casas Grandes that the logical railroad to use for getting supplies to a part of them would be the National, which goes straight from Juarez to Chihuahua instead of making the wide swing to the west that the Northwestern does. The Northwestern is the logical line for supplying troops near Casas Grandes, but since many of them now are more than 100 miles further south General Funston says time could be saved by routing the stores over the National, especially since many repairs would have to be made on the Northwestern south of Casas Grandes.

FUNSTON MAY NOT ASK TO USE RAILWAY.

Whether General Funston requests the government to get permission to use the National, however, will depend upon the answer to the request already made, he said. He admitted the desirability of using the direct route, but recognized also the inadvisability of compounding his request.

The utilization of the flying corps for transmission of reports from the field was regarded at headquarters with keen satisfaction. The wireless has not been a success and in the absence of telegraph wires General Pershing has been unable to render detailed reports and for days at a time no report of any character.

Uneasiness occasioned by the lack of news from cavalry columns was evident today at General Funston's headquarters, although he displayed an optimistic confidence in General Pershing's campaign methods. His longing for more news, however, was unconcealed. Monday General Pershing reported the dispatch of three cavalry columns southward from Casas Grandes. Friday he reported that two of them were in the vicinity of Namiquipa. That is the net amount of official information that has reached headquarters. Unofficially stories of a fight near Namiquipa and of another impending at El Oso have been received.

MORE TROOPS WILL JOIN PERSHING.

The other part of the Fifth cavalry should have reached Columbus by Monday and soon afterward the Twenty-fourth infantry is expected. These two bodies with the exception of one battalion will be sent forward immediately and will be used by General Pershing in strengthening his lines of communication.

Further reference to difficulties he is having in getting his supplies was contained in messages from General Pershing to General Funston late today. The messages were brought by aeroplane to Columbus for transmission by wire to headquarters here. General Pershing said that the roads were so heavy along his line of communication that only a small percentage of the volume of supplies the auto trucks should carry was being moved.

The communications from General Pershing were said not to have contained any information regarding the whereabouts of Villa or the operations directed against him.

Embargo on War Material.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, March 25.—Not a pound of war material of any sort has gone through this port into Mexico for many weeks, said Collector of Customs Cobb today in regard to the report that the United States was investigating the shipments to Carranza's army.

POLITICAL STRUGGLE COMING THIS WEEK

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS TO ASK MORE PROTECTION FOR BORDER.

Washington Receives Word That Carranza Agrees to Proposed Protocol.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 28.—While administration officials described the military situation in Mexico as serene tonight, the day's developments in Washington forecast a political struggle here next week, with the administration's Mexican policy as the storm center.

President Wilson issued a warning to the people not to be influenced by alarmist reports regarding the situation, which he said were being disseminated by "sinister and unscrupulous influences" and in the interest of "certain American owners of Mexican properties." He reiterated that every effort would be made to prevent the putitive operations against Villa from assuming in discussion the color of war.

As he wrote the president had before him the most reassuring reports received from the border since the American troops began their pursuit of General Villa. They were sent by General Funston and satisfied the officials that the Carranza government was doing all in its power toward the pursuit.

REPUBLICANS WOULD SEND MORE TROOPS SOUTH.

In the capital, senate republicans were called into conference by their leader, Senator Gallinger, to discuss the border situation. They will meet again Monday but it was admitted by those present today that the sense of the meeting was that steps should be taken to compel the sending of additional troops to guard the border states.

In effect that would mean the calling out of the national guard, as almost all the mobile regulars now are on the border or in Mexico.

Several of the republican senators asserted that the minority members endorsed the sending of the expeditionary force after Villa and wished only to cooperate with President Wilson in guarding the border states. They repudiated any suggestions that they are playing politics.

"If we cannot get anything done ourselves," one senator said, "we at least can by unanimous action arouse such public sentiment as to force action by the majority."

BORDER SENATORS ASK FOR INFORMATION

Senators from border states telegraphed inquiries to towns along the international line as to the exact situation and the reasons for the alarm expressed in messages they have received. The replies will be considered at the conference Monday.

General Funston's message was a comprehensive review of the situation on the border and in the region where General Pershing's columns are believed to be closing in on the bandits. Secretary Baker announced that it stated positively as a matter of military information that there had been no strengthening of the Carranza garrisons at Mexican border towns since March 10, the day after the Columbus raid.

The secretary added that the department had not asked for the report.

Officials were impressed by General Obregon's statement, telegraphed to the state department today. The Carranza war minister and military chief said there was no friction between the two governments; that adequate Mexican forces were co-operating with General Pershing, but that more would be sent if necessary.

With this statement and General Funston's report high army officials were satisfied that the end of the pursuit was near. It was known that there are 35,000 Carranza troops in Sonora, shutting off all escape for Villa to the west.

Officials today welcomed the report from Queretaro, the present seat of government in Mexico, that a favorable decision on the proposed protocol had been handed by General Carranza to James L. Rodgers, American special representative.

Indications are that General Funston will be able to employ the Mexican railroads, perhaps tomorrow, in supplying his far-reaching lines, thus relieving an increasingly serious problem.

Reassuring official reports from many parts of Mexico continued to reach the state department today. Among these were telegrams from Piedras Negras reporting continued quiet. The settlement of the railroad strike was reported from Eagle Pass.

Another proposal for the call for volunteers found its way into congress today. A joint resolution directing the president to immediately call 100,000 volunteers for an arm of service to last until peace is sufficiently restored in Mexico to guarantee protection to American life and property was introduced by Representative Dyer of Missouri. Mr. Dyer is head of the Spanish War Veterans' national organization and the resolution provides that preference shall be given in this volunteer enlistment to the militia and the United Spanish War Veterans.

Texas Suffs Ask Passage of Baker Suff Amendment

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, March 25.—Messages are being filed tonight from representatives of 30,000 male equal suffrage advocates and more than 200,000 female suffragists in Texas asking for favorable consideration of the Baker suffrage amendment. The messages from 200 women equal franchise societies and seven men's equal suffrage clubs are addressed to Senator Sheppard and each of the twenty-one members of the house judiciary committee now considering the bill. Senator Sheppard is being urged to appear before the committee and argue for a favorable report.

Train Is Attacked by Villa Bandits

By The Associated Press.

Laredo, Texas, March 25.—Americans arriving here tonight from Torreon said their train was fired into by 500 bandits, supposedly Villa followers, near Viesca, between Torreon and Saltilla.

The passenger was followed by and preceded by a Carranza troop train. When the rear military train drew up, the Carranza soldiers fought the bandits off. There were no American casualties.

Everything Quiet on Gibson Ranch

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 25.—Investigation of reports that Mexican brigands had raided the border eight miles from here and killed three Americans today disclosed that they are unfounded. Everything was quiet at Gibson's ranch and there was no trouble there.

AMERICANS SIGHT BAND OF VILLISTAS

LEADER NOT BELIEVED IN THE PARTY AND NO ENGAGEMENT RESULTS.

Pershing's Troops Have Been in No Clashes Since Start Was Made.

By the Associated Press.

Headquarters of the American Punitive Expedition, Colonia Dublan, Chihuahua, Mex., Via Wireless to Columbus, N. M., March 25.—A straggling band of Villistas were sighted about fifty miles south of here today by American forces engaged in the punitive expedition into Mexico to capture Francisco Villa, the outlawed Mexican bandit. It was evident however, that Villa himself was not in the party which consisted only of a few men and no engagement resulted.

Reports of a battle between Carranza and Villistas at Namiquipa, approximately seventy-five miles south of here, were received today. The reports asserted that the battle took place yesterday but there was no indication of the number of men engaged or of the result. Villa is believed to have only a few men with him, some reports indicating that his total force approximates only about 300 men. Army men expressed their gratification today at the manner in which troops under the direction of Carranza are co-operating with the American column.

Sandstorms which have caused increasing discomfort to the Americans for the last few days continued today with no signs of abatement. Despite the handicaps, however, both men an danimals are bearing up well. Because of the heavy demand upon the wireless for army business, orders were issued here today greatly limiting the amount filed by newspaper correspondents, attached to the column.

An aeroplane mail and dispatch service was established today between the border and the advanced base of the American expeditionary force here.

Gen. J. J. Pershing started today to make a two-day inspection trip of all the troops in the field. There have been no clashes involving American troops since the start of the expedition and quiet prevails throughout the district occupied, according to reports to military headquarters here today.

Mayor of Douglas Says Mexicans Not Gathering There

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., March 25.—Mayor C. O. Ellis, the Douglas Chamber of Commerce and Mines and other local organizations and prominent citizens took steps today to stop the circulation of alarming reports from this section of the border, either by newspaper dispatches or personal telegrams.

Mayor Ellis in a statement declared the reports that large numbers of Mexican troops were concentrated within a few blocks of the business center of Douglas was "an unqualified falsehood" and that it was to be regretted that "there is no law providing suitable punishment for its malicious perpetrators."

Stormy Session Held by Reichstag

By the Associated Press.

Amsterdam, March 24, Via London, March 25.—Advices from Berlin indicate that today's sitting of the Reichstag was the stormiest on record and had to be closed by the president owing to disorder caused by the socialist group.

The speech which caused the trouble was by Herr Haase, who declared that Germany would never win the war which would be a drawn conflict. He declared that the German socialists hated war and desired peace.

These remarks provoked a tremendous uproar. Herr Haase again tried to speak but members crowded around him threatening to strike him and the president hurriedly closed the sitting.

It is reported that the "social democratic working alliance" is to be the name of a new faction formed by eighteen socialists who withdrew from the party with Herr Haase as their leader.

Torreon Refugees Reach Monterey

By the Associated Press.

Monterey, Mex., March 25.—A special train from Torreon bringing women and children from the American colony there passed through here tonight. The women were seated on the floor of a box car protected by a barrier of trunks. The guard on the train engaged in a running fight with a large number of bandits who rode alongside for several miles from Prevenci to Santo Nino. Wires were cut on both sides and attempts made to burn the bridges.

Attack on Steamer Sussex Big Feature of War News

By the Associated Press.

The cross channel steamer Sussex, damaged by an exterior explosion Friday afternoon while twenty-five Americans were on board, was torpedoed, according to a report from the American consul at Dieppe, received at the state department in Washington from Ambassador Sharp at Paris. The report gives from sixty to eighty persons wounded or killed by the explosion.

Of the Americans on the steamer, only two had been reported up to a late hour Saturday to the American embassy in London as among the saved. Unofficially, however, several others have been accounted for as rescued.

At least two Americans on board are known to have been injured, and one of the survivors declares that Miss Elizabeth Baldwin, an American, lost her life, while another American is reported missing.

Cable dispatches say that the loss of life on the Sussex may reach a total of forty.

A definite statement that the Sussex was torpedoed comes in a Paris dispatch quoting Samuel F. Bemis of New Bedford, Mass., as declaring that he saw plainly and unmistakably the wake of the torpedo as it came toward and struck the steamer.

The British naval guide in the North Sea headed off on February 29 a German raider which way trying to run the blockade. In the resulting engagement the raider, the auxiliary cruiser Greif and the British armed ship that stopped her, the Alcantara, were sunk, the fight being described as a hot one, recalling the naval duels of the days before the ironclads.

The British and German statements are at variance regarding the engagement. Only one British vessel is mentioned in the London admiralty account, while Berlin declares three British cruisers and a destroyer were in the action. The Greif was struck by a torpedo from a 15,000-ton cruiser and finally blew herself up, the German admiralty asserts. London says a torpedo from the Greif sent the Alcantara to the bottom. The British captured some 120 Germans from the raider.

There has been no renewal of the German attacks on Verdun fortress, but the artillery has been notably active, Paris reports. According to the German war office, Verdun was set on fire by German shells during the artillery exchanges.

On the Russian front the German lines have been subjected to further heavy attacks both northwest and south of Dvinsk. Berlin declares, however, that all Russian attempts to advance were complete failures.

Entire Oklahoma Family But One Killed by Tornado

By the Associated Press.

Davis, Okla., March 25.—Eight members of the family of Alex Edgemond, a farmer, living two miles east of here, were killed when a tornado demolished their home at 8:30 last night. Edgemond, himself, escaped by taking refuge under a barn.

The dead:

MRS. ALEX EDGEMOND, aged 59.
MRS. HANNAH THOMAS, her mother, aged 89.
PETE EDGEMOND, a son, aged 25.
MRS. PETE EDGEMOND, aged 25.
ALONSO EDGEMOND, aged 18.
SAM EDGEMOND, aged 14.
EULIE EDGEMOND, aged 6.
BABY EDGEMOND, aged 2.

When the storm, which intermittently swept a strip about eight miles long, struck the house the family was about to take flight to a nearby storm cave, the father being the only member to reach the open before the house crashed in. Edgemond then crawled under a barn which was unharmed by the wind.

The town of Davis was not struck by the tornado, although farm houses in the vicinity were either partially or totally demolished. Other families had sought safety in their dugouts.

AT LEAST ONE AMERICAN IS KILLED ABOARD SUSSEX

night declared that the Sussex was torpedoed and estimates the number of victims at about fifty.

The communication reads:

"The British steamer Sussex, which carried about 380 passengers, was torpedoed in the channel on the 24th by an enemy submarine.

"The captain observed a torpedo about 100 meters from the side and immediately maneuvered to avoid it, but the vessel was struck in the forward part, which was destroyed.

"The vessel, however, remained afloat. The fall of the mast destroyed part of the antennae of the wireless; moreover, when an aerial wire was improvised the operator by an error reported an incorrect position, which misled the torpedo boats and patrol boats and as a result retarded the arrival of help.

"The patrol boat Marie Therese, nevertheless managed to find the distressed vessel and brought back to Boulogne a majority of the passengers. Others were taken to English ports by torpedo boat destroyers.

"The Sussex was towed to Boulogne by a steamer from that port and is now there in security.

"Unhappily, the explosion and the beginning of a panic among the passengers resulted in some victims. The exact number at this hour is not known, but it is intimated to be about fifty."

Depositions Being Taken.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 25.—Scarcely any doubt exists at the American embassy tonight that some American lives have been lost in the disaster to the steamer Sussex.

The American ambassador, William G. Sharp, sent Naval Lieutenant Bernard L. Smith by automobile to Boulogne this afternoon to investigate the cause of the disaster and assist any Americans who may need help.

The depositions of some of the American survivors who have arrived at Paris are being taken by the embassy; they will be forwarded to the state department at Washington.

From thirty to fifty persons, according to the estimates here, out of the 380 passengers and the crew of 56 were lost. Most of them were French women. Some twenty, it is said, were killed by the explosion which wrecked the vessel.

Two Americans are supposed to have been killed, but nothing so far has been learned here as to their identity. One American at the station, who would not give his name said he had seen a torpedo coming toward the Sussex. He added:

"There was no warning from the submarine."

Survivors Land at Dover.

By the Associated Press.

Dover, March 25.—Four American survivors of the Sussez mishap have arrived here. They are G. H. Crocker, Charles T. Crocker, Edward Marshall and Wilder G. Penfield. G. H. Crocker and Mr. Penfield are in a hospital with fractured skulls. Charles Crocker and Mr. Marshall are uninjured.

Reports received here say that Mrs. Hilton, Daniel Sargeant and T. W. Culvertson were seen aboard a French trawler. It is feared, according to the same reports, that Miss Hilton was drowned when a life boat capsized.

As to the cause of the disaster, Mr. Marshall, a newspaper correspondent, said:

"I have no doubt the steamer was torpedoed."

Charles Crocker said his cousin, G. H. Crocker, and Miss Baldwin were standing at the bow leaning over the rail when the vessel was struck. Miss Baldwin was killed, Mr. Crocker said.

Asked whether he thought the ship was torpedoed, Mr. Crocker replied, "I could not say positively, but I heard the captain of the Sussex say he saw a torpedo coming and that he shut down one engine, which resulted in the vessel being hit in the bow instead of amidships. Members of the crew also said the vessel was torpedoed."

Thinks Mine Was Cause.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 25.—Norman Meikle, an engineer on the steamer Northern, who was on his way to France to join his ship, at La Pallice, expressed the opinion that it was a mine that struck the Sussex.

"A torpedo," he said, "would have wrecked the vessel. But whatever it was it blew the forepeak tank right out of her. There was a terrible uproar.

A boat tackle broke, precipitating the occupants into the water. There might have been forty of them. The women were wonderful. They took their seats in the boats, nearly all of them being the wives or relatives of men who remained on board."

Belgian Saw Periscope.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 25.—Sergeant Pierre Depare of the Belgian army, who arrived in Paris tonight, says he saw the periscope of a submarine from the Sussex's deck. After the explosion he saw two Americans, a man and a woman struggling in the water. He thinks they were drowned.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN FINE FETTLE TO HUNT DOWN THE BANDIT VILLA

Never in the history of the country has the regular army been called upon in time of peace to practice the war game as extensively as on the Mexican border during the past four years. The rank and file of the various branches of the army have been taught many new and practical lessons in the chaparral-covered country. In many instances they have endured hardship that probably will not be met with to any greater degree in the actual campaign.

A protective force of more than 12,000 men has been scattered along the international lines. Conditions have been unusually favorable for testing certain new theories—theories which could not have been put into actual practice had the military units been confined to garrison duty.

American Habit of Paying Cash Is Pleasing Mexicans

By the Associated Press.

Field Headquarters, March 25.—Via aeroplane to Columbus, N. M.—Americans who reside in the portion of Mexico through which the army chasing Villa has marched, express the belief that barring conflict with the Mexican army, these American troops will have an opportunity to establish business prosperity between the United States and Northwest Mexico.

There is at present no indication at field headquarters that any fighting is likely except that sought with the members of Pancho Villa's band. Therefore the Americans in touch with the pursuing troops are watching an unusual phase of the troop movements, namely the manner in which the Americans are treating the Mexicans as individuals.

These Americans declare they look for the United States army, which pays as it goes, to create a good impression.

"We who expect to remain in Mexico after the troops are out," said Bishop A. B. Call of the Mormon colony at Colonia Dublin today, "are watching this movement with much question in our minds over its results. If the American troops leave a good impression on the minds of the Mexicans we can remain with safety after the soldiers go.

"We are watching for what we hope the troops will not do with almost as much interest as the things they are accomplishing. We know for example that they will not not laugh at the Mexicans whom they may see. If they laugh at the Mexicans, especially at the Mexican soldiers, we Americans who remain in Mexico will sooner or later in some manner pay the score for this injury to national pride."

Last of Stone Age Indians Is Dead

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, March 25.—Ishi, last of the Yahi stone age tribe of Indians, which once flourished in California east of Sacramento, whose "discovery" in 1911 near Oroville, Cal., resulted in his adoption by savants of the University of California as a valuable anthropologist acquisition, died here today from tuberculosis, possibly brought on by the interruption of his wild, outdoor life.

Since shortly after his appearance, hungry and almost naked, in Oroville, Ishi was maintained as a living exhibit in the affiliated colleges' museum in San Francisco, where he kindled fires by rubbing two sticks together, fashioned arrowheads and exhibited prowess in other primitive exploits for the entertainment and instruction of thousands of visitors.

Ishi died nameless, for "Ishi" in the language of his vanished tribe means man, and was given him by scholars. He was about 60 years old.

What Is the Mexican?

There are still numbers of Americans who are under the misapprehension that the Mexican is some kind of a negro—or, at least, that there is a strong infusion of African blood, as in Haiti. Nothing could be further from the truth. Not only is there less African blood in Mexico than in the United States, in proportion to population, but there is less even after you have eliminated our Black Belt.

Many better informed persons refer to the native Mexicans as Indians. But they are not Indians—as we know Indians. True, here and there in the mountainous regions are found tribes of semi-savages who compare with the native peoples of what is now the United States. But they figure in national affairs little more than our own pure-blood Cherokees et al. figure here. When the Spanish conqueror came the bulk of the aboriginal Mexicans were not savages, but a civilized people, as far removed from the wild nomads of North America as the white races themselves.

This aboriginal Mexican element is variously estimated as representing from one-third to one-half the population—by some guessers even more. It has furnished some of the most learned scholars and exalted patriots celebrated in Mexican history. The greater part of the remaining population is made up of mixed Spanish and aboriginal blood, from which is derived the term, "Spanish-American." It is to this mixture of European and Aztec that is attributed the peculiar traits of the "Spanish-American character," and the supposedly woeful inferiority of our neighbors to the southward.—Alexander Craig, in World Outlook.

FRESH MILK FOR BOYS IN THE TRENCHES

Women pouring fresh milk into cans for transportation to French lines.

This work is performed in the farmyard quite near the milkingsheds by women. In order to strain off any foreign substances the milk is poured from the pails through a straining-cloth. Afterwards the cans are sealed and sent up to the front for distribution to the troops in billets and in the trenches. The work of filling the cans is carried out under the supervision of the army authorities.

Germans Declare Greif Was Attacked by Several Ships

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, via London, March 25.—The following statement on the engagement in the North Sea on February 29 in which the German auxiliary cruiser Greif was sunk, together with the British ship Alcantara, was issued today:

"The admiralty staff states that an engagement occurred on February 29 in the northern part of the North Sea between the German auxiliary cruiser Greif and three British cruisers and one destroyer. In the course of the battle the Greif was sunk by a torpedo shot by a great British cruiser of some 15,000 tons and finally blew herself up.

"About 150 men of the crew of the Greif whose names are not yet known are prisoners of war to the British. They are cut off from all communication with the outer world by the British, who observe the strictest secrecy regarding events. Measures against this have been taken."

Early Breaking Down.

Apparently the most significant result of the various changes in our living habits is found in our declining power to resist the strain of life on the heart, arteries, kidneys and the nervous and digestive systems. Compared with past decades, the increase in mortality from the early breaking down of these organs is very marked. The records of the last census show that the increase continues in the younger as well as the older age groups. This points to the shortening of the valuable productive period of life. These indications are well attested. They cannot be disposed of by the easy process of denying the statistics without investigation. Nor can the extraordinary increase in cancer be explained in this convenient way. The early breaking down of these important organs points to a decline in the vitality of our people in the mature and most useful period of their lives, and presents a phase of the problem meriting the most careful study and consideration.—Science.

Decline of Beer.

According to the Brewers' Review, the production of beer in the United States last year was 5,238,338 barrels less than it was the year before, and the production in 1914 was 3,812,158 barrels less than 1913. In two years the beer output of this country has fallen off 9,050,196 barrels—a decline of 13.2 per cent. The decline in 1915 alone was a shade over nine per cent. And six states, Arkansas, Iowa, Colorado, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, climbed bodily on board the waterwagon January 1, 1916.—Chicago Journal.

Tri-State Dental Association May Be Divided Up

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, March 25.—The reported permanence of the Tri-State Dental association, which has been in session here all week, was shaken by an announcement at the last meeting of the convention here today. Association officers declared that because of the widespread interest evinced by dentists in the three affected states, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, it now was planned to form three Tri-State associations, with one of the above states included in each. According to the proposed plans, Missouri, Iowa and Illinois would comprise one, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado another, and Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas a third.

The State Dental associations of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma will meet separately next year, it was announced, officials of the convention declaring it would take two years to evolve a working scheme for the three Tri-State conventions.

Seventeen states were represented at the convention and it is estimated that 1,600 delegates were present. The convention raised $7,500 for the dental research fund.

Herrera Defection Officially Denied

By the Associated Press.

Queretaro, Mexico, March 25.—The war department officially denied today the persistent rumor that Gen. Luis Herrera had gone over to Villa. The report of this and other alleged defections is said to be the work of reactionaries for the purpose of complicating the situation.

The pursuit and punishment of Villa bandits is becoming more rigorous. Gen. Luis Guiterrez today reported the capture and execution of Baldomero Santana, a general attached to Villa's forces and said to have been one of a party of 1500 who remained on the Mexican side of the border when Columbus was raided. The execution took place at Jiminze, Chihuahua.

General Gutierrez's reports represent that Villa's forces are being closely pressed and that the Mexican troops are tightening the ring around them each day. Troops under General Serrano are working in the neighboring state of Sonora and rounding up the reactionaries and bandits.

It is reported here unofficially, although on high authority that Gen. Pablo Gonzales will shortly leave his command of a division of the army of the east to assume the portfolio of the ministry of communications in the Carranza cabinet.

General Gonzales will be succeeded in the command of the army of the east by Gen. Cesario Castro, who will leave here tomorrow for Mexico City.

Army Increase 1,338.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 25.—A total of 1,338 have been added to the army in the last ten days, the war department announced tonight. The campaign is to add some 24,000 men.

Here It Is, Mr. Wilson.

I would a great deal rather know what they are talking about around quiet firesides all over this country than what they are talking about in the cloak rooms of congress.—President Wilson.

Very well, Mr. President. Let us tell you the kind of chatter that echoes in the chimney breasts.

"Is there a Mary Pickford screen this week?"

"How much lower do you think wheat is going?"

"How can I make over that cerise chiffon?"

"I really can't pay the butcher today because my purple shoes are coming C. O. D."

"It looks to me as though Jess Willard is awfully fat."

"I haven't had a pair of skates on since I was a boy."

"I guess the Cubs and the Red Sox will fight it out for the world's championship."

"We'll have to get a new rear tire and have the body painted."

"Steak again for supper?"

"Where is Teddy Roosevelt?"—New York Mail.

How Long?

After eighteen months of exhausting war, after a kingdom which contains less than two-thirds of the population of the empire has lost close to 2,500,000 men, Germany is launching an attack on Verdun with 350,000 infantry and hundreds, perhaps thousands, of guns.

How long would our present armed forces last under such an impact?

How long would it take 350,000 veteran troops, landed at unprotected points on our coast and backed by sufficient artillery, to take Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Seattle or San Francisco?

How long will it take congress to act on facts which every intelligent citizen knows, and provide an army and a fleet sufficient to protect this land from insult and invasion?—Chicago Journal.

What He Got.

"What did your father give you for your birthday?"

"A lecture on economy," answered the gilded youth.—Kansas City Journal.

The Vastness of South America.

The vastness of South America is the first thing we must understand. I travel about 30,000 or 40,000 miles each year trying to cover my circuit. It takes me longer to go between the extreme points, from Panama by steamer down the west coast and on through the Straits of Magellan to Asuncion, Paraguay, than it would take to go from San Francisco to Cairo and back to Glasgow.

You think of Bolivar as a little country. It is as big as Germany, Australia and England. Peru is as large as all the United States from Nova Scotia to Indiana, from Canada south to the gulf. Argentina equals all the United States west of Omaha. Brazil is a United States with another Texas added. The resources of that vast area are in keeping with the bigness of the continent.

You know, at least vaguely, of the minerals—gold, silver, tin, copper, vanadium, bismuth, tungsten, the diamond mines of Brazil, and the emerald mines of Columbia. Chili and Bolivar have been selling $130,000,000 worth of nitrates every year to fertilize the sugar and beet fields of Germany. The black rich alluvial soil of Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay, is as good as the best in Illinois and Iowa. Corn grows seventy bushels to the acre; wheat, fifty bushels; alfalfa, six crops a year.

In the latitude south of the equator as far as Chicago is north of it, we have an Illinois soil and a southern California climate. Such a combination comes as near to an agricultural paradise as there is in this poor world.

"What kind of barns do they build in the Argentine?" a man asked me. "What do they want barns for," I replied. "They do not need to keep cattle out of the cold. They do not have to cut and store their hay. It grows twelve months in the year."—Homer C. Stuntz in World Outlook.

Native cooks in Ecuador are prejudiced against stoves, saying the excessive heat produces fever.

AT LEAST ONE AMERICAN IS KILLED ABOARD SUSSEX

night declared that the Sussex was torpedoed and estimates the number of victims at about fifty.

The communication reads:

"The British steamer Sussex, which carried about 380 passengers, was torpedoed in the channel on the 24th by an enemy submarine.

"The captain observed a torpedo about 100 meters from the side and immediately maneuvered to avoid it, but the vessel was struck in the forward part, which was destroyed.

"The vessel, however, remained afloat. The fall of the mast destroyed part of the antennae of the wireless; moreover, when an aerial wire was improvised the operator by an error reported an incorrect position, which misled the torpedo boats and patrol boats and as a result retarded the arrival of help.

"The patrol boat Marie Therese, nevertheless managed to find the distressed vessel and brought back to Boulogne a majority of the passengers. Others were taken to English ports by torpedo boat destroyers.

"The Sussex was towed to Boulogne by a steamer from that port and is now there in security.

"Unhappily, the explosion and the beginning of a panic among the passengers resulted in some victims. The exact number at this hour is not known, but it is intimated to be about fifty."

Depositions Being Taken.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 25.—Scarcely any doubt exists at the American embassy tonight that some American lives have been lost in the disaster to the steamer Sussex.

The American ambassador, William G. Sharp, sent Naval Lieutenant Bernard L. Smith by automobile to Boulogne this afternoon to investigate the cause of the disaster and assist any Americans who may need help.

The depositions of some of the American survivors who have arrived at Paris are being taken by the embassy; they will be forwarded to the state department at Washington.

From thirty to fifty persons, according to the estimates here, out of the 380 passengers and the crew of 56 were lost. Most of them were French women. Some twenty, it is said, were killed by the explosion which wrecked the vessel.

Two Americans are supposed to have been killed, but nothing so far has been learned here as to their identity. One American at the station, who would not give his name said he had seen a torpedo coming toward the Sussex. He added:

"There was no warning from the submarine."

Survivors Land at Dover.

By the Associated Press.

Dover, March 25.—Four American survivors of the Sussez mishap have arrived here. They are G. H. Crocker, Charles T. Crocker, Edward Marshall and Wilder G. Penfield. G. H. Crocker and Mr. Penfield are in a hospital with fractured skulls. Charles Crocker and Mr. Marshall are uninjured.

Reports received here say that Mrs. Hilton, Daniel Sargeant and T. W. Culvertson were seen aboard a French trawler. It is feared, according to the same reports, that Miss Hilton was drowned when a life boat capsized.

As to the cause of the disaster, Mr. Marshall, a newspaper correspondent, said:

"I have no doubt the steamer was torpedoed."

Charles Crocker said his cousin, G. H. Crocker, and Miss Baldwin were standing at the bow leaning over the rail when the vessel was struck. Miss Baldwin was killed, Mr. Crocker said.

Asked whether he thought the ship was torpedoed, Mr. Crocker replied, "I could not say positively, but I heard the captain of the Sussex say he saw a torpedo coming and that he shut down one engine, which resulted in the vessel being hit in the bow instead of amidships. Members of the crew also said the vessel was torpedoed."

Thinks Mine Was Cause.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 25.—Norman Meikle, an engineer on the steamer Northern, who was on his way to France to join his ship, at La Pallice, expressed the opinion that it was a mine that struck the Sussex.

"A torpedo," he said, "would have wrecked the vessel. But whatever it was it blew the forepeak tank right out of her. There was a terrible uproar.

A boat tackle broke, precipitating the occupants into the water. There might have been forty of them. The women were wonderful. They took their seats in the boats, nearly all of them being the wives or relatives of men who remained on board."

Belgian Saw Periscope.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, March 25.—Sergeant Pierre Depare of the Belgian army, who arrived in Paris tonight, says he saw the periscope of a submarine from the Sussex's deck. After the explosion he saw two Americans, a man and a woman struggling in the water. He thinks they were drowned.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN FINE FETTLE TO HUNT DOWN THE BANDIT VILLA

Scenes of preparation at Fort Bliss, Texas, just before invasion of Mexico. Top, practice charge of 8th U. S. machine gun cavalry troop. Bottom, members of same troop sighting one of the guns.

Never in the history of the country has the regular army been called upon in time of peace to practice the war game as extensively as on the Mexican border during the past four years. The rank and file of the various branches of the army have been taught many new and practical lessons in the chaparral-covered country. In many instances they have endured hardship that probably will not be met with to any greater degree in the actual campaign.

A protective force of more than 12,000 men has been scattered along the international lines. Conditions have been unusually favorable for testing certain new theories—theories which could not have been put into actual practice had the military units been confined to garrison duty.

American Habit of Paying Cash Is Pleasing Mexicans

By the Associated Press.

Field Headquarters, March 25.—Via aeroplane to Columbus, N. M.—Americans who reside in the portion of Mexico through which the army chasing Villa has marched, express the belief that barring conflict with the Mexican army, these American troops will have an opportunity to establish business prosperity between the United States and Northwest Mexico.

There is at present no indication at field headquarters that any fighting is likely except that sought with the members of Pancho Villa's band. Therefore the Americans in touch with the pursuing troops are watching an unusual phase of the troop movements, namely the manner in which the Americans are treating the Mexicans as individuals.

These Americans declare they look for the United States army, which pays as it goes, to create a good impression.

"We who expect to remain in Mexico after the troops are out," said Bishop A. B. Call of the Mormon colony at Colonia Dublin today, "are watching this movement with much question in our minds over its results. If the American troops leave a good impression on the minds of the Mexicans we can remain with safety after the soldiers go.

"We are watching for what we hope the troops will not do with almost as much interest as the things they are accomplishing. We know for example that they will not not laugh at the Mexicans whom they may see. If they laugh at the Mexicans, especially at the Mexican soldiers, we Americans who remain in Mexico will sooner or later in some manner pay the score for this injury to national pride."

Last of Stone Age Indians Is Dead

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, March 25.—Ishi, last of the Yahi stone age tribe of Indians, which once flourished in California east of Sacramento, whose "discovery" in 1911 near Oroville, Cal., resulted in his adoption by savants of the University of California as a valuable anchropologist acquisition, died here today from tuberculosis, possibly brought on by the interruption of his wild, outdoor life.

Since shortly after his appearance, hungry and almost naked, in Oroville, Ishi was maintained as a living exhibit in the affiliated colleges' museum in San Francisco, where he kindled fires by rubbing two sticks together, fashioned arrowheads and exhibited prowess in other primitive exploits for the entertainment and instruction of thousands of visitors.

Ishi died nameless, for "Ishi" in the language of his vanished tribe means man, and was given him by scholars. He was about 60 years old.

What Is the Mexican?

There are still numbers of Americans who are under the misapprehension that the Mexican is some kind of a negro—or, at least, that there is a strong infusion of African blood, as in Haiti. Nothing could be further from the truth. Not only is there less African blood in Mexico than in the United States, in proportion to population, but there is less even after you have eliminated our Black Belt.

Many better informed persons refer to the native Mexicans as Indians. But they are not Indians—as we know Indians. True, here and there in the mountainous regions are found tribes of semi-savages who compare with the native peoples of what is now the United States. But they figure in national affairs little more than our own pure-blood Cherokees et al. figure here. When the Spanish conqueror came the bulk of the aboriginal Mexicans were not savages, but a civilized people, as far removed from the wild nomads of North America as the white races themselves.

This aboriginal Mexican element is variously estimated as representing from one-third to one-half the population—by some guessers even more. It has furnished some of the most learned scholars and exalted patriots celebrated in Mexican history. The greater part of the remaining population is made up of mixed Spanish and aboriginal blood, from which is derived the term, "Spanish-American." It is to this mixture of European and Aztec that is attributed the peculiar traits of the "Spanish-American character," and the supposedly woeful inferiority of our neighbors to the southward.—Alexander Craig, in World Outlook.

FRESH MILK FOR BOYS IN THE TRENCHES

Women pouring fresh milk into cans for transportation to French lines.

This work is performed in the farmyard quite near the milkingsheds by women. In order to strain off any foreign substances the milk is poured from the pails through a straining-cloth. Afterwards the cans are sealed and sent up to the front for distribution to the troops in billets and in the trenches. The work of filling the cans is carried out under the supervision of the army authorities.

Germans Declare Greif Was Attacked by Several Ships

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, via London, March 25.—The following statement on the engagement in the North Sea on February 29 in which the German auxiliary cruiser Greif was sunk, together with the British ship Alcantara, was issued today:

"The admiralty staff states that an engagement occurred on February 29 in the northern part of the North Sea between the German auxiliary cruiser Greif and three British cruisers and one destroyer. In the course of the battle the Greif was sunk by a torpedo shot by a great British cruiser of some 15,000 tons and finally blew herself up.

"About 150 men of the crew of the Greif whose names are not yet known are prisoners of war to the British. They are cut off from all communication with the outer world by the British, who observe the strictest secrecy regarding events. Measures against this have been taken."

MANY PEDDLERS OF FOREIGN CONCERNS CANVASSING CITY

(Waco Tribune.)

Do you buy from peddlers or do you patronize the local market?

That is an important question in community building, and this is the time to answer it. At the present time there are a lot of peddlers making a house to house canvass trying to sell an article of daily household use for a mail order concern somewhere in the north. You are allowed to pay for it by the week. It is demonstrated for you and you suppose it is all right and buy it. But did it ever occur to you that these concerns do not help pay school taxes, road taxes and other expenses of the community? Do you know that you are dependent upon the prosperity of the town in which you live for the success which comes to you; that your husband must have the patronage of his home people, whether he be wage earner or business man, else he has not earning capacity?

Now suppose you want to buy a carpet sweeper, either the old style or the new kind with a bellows on it; ought you to patronize the man who has a business here or ought you to patronize a peddler whom you have never seen before and whom you will never see again. Goldstein-Migel, R. T. Dennis & Co., Sanger's, Ray Rowell, the Household Furniture company and other business men in Waco sell carpet sweepers. They have the good kind, the high priced and the cheap kind. They can give you whatever is within the reason of your power to purchase, and if the article you buy from them does not make good on the representations, you can go to any one of the stores mentioned and it will be made right for you. But you can not always find your peddler again. When you buy a carpet sweeper from one of the firms mentioned above, a part of the money paid for that carpet sweeper goes into wages of home people, a part goes to the expenses of the business house, and the business house pays taxes, a part of it goes to the tax collector, a part goes to the electric light company, some to the gas man, some to the waterworks department of the city, and some of it to the teamster who drives the wagon that delivers it to your home.

None of us can live by himself, be his own master and refuse to help his fellow citizens. We are all dependent on each other. But the peddler does not pave our streets, help to pay the teachers, nor does he patronize our stores.

When you buy from the local store the gross profit of what you buy is distributed in this city.

When you buy from a peddler, only a commission stays in Waco while the peddler stays here, and the balance of the full amount paid goes somewhere else, so far away you will never see it again.

Think it over and if you want a carpet sweeper ask the Waco merchant to show you one or he will send you out one or two from which to make a selection.

This is not a nadvertisement. It is a contribution by The Tribune to its campaign for community building, and it is meant for you to read.

Mrs. Hadley Admits That She Shot Giles

By the Associated Press.

Muskogee, Okla., March 25.—Held in the jail at Eufaula, Okla., charged jointly with her husband, Paul V. Hadley, formerly of Beaumont, Texas, and Kansas City, Mo., with the murder of Sheriff Jake Giles of Beaumont, Ida Lee Hadley, youthful bride, admitted freely to reporters today that she fired the shot that killed Giles, who was taking her husband back to Beaumont to answer to a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Mrs. Hadley also admits she held back the crowd of passengers with a revolver after the shooting.

Hadley, in an adjoining cell, does not dispute his wife's assertions that she is responsible for the scheme to escape from Giles and planned the dash into the wooded country after the escape.

Now Think Waite Plotted to Poison Four Persons

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 25.—From statements made by Mrs. Margaret Horton, a singer, Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling declared tonight that the authorities had reason to believe Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, accused of poisoning his wealthy father-in-law, John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich., had designs on the lives of at least four persons. Mrs. Horton, according to Mr. Dooling, admitted that she shared a "studio" with Waite at a hotel here and that Waite registered with her as "Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Walters."

Mrs. Horton, who was subjected to an all-day examination, was said by Mr. Dooling to have stated that she believed Waite planned to kill her and her husband.

"Mrs. Horton," continued Mr. Dooling, "has reason to believe, according to her statement, that Waite was trying to persuade her to take some kind of medicine."

Mr. Dooling added that Mrs. Horton was with Waite when he made purchases "the nature of which cannot now be divulged." Mrs. Horton also told him, he said, that Waite believed her to be wealthy and had questioned her regarding the extent of her finances.

Torpedo Destroyer Monaghan Rammed by Sister Ship

By the Associated Press.

Key West, Fla., March 25.—The torpedo destroyer Monaghan was rammed and badly damaged by the destroyer Roe here today. The Monaghan was tied up at the government wharf with her stern projecting out of the dock when the Roe attempted to make a landing. The Monaghan was damaged about forty feet from the stern and below water line.

The Monaghan began to settle soon after being struck and the pumps were started at once. Then all provisions and supplies were landed and finally oil pumped out of tanks to lighten her. Through this prompt action the vessel was kept afloat.

No one was reported hurt. It was impossible to ascertain the full effect of the blow soon after the accident and it probably will not be known until divers examine the hull or the vessel is towed to a dry dock if that is found to be possible.

The bow of the Roe was stove in for a distance of about six feet but otherwise the craft was not damaged.

Fort Smith Bank Officials Arrested

By the Associated Press.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 25.—P. A. Ball, cashier of the American National bank here, which was closed this morning and two assistant cashiers were arrested tonight on federal warrants charging embezzlement and misappropriation of funds of the bank. Mr. Ball and the other two men, E. Mayo Dickinson and Andrew S. Dowd, were released on bonds of $25,000 each to await preliminary hearing April 11.

The warrants were issued by a United States commissioner on application of government bank examiners. No details of the allegations against the three cashiers were made public.

The American National bank was one of the largest banks in Arkansas with a capital of $200,000 and deposits totalling $445,000.

Superfluous Hairs Just Dissolve Away

Famous eBauty Secrets That Have Made the Theatrical Star, Valeska Suratt, America's Greatest Self-Made Beauty.

By VALESKA SURATT.

I never see a woman with superfluous hair on her face or body that it does not remind me of some cave woman. It is hideous, and it is inexcusable, because so easily and thoroughly removed, at least it becomes so by using the following, which never fails:

You moisten the hairs to be removed with sulfo solution. You see the hair dissolve away in quite a remarkable manner, and you then wash it off. The skin is left clear, soft and unmarked. Another splendid feature is that it can be used on the tenderest skin, or any part of the body, with perfect safety. It can be obtained at any drug store. Ordinary depilatories burn off the hair and leave a red or irritated spot where applied. But instead of burning off the hair and injuring the skin, no matter how tough, sulfo solution dissolves the hair and is a positive benefit to the skin.

* * *

LOOKING OLD—I am particularly proud of the results of my skin rejuvenator, which is a cream made by dissolving two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol in a half pint of hot water. This is the most astonishing wrinkle remover I have ever found, making crow's feet, deep wrinkles and lines disappear with great rapidity. It makes the skin plump, youthful and vigorous and by faithful use you will soon see a tremendous difference in your appearance. The eptol can be obtained at any drug store. This also makes the most economical cream you can get.

* * *

FALLING—I am known as the only woman on the American stage who wears no hair switches or other hair makeshifts. Follow my suggestion and use my hair secret as follows: To half a pint of alcohol add half a pint of water (or else you may use a full pint of bay rum if you wish) and to this add one ounce of beta-quinol. It has a powerful action upon the hair cells, hair roots and the scalp. Your hair will be healthy, vigorous, fluffy and grow luxuriantly. It will be startling in its results.

* * *

JUDITH R. O.—There is only one perfect head wash that I know. This is eggol. By dissolving one teaspoonful of this in half a cup of hot water you have a hair and scalp cleanser which is unusually thorough and quick in removing all scurf, dirt and dead skin, leaving the hair fluffy and silky. The eggol can be secured at any drug store. It far surpasses any soap or other shampoo.

PREPAREDNESS—There is only one real skin beautifier I have ever known and this will remove freckles, red spots and other blemishes so promptly as to surprise you. This is my own formula which is as follows: Mix two tablespoonfuls of glycerine with half a pint of hot water and add one ounce of zintone, which you can obtain at the drug store. The liberal use of this gives an absolutely perfect complexion. You can positively depend on it.

* * *

T. K. C.—I am sorry you were disappointed in not getting the sulfo solution from your druggist. My secretary will get it for you and send it if you simply address, "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," and enclose the price which is one dollar.

* * *

SUSANA M. N.—My formula for removing blackheads is the only positive, quick and sure way; by sprinkling some neroxin on a sponge made wet with hot water. This rubbed on the blackheads will remove them, big and little, in a few moments. The neroxin can be obtained at any drug store.

* * *

IN DOUBT—Yes, really all face powders are too chalky, and make the face "powdery." I use none but my own face powder, which has absolutely no chalkiness. It is superb in its fineness, smoothness and scent, and is indetectable. It is now obtainable at drug stores as "Velaska Suratt Face Powder," in white and flesh tints.

* * *

K. O. C.—I advise you not to use mechanical instruments for bust development. Though it is impossible to assure such a development, yet the following has been successful in many cases. A half a cup of sugar and two ounces of ruetone should be dissolved in half a pint of cold water and of this two teaspoonfuls taken three or four times a day. You can secure the ruetone at any drug store.

Unmarried Women Will Get Rent Free in New York City

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 25.—A rent-free apartment house for unmarried working women is provided for in the will of Charles B. Webster, a dry goods merchant, who died March 16, leaving an estate worth one million dollars. The will which was admitted to probate here today, directs that the apartment house be built out of the residuary estate which totals $400,000. The establishment is to be known as the Webster apartments and will contain a restaurant and library and be conducted without profit.

"Having been engaged for many years in the business known as a department store in the city of New York," the will reads, "and having employed a large number of unmarried women in that business, I have realized that the domestic environment of many of them has not been conducive to their morals or health, and I have concluded to endeavor to improve the conditions of some of them by giving them the opportunity to live in clean, well ventilated and comfortable apartment with good moral surroundings. No rental at all shall be charged to the occupants of the apartment."

MANY PEDDLERS OF FOREIGN CONCERNS CANVASSING CITY

(Waco Tribune.)

Do you buy from peddlers or do you patronize the local market?

That is an important question in community building, and this is the time to answer it. At the present time there are a lot of peddlers making a house to house canvass trying to sell an article of daily household use for a mail order concern somewhere in the north. You are allowed to pay for it by the week. It is demonstrated for you and you suppose it is all right and buy it. But did it ever occur to you that these concerns do not help pay school taxes, road taxes and other expenses of the community? Do you know that you are dependent upon the prosperity of the town in which you live for the success which comes to you; that your husband must have the patronage of his home people, whether he be wage earner or business man, else he has not earning capacity?

Now suppose you want to buy a carpet sweeper, either the old style or the new kind with a bellows on it; ought you to patronize the man who has a business here or ought you to patronize a peddler whom you have never seen before and whom you will never see again. Goldstein-Migel, R. T. Dennis & Co., Sanger's, Ray Rowell, the Household Furniture company and other business men in Waco sell carpet sweepers. They have the good kind, the high priced and the cheap kind. They can give you whatever is within the reason of your power to purchase, and if the article you buy from them does not make good on the representations, you can go to any one of the stores mentioned and it will be made right for you. But you can not always find your peddler again. When you buy a carpet sweeper from one of the firms mentioned above, a part of the money paid for that carpet sweeper goes into wages of home people, a part goes to the expenses of the business house, and the business house—pays taxes, a part of it goes to the tax collector, a part goes to the electric light company, some to the gas man, some to the waterworks department of the city, and some of it to the teamster who drives the wagon that delivers it to your home.

None of us can live by himself, be his own master and refuse to help his fellow citizens. We are all dependent on each other. But the peddler does not pave our streets, help to pay the teachers, nor does he patronize our stores.

When you buy from the local store the gross profit of what you buy is distributed in this city.

When you buy from a peddler, only a commission stays in Waco while the peddler stays here, and the balance of the full amount paid goes somewhere else, so far away you will never see it again.

Think it over and if you want a carpet sweeper ask the Waco merchant to show you one or he will send you out one or two from which to make a selection.

This is not a nadvertisement. It is a contribution by The Tribune to its campaign for community building, and it is meant for you to read.

The liberal use of this gives an absolutely perfect complexion. You can positively depend on it.

T. K. C.—I am sorry you were disappointed in not getting the sulfo solution from your druggist. My secretary will get it for you and send it if you simply address, "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," and enclose the price which is one dollar.

* * *

SUSANA M. N.—My formula for removing blackheads is the only positive, quick and sure way; by sprinkling some neroxin on a sponge made wet with hot water. This rubbed on the blackheads will remove them, big and little, in a few moments. The neroxin can be obtained at any drug store.

* * *

IN DOUBT—Yes, really all face powders are too chalky, and make the face "powdery." I use none but my own face powder, which has absolutely no chalkiness. It is superb in its fineness, smoothness and scent, and is indetectable. It is now obtainable at drug stores as "Velaska Suratt Face Powder," in white and flesh tints.

K. O. C.—I advise you not to use mechanical instruments for bust development. Though it is impossible to assure such a development, yet the following has been successful in many cases. A half a cup of sugar and two ounces of ruetone should be dissolved in half a pint of cold water and of this two teaspoonfuls taken three or four times a day. You can secure the ruetone at any drug store.

WHY MEN HAVE HOPE.

Sometimes one wonders why some men have hope. We saw a few days ago a picture—a living picture—giving us the reason why there is hope in the hearts of some men who seem bowed down to the very dust in poverty. There was a man of the tenant farmer class, sitting in an old, worn wagon, whose creaking, groaning wheels told of fast declining usefulness. A team of starved, emaciated horses told of the famine in the feed bin. Through a torn hat matter uncombed hair protruded, while a stubble of beard covered a rough, weatherbeaten face. His hands were gnarled and twisted with hard work. His whole bearing gave evidence of failure to do more than barely make ends meet. Upon the seat beside him sat, leaning against daddy, a curly-headed little boy, whose hair mother had carefully combed and whose face mother had religiously washed. The clothing, though coarse and patched in places, was clean, and the eyes that looked out upon a strange world were bright and blue. This was what gave the man hope, and urged him to strive and struggle on and on, though stumbling under a very heavy load. He looked into the future, and in his mind conjured up a picture of this dear little chap occupying a place of confidence and trust, perhaps a governor or a United States senator, and, in his power and his prominence, he would not be ashamed of dear old dad, who toiled that he might have education and opportunity to become a useful citizen. Such hope leads many of us on from day to day, until the time when the shadows fall, and the message comes that will take us hence. God bless the children who lead us toward a better day, and whose sweet faces and bright eyes give us the hope to look for better years to come.

The death of Mrs. J. J. Carey, aged 79, at Fort Worth recently takes from this world one who was long identified with the early history of McLennan county. To such good women as Mrs. Carey, who braved the dangers of the wilderness and side by side with their husbands, toiled and fought the briars, the brambles, the loneliness of isolation and the various dangers that infested the state, this generation is due much. May the memory of such self-sacrificing pioneers be ever enshrined in the memory of this generation and other generations yet to come.

Just as long os our soldiers are in Mexico there is the menace of ignorance, the treacherous nature of the Mexican peon hanging over the boys in khaki. At any moment the Mexicans, already inured to war, ready to believe anything against the hated gringoes, may turn upon our soldiers, and this nation be suddenly in a state of war. The haste with which preparations for a greater army are being made shows clearly that President Wilson thoroughly understands the gravity of the situation, and is anxious to be ready to meet it if it should arise.

There will be a campaign made for equal suffrage members in Rockwall county soon by the Dallas Equal Suffrage association. The members of this organization and those who believe in its faith are sure they are right, and are working continuously and systematically to each others to believe as they do. Much ground has been gained in the past few years, and the signs of the times point to more victories in the future than in the past, for men high in public life, like President Wilson, are believers in the right of women to vote.

Keep your thoughts clean and there will be no danger of your acts.

AND THE WOMAN FELL.

It is a most important thing for the uplift of humanity and the development and preservation of virtue that a strict observance of the proprieties is required of women. If they were given the license and liberty men are allowed, what a terrible condition this world would be in, should they use the privilege as prodigally as men do. There should be no double standard, but men should be made to walk along the same lines of moral rectitude that they outline for their sweethearts and wives. If men knew they would be given the same social ostracism as women who step aside from conventions, they would be much more careful of how they conduct themselves.

The woman, with more heart than will, with more love than judgment, yielded to importunities, believing in thus yielding, happiness would be found. The woman fell—fell from her high pedestal where virtue dwelt and purity looked down upon a sin-sodden world. Just because of the one scarlet sin she became an outcast, polluted, unholy, despised and forsaken. Nothing was left for her to do but seek the companionship of those who dwelt in the squalor of sin. The agony of lost position, the anguish of friendliness, became her portion. The man who sang the siren song, who promised to love and cherish her, became a prominent business man, married a pure, sweet girl, and society made no charge against him. It was not fair to the woman, and yet, under the conditions existing her sacrifice was necessary to preserve inviolate our high standard of living and thought every good man earnestly desires his wife or his sweetheart to follow.

The agony of the woman who is caged in the house where the red flame flares is like the sacrifice of the martyr or the soldier who dies that liberty and virtue may be preserved. Out of her sacrifice may come sweetness and purity in the lives of others constrained to nerve their will and strengthen their determination to yield not to the tempter who is abroad in the land. It is not fair, it is one of the inequalities of life that may some day be remedied, as we learn more and more of the fundamentals of genuine virtue, and good. kind, sympathetic women have more to do with making the laws under which we live and by which we are governed.

Sixty-five British aeroplanes bombarded Zebrugge recently, and escaped, returning to their base. Zebrugge is the German base for submarine warfare, and it has been wondered by many military students why such an attack has not been made before. If this base for submarines could be destroyed, it would be some easier for the allies to relieve themselves of some of the menace of the German submarines, which have been so active.

It is now Senator Tom Taggart. Senator Taggart is the gentleman who owned the hotel in Indianapolis where the chamber maid refused to make up the bed occupied by Booker T. Washington. Senator Taggart was democratic executive committeeman from Indiana at the time he received his appointment, and has been a power in democratic circles in his home state for many years.

The most gratifying thing about the election in Bowie county is the fact that the people of Texarkana are in earnest about stamping out the sale of liquor. They have determined to see that the law is enforced, and that their boys are relieved of the temptation set before them by bootleggers. There is no reason to doubt the enforcement of the law on this or any other subject when the people are really in earnest like they are now in Texarkana.

There is a woman behind every good deed. No ambition, no matter how high or exalted, but what is inspired by a woman's smile or a woman's praise, a mother, a wife or a sweetheart. Women are the real power behind the ballot now held by men, so why not let them possess this power themselves openly?

Scott Perkins was shot in the head with two loads of bird shot at Fort Worth recently. The shots were fired at close range, but so thick was the skull the shot did not penetrate the cavity, but lodged against the bone and were picked out by surgeons. There is more advantage than one in being hard-headed.

If we will conserve some of that energy we waste in carping criticism, and try to be more helpful, we will accomplish a great deal more for the good of our city, our state and our nation. Anybody can criticise, but it takes a real man to command and reach out a helping hand.

Rev. Charles Tweedle, vicar of Weston, is exhibiting what he claims is the picture of a ghost, the shadow of an old man with long, white whiskers. That seems to be evidence conclusive that style is away behind in the shadow land. Men who are up-to-date don't wear long whiskers.

The Rotary club of Waco has a beautification committee, with R. J. Potts chairman. This is one of the most important committees of this progressive, active club. Beauty and progress are synonymous.

DeWitt McMurray said many good things, but nothing better than this: "There is nothing so stupid as arrogance, so blind as prejudice, so cruel as intolerance."

New Orleans boasts a voter who is four feet one and one-half inches tall and wears knee trousers, but he is well balanced mentally, and votes the democratic ticket.

The farmer who diversifies, patronizes the dipping vat, and raises thoroughbred livestock won't need legislation to give him "rural credit," wisely observes the Daily Texarkanian.

There are sorrows we know not of, there are griefs we are never told in every human heart, and that is why we should be filled with sympathy.

What the Observer Saw

STREET CARS AS ENEMIES OF ROMANCE.

A Waco girl away at college has perpetrated this:

"Good night. Ah, we must part here, you and I,
When moon-elves dance, the night flies quickly past.
Good night.
Stern fate decrees; we may not plead nor cry.
Hark, dost thou hear? Oh, dearest, leave me—fast!
Haste! Run!" There goes my car—the last.
Good night."

DIMINUTIVE NEGRO HOLDS CROWD'S ATTENTION.

Whether Mister Mogul is the "Chief Mogul" of the Mogul family, is a question which created much doubt in a crowd who listened attentively to the exploits of his family as told by him Though he is the official head of the family he lacks considerable of the physical appearance of being the chief executive and many of the crowd were of the opinion that if it came to a question of authority, to be supported by strife, the 134 pound mistress of the family would have decidedly the advantage of the 40-inch Master Mogul.

Possibly some explanation is due here, relating to this interesting family. Mr. Mogul was spied on the square near the city police station. He was waving a small cane patiently explaining to the crowd surrounding him all about himself and family.

"How tall are you?" questioned one of the group.

"I'se 40 inches," replied the object of the query, as he leveled his cane to the ground, and took a fresh chew of tobacco, preparatory to telling his story which experience told was coming.

"Yah, I'se 40 inches tall; 'jes born that way, always been a dwarf. Suh, I'se married, yuh certainly wouldn't expect an old colored gentlm'n as is 55 years old to be single, would yuh? Oh, ya, my wife is biggern me—she weighs 134 pounds. She's jes an ordinary colored lady, and me'n her hev got along fine fu nigh 30 years now. Of, course, we hab got children—seben of them, two of them air dwarfs like their dady, tother five air jest as big as any of your kids. Where do I libe? Why, I libe out here on the Bosque about five miles, been living there off and on all my life, but I think I will make a move perty soon."

"Why don't you go to Mexico?" asked one of the crowd.

"No, suh. No, suh; I'se can't understand de folks over heah and I don't want to go ober dere, cause I couldn't fight anyway."

"Looker here, Cap," asked Mogul, addressing an overbearing darkey who had continually poked fun at him. "It is purfuctly fair to ask any question dat am legal ain't it?"

"Yeh, let her shoot," exclaimed the overbearing youth.

"Wull, mister, I'se don't want to offend you and I don't know exactly whuther you can answer a question er not that requires so much education, but this am the question which I would like for you to answer: Wheah did the ark light after de flood?"

As the crowd broke into laughter, the curious object wobbled off deftly using his small cane to make room for the passage of his chubby body.

Whether the dwarf colored man's name really was Mogul or Mojuhle, as he himself pronounced it could not be determined. But that the Mogul family live near Waco was verified by one of the farmers who witnessed the departure of the crowd.

Many prophesies were made by the crowd, some were sure that the Bosque river farmer had missed his calling and should be on the motion picture screens. Others were sure he could make good with the Ringling Brothers show. Some less sincere were in favor of making of him a football star, or matching him for a ten round bout with Willard. But the most popular occupation mapped out for him to follow for the next few years was that of official mascot for the Navigators.

FORDS HAVING NOTHING ON STREET CAR.

Residents in the vicinities where the Ninth street car line passes through are complaining of some unwelcome "music." Especially is it unwelcome just before the street cars cease their labors for the day for every time one certain car—No. 121 to be exact—makes its trip it wakes many a person up who listens to the bump, bump, bump, and then falls asleep again and remains until the car makes another trip. The "music" is rather harsh and flat and it is caused from a flat wheel on the car. One of the persons living on the car line requested The Observer to call the attention of the traction company to the condition of the car, stating, "There's nothing worse than a street car with a flat wheel, except a street car with two flat wheels."

WOULD PROBABLY STOP IN NEXT COUNTY.

Two young lawyers were among the crowd that heard the fight bulletin in front of the Morning News' office last night. After the first round one of them remarked to the other:

"I'd sure hate to have one of those big fellows hit me."

The other replied:

"If they put me in the ring with either one of them, and ever let me get out he'd have to get a change of venue before he could hit me."

IS THE BARD OF AVON A LOCAL RESIDENT?

After having been given dire cautions at various times about the constant use of the new city directory when in doubt, the office cub reporter was asked sharply to look up the approved spelling of "William Shakespeare." Confidently the cub grabbed the big green book on Waco citizenry and began looking frantically for the "S's."

A Sunday Morning Message to Men

By Rev. J. J. Grier

TO THE FATHERS OF SONS.

Text: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old he will not depart from it."—Prov. 22:6.

I do not know whether your boy has any sense or not; most boys have, and some boys haven't. I do not know whether he has in him any of the material out of which a real man may be made: the chances are that he has. I do not know if he is a weakling, led about by others boys, like a puppy, to do their will, whatever that may be; or if he is a boy of force and strength, a born leader of others, with a winning personality and a dominating will that easily asserts its mastery over the wills of others. But one thing I do know about your boy, whether he is smart or dull. He knows you. He knows your standards of value; what importance you attach to this thing or that; whether you think an education is a worth-while thing to get; whether you consider money as the biggest and the most important of all the things of life or a matter of such tremendous, weighty concern that whatever else a man may do without, he cannot very well, in the long stretch of life, do without religion and the things religion begets. He knows, too, whether his father is a fine, clean type of man, or a man of low, sordid, vulgar nature.

BOY HAS STRAIGHT LINE ON FATHER'S CHARACTER.

Your boy knows you. He may not come to really know you till he is eight, or ten, or maybe twelve years of age, or even more, dependent on his shrewdness and his alertness of mind; but his definite judgment of you cannot be finally escaped. He knows you. And he knows you, not by what you say, but by what he sees and by the things you do. And if what he knows of you is of a sort to fill his young heart with pride, he makes no secret of it, and all the world may know what he knows if it wishes to know. But if what he knows of you is of a sort to fill the boyish heart with shame, neither you, nor his mother, nor his playmates, nor any one else will ever get it out of him. It's his secret. What he really thinks of you will be his secret till the unfolding of his youth into manhood begins to reveal the ugly secret in the characteristics of his own life.

This, I am persuaded, is one of the big elements that go to make up that deadly influence which we sometimes describe as heredity. For, let it never be forgotten, that the most persuasive and convincing things in teaching, because they are the clearest and most emphatic, are the things that are taught, not by rule and precept, but by example. It is so in mathematics; it is so in regard to the languages; it is so in music and painting as well as in anatomy; in short, the rule holds good in all the domain of the teaching art, just as it also holds good in the realms of morals and religion.

PRACTICE MORE THAN PRECEPT COUNTS HERE.

No use to tell your boy, of whom you are as proud as a father can well be, the virtues of economy, if you yourself are a prodigal and spendthrift. How can you hope to inspire him, no matter how true or constant your teaching, to a life of cleanliness and manliness, if your own life is exactly of the opposite sort? Of what value do you think your teachings about truthfulness could be to him when you, his father, whom he knows better than you imagine, are a habitual and gifted liar? What right have you to expect that all your fine sentences about being honorable and fair in his dealings with others will stir him with fine emotion and hold him to a life of uprightness when he already knows, or soon will know, without a doubt, that his father is unfair, tricky, dishonorable? How sincere do you think he judges you to be when you caution him against the evils and the dangers of strong drink while he is only too well aware that you are daily indulging the very practice which you pretend to abhor?

What would be your answer, fathers of boys, to these questions, if you should be perfectly candid? I know very well what any well-balanced father would say. Then let us go to something a little bit more important. Would you like to bring up your boy in a community that lacked the influences of religion and religious teaching? You would not.

Very well, then, wouldn't you like for him to be religious? At least just enough religious to feel the effects of religion in his life? I shall take it for granted that you would. If that is so, the place to begin is with you.

Are you a religious father? Perhaps you are a member of a church; but I don't mean that. Or you are orthodox in your religious views; but I don't mean that, either. I do not really care whether you are orthodox or not. For I am not talking about orthodoxy at all; I am talking about religion. What I want to know is, are you really religious? Have you enough of the genuine thing to make a favorable impression on that boy of yours? Or is all your religion an empty, farcical pretense? Just the kind of pretense to be obnoxious to the keen eye and the discerning mind of a bright youngster?

NO NORMAL BOY WILL TOLERATE HIPOCRISY.

There is one thing your boy will not tolerate. He will not tolerate it in his own father, nor will he tolerate it in any one else. That one thing is the hollow mockery and pretense of being religious when there is no semblance of truth in the pretense. No use to talk to him about the Christian religion if he never hears you pray, or sees you read your Bible; nor sees you at Sunday school and church. He knows you do not mean it.

What he really needs is to see the graces of the Christian life springing up daily in the life of his father. If he sees that, the chances are that all the arguments and all the sophistries of men will not be able to rid him of the convcition that there is something for himself, and when he finds it he will be prepared for the great testing times of his young life. For his moral nature will be sorely shaken and he will need just those very elements of moral strength that religion gives, and gives more surely than anything else we know.

The best and the most convincing source for your boy to get the teachings of religion is from his own father, and through the influence of his father. He will follow you when he will follow no one else. He will believe you when he will believe no one else. He looks to you and you can not afford to disappoint him. Give him the right teaching and the right example now, and when he is older he cannot get away from it—that is, the training.

The man who sang the siren song, who promised to love and cherish her, became a prominent business man, married a pure, sweet girl, and society made no charge against him. It was not fair to the woman, and yet, under the conditions existing her sacrifice was necessary to preserve inviolate our high standard of living and thought every good man earnestly desires his wife or his sweetheart to follow.

The agony of the woman who is caged in the house where the red flame flares is like the sacrifice of the martyr or the soldier who dies that liberty and virtue may be preserved. Out of her sacrifice may come sweetness and purity in the lives of others constrained to nerve their will and strengthen their determination to yield not to the tempter who is abroad in the land. It is not fair, it is one of the inequalities of life that may some day be remedied, as we learn more and more of the fundamentals of genuine virtue, and good, kind, sympathetic women have more to do with making the laws under which we live and by which we are governed.

Sixty-five British aeroplanes bombarded Zebrugge recently, and escaped, returning to their base. Zebrugge is the German base for submarine warfare, and it has been wondered by many military students why such an attack has not been made before. If this base for submarines could be destroyed, it would be some easier for the allies to relieve themselves of some of the menace of the German submarines, which have been so active.

It is now Senator Tom Taggart. Senator Taggart is the gentleman who owned the hotel in Indianapolis where the chamber maid refused to make up the bed occupied by Booker T. Washington. Senator Taggart was democratic executive committeeman from Indiana at the time he received his appointment, and has been a power in democratic circles in his home state for many years.

The most gratifying thing about the election in Bowie county is the fact that the people of Texarkana are in earnest about stamping out the sale of liquor. They have determined to see that the law is enforced, and that their boys are relieved of the temptation set before them by bootleggers. There is no reason to doubt the enforcement of the law on this or any other subject when the people are really in earnest like they are now in Texarkana.

There is a woman behind every good deed. No ambition, no matter how high or exalted, but what is inspired by a woman's smile or a woman's praise, a mother, a wife or a sweetheart. Women are the real power behind the ballot now held by men, so why not let them possess this power themselves openly?

Scott Perkins was shot in the head with two loads of bird shot at Fort Worth recently. The shots were fired at close range, but so thick was the skull the shot did not penetrate the cavity, but lodged against the bone and were picked out by surgeons. There is more advantage than one in being hard-headed.

If we will conserve some of that energy we waste in carping criticism, and try to be more helpful, we will accomplish a great deal more for the good of our city, our state and our nation. Anybody can criticise, but it takes a real man to command and reach out a helping hand.

Rev. Charles Tweedle, vicar of Weston, is exhibiting what he claims is the picture of a ghost, the shadow of an old man with long, white whiskers. That seems to be evidence conclusive that style is away behind in the shadow land. Men who are up-to-date don't wear long whiskers.

The Rotary club of Waco has a beautification committee, with R. J. Potts chairman. This is one of the most important committees of this progressive, active club. Beauty and progress are synonymous.

DeWitt McMurray said many good things, but nothing better than this: "There is nothing so stupid as arrogance, so blind as prejudice, so cruel as intolerance."

New Orleans boasts a voter who is four feet one and one-half inches tall and wears knee trousers, but he is well balanced mentally, and votes the democratic ticket.

The farmer who diversifies, patronizes the dipping vat, and raises thoroughbred livestock won't need legislation to give him "rural credit," wisely observes the Daily Texarkanian.

There are sorrows we know not of, there are griefs we are never told in every human heart, and that is why we should be filled with sympathy.

What the Observer Saw

STREET CARS AS ENEMIES OF ROMANCE.

A Waco girl away at college has perpetrated this:

"Good night. Ah, we must part here, you and I.
When moon-elves dance, the night flies quickly past.
Good night.
Stern fate decrees; we may not plead nor cry.
Hark, dost thou hear? Oh, dearest, leave me—fast!
Haste! Run!" There goes my car—the last.
Good night."

DIMINUTIVE NEGRO HOLDS CROWD'S ATTENTION.

Whether Mister Mogul is the "Chief Mogul" of the Mogul family, is a question which created much doubt in a crowd who listened attentively to the exploits of his family as told by him. Though he is the official head of the family he lacks considerable of the physical appearance of being the chief executive and many of the crowd were of the opinion that if it came to a question of authority, to be supported by strife, the 134 pound mistress of the family would have decidedly the advantage of the 40-inch Master Mogul.

Possibly some explanation is due here, relating to this interesting family. Mr. Mogul was spied on the square near the city police station. He was waving a small cane patiently explaining to the crowd surrounding him all about himself and family.

"How tall are you?" questioned one of the group.

"I'se 40 inches," replied the object of the query, as he leveled his cane to the ground, and took a fresh chew of tobacco, preparatory to telling his story which experience told was coming.

"Yah, I'se 40 inches tall; 'jes born that way, always been a dwarf. Suh, I'se married, yuh certainly wouldn't expect an old colored gentlm'n as is 55 years old to be single, would yuh? Oh, ya, my wife is biggern me—she weighs 134 pounds. She's jes an ordinary collored lady, and me'n her hev got along fine fu nigh 30 years now. Of course, we hab got children—seben of them, two of them air dwarfs like their dady, tother five air jest as big as any of your kids. Where do I libe? Why, I libe out here on the Bosque about five miles, been living there off and on all my life, but I think I will make a move perty soon."

"Why don't you go to Mexico?" asked one of the crowd.

"No, suh. No, suh; I'se can't understand de folks over heah and I don't want to go ober dere, cause I couldn't fight anyway."

"Looker here, Cap," asked Mogul, addressing an overbearing darkey who had continually poked fun at him. "It is purfuctly fair to ask any question dat am legal ain't it?"

"Yeh, let her shoot," exclaimed the overbearing youth.

"Wull, mister, I'se don't want to offend you and I don't know exactly whuther you can answer a question er not that requires so much education, but this am the question which I would like for you to answer: Wheah did the ark light after de flood?"

As the crowd broke into laughter, the curious object wobbled off deftly using his small cane to make room for the passage of his chubby body.

Whether the dwarf colored man's name really was Mogul or Mojuhle, as he himself pronounced it could not be determined. But that the Mogul family live near Waco was verified by one of the farmers who witnessed the departure of the crowd.

Many prophesies were made by the crowd, some were sure that the Bosque river farmer had missed his calling and should be on the motion picture screens. Others were sure he could make good with the Ringling Brothers show. Some less sincere were in favor of making of him a football star, or matching him for a ten round bout with Willard. But the most popular occupation mapped out for him to follow for the next few years was that of official mascot for the Navigators.

FORDS HAVING NOTHING ON STREET CAR.

Residents in the vicinities where the Ninth street car line passes through are complaining of some unwelcome "music." Especially is it unwelcome just before the street cars cease their labors for the day for every time one certain car—No. 121 to be exact—makes its trip it wakes many a person up who listens to the bump, bump, bump, and then falls asleep again and remains until the car makes another trip. The "music" is rather harsh and flat and it is caused from a flat wheel on the car. One of the persons living on the car line requested The Observer to call the attention of the traction company to the condition of the car, stating, "There's nothing worse than a street car with a flat wheel, except a street car with two flat wheels."

WOULD PROBABLY STOP IN NEXT COUNTY.

Two young lawyers were among the crowd that heard the fight bulletin in front of the Morning News' office last night. After the first round one of them remarked to the other:

"I'd sure hate to have one of those big fellows hit me."

The other replied:

"If they put me in the ring with either one of them, and ever let me get out he'd have to get a change of venue before he could hit me."

IS THE BARD OF AVON A LOCAL RESIDENT?

After having been given dire cautions at various times about the constant use of the new city directory when in doubt, the office cub reporter was asked sharply to look up the approved spelling of "William Shakespeare." Confidently the cub grabbed the big green book on Waco citizenry and began looking frantically for the "S's."

A Sunday Morning Message to Men

By Rev. J. J. Grier

TO THE FATHERS OF SONS.

Text: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old he will not depart from it."—Prov. 22:6.

I do not know whether your boy has any sense or not; most boys have, and some boys haven't. I do not know whether he has in him any of the material out of which a real man may be made: the chances are that he has. I do not know if he is a weakling, led about by others boys, like a puppy, to do their will, whatever that may be; or if he is a boy of force and strength, a born leader of others, with a winning personality and a dominating will that easily asserts its mastery over the wills of others. But one thing I do know about your boy, whether he is smart or dull. He knows you. He knows your standards of value; what importance you attach to this thing or that; whether you think an education is a worth-while thing to get; whether you consider money as the biggest and the most important of all the things of life or a matter of such tremendous, weighty concern that whatever else a man may do without, he cannot very well, in the long stretch of life, do without religion and the things religion begets. He knows, too, whether his father is a fine, clean type of man, or a man of low, sordid, vulgar nature.

BOY HAS STRAIGHT LINE ON FATHER'S CHARACTER.

Your boy knows you. He may not come to really know you till he is eight, or ten, or maybe twelve years of age, or even more, dependent on his shrewdness and his alertness of mind; but his definite judgment of you cannot be finally escaped. He knows you. And he knows you, not by what you say, but by what he sees and by the things you do. And if what he knows of you is of a sort to fill his young heart with pride, he makes no secret of it, and all the world may know what he knows if it wishes to know. But if what he knows of you is of a sort to fill the boyish heart with shame, neither you, nor his mother, nor his playmates, nor any one else will ever get it out of him. It's his secret. What he really thinks of you will be his secret till the unfolding of his youth into manhood begins to reveal the ugly secret in the characteristics of his own life.

This, I am persuaded, is one of the big elements that go to make up that deadly influence which we sometimes describe as heredity. For, let it never be forgotten, that the most persuasive and convincing things in teaching, because they are the clearest and most emphatic, are the things that are taught, not by rule and precept, but by example. It is so in mathematics; it is so in regard to the languages; it is so in music and painting as well as in anatomy; in short, the rule holds good in all the domain of the teaching art, just as it also holds good in the realms of morals and religion.

PRACTICE MORE THAN PRECEPT COUNTS HERE.

No use to tell your boy, of whom you are as proud as a father can well be, the virtues of economy, if you yourself are a prodigal and spendthrift. How can you hope to inspire him, no matter how true or constant your teaching, to a life of cleanliness and manliness, if your own life is exactly of the opposite sort? Of what value do you think your teachings about truthfulness could be to him when you, his father, whom he knows better than you imagine, are a habitual and gifted liar? What right have you to expect that all your fine sentences about being honorable and fair in his dealings with others will stir him with fine emotion and hold him to a life of uprightness when he already knows, or soon will know, without a doubt, that his father is unfair, tricky, dishonorable? How sincere do you think he judges you to be when you caution him against the evils and the dangers of strong drink while he is only too well aware that you are daily indulging the very practice which you pretend to abhor?

What would be your answer, fathers of boys, to these questions, if you should be perfectly candid? I know very well what any well-balanced father would say. Then let us go to something a little bit more important. Would you like to bring up your boy in a community that lacked the influences of religion and religious teaching? You would not.

Very well, then, wouldn't you like for him to be religious? At least just enough religious to feel the effects of religion in his life? I shall take it for granted that you would. If that is so, the place to begin is with you.

Are you a religious father? Perhaps you are a member of a church; but I don't mean that. Or you are orthodox in your religious views; but I don't mean that, either. I do not really care whether you are orthodox or not. For I am not talking about orthodoxy at all; I am talking about religion. What I want to know is, are you really religious? Have you enough of the genuine thing to make a favorable impression on that boy of yours? Or is all your religion an empty, farcical pretense? Just the kind of pretense to be obnoxious to the keen eye and the discerning mind of a bright youngster?

NO NORMAL BOY WILL TOLERATE HIPOCRISY.

There is one thing your boy will not tolerate. He will not tolerate it in his own father, nor will he tolerate it in any one else. That one thing is the hollow mockery and pretense of being religious when there is no semblance of truth in the pretense. No use to talk to him about the Christian religion if he never hears you pray, or sees you read your Bible; nor sees you at Sunday school and church. He knows you do not mean it.

What he really needs is to see the graces of the Christian life springing up daily in the life of his father. If he sees that, the chances are that all the arguments and all the sophistries of men will not be able to rid him of the convcition that there is something for himself, and when he finds it he will be prepared for the great testing times of his young life. For his moral nature will be sorely shaken and he will need just those very elements of moral strength that religion gives, and gives more surely than anything else we know.

The best and the most convincing source for your boy to get the teachings of religion is from his own father, and through the influence of his father. He will follow you when he will follow no one else. He will believe you when he will believe no one else. He looks to you and you can not afford to disappoint him. Give him the right teaching and the right example now, and when he is older he cannot get away from it—that is, the training.

that stormy winter weather exposes you to colds, coughs grip, and a general danger of catarrhal conditions. You come in cold and with your resistance weakened, and the germs of grip find a lodgment. You need the help of a good tonic, with special value in catarrhal conditions. Again the experience of many thousands repeats

TAKE PERUNA FOR COLDS

Peruna invigorates. It affects directly the mucous membranes that suffer first in colds. It clears them of stagnant blood, and aids all the digestive apparatus to secure tone and activity. It carries you over the crisis if you take it in time, and banishes the cough and grip. Peruna is a reliable family medicine to have at hand for just such emergencies. It should be taken at the first symptom.

Remember that Peruna also comes in tablet form. Carry a box with you.

Wortham Gets P. O. Films.

Special to the Morning News.

Wortham, March 25.—The postmaster here has succeeded in obtaining the postoffice moving picture films, and they will be shown here the fourteenth day of April. These films represent the workings of the postoffice department in Washington and also show the tracing of a letter from one office to another. The films are sent from Milford, Mass., and are then sent to Norwich, New York. This is their first appearance in Texas and probably the last soon. Over 500 announcements will be sent out to postmasters in Texas, that they may attend this showing if they care to. The film will be shown at night.

Meridian Party at Valley Mills.

Special to the Morning News.

Valley Mills, March 25.—D. E. Colp and wife, Lake Robertson and L. A. McLaughton, inspection party of the Meridian National highway passed through this place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Valley Mills was the first town the party entered in Bosque county as they went on their journey from the gulf northward. An auto parade met them a mile out of town and accompanied them on their departure until meeting the Clifton reception committee. Mr. Colp stated they were being received with a hearty welcome everywhere and expressed delight at Valley Mills good roads activities.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

LET YOUR SORE, SWOLLEN, ACHING FEET SPREAD OUT IN A BATH OF "TIZ."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

I. & G. N. Loses in Intangible Tax Suit at Houston

By the Associated Press.

Houston, March 25.—Upholding the state tax board in fixing the intangible assets of the International and Great Northern railroad company at $10,743,273 and declaring that there has been no discrimination against the railroad in Harris county, Judge J. D. Harvey at a night session of the Eightieth district court refused the application of the railroad for an injunction restraining Harris county officials from collecting the tax on intangible assets.

Early in the case, which has been on trial exactly four weeks, Judge Harvey upheld the constitutionality of the law creating intangible assets and thereby saved the state approximately $800,000 now being collected on intangibles.

A total amount of approximately $111,000 taxes is involved. Of the intangible assets $603,227 was apportioned to Harris county.

Three Waco Students on Texas Honor Roll

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, March 25.—The winter term's grades of students in the University of Texas were announced yesterday. Of the 2,400 students now in attendance upon the university, only eight made A in every subject (law department excepted). The names and addresses of these students follow:

Louis Keith Boswell, Fort Worth; Rose Sharp Brewer, Brownwood; Ruth Hall, Houston; Dorothy Mary Hirshfield, San Antonio; Arthur Seymon Martin, Clarendon; Tom Scurry, Dallas; Elizabeth Winslow, Brownwood; Orville Wallace Wood, Dallas.

There were 225 more students set apart in the dean's honor list of the college of arts and the department of engineering, all the students on this list having been among the 6 per cent best, so far as grades for the winter term are concerned, making a B average or better.

The students registering from Waco whose names are included in this list follow:

Mary Shelton, James Archibald Edmond and Flora Isabel Edmond.

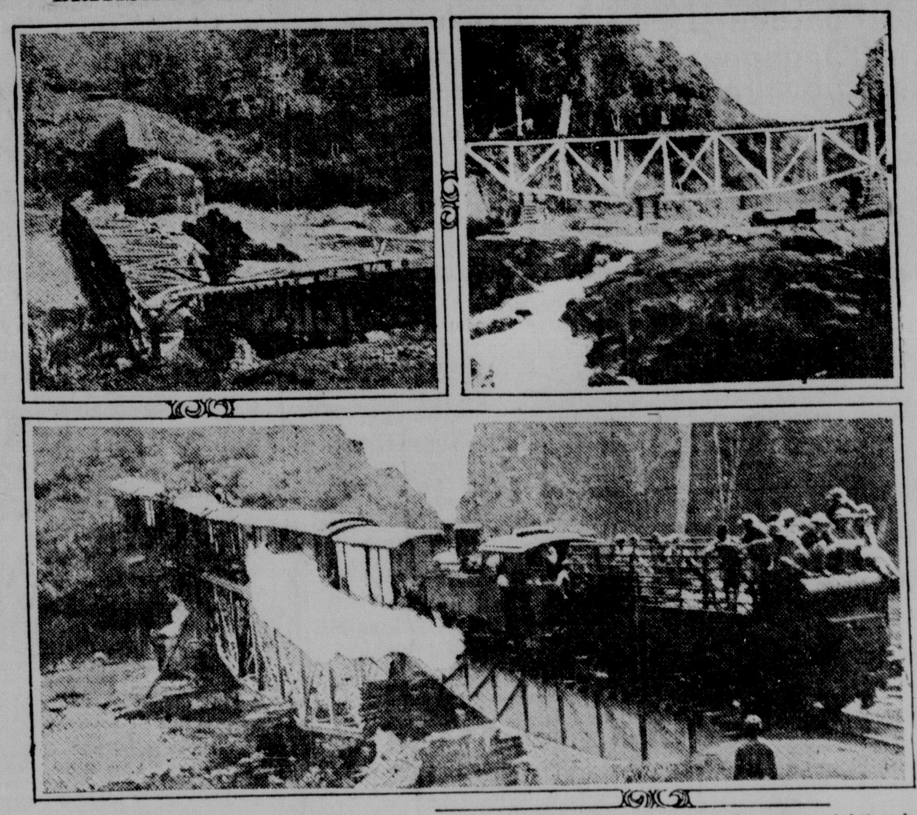
BRITISH IN FULL CONTROL OF GERMAN COLONY IN AFRICA



Retreating Germans destroy railway bridge in Cameroon (upper left); British repair bridge (upper right) and are now using it to transport troops and supplies.

Special to the Morning News.

London, March 25.—The plan of the combined French and British operations in Cameroon consisted, roughly speaking, in encircling the German defenders of the colony and driving them to one central point, where disarmament could be easily effected. This object has been accomplished, though the disarmament of certain of the troops was effected by neutrals in Spanish Guinea.

The six principal columns engaged in this huge sweeping movement were: (1) the French northern column, commanded by Colonel Largeau; included in this command was a smaller column, which advanced against Mora, Marau and Garau, and which was under the coumand of Lieutenant Colonel Brisset. (2) A British Nigerian column acting from Yola in conjunction with Colonel Largeau's force. Detachments of this force took part in the capture of Garau. (3) The Lobaye column from the Belgian Congo on the east, which was under the command of Lieutenant Commander Morisson, and which moved up the valley of the Lobaye river. (4) The Sanga column, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Hutin, which operated to the south of the Lobaye column and which moved up the river Sanga. These two columns were under the chief direction of General Aymerich, commandant of the French-African equatorial troops. (5) An Anglo-French expedition commanded by General Dobell under whom was the French contingent commander by Colonel Mayer. Working from Duala as base, this force carried out many expedition to the north and east of that town and took part in the operations in the neighborhood of Yaunde. (6) The column formed at Mitzic, which operated on the frontier of Muni in the direction of Oyem; later on this column was placed under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Le Meillour and extended its area of operations eastward.

In addition to these land operations, British and French naval forces maintained an effective blockade of the coast line from Duala to the Campo river so that munitions and supplies could not reach Colonel Zimmerman, the German commander.

The capture of the series of positions—Marua, Garua, Ngaumdere, Tibati—undoubtedly hastened the fall of Yaunde, and compelled the precipitate retirement of the Germans southward in the direction of Muni, where the German governor and commander-in-chief are said to have taken refuge. In the course of their retreat the German columns came into collision on several occasions with the French column advancing from Duala to Yaunde, along the railway line parallel with the British column following the motor road further north. The Germans sustained heavy losses in these encounters. They only succeeded in delaying somewhat the Anglo-French march through the great equatorial forest, over tremendously broken country, but they did not avoid that vigorous pursuit which resulted in the occupation by the allies of the Ebolowa, the last important post held by the Germans. General Americh took command of the allied troops at Yaunda and made arrangements with General Dobell for the pursuit of the enemy in some southern regions, where his last detachments were roaming about.

Thus ends the conquest of Cameroon. The Germans had devoted thirty years' steady work and the expenditure of great sums of money on the colony. In the Victoria and Buea districts alone fully $5,000,000 has been spent in the development of the plantations of cocoa, rubber and other tropical products.

Mrs. Chas. Harrison Indicted on Killing Charge in Ft. Worth

By the Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 25.—Charles Harrison, son of aBnker James Harrison and nephew of Senator Charles Culberson of Texas, and his young bride were indicted this morning for the killing of W. L. Warren, hotel proprietor last December. Mrs. Harrison gave herself up to the officers a month ago, saying she killed Warren because he had wronged her before her marriage. Her surrender followed a tip the officers working on the mystery received from a chum of Mrs. Harrison.

The indictments charge murder, degree not being mentioned. Neither is there anything said about which is the principal. It is the contention of Mrs. Harrison's mother that she was only fifteen years of age at the time of the killing and therefore that she should be tried in the juvenile court. The state will contest this claim. Charles Harrison, the husband, claims that his wife was ruined by Warren, that Warren committed a capital offense in wronging her and therefore that she exacted the penalty instead of the law.

Octogenarian Dies.

Special to the Morning News.

Weatherford, March 25.—Mrs. M. A. E. Coffey, aged 88, died at her home in this city yesterday morning, after an illness of ten days. Mrs. Coffey was born near Waterloo, Ill., November 11, 1827, and came to Weatherford with her husband and children some thirty years ago, where she had continuously resided. Mr. Coffey preceded her in death twelve years ago. She is survived by three children, a son, G. C. Coffey of Belton, Texas, and two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Ochiltree of this city and Mrs. W. W. Williams of Butte, Mont. Mrs. Walter Tucker of Weatherford is a granddaughter.

Funeral services were conducted by Dr. J. G. Potter at the Grace Presbyterian church, of which church Mrs. Coffey had been a most faithful member for three-fourths of a century.

Houston Girls Out Taking Pictures Killed by Train

By the Associated Press.

Houston, Tex., March 25.—Two girls, members of the Camera club of the Central high school, were killed and a dozen others narrowly escaped death this afternoon when the Sunshine special of the International and Great Northern swept onto a trestle which they were crossing near the city. The dead girls are Miss Elsie Rau, 18 years old, president of the club, and Miss Mary Powell, 17 years old. Miss Powell was carried forty feet and hurled down an embankment and Miss Rau carried 100 feet. Their companions, including a male teacher, escaped by jumping.

Downsville School Wins from Rosenthal in Two Events

Special to the Morning News.

Downsville, March 25.—Much interest is being manifested in spelling among the rural schools of district No. 3, McLennan county. The Downsville school has defeated Robinson, Gurley and Rosenthal. Last Friday the Downsville school journeyed to Rosenthal via hay wagon and defeated Rosenthal in spelling, little Mary Arnold, aged 10 years, being the champion.

The baseball game went to Downsville by a score of 16 to 11. The feature of the game was the pitching and hitting of Collins of Downsville.

Batteries—Downsville, Collins and Rowan; Rosenthal, Smith and Jewitt; umpire, Clark of Rosenthal.

Through a misunderstanding, the Downsville school was ruled out of the county school spelling meet held at Baylor, Waco, yesterday. The entrants were present and would be glad to have a try at the winners of the contest if such could be arranged.

Colonel Lanham was with his father as private secretary during the four years Colonel Lanham served as governor; also several years in Washington of the 16 years his father represented this district in congress.

Forestation of Seley Park Looks to Beautiful Spot

More than one hundred shade trees of the more than four hundred planned for the C. M. Seley memorial park were set out last week and a dozen employes will probably be busy for some days yet foresting the park and making other improvements. Col. W. W. Seley, for whose father the park is named, is planning to put out a hundred red cedar trees from the Brazos and two hundred umbrella china trees for early shade purposes in the plot this spring. With playground equipment, hedges, flower beds and the like, the Seley park will be one of the beauty spots of the city, it is declared.

Citizens in the neighborhood are taking a great interest in the park, Colonel Seley says. He declares that he is receiving great quantities of roses and other hardy flowers from friends of the park, and that one man contemplates setting out a wagonload of daisies.

Temperance Orator of Georgia on Tour Stops Over in Waco

LYMAN H. HOWE'S TRAVEL FESTIVAL IS EDUCATIONAL

Picturization of Glacier National Park at Auditorium Theatre Superb.

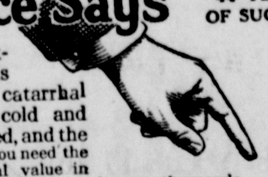
Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, presented at the Auditorium theatre yesterday matinee and night, was fully up to the high standard established by this superb production of motion pictures. There's not only nothing better in motion pictures—there's nothing else quite so good. That is, nothing better comes this way and this city usually gets about the best the country affords.

The offering on this occasion featured a highly interesting trip through the Glacier National park, depicting en route the Indian life that exists there, the glaciers, the iceberg lakes and other things of great beauty and interest. No less interesting was the trip along the principal rivers of France, a trip through Switzerland in winter, a train excursion through the Alps, and a few glimpses of Italy.

A more practical feature was provided in the very elaborate picturization of the process by which automobiles are turned out in the Willys-Overland factory at Toledo, Ohio, and there was the interjection of the usual large number of high-grade comic pictures that gave an additional zest to an altogether pleasing program.

Experience Says

44 YEARS OF SUCCESS



that stormy winter weather exposes you to colds, coughs grip, and a general danger of catarrhal conditions. You come in cold and with your resistance weakened, and the germs of grip find a lodgment. You need the help of a good tonic, with special value in catarrhal conditions. Again the experience of many thousands repeats

TAKE PERUNA FOR COLDS

Peruna invigorates. It affects directly the mucous membranes that suffer first in colds. It clears them of stagnant blood, and aids all the digestive apparatus to secure tone and activity. It carries you over the crisis if you take it in time, and banishes the cough and grip. Peruna is a reliable family medicine to have at hand for just such emergencies. It should be taken at the first symptom.

Remember that Peruna also comes in tablet form. Carry a box with you.

GRANDPA DIDN'T NEED CASCARETS FOR THE BOWELS

TWO HOURS A DAY SAWING WOOD WILL KEEP LIVER AND BOWELS RIGHT.

YOU WHO TAKE EXERCISE IN AN EASY CHAIR MUST TAKE "CASCARETS."

Enjoy life—feel bully! Don't stay sick, bilious, headachy, constipated. Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, your breath offensive, stomach sour and your body full of cold. Why don't you get a 10 or 25-cent box of Cascarets at the drug store and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Cascarets work while you sleep. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Children need this candy cathartic, too.

Wortham Gets P. O. Films.

Special to the Morning News.

Wortham, March 25.—The postmaster here has succeeded in obtaining the postoffice moving picture films, and they will be shown here the fourteenth day of April. These films represent the workings of the postoffice department in Washington and also show the tracing of a letter from one office to another. The films are sent from Milford, Mass., and are then sent to Norwich, New York. This is their first appearance in Texas and probably the last soon. Over 500 announcements will be sent out to postmasters in Texas, that they may attend this showing if they care to. The film will be shown at night.

Meridian Party at Valley Mills.

Special to the Morning News.

Valley Mills, March 25.—D. E. Colp and wife, Lake Robertson and L. A. McLaughton, inspection party of the Meridian National highway passed through this place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Valley Mills was the first town the party entered in Bosque county as they went on their journey from the gulf northward. An auto parade met them a mile out of town and accompanied them on their departure until meeting the Clifton reception committee. Mr. Colp stated they were being received with a hearty welcome everywhere and expressed delight at Valley Mills good roads activities.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

LET YOUR SORE, SWOLLEN, ACHING FEET SPREAD OUT IN A BATH OF "TIZ."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

I. & G. N. Loses in Intangible Tax Suit at Houston

By the Associated Press.

Houston, March 25.—Upholding the state tax board in fixing the intangible assets of the International and Great Northern railroad company at $10,743,273 and declaring that there has been no discrimination against the railroad in Harris county, Judge J. D. Harvey at a night session of the Eightieth district court refused the application of the railroad for an injunction restraining Harris county officials from collecting the tax on intangible assets.

Early in the case, which has been on trial exactly four weeks, Judge Harvey upheld the constitutionality of the law creating intangible assets and thereby saved the state approximately $800,000 now being collected on intangibles.

A total amount of approximately $111,000 taxes is involved. Of the intangible assets $603,227 was apportioned to Harris county.

Three Waco Students on Texas Honor Roll

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, March 25.—The winter term's grades of students in the University of Texas were announced yesterday. Of the 2,400 students now in attendance upon the university, only eight made A in every subject (law department excepted). The names and addresses of these students follow:

Louis Keith Boswell, Fort Worth; Rose Sharp Brewer, Brownwood; Ruth Hall, Houston; Dorothy Mary Hirshfield, San Antonio; Arthur Seymon Martin, Clarendon; Tom Scurry, Dallas; Elizabeth Winslow, Brownwood; Orville Wallace Wood, Dallas.

There were 225 more students set apart in the dean's honor list of the college of arts and the department of engineering, all the students on this list having been among the 6 per cent best, so far as grades for the winter term are concerned, making a B average or better.

The students registering from Waco whose names are included in this list follow:

Mary Shelton, James Archibald Edmond and Flora Isabel Edmond.

BRITISH IN FULL CONTROL OF GERMAN COLONY IN AFRICA

Retreating Germans destroy railway bridge in Cameroon (upper left); British repair bridge (upper right) and are now using it to transport troops and supplies.

Special to the Morning News.

London, March 25.—The plan of the combined French and British operations in Cameroon consisted, roughly speaking, in encircling the German defenders of the colony and driving them to one central point, where disarmament could be easily effected. This object has been accomplished, though the disarmament of certain of the troops was effected by neutrals in Spanish Guinea.

The six principal columns engaged in this huge sweeping movement were: (1) the French northern column, commanded by Colonel Largeau; included in this command was a smaller column, which advanced against Mora, Marau and Garau, and which was under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Brisset. (2) A British Nigerian column acting from Yola in conjunction with Colonel Largeau's force. Detachments of this force took part in the capture of Garau. (3) The Lobaye column from the Belgian Congo on the east, which was under the command of Lieutenant Commander Morisson, and which moved up the valley of the Lobaye river. (4) The Sanga column, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Hutin, which operated to the south of the Lobaye column and which moved up the river Sanga. These two columns were under the chief direction of General Aymerich, commandant of the French-African equatorial troops. (5) An Anglo-French expedition commanded by General Dobell under whom was the French contingent commander by Colonel Mayer. Working from Duala as base, this force carried out many expedition to the north and east of that town and took part in the operations in the neighborhood of Yaunde. (6) The column formed at Mitzic, which operated on the frontier of Muni in the direction of Oyem; later on this column was placed under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Le Meillour and extended its area of operations eastward.

In addition to these land operations, British and French naval forces maintained an effective blockade of the coast line from Duala to the Campo river so that munitions and supplies could not reach Colonel Zimmerman, the German commander.

The capture of the series of positions—Marua, Garua, Ngaumdere, Tibati—undoubtedly hastened the fall of Yaunde, and compelled the precipitate retirement of the Germans southward in the direction of Muni, where the German governor and commander-in-chief are said to have taken refuge. In the course of their retreat the German columns came into collision on several occasions with the French column advancing from Duala to Yaunde, along the railway line parallel with the British column following the motor road further north. The Germans sustained heavy losses in these encounters. They only succeeded in delaying somewhat the Anglo-French march through the great equatorial forest, over tremendously broken country, but they did not avoid that vigorous pursuit which resulted in the occupation by the allies of the Ebolowa, the last important post held by the Germans. General Americh took command of the allied troops at Yaunda and made arrangements with General Dobell for the pursuit of the enemy in some southern regions, where his last detachments were roaming about.

Thus ends the conquest of Cameroon. The Germans had devoted thirty years' steady work and the expenditure of great sums of money on the colony. In the Victoria and Buea districts alone fully $5,000,000 has been spent in the development of the plantations of cocoa, rubber and other tropical products.

Mrs. Chas. Harrison Indicted on Killing Charge in Ft. Worth

By the Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 25.—Charles Harrison, son of aBnker James Harrison and nephew of Senator Charles Culberson of Texas, and his young bride were indicted this morning for the killing of W. L. Warren, hotel proprietor last December. Mrs. Harrison gave herself up to the officers a month ago, saying she killed Warren because he had wronged her before her marriage. Her surrender followed a tip the officers working on the mystery received from a chum of Mrs. Harrison.

The indictments charge murder, degree not being mentioned. Neither is there anything said about which is the principal. It is the contention of Mrs. Harrison's mother that she was only fifteen years of age at the time of the killing and therefore that she should be tried in the juvenile court. The state will contest this claim. Charles Harrison, the husband, claims that his wife was ruined by Warren, that Warren committed a capital offense in wronging her and therefore that she exacted the penalty instead of the law.

Octogenarian Dies.

Special to the Morning News.

Weatherford, March 25.—Mrs. M. A. E. Coffey, aged 88, died at her home in this city yesterday morning, after an illness of ten days. Mrs. Coffey was born near Waterloo, Ill., November 11, 1827, and came to Weatherford with her husband and children some thirty years ago, where she had continuously resided. Mr. Coffey preceded her in death twelve years ago. She is survived by three children, a son, G. C. Coffey of Belton, Texas, and two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Ochiltree of this city and Mrs. W. W. Williams of Butte, Mont. Mrs. Walter Tucker of Weatherford is a granddaughter.

Funeral services were conducted by Dr. J. G. Potter at the Grace Presbyterian church, of which church Mrs. Coffey had been a most faithful member for three-fourths of a century.

Cotton Season Is on Wane as Shown by Weighing Reports

Twelve bales of cotton were weighed here yesterday according to figures furnished by Sem Nix, public weigher. On the same day of last year forty-three bales were weighed. The total number for the last week was 310 bales which brought this season's figures up to 23,740, against 31,079 of last season, a decrease of 7,840 bales. Middling price for cotton here yesterday was 11¾c.

THE VALUE OF MUZZLING.

England's Experience Proves That Rabies Can Be Controlled.

The result of effectual muzzling of dogs, together with a strict quarantine, in England has demonstrated the absolute control of rabies by this simple preventive measure. Since 1902 there has not been a single case of rabies in all England, while previously to that time the disease had prevailed extensively.

By a resolution adopted by the board of health of the city of New York, June 17, 1908, unmuzzled dogs were pronounced a nuisance, dangerous to life and detrimental to health. The owners were forbidden to allow dogs at large without being provided with a muzzle. For a time the regulation was rigidly enforced and had a marked effect, especially in the Borough of Richmond, in which the disease was almost entirely abolished. In the year 1907 there were twenty-eight deaths from rabies in New York City. Immediately after the passage of the muzzling ordinance the number of deaths decreased to sixteen, and gradually diminished until 1915 there was only one death from the rabies in that city.

That this is due chiefly to the strict enforcement of the law, which had previously been more or less violated, there can be no doubt, and it is sufficient argument in defense of Commissioner Goldwater's active and persistent enforcement of the muzzling ordinance, in the execution of which 2165 persons were arrested between September 1, 1914, and September 1, 1915, and fines to the amount of $2129 were paid.—New York Sun.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE MAKES GOOD SHOWING

FIGHT IN TEXAS DURING LAST YEAR HAS BORNE FAVORABLE RESULTS.

SEVEN COUNTIES ON DRY LIST

In Addition to New Ground Gained, the Pro Forces Have Held All Old Ground Contested by Enemy.

One of the interesting features of the recent convention of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas at Dallas was the report of the board of managers for the ninth year, which was read and adopted as follows:

The year has been one of the growing interest and increasing victories. Our answer to the insolent challenge of the infamous liquor traffic and liquor politicians is Jim Wells county, Freestone county, Bee county, San Patricio county, Anderson county, Bell county and Nueces county. These seven counties have been redeemed from the rule of rum and the domination of the demagogue during the year. We won Calhoun, but the election was contested in the courts and the contest was decided in favor of the antis. In Montgomery and Runnels the beneficent brewers who believe so thoroughly in "education" knocked at the door and asked to be welcomed back, but the citizens declined to open or to welcome. We have no doubt about the results. In Falls, Milam, Wichita and Sutton, all wet, we have had fights, but failed to win; we did not lose, we only failed to win. We have not lost a foot of territory during the year. The forces of righteousness cannot lose. They may fail of conquest or may even suffer temporary defeat, but they cannot lose. Our warfare is one grand struggle with the final result inevitable as time and resistless as the tides.

PAST YEAR HAS BEEN ONE OF EDUCATION.

While much of our time, thought and labor has been given to these local fights, we have kept our eye fixed on the final goal of statewide prohibition at the earliest possible moment. Building on our work of former years and adhering strictly to Anti-Saloon league principles, we have made it a year of education leading up to and preparing for our next and final statewide battle in Texas, the one that is to close the door of every saloon in the state and make Texas sober and safe.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM ARE FALLING IN LINE.

We have been much encouraged and strengthened by the growing sympathy of the pastors and churches of all faiths toward our work. More and more we are all coming to see intelligently and feel intensely that the church which does not make itself felt in all the affairs of life, commercial, industrial, social and civic, is not performing the mission or fulfilling the function of a church, no matter what its creed. On a memorable occasion Bishop Tygert once said, "Between the church and the saloon it is war to the knife and the knife to the hilt." This we are all coming to see clearly. The saloon is the greatest enemy of the churches; the church ought to be the greatest enemy of the saloon. The fact that the saloon has established itself in the embrace of the government and has entrenched itself behind the public treasury does not alter the case nor lessen the duty nor abridge the right of the church in this holy war. The saloon tells us that we are in great danger of doing a horrible thing; we are about to unite church and state. What does the saloon know about it? It has not built either the church or the state. It is not the child of the church. It is only the bastard son of the state. The separation of church and state was accomplished long ago in this country and that question settled. We are not now so much afraid that we shall unite church and state as we are anxious to separate saloon and state. The separation of church and state does not change the ancient and honorable doctrine nor abridge the respectable right of petition and remonstrance. This right we will exercise until the day of doom for the saloon and every other evil, whether licensed or unlicensed. The saloon makes orphans for the churches to support; it retards every missionary and educational enterprise fostered by the churches. It is the almost insuperable barrier in the way of evangelization. The churches must destroy the saloon. More and more they are resolving by God's grace and help to accomplish their task to dissolve this unholy and illicit alliance between the state and the saloon.

CHURCHES RECOGNIZE LEAGUE AS LEADER.

The pulpit of nearly every evangelical church in Texas is open to the Anti-Saloon league. Nearly all the pastors and churches co-operate with the league and recognize in it the one practical, efficient agency for doing death to legalized beverage liquor traffic. The superintendent, the assistant superintendents and special helpers have gone everywhere among the churches of Texas preaching the gospel of sobriety and prohibition. On no subject do the sacred scriptures speak with more clearness or unction than on the drink evil. On no subject should the minister of Christ speak with more fervor and power.

This fight also has its place on the platform. The drink evil affects and harms every man, woman and child of the commonwealth. Whether one is a churchman or not, he has his duty, obligation and opportunity in this anti-saloon fight. Hence we have carried it to the platform. In every nook and corner of the state we have gone with the message of truth and hope and deliverance. The people have come in great crowds; they have heard with eagerness indescribable; they have responded cheerfully with sympathy and money; they have gone away with determination grim as death never to beat a retreat until the last fort has fallen.

PRINTER'S INK ALSO A FACTOR.

The work of the league in the past has been somewhat hindered for lack of an official medium of communication with our constituency. Happily, this difficulty has been overcome. The purchase of Home and State by the Anti-Saloon league of America and the subsequent leasing of Home and State by the Anti-Saloon league of Texas has given us an instrument of great efficiency and power. When we took Home and State over it had 4500 names on its mailing list. It now has nearly 20,000, which is a gain over fifty names per day. We have published eighteen issues of a total number of 4,500,000 pages. We hope and expect soon to have 50,000 and then speedily 100,000. There is not the shadow of a doubt that Texas is overwhelmingly against the saloon. The only question is whether we have the snap, energy and spirit of sacrifice that will give the people information and inspiration necessary to united, sustained and harmonious action. Under the present plan, Home and State gives us our best chance to do this; it out to be put not simply into 100,000 homes, but into several hundred thousand. We hope soon to bring out an issue of not fewer than sixty-four pages and of not fewer than 100,000 copies to be devoted entirely to the testimony admitted to record by the court at Sulphur Springs in the cases of Texas vs. the Breweries. This alone will make Texas dry. Bugs, bats, owls and jackals flee from the light; our motto, our aim, our rule, will be Turn on the light.

NO FEARS FROM POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Our mission and our work as a league has a political side. The saloon is in politics; if we would destroy the saloon we must go into politics. We are not afraid of politics. Politics is bad only as it has been made bad by bad men. Most of bad men are in the saloon business, or they have been made bad by the saloon, or they loaf around the saloon. They are connected in some way with the saloon. The saloon has made bad men and bad politics. We will not admit the right of an institution that makes bad men and bad politics to challenge our right to make good men and good politics. We will not be at all affrighted by the saloon when it holds up hypocritical hands and tells us that politics is very bad and that we will soil our garments if we go into politics. No more will the saloon be allowed to befoul and corrupt our elections, our courts and all our public affairs and then hide behind its own slime than Villa and his forces were allowed to attack Columbus, N. M., destroy American property and American life and hide themselves unmolested in their mountain retreat by that gentleman and scholar, statesman and patriot of the white house, Woodrow Wilson.

Our only mission and aim in politics is the destruction of the saloon. Politicians and the political fortunes of men are of no concern to us whatever except as a means to an end. We are not after politicians, but after the saloon. If a politician gets between us and the saloon and gets hurt in the scramble and the rush, his is the fault, not ours. We have not allowed this organization and movement to be used by any politician for personal gain and we will not. If we support any man it is because we believe him to be a sincere foe to the saloon and an efficient agent for its destruction. To receive our support men will have to profess themselves and prove themselves, in word and deed, the inveterate enemies of the saloon and the true and tried friends of this cause.

FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING FOR THE PAST YEAR.

Hereto attached we submit a table of receipts, disbursements and liabilities. We are glad to say that our receipts have greatly increased, despite the fact that last year was a non-political year in the state and was a year of unusual financial depression. If contributions are a criterion the interest in the cause is greatly increasing. During the year from March 1 to March 1 we placed on our books new business, cash and pledges to the amount of $38,964.72 and received in cash contributions $19,983.28. We owe a few thousand dollars, but we have in good uncollected but new and collectible pledges more than $2 for each $1 of our indebtedness. We have felt that now is the time to strike the final blow against the liquor traffic in Texas. In the beginning of the year it was necessary to enlarge the work more rapidly than we could possibly enlarge the receipts at once, but now our receipts each month approximate the expenditures; in some instances excel them. At the present rate of growth we shall soon be able to finance the work in a somewhat worthy manner. We are fighting the combined money power of the liquor interests of America, but $1 spent in our cause will go further than thousands spent in the slush fund of the brewers.

COMPENSATION OF THE WORKERS.

Every one giving his time to the services of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas is paid a fixed salary, no more, no less.

The work is done on a genuinely sacrificial basis. In every good cause "the laborer is worthy of his hire." There is not now nor will there be at any time any extravagance in the handling of the funds which our people sacrificially, but voluntarily and joyfully, contribute to the enlightenment and liberation of Texas, the United States and the world from the bondage of the sin and death of the liquor traffic. We are not at all surprised nor disturbed that the lecherous liquor traffic which makes common barter of ballots, bathes its hands in blood and rolls in rotterness, charges us with graft and challenges our right to contribute to our hardly and honestly earned and God-given means to destroy its work of darkness. We will defy the unclean thing and answer that we have as much right to give our money to prevent the making of orphans as we have to feed the orphans of its making; to save our boys and girls from its deadly clutch as to heal the hearts broken and solace the sorrows caused and feed the bums produced by the saloon—the chief manifestation of the works of the devil in this present day.

AS TO PROHIBITION AND PREPAREDNESS.

In our American life a great question has sprung to the fore. It is the question of preparedness. It is a matter about which much has been said and written. We do not speak of it lightly, but soberly. It is a question of tremendous import. It involves the traditions and doctrines of the past and the ideals and the hopes of the future of our government. Upon the president's program for preparedness we as a league have no opinion. Like the Apostle Paul in the olden days, we say, "This one thing we do." Whatever our opinions as individuals upon this or any other great public question, this league can have no opinion unless such question shall involve one way or another the perpetuation or destruction of the liquor traffic. But suppose we should unhappily be drawn into the world-wide conflagration, or suppose the present punitive expedition into Mexico for the protection of the property and life of our citizens should develop into war with Mexico, or suppose we should be drawn into war at any time with any nation, of what use would be any amount of armament and munitions unless we had sober, alert, capable men to use them? A few nights ago several of our soldiers from Fort Sam Houston were observed walking, or rather staggering through the streets of San Antonio as drunk as lords. The feeling was irresistible that they would not be much either for offensive or defensive warfare. Russia never did a wiser thing than when she abolished the sale of vodka on the same day that she mobilized her troops for this great world-wide war. Her experience with drunken soldiers in her war with Japan taught her her lesson. See what a marvelous record she has made. If it be said that Germany has done great execution and that Germany is a beer drinking nation, let it be answered that Germany has been powerful despite her beer, not because of it. It will be recalled that for years before the war the Kaiser, the university professors and students, and other leading spirits in Germany were fighting the drink habit among Germans and that both before the war and since the drinking habit in Germany has greatly diminished. Compare the execution done by sober Russia with that done by drunken Russia and you will have a safe criterion by which to judge. No drunken nation can cope with a sober nation of equal strength either in war or industry. In this day of forty-two centimeters, armored automobiles and aeroplanes, the nation that goes to battle drunk will be whipped to a frazzle; the nation that goes out sober will win. We are for preparedness; close up the saloons.

The crowning feature of this kind of preparedness is, it is just as valuable if we don't have war as if we do have war. It is preparedness for the peaceful pursuits of life by which we are to fell forests, till the fields, mine and mill the ores, dig for the oil and gas, build the factories, run the railroads, and promote the life and liberty, the health and happiness, the peace and prosperity of our people through centuries to come. This is one piece of preparedness that will not be outclassed by invention nor go to the junk heap because it is out of date.

WAR DECLARED ON THE "PEACE HAT"

War on the "peace hat," a late creation in spring millinery, is an imminent possibility. Women friends of the birds declare the dove with which the hat is trimmed must go before they will set the hat on their fair heads. They are for peace, they declare, but they say they will not advertise their principles at the price of an innocent bird's life.

Privately, those who are advocating the wearing of the "peace hat" have confessed that the alleged "dove" is not a "real-for-sure" dove at all. They say it is made of chicken feathers. Nevertheless the bird champions declare it looks like a real dove and they will not wear it. So there!

The subject has been brought to the attention of the National Association of Audubon Societies of America, the last authority on bird protection. The society is making a vigorous fight against the use of bird plumage for hat trimmings. Secretary Pearson says if the alleged "bird" is the body of a real dove, the Audubon authorities certainly are against its use in millinery.

"As long as they make these 'doves' out of the feathers of domestic birds, there can certainly be no objection to women wearing them," said Mr. Pearson, "unless perhaps it may be said that by doing so they are encouraging the general subject of feather-wearing.

"The feathers of wild birds cannot be obtained unless birds are killed," said Mr. Pearson, "and therefore should never be worn; on the other hand, ostrich feathers are legitimate as well as beautiful decorations and are approved by the Audubon societies."

Attractive Program Is Given by Pupils Miss Zuma Wallace

Quite a number of friends gathered at the studio of Miss Zuma Wallace, 2706 Gorman street, yesterday afternoon for the recital by the piano and voice pupils in Miss Wallace's classes. The audience proved quite an appreciative one and the pupils performed in a manner to deserve the appreciative manner in which their work was received. After the regular program Prof. Anton Navratil, instructor in violin at Baylor university, played three special numbers to the delight of those present.

The piano pupils among the younger set, who appeared on the program, were Francis Wallace, Inez Ingram, Frances Barnes, Gordon Hill, Mildred Cheek, Ina May Link, and Bernard Ginsberg, while the older and more advanced piano pupils were Misses Ella Dorbitz, Lillian Starr, Ruth Levinski, Helen Goodman, Edith Adelman and Helen Owen. The voice pupils who sang on this occasion were Misses Ella Dorbitz, Annie Mullens, Marjorie Kendrick and Mrs. M. T. Bell, Marshall Thompson and O. N. Redman.

RIFLE USED FOR KILLING RATS IS DEATH INSTRUMENT

G. W. Coleman, aged 62 years, resident of Concord, died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at a local sanitarium from injuries sustained Tuesday afternoon when he was accidentally shot with a small-calibre rifle. After hunting rats with a rifle in the yard of his residence at Concord, Mr. Coleman returned to the house. His rifle was still loaded and it came in contact with the door, discharging the bullet which took effect in Mr. Coleman's abdomen. He was taken to a local hospital, where an operation followed.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the mortuary chapel of the L. C. Puckett Undertaking establishment, with interment at the Concord cemetery.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

Under the present plan, Home and State gives us our best chance to do this; it out to be put not simply into 100,000 homes, but into several hundred thousand. We hope soon to bring out an issue of not fewer than sixty-four pages and of not fewer than 100,000 copies to be devoted entirely to the testimony admitted to record by the court at Sulphur Springs in the cases of Texas vs. the Breweries. This alone will make Texas dry. Bugs, bats, owls and jackals flee from the light; our motto, our aim, our rule, will be Turn on the light.

NO FEARS FROM POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Our mission and our work as a league has a political side. The saloon is in politics; if we would destroy the saloon we must go into politics. We are not afraid of politics. Politics is bad only as it has been made bad by bad men. Most of bad men are in the saloon business, or they have been made bad by the saloon, or they loaf around the saloon. They are connected in some way with the saloon. The saloon has made bad men and bad politics. We will not admit the right of an institution that makes bad men and bad politics to challenge our right to make good men and good politics. We will not be at all affrighted by the saloon when it holds up hypocritical hands and tells us that politics is very bad and that we will soil our garments if we go into politics. No more will the saloon be allowed to befoul and corrupt our elections, our courts and all our public affairs and then hide behind its own slime than Villa and his forces were allowed to attack Columbus, N. M., destroy American property and American life and hide themselves unmolested in their mountain retreat by that gentleman and scholar, statesman and patriot of the white house, Woodrow Wilson.

Our only mission and aim in politics is the destruction of the saloon. Politicians and the political fortunes of men are of no concern to us whatever except as a means to an end. We are not after politicians, but after the saloon. If a politician gets between us and the saloon and gets hurt in the scramble and the rush, his is the fault, not ours. We have not allowed this organization and movement to be used by any politician for personal gain and we will not. If we support any man it is because we believe him to be a sincere foe to the saloon and an efficient agent for its destruction. To receive our support men will have to profess themselves and prove themselves, in word and deed, the inveterate enemies of the saloon and the true and tried friends of this cause.

FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING FOR THE PAST YEAR.

Hereto attached we submit a table of receipts, disbursements and liabilities. We are glad to say that our receipts have greatly increased, despite the fact that last year was a non-political year in the state and was a year of unusual financial depression. If contributions are a criterion the interest in the cause is greatly increasing. During the year from March 1 to March 1 we placed on our books new business, cash and pledges to the amount of $38,964.72 and received in cash contributions $19,983.28. We owe a few thousand dollars, but we have in good uncollected but new and collectible pledges more than $2 for each $1 of our indebtedness. We have felt that now is the time to strike the final blow against the liquor traffic in Texas. In the beginning of the year it was necessary to enlarge the work more rapidly than we could possibly enlarge the receipts at once, but now our receipts each month approximate the expenditures; in some instances excel them. At the present rate of growth we shall soon be able to finance the work in a somewhat worthy manner. We are fighting the combined money power of the liquor interests of America, but $1 spent in our cause will go further than thousands spent in the slush fund of the brewers.

COMPENSATION OF THE WORKERS.

Every one giving his time to the services of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas is paid a fixed salary, no more, no less.

The work is done on a genuinely sacrificial basis. In every good cause "the laborer is worthy of his hire." There is not now nor will there be at any time any extravagance in the handling of the funds which our people sacrificially, but voluntarily and joyfully, contribute to the enlightenment and liberation of Texas, the United States and the world from the bondage of the sin and death of the liquor traffic. We are not at all surprised nor disturbed that the lecherous liquor traffic which makes common barter of ballots, bathes its hands in blood and rolls in rotterness, charges us with graft and challenges our right to contribute to our hardly and honestly earned and God-given means to destroy its work of darkness. We will defy the unclean thing and answer that we have as much right to give our money to prevent the making of orphans as we have to feed the orphans of its making; to save our boys and girls from its deadly clutch as to heal the hearts broken and solace the sorrows caused and feed the bums produced by the saloon—the chief manifestation of the works of the devil in this present day.

AS TO PROHIBITION AND PREPAREDNESS.

In our American life a great question has sprung to the fore. It is the question of preparedness. It is a matter about which much has been said and written. We do not speak of it lightly, but soberly. It is a question of tremendous import. It involves the traditions and doctrines of the past and the ideals and the hopes of the future of our government. Upon the president's program for preparedness we as a league have no opinion. Like the Apostle Paul in the olden days, we say, "This one thing we do." Whatever our opinions as individuals upon this or any other great public question, this league can have no opinion unless such question shall involve one way or another the perpetuation or destruction of the liquor traffic. But suppose we should unhappily be drawn into the world-wide conflagration, or suppose the present punitive expedition into Mexico for the protection of the property and life of our citizens should develop into war with Mexico, or suppose we should be drawn into war at any time with any nation, of what use would be any amount of armament and munitions unless we had sober, alert, capable men to use them? A few nights ago several of our soldiers from Fort Sam Houston were observed walking, or rather staggering through the streets of San Antonio as drunk as lords. The feeling was irresistible that they would not be much either for offensive or defensive warfare. Russia never did a wiser thing than when she abolished the sale of vodka on the same day that she mobilized her troops for this great world-wide war. Her experience with drunken soldiers in her war with Japan taught her her lesson. See what a marvelous record she has made. If it be said that Germany has done great execution and that Germany is a beer drinking nation, let it be answered that Germany has been powerful despite her beer, not because of it. It will be recalled that for years before the war the Kaiser, the university professors and students, and other leading spirits in Germany were fighting the drink habit among Germans and that both before the war and since the drinking habit in Germany has greatly diminished. Compare the execution done by sober Russia with that done by drunken Russia and you will have a safe criterion by which to judge. No drunken nation can cope with a sober nation of equal strength either in war or industry. In this day of forty-two centimeters, armored automobiles and aeroplanes, the nation that goes to battle drunk will be whipped to a frazzle; the nation that goes out sober will win. We are for preparedness; close up the saloons.

The crowning feature of this kind of preparedness is, it is just as valuable if we don't have war as if we do have war. It is preparedness for the peaceful pursuits of life by which we are to fell forests, till the fields, mine and mill the ores, dig for the oil and gas, build the factories, run the railroads, and promote the life and liberty, the health and happiness, the peace and prosperity of our people through centuries to come. This is one piece of preparedness that will not be outclassed by invention nor go to the junk heap because it is out of date.

WAR DECLARED ON THE "PEACE HAT"

War on the "peace hat," a late creation in spring millinery, is an imminent possibility. Women friends of the birds declare the dove with which the hat is trimmed must go before they will set the hat on their fair heads. They are for peace, they declare, but they say they will not advertise their principles at the price of an innocent bird's life.

Privately, those who are advocating the wearing of the "peace hat" have confessed that the alleged "dove" is not a "real-for-sure" dove at all. They say it is made of chicken feathers. Nevertheless the bird champions declare it looks like a real dove and they will not wear it. So there!

The subject has been brought to the attention of the National Association of Audubon Societies of America, the last authority on bird protection. The society is making a vigorous fight against the use of bird plumage for hat trimmings. Secretary Pearson says if the alleged "bird" is the body of a real dove, the Audubon authorities certainly are against its use in millinery.

"As long as they make these 'doves' out of the feathers of domestic birds, there can certainly be no objection to women wearing them," said Mr. Pearson, "unless perhaps it may be said that by doing so they are encouraging the general subject of feather-wearing.

"The feathers of wild birds cannot be obtained unless birds are killed," said Mr. Pearson, "and therefore should never be worn; on the other hand, ostrich feathers are legitimate as well as beautiful decorations and are approved by the Audubon societies."

Attractive Program Is Given by Pupils Miss Zuma Wallace

Quite a number of friends gathered at the studio of Miss Zuma Wallace, 2706 Gorman street, yesterday afternoon for the recital by the piano and voice pupils in Miss Wallace's classes. The audience proved quite an appreciative one and the pupils performed in a manner to deserve the appreciative manner in which their work was received. After the regular program Prof. Anton Navratil, instructor in violin at Baylor university, played three special numbers to the delight of those present.

The piano pupils among the younger set, who appeared on the program, were Francis Wallace, Inez Ingram, Frances Barnes, Gordon Hill, Mildred Cheek, Ina May Link, and Bernard Ginsberg, while the older and more advanced piano pupils were Misses Ella Dorbitz, Lillian Starr, Ruth Levinski, Helen Goodman, Edith Adelman and Helen Owen. The voice pupils who sang on this occasion were Misses Ella Dorbitz, Annie Mullens, Marjorie Kendrick and Mrs. M. T. Bell, Marshall Thompson and O. N. Redman.

RIFLE USED FOR KILLING RATS IS DEATH INSTRUMENT

G. W. Coleman, aged 62 years, resident of Concord, died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at a local sanitarium from injuries sustained Tuesday afternoon when he was accidentally shot with a small-calibre rifle. After hunting rats with a rifle in the yard of his residence at Concord, Mr. Coleman returned to the house. His rifle was still loaded and it came in contact with the door, discharging the bullet which took effect in Mr. Coleman's abdomen. He was taken to a local hospital, where an operation followed.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the mortuary chapel of the L. C. Puckett Undertaking establishment, with interment at the Concord cemetery.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

ASSETS $3,000,000.00.

BAYLOR WOMEN IN PRO ESSAY CONTEST

CO-EDS ENTER THE FIELD OF ORATORY IN PROHIBITION CONTEST.

W. C. T. U. IS TO GIVE PRIZES

Returning Convention Speakers Will Make Chapel Addresses Tomorrow.

Heretofore, all the speaking contests at Baylor have been mainly among the young men's societies, but there will be held in chapel on Thursday night, March 30, a young women's essay contest.

This contest will be the delivering of essays on "Prohibition" by young women entered for the speaking. These will be Misses Mae Cagle, Landis Barton, Roma Wilson and Edna Payne. Miss Cagle entered in the preliminary prohibition contest last year and won second place, speaking against some of the best talent among the men. She went to Georgetown and represented Baylor in the state contest there, and her speech was enjoyed immensely by all those who heard her. Miss Roma Wilson is one of the senior pupils of Miss Myrtle Thompson, in the department of expression, and has been heard several times in recitals by that class. Misses Barton and Payne are both very active workers among the young women's societies at Baylor and have been among the highest ranking students in manuscript work. So with these it is expected that a most interesting contest will be held.

The local W. C. T. U. has offered a prize, which is to be a gold medal, to the winner here, and this one will represent Baylor in the state meet to be held at Waxahachie, at Trinity university. The prize for this occasion will be $20.

Dean J. L. Kesler of the college, with a large number of students, is in Fort Worth, attending the convention of Young People's association work. This convention is something on the order of Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. work, but on a general plan and a larger scale. About thirty students are attending and Dean Kesler will speak while there.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT CHAPEL HOUR TOMORROW.

Tomorrow, as the speakers are returning from the convention, Baylor will have Dr. W. R. Cullom, professor of Bible at Wake Forest college, as one of the chapel speakers. He is a scholar of wide reputation. He will take part of the hour and the remainder will be given to Dr. W. B. Spillman, who is a well known Sunday school worker. Dr. Spillman has been a pleasant speaker to Baylor audiences many times and the students are delighted to have him again. The other visitor of the day will be President C. Cottingham of Louisiana Baptist college, at Pineville, La. He is known as one of the strongest men in his state and is said to be doing great work in connection with his school.

The people of Waco are cordially invited to the chapel exercises tomorrow.

During the evening of Friday and yesterday, Baylor was at home to the visitors in attendance at the interscholastic meet held here at the university. The declamation contests and spelling bees were held in the chapel and the athletic contests on Carroll field and in Minglewood park. The meet was for the county division of the state interscholastic meet held every year at the University of Texas, and there were several of the McLennan county schools represeneed.

The museum, which had been arranged for visitors by placing in new displays, was open all day yesterday.

The cafeteria at Baylor is steadily gaining in popularity since its opening and is rated one of the attractive places in the city for a quiet place for meals. The people of Waco are patronizing it extensively for informal dinner parties and on Sunday afternoons many automobiles line the curbs on each side of Speight street during the supper hour. Mrs. Sarah Collins has been doing much here of late for the betterment of the conveniences there and it has rapidly improved since the opening.

U. S. DETECTIVES TRAIL "BLUCHER," CANADA INVADER

Count Gebhard von Blucher.

With operatives of the department of justice trailing him constantly, "Count Gebhard von Blucher," erstwhile promoter of a magical aeroplane company, is in a fair way to be arrested by federal authorities on the charge of violation of neutrality He recently confided to a friend the details of an alleged plan for the invasion of Canada, and declared that there are now in this country 108,000 German soldiers ready for the invasion.

Another Sanger Buyer Visits the New York Corps

M. Fromm, buyer and manager for the Sanger Brothers ready-to-wear department, including women's and misses' dresses, suits, waists, skirts, petticoats, kimonos and children's dresses, etc., left yesterday afternoon for New York City on the second buying trip of the season.

The fact that both Mr. Fromm and Miss Huthmacher, who left last Saturday, are making the second trip to market so early in the season is an indication of the splendid business that the Sanger store is enjoying this season. The displays of women's and misses' and children's apparel that were presented at the magnificent formal opening and fashion show at the Sanger store at the beginning of this month revealed more merchandise than has ever before been offered at the beginning of any season, and notwithstanding this fact, these buyers are again in the markets in less than one month after the opening. Mr. Fromm stated yesterday that he would reach New York early next week and would immediately select and express new dresses, waists, skirts and other new styles in apparel to Waco. Sanger Brothers of Texas send more buyers to market each season than any other one store in the entire South, and of late these buyers have been making two and three trips a season.

Sanger Brothers are perhaps the only store in the South that maintain their own individual New York offices, presided over by a member of the firm and employing corps of New York resident buyers who do nothing else year in and year out but select merchandise for the Sanger store. The local buyers who keep in close touch with what the people of this section want and desire, make their special trips in order that the firm may in the selection of its merchandise render the best personal service to its patrons.

It is a true saying and one that is heard almost every day, that one always sees something new at Sanger's, no matter in what department you may look.

In a large announcement in the News today Sanger Brothers announce the addition of another department on their third floor. Automatic refrigerators are to be placed on display and sale in this new department A new and novel feature in connection with the introduction of this department is found in the announcement to the effect that free ice books for 500 and 1000 pounds of ice on the Geyser Ice company will be presented absolutely free with each refrigerator bought. The announcement states that the Automatic refrigerator uses less ice than any other refrigerator and to demonstrate this fact, Sanger Brothers are to furnish the first ice free. Aside from the fact that the firm wishes to demonstrate the fact that Automatic refrigerators use less ice, the giving of ice books with refrigerators is a new and most novel feature for Waco.

Giant Boy Scout Campaign Sign at Goldstein-Migel Co.

"Teaching Loyalty, Patriotism and Obedience" is the wording on the top of a sign, 10 by 12 feet, which was placed on top of the awning of the Goldstein-Migel building, Sixth and Austin streets, yesterday afternoon, to advertise the $10,000 campaign for local Boy Scouts which will start tomorrow morning. In the central part of the sign is the life-size picture of a Boy Scout in uniform with movable metal arms and a semaphore flag in each hand. On the left-hand side of the sign are the figures running from $1,000 to $5,000 and on the right-hand side are the figures running from $6,000 to $10,000. As the fund enlarges the movable arms will go toward the $10,000 mark.

The Scout motto, "Be Prepared," is placed in the left-hand corner of the sign and the Scout daily habit, "Do a Good Turn Daily," is at the right-hand corner. The bottom of the sign bears these words: "Boy Scout Financial Campaign, March 27, 28, 29. Ten thousand dollars for three years for 1,500 boys. Do it for Waco."

Delay may be fatal. Insure your property today. Rikers & Gantt, fire insurance, 1343 new phone.—Adv.

IN THE WACO CHURCHES

Religious Services in the City Today

Turner Street Baptist.

W. P. Meroney, pastor.

Rev. C. B. Jackson will preach at 11 a. m. and Rev. W. B. Holland will preach at night on "The Duty of This Church to Its Members, to Itself and to the Denomination." The revival meeting which has been in progress for four weeks will continue for another week, if not longer. There have been thirty-one additions to date, and there is much concern on the part of many unsaved and the backsliders. Rev. Mr. Holland, the pastor of the First Baptist church of McGregor, is aiding the pastor in the meeting and will preach through next week.

Provident Heights Baptist.

Attendance steadily increases at both Sunday school and church at Provident Heights. Bible school at 9:45 and preaching at 11 and 8. B. Y. P. U. at 7 p. m. "The Blessing of the Lord Maketh Rich" is the theme of Rev. H. H. Street, the pastor.

First Baptist Church.

Today at the First Baptist church the people of Waco have in store a great treat, as they will have an opportunity of hearing two very prominent and able ministers of the Baptist faith, Dr. John R. Sampey of Louisville, Ky., an instructor in the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, will preach at the 11 o'clock service while at night at 8 o'clock Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, editor of the Watchman-Examiner of New York City, will preach. Dr. Laws is an eloquent speaker and a man of broad scholarship and we are indeed fortunate in having with us and to preach for us two such men.

Our pastor, Rev. J. M. Dawson, returns tonight from Fort Worth, where he delivers an address today, and will be with us Sunday.

The leader of the choir, Prof. J. M. Evans, has some fine special numbers. The choir will sing "My Song Shall Be of Mercy," by Ashford; also Mrs. Rousseau and Professor Evans will sing a duet at the morning service. At night the choir will sing "In Thee I Put My Trust," by Petrie; also Miss Foscue will sing a solo.

The Bible school meets at 9:30 a. m. You and your friends are invited to worship with us at all the above services.

Seventh and James Street Baptist.

Sunday school 9:30. Special rally day. Preaching 11 a. m. and 7.45 p. m. by Pastor W. W. Melton. Special music at each service. N. V. Morgan, leader.

Herring Avenue Methodist.

Preaching by the pastor, R. F. Brown, both morning and evening. The subject of the morning hour is "Regeneration, or the New Birth" which is the fourth sermon in a series of doctrinal sermons. Special music at both services. Sunday school at 9:45, S. E. Schaefer, superintendent. The hour of the evening service is 7:45. The choir will be led by the director of music, Mrs. Schaefer.

Morrow Street Methodist.

The pastor, Rev. H. L. Munger, will preach at 11 a. m. on the subject "Acres of Diamonds" and at 7.45 on "The Tragedy of the Human Will." Special music. Church, corner Morrow and North 11th streets.

Elm Street Methodist.

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.

Preaching 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Morning subject, "The Greatest Question of the Day, Preparedness" At night the subject, "The Greatest Banquet of Any Day." You are invited to attend. Rev. J. A. Whitehurst is to assist the pastor through the week in revival services. Services at 7:45 p. m.

Scandinavian Methodist.

Corner North Tenth and Vermont streets; take North Ninth car. Morning services will begin at 11 o'clock and evening services at 7:30. "The Benefit of Godliness" will be the subject of the evening sermon and conducted in the Swedish language by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Hamilton. Pastor Hamilton arrived home last week from Fort Worth and Dallas, where he has been conducting revival meetings, and reports spiritual and successful meetings.

We extend a cordial invitation to all Sandinvalans in Waco to attend our church and you will always receive a glad hand by friends and members of our congregation.

Supt. C. A. Ryden of the Sunday school has an enthusiastic membership of Sunday school workers and send your children, who will at all times be made to feel welcome. All classes conducted in English.

Central Christian.

Eleventh and Washington.

At 10:45 the pastor will begin a series of special studies of the "Sermon on the Mount." At 7:45 the theme will be "Why the Church?" An offering will be taken for state missions during the day.

Bible school 9:30 a. m.; 325 expected.

Central Presbyterian.

The pastor, Rev. E. E. Ingram, will preach at both services today. 'Man's Best Friend and His Worst Enemy," will be the subject of the sermon at night. At the night service Miss Dana Clark will render a violin solo.

Sunday school at 9:30 and Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m.

St. Paul's Episcopal.

The services today at St. Paul's Episcopal church consist of Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.; Sunday school at 9:30, with a short address by Bishop J. R. Winchester of Arkansas, who is holding the mission at St. Paul's; morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock, sermon by Dr. Winchester; special men's services at 3:30 p. m.; confirmation lecture at 4:30 p. m.; evening services and sermon at 8 o'clock, the closing service of the present mission.

At the special men's meeting at 3:30 p. m. a duet will be rendered by Early Busby and J. D. Isaacks; the men's quartet, consisting of Early Busby, J. M. Evans, Howell James and J. D. Isaacks will also render a selection.

At the evening service at 8 o'clock, Miss Sallie Keith will render a soprano solo.

Bishop Winchester is one of the most gifted speakers of the Episcopal church and a cordial invitation is extended the general public to attend the beautiful services at St. Paul's today.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" IF CROSS, BILIOUS OR FEVERISH.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs"; then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

IN THE WACO CHURCHES

Religious Services in the City Today

Turner Street Baptist.

W. P. Meroney, pastor.

Rev. C. B. Jackson will preach at 11 a. m. and Rev. W. B. Holland will preach at night on "The Duty of This Church to Its Members, to Itself and to the Denomination." The revival meeting which has been in progress for four weeks will continue for another week, if not longer. There have been thirty-one additions to date, and there is much concern on the part of many unsaved and the backsliders. Rev. Mr. Holland, the pastor of the First Baptist church of McGregor, is aiding the pastor in the meeting and will preach through next week.

Provident Heights Baptist.

Attendance steadily increases at both Sunday school and church at Provident Heights. Bible school at 9:45 and preaching at 11 and 8. B. Y. P. U. at 7 p. m. "The Blessing of the Lord Maketh Rich" is the theme of Rev. H. H. Street, the pastor.

First Baptist Church.

Today at the First Baptist church the people of Waco have in store a great treat, as they will have an opportunity of hearing two very prominent and able ministers of the Baptist faith, Dr. John R. Sampey of Louisville, Ky., an instructor in the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, will preach at the 11 o'clock service while at night at 8 o'clock Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, editor of the Watchman-Examiner of New York City, will preach. Dr. Laws is an eloquent speaker and a man of broad scholarship and we are indeed fortunate in having with us and to preach for us two such men.

Our pastor, Rev. J. M. Dawson, returns tonight from Fort Worth, where he delivers an address today, and will be with us Sunday.

The leader of the choir, Prof. J. M. Evans, has some fine special numbers. The choir will sing "My Song Shall Be of Mercy," by Ashford; also Mrs. Rousseau and Professor Evans will sing a duet at the morning service. At night the choir will sing "In Thee I Put My Trust," by Petrie; also Miss Foscue will sing a solo.

The Bible school meets at 9:30 a. m. You and your friends are invited to worship with us at all the above services.

Seventh and James Street Baptist.

Sunday school 9:30. Special rally day. Preaching 11 a. m. and 7.45 p. m. by Pastor W. W. Melton. Special music at each service. N. V. Morgan, leader.

Herring Avenue Methodist.

Preaching by the pastor, R. F. Brown, both morning and evening. The subject of the morning hour is "Regeneration, or the New Birth" which is the fourth sermon in a series of doctrinal sermons. Special music at both services. Sunday school at 9:45, S. E. Schaefer, superintendent. The hour of the evening service is 7:45. The choir will be led by the director of music, Mrs. Schaefer.

Morrow Street Methodist.

The pastor, Rev. H. L. Munger, will preach at 11 a. m. on the subject "Acres of Diamonds" and at 7:45 on "The Tragedy of the Human Will." Special music. Church, corner Morrow and North 11th streets.

Elm Street Methodist.

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.

Preaching 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Morning subject, "The Greatest Question of the Day, Preparedness" At night the subject, "The Greatest Banquet of Any Day." You are invited to attend. Rev. J. A. Whitehurst is to assist the pastor through the week in revival services. Services at 7:45 p. m.

Scandinavian Methodist.

Corner North Tenth and Vermont streets; take North Ninth car. Morning services will begin at 11 o'clock and evening services at 7:30. "The Benefit of Godliness" will be the subject of the evening sermon and conducted in the Swedish language by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Hamilton. Pastor Hamilton arrived home last week from Fort Worth and Dallas, where he has been conducting revival meetings, and reports spiritual and successful meetings.

We extend a cordial invitation to all Sandinvaians in Waco to attend our church and you will always receive a glad hand by friends and members of our congregation.

Supt. C. A. Ryden of the Sunday school has an enthusiastic membership of Sunday school workers and send your children, who will at all times be made to feel welcome. All classes conducted in English.

Central Christian.

Eleventh and Washington.

At 10:45 the pastor will begin a series of special studies of the "Sermon on the Mount." At 7:45 the theme will be "Why the Church?" An offering will be taken for state missions during the day.

BAYLOR WOMEN IN PRO ESSAY CONTEST

CO-EDS ENTER THE FIELD OF ORATORY IN PROHIBITION CONTEST.

W. C. T. U. IS TO GIVE PRIZES

Returning Convention Speakers Will Make Chapel Addresses Tomorrow.

Heretofore, all the speaking contests at Baylor have been mainly among the young men's societies, but there will be held in chapel on Thursday night, March 30, a young women's essay contest.

This contest will be the delivering of essays on "Prohibition" by young women entered for the speaking. These will be Misses Mae Cagle, Landis Barton, Roma Wilson and Edna Payne. Miss Cagle entered in the preliminary prohibition contest last year and won second place, speaking against some of the best talent among the men. She went to Georgetown and represented Baylor in the state contest there, and her speech was enjoyed immensely by all those who heard her. Miss Roma Wilson is one of the senior pupils of Miss Myrtle Thompson, in the department of expression, and has been heard several times in recitals by that class. Misses Barton and Payne are both very active workers among the young women's societies at Baylor and have been among the highest ranking students in manuscript work. So with these it is expected that a most interesting contest will be held.

The local W. C. T. U. has offered a prize, which is to be a gold medal, to the winner here, and this one will represent Baylor in the state meet to be held at Waxahachie, at Trinity university. The prize for this occasion will be $20.

Dean J. L. Kesler of the college, with a large number of students, is in Fort Worth, attending the convention of Young People's association work. This convention is something on the order of Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. work, but on a general plan and a larger scale. About thirty students are attending and Dean Kesler will speak while there.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT CHAPEL HOUR TOMORROW.

Tomorrow, as the speakers are returning from the convention, Baylor will have Dr. W. R. Cullom, professor of Bible at Wake Forest college, as one of the chapel speakers. He is a scholar of wide reputation. He will take part of the hour and the remainder will be given to Dr. W. B. Spillman, who is a well known Sunday school worker. Dr. Spillman has been a pleasant speaker to Baylor audiences many times and the students are delighted to have him again. The other visitor of the day will be President C. Cottingham of Louisiana Baptist college, at Pineville, La. He is known as one of the strongest men in his state and is said to be doing great work in connection with his school.

The people of Waco are cordially invited to the chapel exercises tomorrow.

During the evening of Friday and yesterday, Baylor was at home to the visitors in attendance at the interscholastic meet held here at the university. The declamation contests and spelling bees were held in the chapel and the athletic contests on Carroll field and in Minglewood park. The meet was for the county division of the state interscholastic meet held every year at the University of Texas, and there were several of the McLennan county schools represeneed.

The museum, which had been arranged for visitors by placing in new displays, was open all day yesterday.

The cafeteria at Baylor is steadily gaining in popularity since its opening and is rated one of the attractive places in the city for a quiet place for meals. The people of Waco are patronizing it extensively for informal dinner parties and on Sunday afternoons many automobiles line the curbs on each side of Speight street during the supper hour. Mrs. Sarah Collins has been doing much here of late for the betterment of the conveniences there and it has rapidly improved since the opening.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

U. S. DETECTIVES TRAIL "BLUCHER," CANADA INVADER

Count Gebhard von Blucher.

With operatives of the department of justice trailing him constantly, "Count Gebhard von Blucher," erstwhile promoter of a magical aeroplane company, is in a fair way to be arrested by federal authorities on the charge of violation of neutrality. He recently confided to a friend the details of an alleged plan for the invasion of Canada, and declared that there are now in this country 108,000 German soldiers ready for the invasion.

Another Sanger Buyer Visits the New York Corps

M. Fromm, buyer and manager for the Sanger Brothers ready-to-wear department, including women's and misses' dresses, suits, waists, skirts, petticoats, kimonos and children's dresses, etc., left yesterday afternoon for New York City on the second buying trip of the season.

The fact that both Mr. Fromm and Miss Huthmacher, who left last Saturday, are making the second trip to market so early in the season is an indication of the splendid business that the Sanger store is enjoying this season. The displays of women's and misses' and children's apparel that were presented at the magnificent formal opening and fashion show at the Sanger store at the beginning of this month revealed more merchandise than has ever before been offered at the beginning of any season, and notwithstanding this fact, these buyers are again in the markets in less than one month after the opening. Mr. Fromm stated yesterday that he would reach New York early next week and would immediately select and express new dresses, waists, skirts and other new styles in apparel to Waco. Sanger Brothers of Texas send more buyers to market each season than any other one store in the entire South, and of late these buyers have been making two and three trips a season.

Sanger Brothers are perhaps the only store in the South that maintain their own individual New York offices, presided over by a member of the firm and employing corps of New York resident buyers who do nothing else year in and year out but select merchandise for the Sanger store. The local buyers who keep in close touch with what the people of this section want and desire, make their special trips in order that the firm may in the selection of its merchandise render the best personal service to its patrons.

It is a true saying and one that is heard almost every day, that one always sees something new at Sanger's, no matter in what department you may look.

In a large announcement in the News today Sanger Brothers announce the addition of another department on their third floor. Automatic refrigerators are to be placed on display and sale in this new department. A new and novel feature in connection with the introduction of this department is found in the announcement to the effect that free ice books for 500 and 1000 pounds of ice on the Geyser Ice company will be presented absolutely free with each refrigerator bought. The announcement states that the Automatic refrigerator uses less ice than any other refrigerator and to demonstrate this fact, Sanger Brothers are to furnish the first ice free. Aside from the fact that the firm wishes to demonstrate the fact that Automatic refrigerators use less ice, the giving of ice books with refrigerators is a new and most novel feature for Waco.

Giant Boy Scout Campaign Sign at Goldstein-Migel Co.

"Teaching Loyalty, Patriotism and Obedience" is the wording on the top of a sign, 10 by 12 feet, which was placed on top of the awning of the Goldstein-Migel building, Sixth and Austin streets, yesterday afternoon, to advertise the $10,000 campaign for local Boy Scouts which will start tomorrow morning. In the central part of the sign is the life-size picture of a Boy Scout in uniform with movable metal arms and a semaphore flag in each hand. On the left-hand side of the sign are the figures running from $1,000 to $5,000 and on the right-hand side are the figures running from $6,000 to $10,000. As the fund enlarges the movable arms will go toward the $10,000 mark.

The Scout motto, "Be Prepared," is placed in the left-hand corner of the sign and the Scout daily habit, "Do a Good Turn Daily," is at the right-hand corner. The bottom of the sign bears these words: "Boy Scout Financial Campaign, March 27, 28, 29. Ten thousand dollars for three years for 1,500 boys. Do it for Waco."

MANY ENTRANTS FOR ORATORICAL HONORS COUNTY YESTERDAY

Miss Mertys Cook of West won first place yesterday morning in the senior girls' declamation contest of the annual McLennan county scholastic meet, which was held at Baylor university. Second place was won by Miss Metta Mae Thomas of Mart and third place went to Miss Leona Craine from McGregor.

First place in the senior boys' declamation contest went to John Kosthhyz of West, second place to Leon Smith of Mart, third place to Bryan Cunningham of McGregor and fourth place to John Ashburn of Bruceville.

Miss Etta Nance of McGregor took first place in the junior girls' declamation contest and second place was won by Miss Eloise Henderson of Mart. Miss Angeline Aderhold of West won third place.

Ellis Durham, a 13-year-old boy from Mart, won the junior boys' declamation contest over two other contestants. Twelve schools participated in the spelling match. The girls representing the Hillside school won the match.

All events in class A of the scholastic track meet went to Mart by default. All events of class B went to Taylor of Bruceville and the junior class events were won by Lester Bells of the Concord school. A cash prize of $5 which was to have been given the athlete holding the largest number of points was divided among the best men in classes A and E and the juniors.

Grand Jury Adjourns Till Next Wednesday

The grand jury adjourned yesterday at noon until next Wednesday. No additional indictments to those given out last Wednesday were returned by the body on adjournment.

The jury in the case of J. J. Futch vs. Charles Sanger in the Nineteenth district court was excused yesterday. The suit was for the cancellation of a deed.

A hung jury was reported yesterday afternoon in the case of the State vs. Ardrick Kinney for burglary in the Fifty-fourth court.

The case of Summers vs. Wilson in the Seventy-fourth district court is still on trial. Summers is suing for damages for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

After having been convicted of speeding and appealed his case, Fred Hodges pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon and was given a fine of $5.

Be Sure You Get 'G-E-T-S--I-T' for Your Corns

Don't Let Any One Deceive You By Handing You Something Else for Corns.

There are imitations of "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn-cure, that are trying to "cash in" on "Gets-It" success by deceit and by names that sound like "Gets-It." Notice how it's spelled, "G-E-T-S—I-T."

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, If You Used 'Gets-It' for Those Corns!"

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It', it's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses."

It's an insult to your intelligence for any one to hand you an imitation. Accept no substitutes; get "Gets-It."

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

CHOSING THEME FOR COMPOSING MUSIC

MANAGER OF NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA SAYS IT IS TEMPERAMENTAL.

This Great Symphonic Orchestra Will Play in Waco at Cotton Palace Coliseum May 3.

"Choosing a subject for a musical composition," said Felix F. Leifels, manager of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, which will play in Waco on May 3, matinee and night, "is largely a matter of temperament. With the master minds of music, the tone artists of genius, it is called inspiration.

"As a wonderful romance or tragic tale of love inspires the poet to verse, so the musician feels himself called upon to portray the emotions and passions in his language of tones, produced through the medium of the modern symphonic orchestra.

"Berlioz found inspiration for a symphony in the tale of Shakespeare's ill-starred lovers, Romeo and Juliet, and again in the "Divina Commedia" of Dante. Tschaikowsky chose the sombre subject of Manfred for a wonderful symphonic interpretation. What more beautiful illustration than Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony" with its babbling and gurgling brook and its portrayal, musically, of a rustic festivity, interrupted by a thunderstorm. Richard Strauss has created tone poems on subjects like Don Juan, Don Quixote, Zarathustra, and the merry pranks of the Court Jester, Till Eulenspiegel. Gustav Mahler, who preceded Josef Stransky as the conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, composed eight symphonies, all on special programs, and often expressed the wish that he might be known to posterity as the composer whose greatest renown had been gained by portraying the beauties of nature in music form.

AMERICAN COMPOSERS IN PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA.

"Hear America First" has not as yet become as popular and prevalent a slogan as "See America First," but there is no doubt that with the gradual maturation of these United States, the American composer will come more to the forefront.

This is shown best of all, perhaps, by the fact that the New York Philharmonic orchestra, America's oldest musical institution of that nature, now in its seventy-fourth season, gives special consideration in its programs to American composers.

In its program scheme for this season are to be found the names of MacDowell, Rubin Goldmark, Seth Bingham, David Stanley Smith, Cornelius Rubner, Edmund Severn, A. Walter Kramer and Fritz Stahlberg.

Tyler Man Comes to Waco to Take Work With Cotton Belt

W. G. Kortmann of Tyler has been appointed traveling freight agent for the Cotton Belt with headquarters here, succeeding R. V. Dover, who will leave for San Antonio Friday to accept position as assistant to Traffic Manager U. S. Pawkett of the freight department of that city. Mr. Dover has been connected with the Cotton Belt for five years and since 1912 has been traveling freight agent. His territory in the last few months has been in South Texas.

Mr. Kortmann has been employed in the general freight offices of the Cotton Belt for several years and is at present soliciting freight agent for the road at Tyler.

E. C. STREET GIVES MESSAGE ON RACE FOR DIST. JUDGE

To the People of McLennan County:

Having made my announcement as a candidate for district judge, to succeed Hon. Tom L. McCullough, I feel that it would not be improper at this time to make mention of a few of the considerations that have prompted me to enter this race.

I was born and raised in Marshall county, Alabama, and came to Texas and settled at Waco fifteen years ago, and have never had occasion to regret the choice of a new home.

My academic and legal education was procured at the University of Alabama and at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., to which I refer merely that the voters of this county may know that I have at least had good educational opportunities.

Whether these opportunities have been taken advantage of, I ask that the people of this county advise themselves by investigating my standing at the Waco bar.

As is well known to the people of this county, when our regular judges are for any reason recused from trying a particular case, or, when on account of sickness they are compelled to be absent from their usual duties, lawyers of the Waco bar are permitted to elect one from their number to sit as special judge.

It was about ten years ago that I was first elected special judge of the county court, at which time I presided for a period of about two months.

Since this occasion, I have been repeatedly honored by successive elections, having served, perhaps during the past ten years, as much as once each year, in some one of the courts of McLennan county, including the Nineteenth judicial district, the position which I now seek.

During this time there have been tried, and disposed of, before me as special judge, many cases, some of which have been appealed to the higher courts of the state for revision.

The success which I have had while serving in this capacity is known to those with whom I have been thrown, and had not the success been favorable, I take it but a fair conclusion that I would not have been repeatedly selected by the members of the bar to discharge these important duties.

I have a natural distaste for anything that would make me appear to be boastful of the work that I have done, and in this instance, am referring to these matters only for the purpose of inviting inquiry on the part of those who may read this to ascertain whether or not I am qualified for the position which I now seek, as this, to my mind, is the first consideration which should prompt the action of a voter in casting his ballot which should be cast in all instances with reference to efficiency and ability, rather than with reference to personal friendship.

Having come to Texas after I had attained my majority, I find myself at this time without the support of my boyhood friends, whose interest upon occasions of this kind always goes far towards contributing to one's success.

The friends I have met in McLennan county have been made since I came to Waco, and I wish to impress upon those who can lend me their support, that they must take the place of my boyhood friends, if I am to find myself with the support so necessary to my success.

It is needless for me to say that I will appreciate the support of all those who see fit to assist me at this time. These would be mere empty words, and whether or not I would appreciate same, and whether or not I am worthy of the support and confidence of the voters of McLennan county, I leave for those who know me best to answer.

Respectfully submitted,
E. C. STREET.

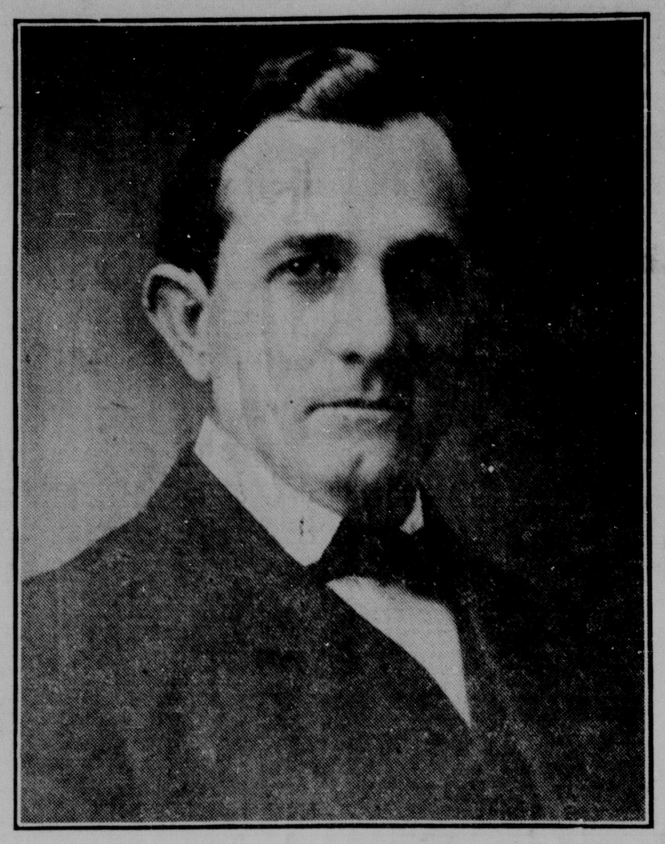
N. P. 562 125 S. 8th St.

Hon. Tom Connally, Candidate for Congress, Gives His Opinions on Vital Political Issues of the Day



TOM CONNALLY.

To the Democrats of the Eleventh Congressional District:

Some time ago I formally announced my candidacy for congress from the Eleventh district of Texas, and at this time I desire to give expression to my views on some of the public questions now before the people.

1. I favor a policy of national "preparedness." If now in congress I should support the program of the president. One of the primary duties of the government is to afford security and protection to its citizens in their lawful pursuits and to protect its territory. To accomplish these results the United States should build, man and equip a navy commensurate with our national dignity and world position and adequate to defend our extended coasts. The number of submarines should be increased. The fortifications of the Panama canal should be made as nearly impregnable as skill and science render possible. A standing army of the proportions of those of the European countries is not necessary, and I do not favor the maintenance of a large standing army in time of peace.

2. The coast defenses of the United States should be strengthened and improved with the latest and most approved ordnance equipment.

3. The United States should provide and maintain its own arsenals and munition plants and should keep on hand ammunition, military and naval equipment, and stores, in sufficient quantities to equip a large volunteer army as soon as mobilized. Our experience in the Spanish war revealed the fact that for lack of arms and equipment it took several months to make effective the small number of troops then called into the service.

4. The federal government should make liberal appropriations for the militia of the several states, so that the militia in case of a national crisis could be prepared to augment the regular army for immediate service, until a larger force could be mobilized and put in the field.

5. We are a peace loving nation and do not desire war, but covet the friendship of all nations, but I deem the policy of "Safety First" an important question before the people of the United States, and it is our solemn duty to adopt measures to insure the national safety; not for war, but for peace; not for offense, but for defense; not for conquest, but to preserve the principles of free government for ourselves and our American neighbors to the south.

6. The United States should, in cooperation with other nations, inaugurate a movement for the establishment of an international court for the adjudication of international disputes and the enforcement of its decisions. Upon the successful establishment of such a system the necessity for heavy armament would disappear, but until this ideal condition is realized, I favor adequate naval and military preparation.

7. The currency legislation recently enacted has proven successful for the purpose for which it was devised. I favor the establishment of a system of land banks based on the same general principle, for the purpose of loaning money on and rediscounting land paper secured by lien on farm lands, on long time and at the lowest possible interest rate. If the reserve banks are able to loan money on commercial paper at three, three and one-half or four per cent and make a substantial profit, it would seem that farm loans could be so standardized that approved farm loans, guaranteed by land banks, could be negotiated at interest rates of five or six per cent. As the number of home owners increases, so do the wealth, contentment, and prosperity of the people, but at the present high rate of interest and the high price of land, it is difficult for farmers to acquire and pay for land out of its products, while a reduced rate of interest will greatly stimulate the purchase of land by those who use it.

8. The tariff laws enacted by a democratic congress should not be "tinkered with" at this time. A tariff for revenue only and equitably distributed on imports has ever been the slogan of the democratic party and I favor adherence to this traditional policy.

9. For the immediate need of more revenue I favor an increase of the surtax on incomes and the taxation of all incomes in excess of $3,000 instead of $4,000 as now provided by law. I also favor the imposition of a graduated inheritance tax on all inheritances in excess of a reasonable minimum, whether direct or collateral.

10. The steady increase in federal pension appropriations should be stopped and a systematic shake up of the pension office should be had, and a rigid investigation of the pension rolls should be made, and all fraudulent and illegal pensions should be stricken from the rolls. I favor sweeping reforms in the pension laws, to eliminate the extravagance and waste in this department, I am opposed to the system of private pension bills.

11. The government is committed to the improvement of rivers and harbors and inland waterways, including the Brazos river. Work on the Brazos is now in progress and I shall favor its continuance toward the improvement of the stream for the purpose of making it navigable and in order to prevent overflows and inundations.

12. In the interest of American commerce I am in favor of legislation encouraging and fostering a merchant marine to bear our products to market in time of peace, and to serve as an auxiliary to our army and navy in time of war.

13. A democrat's position with reference to the question of prohibition has never been made a test of his democracy, nor of his fitness for office, but the public is entitled to know his views with regard thereto. Ever since I have been a voter I have voted for the prohibition of the liquor traffic in county and state. I believe with President Wilson that this is a question that properly belongs to the several states and the people thereof.

14. Recognizing the right of the states and the people thereof to pass on the question of an amendment to the federal constitution providing for national prohibition, if elected, I shall vote for the submission of such an amendment to the states.

15. I favor the passage of an act forbidding the issuance of United States internal revenue liquor license to do business in any state or subdivision of a state that has adopted prohibition of the sale of liquor.

16. I favor the Webb-Kenyon act and shall favor additional legislation along the same line.

17. Suffrage is a subject properly within the control of the states and I favor the retention by the states of such control.

18. As a member of the state legislature I favored and now favor fair laws in the interest of labor.

19. As a member of the state legislature I was somewhat instrumental in placing on the Texas statute books our present anti-trust act, which has brought millions of dollars into the treasury, and I favor such national anti-trust legislation as will enable the government to control the corporations, common carriers and public utilities, under federal jurisdiction.

20. I favor the taxing of corporations doing an interstate business, and the requiring of reports by them to the government disclosing the condition of their business, etc. The government should also have power to examine and inspect their books and records.

21. I am in favor of the physical valuation of railway, express and telegraph and telephone lines doing an interstate business, and the enactment of a federal stock and bond law limiting and controlling the issuance of stocks and bonds of such corporations.

22. The Philippine islands should be granted independence, whenever their people prove themselves capable of self government, and I favor the ultimate independence of the islands.

23. Our immigration laws should receive reasonable requirements for admission to the United States. Provision should be made for the admission of worthy persons seeking asylum from religious or other prosecution.

24. Extravagant appropriations of the "pork barrel" character should not be made and I shall oppose appropriations except for meritorius projects.

25. My candidacy is not inspired by any faction or class, and if elected I shall not be the servant of any special interest, but shall strive to faithfully represent the whole people of this district. With the legislative experience acquired while a member of the state legislature, I feel that I can render the district efficient and satisfactory service.

26. In 1912 I actively aided in the promotion of the plan to secure for Woodrow Wilson the presidential nomination, and I approve and applaud his administration of affairs and am strongly in favor of his policies. Especjally do I commend his course in keeping our country out of the European war.

27. In the conduct of my campaign for the nomination, I shall pay my own campaign expenses and shall neither solicit nor accept campaign contributions.

Earnesly soliciting your support and promising if elected honest and faithful service, I submit my candidacy for your consideration.

TOM CONNALLY.

BISHOP GIVES VIEWS RELIGION OF HILLS

ARKANSAS BISHOP AT ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH TELLS EXPERIENCES.

Declares Former Waco Woman Doing Great Work in Teaching the Mountain Girls.

Bishop Winchester yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's Episcopal church gave some very interesting incidents in his work in the Arkansas diocese, speaking very feelingly of the Helen Dunlap school on the mountains between Van Buren and Fayetteville, founded as the result of a child's work.

Little Helen Dunlap was a child who was visiting with her parents at a mountain resort. Christmas time came and she was arranging for a tree for the mountain folks and had invited Bishop Brown of Arkansas, to whom the child had become attached. The little child was called to its heavenly home and the parents gave the mountain resort to be converted into a girls' school as a memorial to the little one. Later arrangements were made for the purchase of a farm of 500 acres, having a little house thereon. This is to be made into a school for the mountain boys of that section.

Bishop Winchester told how one thing leads to another, in that he had baptized a man of public affairs, and after becoming a member of the Episcopal church and learning of the work among the mountaineers he donated a comprehensive library to the school.

The bishop also spoke of the splendid work being done in that school by Mrs. Downs Marshall, formerly of the Waco congregation, in assisting in teaching the young girls how to cook and sew, and some of the higher branches.

At this morning's service at 11 o'clock the offertory will be for the diocese of Arkansas and the work there that is being so nobly conducted by Bishop Winchester.

Rev. Dr. Witsell, rector of St. Paul's stated that it would be a free-will offering for the Arkansas diocese in appreciation of the visit of Bishop Winchester to this church and his work in holdng a mission here coverng two Sundays in Lent.

There are many grand things started in Bishop Winchester's diocese and we feel that we want to have a part in having done something for the mountain children and others who need to know of the Master, and Bishop Winchester was exceedingly kind in coming to us as our missioner for our special services that close tonight, and he will carry back with him our deepest love. He has endeared himself to the hearts of all who have had the opportunity of hearing his masterful sermons."

GOVERNOR THANKS WACO WOMEN FOR PATRIOTIC EMBLEM

Expressing his personal appreciation and that of the state officially to Mrs. G. B. Gerald and Mrs. Maud Gerald Richardson of Waco, for their recent patriotic gift to Texas in the form of the Lone Star Liberty Bell, Governor Ferguson has mailed the following letter to the donors:

Mrs. G. B. Gerald and Mrs. Maud Gerald Richardson, 2222 North Fourth Street, Waco, Texas.

Dear Friends:

This will acknowledge the receipt of your favor of March 8th, as well as the delivery of the sacred relic delivered in person by Mrs. Richardson.

In the name of all Texas, I, as governor, accept this liberty bell, used at the time of the Declaration of Independence, with a due appreciation of the personal sacrifice which you are making in parting with it.

Truly this bell, though not as large in size, is as precious to every loyal Texan as the great liberty bell which was displayed in our state some months ago. While the one proclaimed our national independence, the other proclaimed the independence of Texas, which has and will ever have the first place in the hearts of her people.

You may rest assured that this sacred bell, whose tones fell upon the ears of Sam Houston, Lamar, Burnet and the other immortal spirits of our state, shall take its place in the park soon to be improved through the patriotism of our state legislature.

With much esteem, I am yours truly,
JAMES E. FERGUSON,
Governor of Texas.

Special to the Morning News.

Mart, March 25.—A light shower of rain fell here last night followed by a norther. The rain hardly more than settled the dust so another shower is eagerly hoped for.

DANGEROUS CALOMEL IS SELDOM SOLD NOW

Calomel Salivates! It Makes You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work—Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Better Than Calomel and Is Harmless for Men, Women, Children—Read Guarantee!

Every druggist here, yes! your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it while Dodson's Liver Tone is safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large family-sized bottle costs only 50 cents and if you find it doesn't take the place of dangerous, salivating calomel you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine, no sick headache, biliousness, ague, sour stomach or clogged bowels. Dodson's Liver Tone doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all next day like calomel.

Take a dose of calomel tonight and tomorrow you will feel sick, weak and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work!

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up with your head clear, your liver active, bowels clean, breath sweet and stomach regulated. You will feel cheerful and full of vigor and ready for a hard day's work.

You can eat anything afterwards without risk of salivating yourself or your children.

Get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and try it on my guarantee. You'll never again put a dose of nasty, dangerous calomel into your stomach.

MANY ENTRANTS FOR ORATORICAL HONORS COUNTY YESTERDAY

Miss Mertys Cook of West won first place yesterday morning in the senior girls' declamation contest of the annual McLennan county scholastic meet, which was held at Baylor university. Second place was won by Miss Metta Mae Thomas of Mart and third place went to Miss Leona Craine from McGregor.

First place in the senior boys' declamation contest went to John Kosthhyz of West, second place to Leon Smith of Mart, third place to Bryan Cunningham of McGregor and fourth place to John Ashburn of Bruceville.

Miss Etta Nance of McGregor took first place in the junior girls' declamation contest and second place was won by Miss Eloise Henderson of Mart. Miss Angeline Aderhold of West won third place.

Ellis Durham, a 13-year-old boy from Mart, won the junior boys' declamation contest over two other contestants. Twelve schools participated in the spelling match. The girls representing the Hillside school won the match.

All events in class A of the scholastic track meet went to Mart by default. All events of class B went to Taylor of Bruceville and the junior class events were won by Lester Bells of the Concord school. A cash prize of $5 which was to have been given the athlete holding the largest number of points was divided among the best men in classes A and B and the juniors.

Grand Jury Adjourns Till Next Wednesday

The grand jury adjourned yesterday at noon until next Wednesday. No additional indictments to those given out last Wednesday were returned by the body on adjournment.

The jury in the case of J. J. Futch vs. Charles Sanger in the Nineteenth district court was excused yesterday. The suit was for the cancellation of a deed.

A hung jury was reported yesterday afternoon in the case of the State vs. Ardrick Kinney for burglary in the Fifty-fourth court.

The case of Summers vs. Wilson in the Seventy-fourth district court is still on trial. Summers is suing for damages for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

After having been convicted of speeding and appealed his case, Fred Hodges pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon and was given a fine of $5.

Be Sure You Get 'G-E-T-S--I-T' for Your Corns

Don't Let Any One Deceive You By Handing You Something Else for Corns.

There are imitations of "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn-cure, that are trying to "cash in" on "Gets-It" success by deceit and by names that sound like "Gets-It." Notice how it's spelled, "G-E-T-S—I-T."

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, If You Used 'Gets-It' for Those Corns!"

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It', it's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses."

It's an insult to your intelligence for any one to hand you an imitation. Accept no substitutes; get "Gets-It."

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

7. The currency legislation recently enacted has proven successful for the purpose for which it was devised. I favor the establishment of a system of land banks based on the same general principle, for the purpose of loaning money on and rediscounting land paper secured by lien on farm lands, on long time and at the lowest possible interest rate. If the reserve banks are able to loan money on commercial paper at three, three and one-half or four per cent and make a substantial profit, it would seem that farm loans could be so standardized that approved farm loans, guaranteed by land banks, could be negotiated at interest rates of five or six per cent. As the number of home owners increases, so do the wealth, contentment, and prosperity of the people, but at the present high rate of interest and the high price of land, it is difficult for farmers to acquire and pay for land out of its products, while a reduced rate of interest will greatly stimulate the purchase of land by those who use it.

8. The tariff laws enacted by a democratic congress should not be "tinkered with" at this time. A tariff for revenue only and equitably distributed on imports has ever been the slogan of the democratic party and I favor adherence to this traditional policy.

9. For the immediate need of more revenue I favor an increase of the surtax on incomes and the taxation of all incomes in excess of $3,000 instead of $4,000 as now provided by law. I also favor the imposition of a graduated inheritance tax on all inheritances in excess of a reasonable minimum, whether direct or collateral.

10. The steady increase in federal pension appropriations should be stopped and a systematic shake up of the pension office should be had, and a rigid investigation of the pension rolls should be made, and all fraudulent and illegal pensions should be stricken from the rolls. I favor sweeping reforms in the pension laws, to eliminate the extravagance and waste in this department, I am opposed to the system of private pension bills.

11. The government is committed to the improvement of rivers and harbors and inland waterways, including the Brazos river. Work on the Brazos is now in progress and I shall favor its continuance toward the improvement of the stream for the purpose of making it navigable and in order to prevent overflows and inundations.

12. In the interest of American commerce I am in favor of legislation encouraging and fostering a merchant marine to bear our products to market in time of peace, and to serve as an auxiliary to our army and navy in time of war.

13. A democrat's position with reference to the question of prohibition has never been made a test of his democracy, nor of his fitness for office, but the public is entitled to know his views with regard thereto. Ever since I have been a voter I have voted for the prohibition of the liquor traffic in county and state. I believe with President Wilson that this is a question that properly belongs to the several states and the people thereof.

14. Recognizing the right of the states and the people thereof to pass on the question of an amendment to the federal constitution providing for national prohibition, if elected, I shall vote for the submission of such an amendment to the states.

15. I favor the passage of an act forbidding the issuance of United States internal revenue liquor license to do business in any state or subdivision of a state that has adopted prohibition of the sale of liquor.

16. I favor the Webb-Kenyon act and shall favor additional legislation along the same line.

17. Suffrage is a subject properly within the control of the states and I favor the retention by the states of such control.

18. As a member of the state legislature I favored and now favor fair laws in the interest of labor.

19. As a member of the state legislature I was somewhat instrumental in placing on the Texas statute books our present anti-trust act, which has brought millions of dollars into the treasury, and I favor such national anti-trust legislation as will enable the government to control the corporations, common carriers and public utilities, under federal jurisdiction.

20. I favor the taxing of corporations doing an interstate business, and the requiring of reports by them to the government disclosing the condition of their business, etc. The government should also have power to examine and inspect their books and records.

21. I am in favor of the physical valuation of railway, express and telegraph and telephone lines doing an interstate business, and the enactment of a federal stock and bond law limiting and controlling the issuance of stocks and bonds of such corporations.

22. The Philippine islands should be granted independence, whenever their people prove themselves capable of self government, and I favor the ultimate independence of the islands.

23. Our immigration laws should receive reasonable requirements for admission to the United States. Provision should be made for the admission of worthy persons seeking asylum from religious or other prosecution.

24. Extravagant appropriations of the "pork barrel" character should not be made and I shall oppose appropriations except for meritorius projects.

25. My candidacy is not inspired by any faction or class, and if elected I shall not be the servant of any special interest, but shall strive to faithfully represent the whole people of this district. With the legislative experience acquired while a member of the state legislature, I feel that I can render the district efficient and satisfactory service.

26. In 1912 I actively aided in the promotion of the plan to secure for Woodrow Wilson the presidential nomination, and I approve and applaud his administration of affairs and am strongly in favor of his policies. Especially do I commend his course in keeping our country out of the European war.

27. In the conduct of my campaign for the nomination, I shall pay my own campaign expenses and shall neither solicit nor accept campaign contributions.

Earnesly soliciting your support and promising if elected honest and faithful service, I submit my candidacy for your consideration.

BISHOP GIVES VIEWS RELIGION OF HILLS

ARKANSAS BISHOP AT ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH TELLS EXPERIENCES.

Declares Former Waco Woman Doing Great Work in Teaching the Mountain Girls.

Bishop Winchester yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's Episcopal church gave some very interesting incidents in his work in the Arkansas diocese, speaking very feelingly of the Helen Dunlap school on the mountains between Van Buren and Fayetteville, founded as the result of a child's work.

Little Helen Dunlap was a child who was visiting with her parents at a mountain resort. Christmas time came and she was arranging for a tree for the mountain folks and had invited Bishop Brown of Arkansas, to whom the child had become attached. The little child was called to its heavenly home and the parents gave the mountain resort to be converted into a girls' school as a memorial to the little one. Later arrangements were made for the purchase of a farm of 500 acres, having a little house thereon. This is to be made into a school for the mountain boys of that section.

Bishop Winchester told how one thing leads to another, in that he had baptized a man of public affairs, and after becoming a member of the Episcopal church and learning of the work among the mountaineers he donated a comprehensive library to the school.

The bishop also spoke of the splendid work being done in that school by Mrs. Downs Marshall, formerly of the Waco congregation, in assisting in teaching the young girls how to cook and sew, and some of the higher branches.

At this morning's service at 11 o'clock the offertory will be for the diocese of Arkansas and the work there that is being so nobly conducted by Bishop Winchester.

Rev. Dr. Witsell, rector of St. Paul's stated that it would be a free-will offering for the Arkansas diocese in appreciation of the visit of Bishop Winchester to this church and his work in holding a mission here coverng two Sundays in Lent.

There are many grand things started in Bishop Winchester's diocese and we feel that we want to have a part in having done something for the mountain children and others who need to know of the Master, and Bishop Winchester was exceedingly kind in coming to us as our missioner for our special services that close tonight, and he will carry back with him our deepest love. He has endeared himself to the hearts of all who have had the opportunity of hearing his masterful sermons."

GOVERNOR THANKS WACO WOMEN FOR PATRIOTIC EMBLEM

Expressing his personal appreciation and that of the state officially to Mrs. G. B. Gerald and Mrs. Maud Gerald Richardson of Waco, for their recent patriotic gift to Texas in the form of the Lone Star Liberty Bell, Governor Ferguson has mailed the following letter to the donors:

Mrs. G. B. Gerald and Mrs. Maud Gerald Richardson, 2222 North Fourth Street, Waco, Texas.

Dear Friends:

This will acknowledge the receipt of your favor of March 8th, as well as the delivery of the sacred relic delivered in person by Mrs. Richardson.

In the name of all Texas, I, as governor, accept this liberty bell, used at the time of the Declaration of Independence, with a due appreciation of the personal sacrifice which you are making in parting with it.

Truly this bell, though not as large in size, is as precious to every loyal Texan as the great liberty bell which was displayed in our state some months ago. While the one proclaimed our national independence, the other proclaimed the independence of Texas, which has and will ever have the first place in the hearts of her people.

You may rest assured that this sacred bell, whose tones fell upon the ears of Sam Houston, Lamar, Burnet and the other immortal spirits of our state, shall take its place in the park soon to be improved through the patriotism of our state legislature.

With much esteem, I am yours truly,
JAMES E. FERGUSON,
Governor of Texas.

Special to the Morning News.

Mart, March 25.—A light shower of rain fell here last night followed by a norther. The rain hardly more than settled the dust so another shower is eagerly hoped for.

DANGEROUS CALOMEL IS SELDOM SOLD NOW

Calomel Salivates! It Makes You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work—Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Better Than Calomel and Is Harmless for Men, Women, Children—Read Guarantee!

Every druggist here, yes! your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it while Dodson's Liver Tone is safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large family-sized bottle costs only 50 cents and if you find it doesn't take the place of dangerous, salivating calomel you have only to ask for your money back.

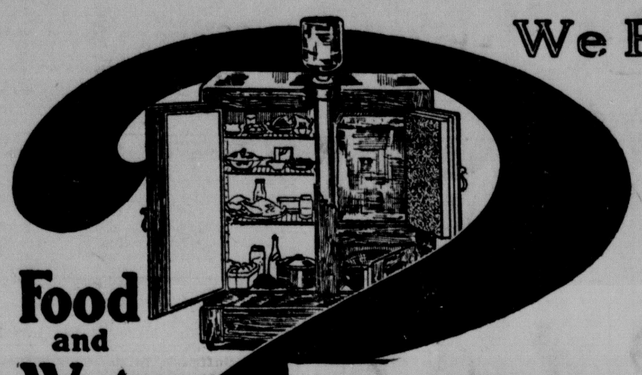
Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine, no sick headache, biliousness, ague, sour stomach or clogged bowels. Dodson's Liver Tone doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all next day like calomel.

Take a dose of calomel tonight and tomorrow you will feel sick, weak and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work!

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up with your head clear, your liver active, bowels clean, breath sweet and stomach regulated. You will feel cheerful and full of vigor and ready for a hard day's work.

You can eat anything afterwards without risk of salivating yourself or your children.

Get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and try it on my guarantee. You'll never again put a dose of nasty, dangerous calomel into your stomach.



Food and Water Problems both Solved by the Automatic Refrigerator

We Place on Display and Sale Tomorrow The Famous

AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATOR

(Third Floor)

It's Surprising how long Ice lasts in the Automatic Refrigerator

We take pleasure in announcing the fact that we have added to our other third floor departments a complete line of high class Refrigerators. As in the buying of all merchandise that enters the Sanger store, we made a thorough and most careful investigation. We studied them all, with the idea of securing the best from every standpoint and after our investigation we decided upon the "AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATOR" because it possessed everything that a Refrigerator should possess and many improvements and exclusive features that are not to be found in any other Refrigerator.

THE SANGER

Free Ice Offer

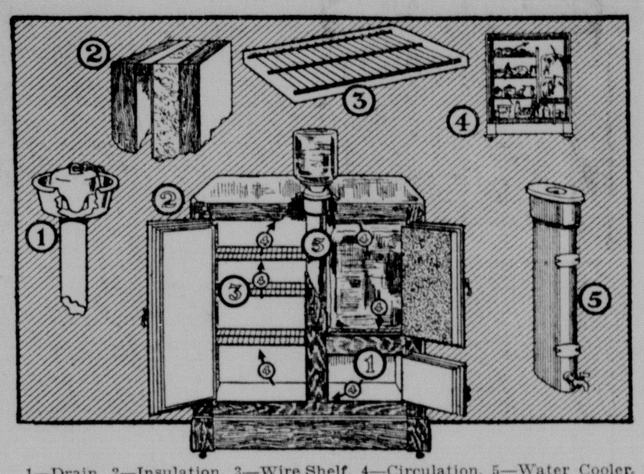
With Automatic

Refrigerators

The Automatic Refrigerator has eight walls of insulation between the finished surface and the inner chambers. The drain or trap is located in the Ice Chamber; it can not overflow and is easily drained.

It Has a Built-in, Porcelain-Lined Water Cooler

Note also the Ice Chamber is at the side, and not at the top of the refrigerator. The big cost of a refrigerator is not the first cost, but the cost of the ice. Here is a refrigerator that consumes less ice. It is made too good to sell cheap, but it will pay for itself in the saving of ice and the perfect refrigeration of your food and drinks.



1—Drain. 2—Insulation. 3—Wire Shelf. 4—Circulation. 5—Water Cooler.

We will give without extra charge a FIVE HUNDRED POUND GEYSER ICE BOOK FOR A LIMITED TIME WITH ALL AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATORS SELLING AT $32.00, $33.50, $37.50, and $43.50. AND A ONE THOUSAND POUND GEYSER COMPANY ICE BOOK WITH ALL AUTOMATIC REFRIGERATORS SELLING AT $45.00, $50.00, $63.00 and up to $75.00.

The Automatic Refrigerator Requires Less Ice Than Any Other Refrigerator on the Market

AND WE ARE WILLING TO SUPPLY THE FIRST 500 OR 1000 POUNDS OF ICE TO DEMONSTRATE THIS FACT.

We could consume a full page in pointing out the splendid features of the Automatic Refrigerator as revealed by our thorough and careful investigation, but we prefer that you see it for yourself, and we invite you to visit our Third Floor tomorrow.

Welfare League Reports Followed by Determination to Secure Cleaner City

Following the reports of the various committees on surveys of the different fields of social and civic effort in the city of Waco to the board of directors of the Waco Welfare league in the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday afternoon, it was decided to begin immediate action along the line of improving the sanitary conditions of the city, providing an employment bureau, promoting the movement, in conjunction with the Rotary club, looking toward the beautification of the home and business premises of the city and laying plans for a night school for next year. While many more phases of work were reported upon and recommended by the committees, it was deemed best to undertake only those things at the present time which are most urgent and the plans for which are best defined.

WILL START A CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION.

President Neale will name a strong publicity committee within the next few days which will be charged with the duty of still further promoting a campaign of education among all the people as to the scope and purpose of the Welfare league and the campaigns for finances and membership will probably be launched within the next four or six weeks after the organization has begun to demonstrate its usefulness as well as its ultimate purpose.

One of the most pressing needs is an improvement of certain sanitary or insanitary conditions in the city, it was generally agreed, and in order that the committee having this subject in charge may be strengthened, Mr. Neale will add several names, having made the addition of the names of Prof. B. B. Cobb, superintendent of schools; Prof. E. T. Genheimer, principal of the high school, and Prof. W. R. Marrs, principal of the East Waco school, yesterday afternoon.

POINT OUT CASES OF INSANITARY CONDITIONS.

Dr. I. L. McGlasson, chairman of the sanitary committee, touched upon a number of interesting things in his report, but chief interest centered in his declaration that immediately to the southwest of the Third Street school and within a few feet of the windows of the school building is a very insanitary cowlot that is quite offensive, while a few feet further south are four surface toilets serving negro residences. All of these constitute not only a nuisance, but a menace to the school, it was declared, and Mrs. W. O. Wilkes, president of the Parent-Teacher association, announced that the Parent-Teacher club of the South Third street school had been trying in vain for four years to get rid of the situation that exists there. She said she welcomed the assistance of the Welfare league in that connection.

It was reported that the screens between the toilet rooms of the high school and the lunch room were in a bad state of repair, making the passage of flies from the former to the latter an easy matter, but that this condition would be immediately remedied. Very old toilets and very insanitary ones were found at both the North Fourth and the South Third Street schools, while at the negro school surface toilets are still in use, though it would be easily possible to secure sewer connection.

CITY WATER SUPPLY DECLARED PURE.

Dr. R. H. Hodges, reporting upon the city's water supply, said the regular city water supply from the filtration plant and the artesian wells was about as pure as can be found in the United States, while the surface wells in the city, and these are used mostly on the east side, are very rarely found free from contamination. The springs in Cameron park also were found to be contaminated. The majority of the cases of typhoid fever that existed on the East Side last fall were nearly all due to the use of water from these contaminated surface wells, Dr. Hodges explained. Mrs. L. Aubrey found the bakeries and markets in very good condition for the most part, and Mrs. W. W. Woodson made a very favorable report on a majority of the restaurants, hotels, creameries and soda fountains, while Mrs. E. M. Dotson found the condition of the fruit stands unsatisfactory.

Mrs. Edward Rotan and Mrs. W. O. Wilkes and Judge C. A. Boynton reported on existing charitable and social institutions, Mrs. Rotan reporting particularly on the Old Woman's Home, Mrs. Wilkes on the county farm as it relates to the county's dependent charges, and Judge C. A. Boynton on the United Charities. A total of 352 persons were cared for at the home, for one or more days, during 1915, Mrs. Rotan reported, and this on a gross stated income of $1,069, though some additional funds were received from other sources. More clerical assistance for the secretary of the United Charities and an annual budget of at least $6,000 are the outstanding needs of the United Charities.

SUPERINTENDENT SEES NEED FOR NIGHT SCHOOL.

There is an urgent need for a night school in this city, declared Prof. B. B. Cobb, superintendent of public schools, but as the demands upon the school board are so large he suggested the league appear before the city commission and ask for a special appropriation, in addition to the regular school funds, next year with which to meet the expenses of operating a night school. Miss Miriam Suhler and Mrs. J. W. Downs, also of the educational committee, recommended the establishment of a general assembly hall in the city for all sorts of public and educational purposes, and the establishment, also, of a popular lyceum course for the education of the masses of the people. A musical censorship board, benches in all the parks and supervision of playgrounds were also recommended.

M. Falkner, R. J. Potts and Mrs. N. B. Kent reported on the civic improvement work and Mr. Falkner outlined the plan of a home flower garden contest that will be waged under the auspices of the Rotary club, in conjunction with the Welfare league. Women of the city are expected to co-operate freely in this work and to take the leadership of it in enlisting the co-operation of the home-makers in this scheme of beautification.

WACO'S RATE OF CHILD DELINQUENCY HIGH.

Reporting on the question of dependent children, Dr. E. E. Ingram, county probation officer, said that 90 per cent of the dependent and delinquent children of the county came from the city of Waco, and one-sixth of the children in the Methodist orphanage of this city come from within the city. Some of the means of meeting the situation he recommended were an employment bureau, an emergency home, an industrial home for boys and girls, a Y. W. C. A., a loan company for small wage earners with a savings bank department, and supervised play.

The report of the committee on child welfare, of which Mrs. A. T. Godshaw was chairman, was read by Frank E. Burkhalter, secretary. It reviewed the work of the Evangelia Settlement, as it affected the children, the Working Boys' club, the Working Girls' club, the Big Brother movement and the Boy Scout work, all of these being indorsed and their enlargement and encouragement recommended.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU IS URGENT NEED.

W. W. Seley, reporting for the committee on first aid and employment, suggested the early establishment of a central and strong employment bureau, and his report was supplemented by Mrs. F. M. Longley, who recently made a survey of the city as it affects the employment of women, and Mrs. F. M. Thwing, who did considerable work along this line in Denison and other places. Upon the strength of these reports and the assurance of Mr. Hankins of the Y. M. C. A. of his co-operation in the movement, it was practically decided to proceed with the organization of an employment bureau for men at the Y. M. C. A., and one for women at the Rebecca Sparks Home, for women.

As secretary of the Humane society, Miss Kate Friend presented the report of the chairman, A. R. McCollum, which showed the large work that has been done by this body in suppressing cruelty to persons as well as to animals, beasts and birds, and recommended that the support of the league be tendered to this society in its work.

All the committees were continued for the present, by general consent, and President Neale announced there would be another meeting of the directorate within the next week or ten days, when further definite work will, in all probability, be decided upon.

Cupid Celebrates Fourth Birthday

Don Cupid, the original, has been on the earth a long, long time, but in spite of that fact he does not seem to grow old. And his authorized representative in Waco, little Edgar Marion Yinger, is only four years old, and celebrated his birthday last night with an elaborate dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Yinger, Jr., 2108 Sanger avenue. Last fall on the opening day of the Cotton Palace this bright, prepossessing little fellow won the admiration of the many thousands of persons who saw the perfect manner in which he played the role of Cupid in the art section of the historical pageant.

EDGAR MARION YINGER

Probably no child in the city is more alert to what is going on around him or more keenly interested in affairs in general. One of his favorite diversions is keeping up as nearly as he can with the movements of the punitive expedition into Mexico and he calls up the Morning News office nearly every day to find out what the latest developments of that expedition are.

Friends and relatives were very generous to him on the occasion of his birthday yesterday and the day was a very pleasant one for him in every way.

Sheriff's Puzzle: How Did Mexican and Check Connect

Sheriff Fleming's department has the Mexican and the cashier's check on the Malone bank for $57.85, but what Deputy Sheriff George McNeese wants to know is, how did the Mexican get the check?

Deputy McNeese, in addition to his duties as an officer of Hill county, is connected with the Malone bank. Several days ago Mr. McNeese remembers very distinctly to have written a cashier's check in favor of the First National bank of Commerce, Texas. He also recalls vividly to have thrust this check enclosed in an envelope, along with a number of other letters, in his left coat pocket, and going over to the passenger depot to mail them on the train. While he was going to the depot he met a small Mexican child who was in the habit of asking him for a nickel. The nickel was forthcoming from the big man.

Mr. McNeese recollects all this very definitely—even to the little chap getting on the train track and remaining until the passenger whistled for caution.

Without having discovered the loss of the letter—if it was lost or taken by the boy in the course of the walk to the depot—Mr. McNeese placed his letters in the slot on the mail coach and walked serenely home.

The scene of action shifts.

When a Mexican attempted to purchase three bottles of beer at a Waco saloon yesterday and use a cashier's check for $57.85 in payment, a halt came. Sheriff Fleming and Deputy Sheriff Barney Goldberg felt called on to take a look at the check and the Mexican. The check was "good"—but the Mexican's story would not pass at face value with the officers.

McNeese and his check made connections yesterday, as did the Mexican and the jail—but the Mexican and the check, how did they make connection?

That's the puzzle the sheriff's department is working on.

NOTICE.

This is to advise the public that I will not be responsible for any debts other than those contracted by myself.

Downs, also of the educational committee, recommended the establishment of a general assembly hall in the city for all sorts of public and educational purposes, and the establishment, also, of a popular lyceum course for the education of the masses of the people. A musical censorship board, benches in all the parks and supervision of playgrounds were also recommended.

M. Falkner, R. J. Potts and Mrs. N. B. Kent reported on the civic improvement work and Mr. Falkner outlined the plan of a home flower garden contest that will be waged under the auspices of the Rotary club, in conjunction with the Welfare league. Women of the city are expected to co-operate freely in this work and to take the leadership of it in enlisting the co-operation of the home-makers in this scheme of beautification.

WACO'S RATE OF CHILD DELINQUENCY HIGH.

Reporting on the question of dependent children, Dr. E. E. Ingram, county probation officer, said that 90 per cent of the dependent and delinquent children of the county came from the city of Waco, and one-sixth of the children in the Methodist orphanage of this city come from within the city. Some of the means of meeting the situation he recommended were an employment bureau, an emergency home, an industrial home for boys and girls, a Y. W. C. A., a loan company for small wage earners with a savings bank department, and supervised play.

The report of the committee on child welfare, of which Mrs. A. T. Godshaw was chairman, was read by Frank E. Burkhalter, secretary. It reviewed the work of the Evangelia Settlement, as it affected the children, the Working Boys' club, the Working Girls' club, the Big Brother movement and the Boy Scout work, all of these being indorsed and their enlargement and encouragement recommended.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU IS URGENT NEED.

W. W. Seley, reporting for the committee on first aid and employment, suggested the early establishment of a central and strong employment bureau, and his report was supplemented by Mrs. F. M. Longley, who recently made a survey of the city as it affects the employment of women, and Mrs. F. M. Thwing, who did considerable work along this line in Denison and other places. Upon the strength of these reports and the assurance of Mr. Hankins of the Y. M. C. A. of his co-operation in the movement, it was practically decided to proceed with the organization of an employment bureau for men at the Y. M. C. A., and one for women at the Rebecca Sparks Home, for women.

As secretary of the Humane society, Miss Kate Friend presented the report of the chairman, A. R. McCollum, which showed the large work that has been done by this body in suppressing cruelty to persons as well as to animals, beasts and birds, and recommended that the support of the league be tendered to this society in its work.

All the committees were continued for the present, by general consent, and President Neale announced there would be another meeting of the directorate within the next week or ten days, when further definite work will, in all probability, be decided upon.

Cupid Celebrates Fourth Birthday

Don Cupid, the original, has been on the earth a long, long time, but in spite of that fact he does not seem to grow old. And his authorized representative in Waco, little Edgar Marion Yinger, is only four years old, and celebrated his birthday last night with an elaborate dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Yinger, Jr., 2108 Sanger avenue. Last fall on the opening day of the Cotton Palace this bright, prepossessing little fellow won the admiration of the many thousands of persons who saw the perfect manner in which he played the role of Cupid in the art section of the historical pageant.

EDGAR MARION YINGER

Probably no child in the city is more alert to what is going on around him or more keenly interested in affairs in general. One of his favorite diversions is keeping up as nearly as he can with the movements of the punitive expedition into Mexico and he calls up the Morning News office nearly every day to find out what the latest developments of that expedition are.

Friends and relatives were very generous to him on the occasion of his birthday yesterday and the day was a very pleasant one for him in every way.

Sheriff's Puzzle: How Did Mexican and Check Connect

Sheriff Fleming's department has the Mexican and the cashier's check on the Malone bank for $57.85, but what Deputy Sheriff George McNeese wants to know is, how did the Mexican get the check?

Deputy McNeese, in addition to his duties as an officer of Hill county, is connected with the Malone bank. Several days ago Mr. McNeese remembers very distinctly to have written a cashier's check in favor of the First National bank of Commerce, Texas. He also recalls vividly to have thrust this check enclosed in an envelope, along with a number of other letters, in his left coat pocket, and going over to the passenger depot to mail them on the train. While he was going to the depot he met a small Mexican child who was in the habit of asking him for a nickel. The nickel was forthcoming from the big man.

Mr. McNeese recollects all this very definitely—even to the little chap getting on the train track and remaining until the passenger whistled for caution.

Without having discovered the loss of the letter—if it was lost or taken by the boy in the course of the walk to the depot—Mr. McNeese placed his letters in the slot on the mail coach and walked serenely home.

The scene of action shifts.

When a Mexican attempted to purchase three bottles of beer at a Waco saloon yesterday and use a cashier's check for $57.85 in payment, a halt came. Sheriff Fleming and Deputy Sheriff Barney Goldberg felt called on to take a look at the check and the Mexican. The check was "good"—but the Mexican's story would not pass at face value with the officers.

McNeese and his check made connections yesterday, as did the Mexican and the jail—but the Mexican and the check, how did they make connection?

That's the puzzle the sheriff's department is working on.

Jess Willard Retains World's Heavyweight Championship

COWBOY CHAMPION UNABLE TO KNOCK FRANK MORAN OUT

Practically Universal Newspaper Verdict Gives Willard Battle on Points—Challenger Badly Battered Up—Jess Breaks Right Hand in the Third Round, but Keeps on to Finish.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 25.—Jess Willard is still the heavyweight pugilistic champion of the world. In ten rounds of fast fighting here tonight he defeated Frank Moran of Pittsburg on points.

A crowd of about 13,000 persons paid approximately $150,000 to see the fight and went away apparently satisfied with the result. It was the greatest gathering Madison Square Garden had ever seen. Many women were in the throng.

Willard broke his right hand in the third round, but blows from his fighting left kept Moran at a distance.

Willard's share of the pure was $47,500 and Moran's $23,750. Tex Rickard and his partner in the enterprise, Sam McCracken, will clean up close to $50,000 profit on the bout.

Moran refused to make any statement after the bout other than to say there would have been no fighting if he had not taken the aggressive throughout the ten rounds.

Willard left the Garden immediately after the bout, refusing to be interviewed by newspaper men.

WILLARD'S FINGER IS FRACTURED SAYS DOCTOR.

Dr. Lewis Morris, who attended the champion at his hotel, said that Willard had suffered a slight fracture of the joint of the first index finger of his right hand early in the fight. He added, however, that the big fellow otherwise was in good condition and that the injury to his finger would not trouble him more than a day or two.

Rickard said after the fight.

"Moran put up a good fight. He's a darn good boy. Willard was much slower than I thought he'd be. If he broke his right hand, as it is claimed he did, it did not seem to make much difference. He did not seem to need his right a great part of the time."

OPINION IS UNANIMOUS THAT WILLARD IS WINNER.

The awarding of the bout to Willard on points was virtually unanimous among the experts at the ringside, although all gave Moran credit for his gameness and continual efforts to land a punch on the champion that would bring down his gigantic opponent.

Among the papers whose representatives gave Willard the bout on points were the following:

New York Herald, Tribune, World, Sun, American, Press, Evening Telegram, Evening Mail, Journal, Telegraph and the Philadelphia Inquirer.

MOST OF ROUNDS WILLARD'S EASILY.

Willard had the better on points in every round except the third, which went to Moran by a narrow margin and the eighth and ninth which were even. The conqueror of Jack Johnson claimed to have broken all the bones in the back of his right hand during a slashing rally in the third, and it was noticeable that he did not use his right to any extent in the latter rounds. Occasionally he uppercut to Moran's body or jaw with that hand but it lacked the punishing power shown in his training work.

The chief feature of Moran's battle was his gameness. Although he could make no impression on Willard with his hardest swings he fought steadily and courageously and a hail of left jabs and hooks which battered his face and almost closed his left eye toward the end of the bout. Several times Moran was dazed by the champion's smashes but Willard fighting with his usual lack of aggressiveness did not appear to try particularly for a knockout. The champion never was in danger from Moran's blows, although a number landed with crashing force on his jaw and body. Most of them, however, either were blocked or avoided by the Kansas cowboy, who took full advantage of his great height and extraordinary reach.

REFEREE WHITE SAYS BOUT WAS CLEAN.

Referee Charley White said after the bout that it was one of the cleanest at which he ever officiated and he had to caution the boxers only once. Moran landed dangerously low on Willard at one time in infighting but the blow was unintentional and did not appear to distress Willard seriously.

Willard, whose weight was announced at 259½ pounds in the ring costume towered over Moran who weighed only 201½ pounds when the pair shook hands a few minutes before 10 o'clock.

MORAN OPENS IN FIRST ROUND.

Moran opened hostilities with a right to the head, then tried a left to the body which was blocked. Willard kept jabbing with his long left. Moran boring in swung an overhand left high on the head and then was driven back by several left jabs and a short right hook to the ear. Willard held him off with another straight left and uppercut with his right. The champion was cool and grinned at Moran's futile attempts to reach his jaw.

SECOND ROUND ALL CHAMPION'S WAY.

Moran worked industriously in the second session, boring in and trying to land overhand swings over right or left, while the big fellow jabbed him hard and hooked a short right to the head. Moran found great difficulty in reaching the champion but was persistent, taking several stiff lefts in the face, one of which cut his right eye.

IN THIRD ROUND MORAN HAS ADVANTAGE.

The third and only round in which Moran had the advantage opened with the Pittsburger landing a hard left on the body. Willard sent his right with full force to Moran's ribs and put a straight left on the latter's nose. Frank rushed in again with three swings landing his right three times overhand on the head, but he did not seem to be hurting the cowboy. Moran then swung his right to the body and rushing in again with his head down swung his left to the head, following with a right to the other side of the head.

NEXT THREE ROUNDS ALL GO TO WILLARD.

Willard held him away again with his long left jabs, but Moran got in close with both hands. This was Moran's best round and after the bout was over his advantage was explained by Willard's manager, who stated that the champion had broken some bones in his right hand during this round. If Willard met with an accident he did not show it, as he used his right occasionally but not forcefully during the next three rounds.

MORAN RALLIES IN THE SEVENTH ROUND.

In the seventh, after Willard had inflicted a good deal of punishment on the Challenger, Moran in a wonderful rally landed his left and four rights in succession on Willard's head and forced the champion to the ropes at the bell. Moran's face was covered with blood from his eye and nose in the eighth round, but he withstood several hard jabs and doggedly kept on boring in on Willard. He swung both hands to the head, but Willard was still too cool with his long left for Moran's blows to take effect. Moran landed a good left swing on Jess' ear as the bell sounded and earned an even break in this round.

Moran persistently rushed in the ninth, but several of his swings were blocked. Jess kept jabbing with his left, but Moran tore in with a swinging right to the body and swung his left to the head. Then Willard jabbed him at will, but Frank rushed again and landed two right swings before he was met with a right uppercut which forced him against the ropes from which he sprang with a high right swing on the head, finishing the round, the honors of which were again even.

WILLARD HAS BEST OF THE FINAL ROUND.

In the final session the champion kept working left jabs to the face, planting six of them without a return, although Moran was trying hard to land an over-hand blow. Willard blocked another rush and jolted with right to the wind and sent two short left jabs and two rights to the head. Before the round ended he planted at laest half a dozen short arm blows on Moran's face.

BIG HALL FILLS SLOWLY.

The doors of Madison Square Garden opened late. The big hall filled slowly. In frail looking perches swung from the rail of the second balcony the moving picture men focused their cameras on the ring.

The preliminaries began, but for all the crowd cared the boxers might as well have been pummeling each other in their own back yards. The spectators were interested only in the big bout and they were willing to wait.

John L. Sullivan, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett—all one-time holders of the heavyweight championship, had seats close to the ring.

Among those holding box seat tickets were J. P. Morgan, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, "Diamond Jim" Brady, David Belasco, Enrico Caruso, Lindly M. Garrison, Gen. W. Coleman Dupont and Mayor Curley of Boston.

There were scores of women in the great throng.

WILLARD FIRST TO ENTER THE RING.

Jess Willard was the first to enter the ring, climbing through the ropes at 9:37. He was accompanied by his manager and chief second, Tom Jones, and second Walter Monahan, Jack Hemple and Ray Archer. Willard appeared to be exceptionally cool and at ease and stepped across the ring to shake hands with Frank Moran, who arrived three minutes later. Moran was seconded by Willie Lewis, Frank Kendall, Bill McKennon and Joe Keally.

The timekeepers were: For Moran, Joe Considine; for Willard, Harry Weiss, and for the club, Dr. Muth.

HOW CHAMPION AND CONTENDER WERE DRESSED.

Willard wore soft bandages which were wrapped tightly around his knuckles. Moran's bandages, in sharp contrast, extended well above his wrists.

Willard was clad around the loins by heavy red worsted tights, while Moran wore dark green trunks of a similar texture. While the two heavyweights sat in their corner Bob Fitzsimmons, J. J. Corbett, Kid McCoy and John L. Sullivan were introduced in turn, the last of the quartette being given a tremendous ovation. All the former ring stars shook hands with the principals of the big bout. During these ceremonies Moran appeared annoyed and nervous over the delay, while Willard leaned back on the ropes and smiled a non-committal smile. He frequently looked across the ring to Moran's corner, but the challenger appeared to avoid the champion's eye.

At 9:49 Referee Charley White entered the ring and called the two heavyweights to the center of the ring to pick their five-ounce gloves.

The official weights were announced as follows: Moran 201½ pounds, Willard 259½ pounds.

Referee White took the principals to the center of the ring at 9:54 for final instructions.

Round One.

Willard jabbed Moran in the face with a left and the latter retaliated with three blows to the body which Willard blocked. Moran hooked a left to Willard's jaw and took three left jabs to the face in return. Moran swung right and left to Willard's neck and received a hard right in the body. Moran missed a right and went into a clinch and Willard tore loose and landed a right and left to the head. Willard smashed him a terrific left in the face, dazing the challenger.

Moran swung wildly with a right and left, but Willard laughed as he blocked carefully. Willard's round.

Round Two.

Willard took the aggressive. Moran came back, the pair exchanging blow for blow. Moran broke and backed away. Willard followed Moran slowly around the rig and drove a right hook to Moran's eye, battered him in the body.

Moran was helpless against Willard in clinches.

The champion staggered Moran with a left to the face as the bell rang.

Willard's round.

Round Three.

Willard smashed a right into Moran's body, doubling Moran up. Moran's savage swings could not reach Willard's jaw. Willard jabbed Moran with his left almost at will. Moran grew shaky under the punching. Willard ducked two right swings and laughed. Moran swung a left to the body as the bell rang. Moran's round.

Round Four.

Willard tabbed Moran in the face with two lefts, uppercutting Moran in the body with a right and a left. Moran hooked a left to the body and a left to Willard's jaw. Willard kept stabbing Moran with his long left and jarred him with a right to the jaw. A terrific left to Willard's body never jarred him. Willard split Moran eyebrow wide open with a crashing right. Willard's round.

Round Five.

Round Six.

Round Seven.

Willard started after Moran like a wild man and beat him all over the ring. Under the fusillade of blows Moran was helpless, clinging to Willard blindly, as the blood poured down his chest. Willard fought cooly, picking his openings. Referee White warned Moran against fouling. Moran swung wildly and, catching Willard on the jaw, dazed him for a moment. The pair were fighting like wild men at the bell. Willard's round.

Round Eight.

Willard kept jabbing Moran in the face with his left and the latter was bleeding from a number of cuts. Moran swung two rights to Willard's jaw and the champion appeared winded as he went to his corner. Honors even in this round.

Round Nine.

Moran rushed from his corner, landing right and left on Willard's neck. Willard used his left steadily. Moran scored two swings to the jaw and repeated. Willard jabbed again and hooked a right to Moran's ribs. A left uppercut lifted the challenger off his feet. Moran swung to the jaw and Willard uppercut. The were clinched at the bell. Round even.

Round Ten.

They shook hands. Willard used his left jab almost exclusively. Moran swung a right to the jaw and left to the body. Willard battered Moran with rights and lefts, but the latter came back gamely. Willard uppercut Moran to the face and body. Moran swung right and left to the jaw and Willard retaliated. Willard caught Moran in a clinch and on the break was uppercutting with rights and lefts as the bell rang, terminating the bout. Willard's round.

IS LIKELY TO GET SHORT FIELD JOB

Johnny Lavan.

Johnny Lavan, who played short for the Browns for several years, is apt to beat out Ernie Johnson, who went to the Browns from the Feds and for a time was Fielder Jones' choice for the short field. Lavan, however, seems to have convinced Jones that he is not an ordinary player, and as he has greatly improved in his hitting he is now leading Johnson for the position.

THOUSANDS FAIL TO SEE BIG FIGHT

NO SMOKE CLOUD, AS USUAL AT SUCH EVENTS, AS FIREMEN PROVE STRICT.

Crowd Refuses to Watch Preliminaries or Listen to Celebrated Singers.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 25.—Thousands of fight-hungry men and women surged around Madison Square Garden tonight enviously craning their necks to watch the fraction of their number who were permitted to enter the historic building.

When the doors were thrown open three-quarters of an hour after the expected time the great throng almost automatically moved forward. It looked for a few moments as if a panic might result, as hundreds tried to force their way in at the same time. It was a good natured multitude, however, and the police soon restored order.

Hundreds of stylishly-dressed women and men in evening clothes who arrived in automobiles were forced to leave their cars some distance from the Garden. After struggling through the packed streets they had to form in line with the other ticket holders.

Speculators reaped a golden harvest.

POLICE REPORT CROWD WELL BEHAVED.

Police officials declared the crowd the best behaved one they had ever seen. Up to the time the fighters entered the building not an arrest had been made.

The Garden never held a larger crowd. Carpenters worked until the last minute building seats on the floor. That was why the doors did not open on time, Promoter Tex Rickard explained. He was very sorry, he said, but his sorrow was of the cheerful order, for every one of the 13,000 seats was filled. Speculators found it easy to get four times the original price of tickets.

The smoke cloud that usually settles over a fight crowd was missing and the few who lighted cigars and cigarettes promptly stamped them out by emphatic orders of firemen scattered through the building.

In the semi-final bout Battling Levinski of New York outpointed Jim Savage of Orange. Then the crowd settled back for the real show. The gong rattled and the announcer shouted:

"Ladies and gentlemen: I wish to announce that the principals will be here in fifteen minutes——"

NOBODY LISTENS TO "CELEBRATED SINGERS."

When the roar that greeted this announcement had ebbed, he added, "and there will be singing by three celebrated singers in the meantime."

There was singing—but not to any great extent by the "three celebrated singers" for the crowd robbed them of the tune.

Moran and Willard reached the building ten minutes apart, about 9 o'clock. They went at once to their dressing rooms. Moran seemed a little nervous but Willard apparently was cool and unconcerned. As they prepared for the ring the spectators continued singing.

A burst of cheers at 9:27 heralded the arrival of Jess Willard. He bounded through the ropes into the ring with an agility surprising for one of his great bulk. The crowd gave the champion a tremendous welcome.

Three minutes later Frank Moran, towheaded, grim faced, full five inches shorter than his opponent, entered the ring and the roar of applause swelled louder.

NO SIMILARITY BETWEEN OPPONENTS.

There seemed no point of similarity between the champion and his opponent. Willard, smiling, sat upright in his corner, a green robe over his shoulders, his head topping the ropes by two inches. Moran, chin in hand, slouched down in his seat.

The first ceremony was the introduction of notables of the ring—Bob Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Kid McCoy. All were applauded, but the appearance of John L. Sullivan made the rafters ring with cheers.

More introductions and then Charley White, referee of many battles, shedding coat, vest and collar, walked across the ring and leaned over the ropes to chat with the newspaper men.

The gong rattled violently and the announcer said something that ended with "Frank Moran," and there was a roar from the throng. Then he told the crowd the man in the other corner was Jess Willard. Again the Garden rocked with cheers.

Gloves were adjusted, the fighters shook hands, the announced said the final word and the fight was on.

"Order of the T" Formed at Texas

Austin, March 25.—The athletic council of the University of Texas announces that the old "T association" has been abolished and "The Order of the T" created. The latter organization comprises all men of the university who have been awarded unqualified T's for competing in intercollegiate sports. The organization is going to meet annually in Austin. May 16 has been chosen as the day of meeting for the present year. The new organization has taken over the officials of the old "T association" as temporary officials, the president being James A. Edmond of Waco and the secretary-treasurer C. E. Turner of Roswell, N. M. The office of treasurer, however, is largely an ornamental title, as there are no dues, fees or collections of any sort.

The only purpose of the organization is to stimulate interest in varsity athletics and to encourage loyalty to the institution. All ex-students of the university who are qualified for membership are declared to be members and are invited to be present at the university May 16th as guests of the athletic council. A special section will be reserved in the grandstand for members of the order from which they may witness the Varsity-A. & M. game. The night of the 16th the big banquet will be served, at which the athletic council again will play the host. The are about 450 men eligible to membership in this organization, and it is expected that at least 150 will be present in Austin on May 16. Every effort will be made on the part of the authorities to make the stay of the old athletes enjoyable.

The council desires the names and addresses of the old T men, many of which have been lost. A list of all those now in the possession of the council will soon be published and requests will be sent out to old students to assist in making the list complete. The council desires it understood that whether or not a special invitation is received by any of the old T men they are not only invited but are urged to participate in the festivities on May 16 as guests of the council.

WORLD CHAMPION HIGH JUMPER RETIRES

Buffs Not Ready for Season Yet

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, March 25.—With the opening of the Texas league season but a fortnight away, the keenest critics must have reached the conclusion that the Buffs are not all that they should be. To attain that belief, one must be blind to the great exhibition record of the club in which the first string teams of the Browns, Giants and Cardinals have been beaten. But nevertheless the fact remains. The Buffs are not really ready to start the Texas league season and without the addition of at least one sterling pitcher will not be.

In many respects the team at West End under Boss Newnam is a rattling good one. It can stand pat on the present make-up of the pitching staff and the receiving corps. The outfield, too, could weather through, though at present it appears that speed has been sacrificed to hitting ability. If Frierson, Northen and Al Lee make it, the Buffs will have a trio which will bat around .275. The retention of Henry might achieve the same purpose, as he is a good hitter but a slow fielder. Garner is awkward but a good fielder and he came here with a batting reputation. What will be done about the outfield proposition remains to be seen.

Criss, Rose, Edmondson and Gleen all have shown well this spring, but Buddy Napier has given little promise of doing better than last season. Rose will be a .600 per cent pitcher in the Texas league again if his outfield backs him up. The southpaw is not a strikeout pitcher and needs speedy gardeners to get under high flies. But he looked good in the thirteen-inning victory over Huggins' regulars when he went ten of the rounds.

Hickory Dickson was expected Friday and the owners are still dickering with clubs higher up.

Meanwhile, the team continues to harass the stranger within out gates. The club's exhibition record is far better than it has ever been and the outlook for a record attendance at the New York-Detroit game on April 2 improves every day.

The late reporters are considerably behind the rest of the team in training. Both Northen and Al Lee have a lot of weight to take off.

Ross Young, one of the infield candidates, was shipped to Denison last week and there is a probability that Query may follow. The other catching job lies between Query and Allen, as Jenkins is certain to be the first string man.

Baerwald Will Not Appear With Pirates

Special to the Morning News.

Galveston, March 25.—One Texas league hold-out met with success. It was Bill Johnson, star outfielder for the Pirates, who has been sent word to report by Manager Paul Sentell and President Dolson. Baerwald is to be released.

Thus three familiar faces will be missing from the Galveston line-up—Gene Moore, Gene Madden and Rudy Baerwald. Sentell thinks, however, he has strengthened his team and hopes to have everything going nicely by opening day.

Of the new outfielders tried out so far only Cutie Breaux has shown anything like desirable qualities. Breaux almost certainly will be retained for the left field place will be left for Murray, Hanna, Matthews and Harber to contest over.

The pitching squad was cut this week by the realease of four men. Ira and Linus Kraus, Gayle Harang and Sam Alberts. There remain Allen, Barfoot and Chelette, all veterans, who certainly will be retained, and Cook, Schmidt and Rankin, who will fight it out for the fourth place on Sentell's pitching staff, as four pitchers will be the limit this year, as usual.

Berger, who was bought recently from the Nashville club of the Southern Association, has failed to show any willingness to report so far, and it is not known whether he will change his mind later on.

WEILMAN FEARED BY JENNINGS'S TIGERS

Carl Weilman.

Carl Weilman of the St. Louis Browns was the most effective pitcher against the Detroit Tigers last year, winning eight out of nine games. His only defeat was when the Tigers knocked him out in the first inning. During his three years with the Browns Weilman took 17 games out of 24 from the Tigers. During that time Sam Crawford's batting average against him was 147.

Dallas Sends Two Teams Off on Trips

Special to the Morning News.

Dallas, March 25.—Joe Gardner sent his first team on the road Friday afternoon and it will not be home until Tuesday. Friday they played the Sherman team of the Western association and Saturday they played Muskogee. They will play the latter club again Sunday and Monday they jump to McAlester. Tuesday they drop down to Denison and battle with Babe Peebles' team. All of the teams are Western association teams and Welchonce's men will have pretty hard sledding, at least that is what the Western association managers are predicting. The Yanigans will play in Denison Sunday and then join the regulars.

As yet neither Owner Gardner nor Manager Welchonce have intimated just who is going to get on the payroll. No cut will be made until about April 1. There are now about twenty-four men in camp.

The last arrival is Same Hale of Estelline, Texas, away out in the Panhadle. The youngster had enough faith in himself to buy a railroad ticket to Dallas and report to the manager without a contract. He is going to try and chase Bordeaux or Tracy off of third base and if hard work will help any he is a likely candidate.

All of the Dallas pitchers are rounding into shape and it is believed that when the team returns from the road trip it will be in mid-season condition. Yockey's bad toes are still giving him a little trouble and Bourdeaux has a bad finger, but with these exceptions there is no hospital list.

Thompson, at first, has been clouting the old apple in big league style during the past week. Indications are that this man Thomson is going to give some of the Texas league pitchers a scare before he finishes his first round of the circuit.

Jess Willard Retains World's Heavyweight Championship

COWBOY CHAMPION UNABLE TO KNOCK FRANK MORAN OUT

Practically Universal Newspaper Verdict Gives Willard Battle on Points—Challenger Badly Battered Up—Jess Breaks Right Hand in the Third Round, but Keeps on to Finish.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 25.—Jess Willard is still the heavyweight pugilistic champion of the world. In ten rounds of fast fighting here tonight he defeated Frank Moran of Pittsburg on points.

A crowd of about 13,000 persons paid approximately $150,000 to see the fight and went away apparently satisfied with the result. It was the greatest gathering Madison Square Garden had ever seen. Many women were in the throng.

Willard broke his right hand in the third round, but blows from his fighting left kept Moran at a distance.

Willard's share of the pure was $47,500 and Moran's $23,750. Tex Rickard and his partner in the enterprise, Sam McCracken, will clean up close to $50,000 profit on the bout.

Moran refused to make any statement after the bout other than to say there would have been no fighting if he had not taken the aggressive throughout the ten rounds.

Willard left the Garden immediately after the bout, refusing to be interviewed by newspaper men.

WILLARD'S FINGER IS FRACTURED SAYS DOCTOR.

Dr. Lewis Morris, who attended the champion at his hotel, said that Willard had suffered a slight fracture of the joint of the first index finger of his right hand early in the fight. He added, however, that the big fellow otherwise was in good condition and that the injury to his finger would not trouble him more than a day or two.

Rickard said after the fight.

"Moran put up a good fight. He's a darn good boy. Willard was much slower than I thought he'd be. If he broke his right hand, as it is claimed he did, it did not seem to make much difference. He did not seem to need his right a great part of the time."

OPINION IS UNANIMOUS THAT WILLARD IS WINNER.

The awarding of the bout to Willard on points was virtually unanimous among the experts at the ringside, although all gave Moran credit for his gameness and continual efforts to land a punch on the champion that would bring down his gigantic opponent.

Among the papers whose representatives gave Willard the bout on points were the following:

New York Herald, Tribune, World, Sun, American, Press, Evening Telegram, Evening Mail, Journal, Telegraph and the Philadelphia Inquirer.

MOST OF ROUNDS WILLARD'S EASILY.

Willard had the better on points in every round except the third, which went to Moran by a narrow margin and the eighth and ninth which were even. The conqueror of Jack Johnson claimed to have broken all the bones in the back of his right hand during a slashing rally in the third, and it was noticeable that he did not use his right to any extent in the latter rounds. Occasionally he uppercut to Moran's body or jaw with that hand but it lacked the punishing power shown in his training work.

The chief feature of Moran's battle was his gameness. Although he could make no impression on Willard with his hardest swings he fought steadily and courageously and a hail of left jabs and hooks which battered his face and almost closed his left eye toward the end of the bout. Several times Moran was dazed by the champion's smashes but Willard fighting with his usual lack of aggressiveness did not appear to try particularly for a knockout. The champion never was in danger from Moran's blows, although a number landed with crashing force on his jaw and body. Most of them, however, either were blocked or avoided by the Kansas cowboy, who took full advantage of his great height and extraordinary reach.

REFEREE WHITE SAYS BOUT WAS CLEAN.

Referee Charley White said after the bout that it was one of the cleanest at which he ever officiated and he had to caution the boxers only once. Moran landed dangerously low on Willard at one time in infighting but the blow was unintentional and did not appear to distress Willard seriously.

Willard, whose weight was announced at 259½ pounds in the ring costume towered over Moran who weighed only 201½ pounds when the pair shook hands a few minutes before 10 o'clock.

MORAN OPENS IN FIRST ROUND.

Moran opened hostilities with a right to the head, then tried a left to the body which was blocked. Willard kept jabbing with his long left. Moran boring in swung an overhand left high on the head and then was driven back by several left jabs and a short right hook to the ear. Willard held him off with another straight left and uppercut with his right. The champion was cool and grinned at Moran's futile attempts to reach his jaw.

SECOND ROUND ALL CHAMPION'S WAY.

Moran worked industriously in the second session, boring in and trying to land overhand swings over right or left, while the big fellow jabbed him hard and hooked a short right to the head. Moran found great difficulty in reaching the champion but was persistent, taking several stiff lefts in the face, one of which cut his right eye.

IN THIRD ROUND MORAN HAS ADVANTAGE.

The third and only round in which Moran had the advantage opened with the Pittsburger landing a hard left on the body. Willard sent his right with full force to Moran's ribs and put a straight left on the latter's nose. Frank rushed in again with three swings landing his right three times overhand on the head, but he did not seem to be hurting the cowboy. Moran then swung his right to the body and rushing in again with his head down swung his left to the head, following with a right to the other side of the head.

NEXT THREE ROUNDS ALL GO TO WILLARD.

Willard held him away again with his long left jabs, but Moran got in close with both hands. This was Moran's best round and after the bout was over his advantage was explained by Willard's manager, who stated that the champion had broken some bones in his right hand during this round. If Willard met with an accident he did not show it, as he used his right occasionally but not forcefully during the next three rounds.

MORAN RALLIES IN THE SEVENTH ROUND.

In the seventh, after Willard had inflicted a good deal of punishment on the Challenger, Moran in a wonderful rally landed his left and four rights in succession on Willard's head and forced the champion to the ropes at the bell. Moran's face was covered with blood from his eye and nose in the eighth round, but he withstood several hard jabs and doggedly kept on boring in on Willard. He swung both hands to the head, but Willard was still too cool with his long left for Moran's blows to take effect. Moran landed a good left swing on Jess' ear as the bell sounded and earned an even break in this round.

Moran persistently rushed in the ninth, but several of his swings were blocked. Jess kept jabbing with his left, but Moran tore in with a swinging right to the body and swung his left to the head. Then Willard jabbed him at will, but Frank rushed again and landed two right swings before he was met with a right uppercut which forced him against the ropes from which he sprang with a high right swing on the head, finishing the round, the honors of which were again even.

WILLARD HAS BEST OF THE FINAL ROUND.

In the final session the champion kept working left jabs to the face, planting six of them without a return, although Moran was trying hard to land an over-hand blow. Willard blocked another rush and jolted with right to the wind and sent two short left jabs and two rights to the head. Before the round ended he planted at laest half a dozen short arm blows on Moran's face.

BIG HALL FILLS SLOWLY.

The doors of Madison Square Garden opened late. The big hall filled slowly. In frail looking perches swung from the rail of the second balcony the moving picture men focused their cameras on the ring.

The preliminaries began, but for all the crowd cared the boxers might as well have been pummeling each other in their own back yards. The spectators were interested only in the big bout and they were willing to wait.

John L. Sullivan, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett—all one-time holders of the heavyweight championship, had seats close to the ring.

Among those holding box seat tickets were J. P. Morgan, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, "Diamond Jim" Brady, David Belasco, Enrico Caruso, Lindly M. Garrison, Gen. W. Coleman Dupont and Mayor Curley of Boston.

There were scores of women in the great throng.

WILLARD FIRST TO ENTER THE RING.

Jess Willard was the first to enter the ring, climbing through the ropes at 9:37. He was accompanied by his manager and chief second, Tom Jones, and second Walter Monahan, Jack Hemple and Ray Archer. Willard appeared to be exceptionally cool and at ease and stepped across the ring to shake hands with Frank Moran, who arrived three minutes later. Moran was seconded by Willie Lewis, Frank Kendall, Bill McKennon and Joe Keally.

The timekeepers were: For Moran, Joe Considine; for Willard, Harry Weiss, and for the club, Dr. Muth.

HOW CHAMPION AND CONTENDER WERE DRESSED.

Willard wore soft bandages which were wrapped tightly around his knuckles. Moran's bandages, in sharp contrast, extended well above his wrists.

Willard was clad around the loins by heavy red worsted tights, while Moran wore dark green trunks of a similar texture. While the two heavyweights sat in their corner Bob Fitzsimmons, J. J. Corbett, Kid McCoy and John L. Sullivan were introduced in turn, the last of the quartette being given a tremendous ovation. All the former ring stars shook hands with the principals of the big bout. During these ceremonies Moran appeared annoyed and nervous over the delay, while Willard leaned back on the ropes and smiled a non-committal smile. He frequently looked across the ring to Moran's corner, but the challenger appeared to avoid the champion's eye.

At 9:49 Referee Charley White entered the ring and called the two heavyweights to the center of the ring to pick their five-ounce gloves.

The official weights were announced as follows: Moran 201½ pounds, Willard 259½ pounds.

Referee White took the principals to the center of the ring at 9:54 for final instructions.

Round One.

Willard jabbed Moran in the face with a left and the latter retaliated with three blows to the body which Willard blocked. Moran hooked a left to Willard's jaw and took three left jabs to the face in return. Moran swung right and left to Willard's neck and received a hard right in the body. Moran missed a right and went into a clinch and Willard tore loose and landed a right and left to the head. Willard smashed him a terrific left in the face, dazing the challenger.

Moran swung wildly with a right and left, but Willard laughed as he blocked carefully. Willard's round.

Round Two.

Willard took the aggressive. Moran came back, the pair exchanging blow for blow. Moran broke and backed away. Willard followed Moran slowly around the rig and drove a right hook to Moran's eye, battered him in the body.

Moran was helpless against Willard in clinches.

The champion staggered Moran with a left to the face as the bell rang.

Willard's round.

Round Three.

Willard smashed a right into Moran's body, doubling Moran up. Moran's savage swings could not reach Willard's jaw. Willard jabbed Moran with his left almost at will. Moran grew shaky under the punching. Willard ducked two right swings and laughed. Moran swung a left to the body as the bell rang. Moran's round.

Round Four.

Willard tabbed Moran in the face with two lefts, uppercutting Moran in the body with a right and a left. Moran hooked a left to the body and a left to Willard's jaw. Willard kept stabbing Moran with his long left and jarred him with a right to the jaw. A terrific left to Willard's body never jarred him. Willard split Moran eyebrow wide open with a crashing right. Willard's round.

Round Five.

Round Six.

Round Seven.

Willard started after Moran like a wild man and beat him all over the ring. Under the fusillade of blows Moran was helpless, clinging to Willard blindly, as the blood poured down his chest. Willard fought cooly, picking his openings. Referee White warned Moran against fouling. Moran swung wildly and, catching Willard on the jaw, dazed him for a moment. The pair were fighting like wild men at the bell. Willard's round.

Round Eight.

Willard kept jabbing Moran in the face with his left and the latter was bleeding from a number of cuts. Moran swung two rights to Willard's jaw and the champion appeared winded as he went to his corner. Honors even in this round.

Round Nine.

Moran rushed from his corner, landing right and left on Willard's neck. Willard used his left steadily. Moran scored two swings to the jaw and repeated. Willard jabbed again and hooked a right to Moran's ribs. A left uppercut lifted the challenger off his feet. Moran swung to the jaw and Willard uppercut. The were clinched at the bell. Round even.

Found Ten.

They shook hands. Willard used his left jab almost exclusively. Moran swung a right to the jaw and left to the body. Willard battered Moran with rights and lefts, but the latter came back gamely. Willard uppercut Moran to the face and body. Moran swung right and left to the jaw and Willard retaliated. Willard caught Moran in a clinch and on the break was uppercutting with rights and lefts as the bell rang, terminating the bout. Willard's round.

IS LIKELY TO GET SHORT FIELD JOB

Johnny Lavan.

Johnny Lavan, who played short for the Browns for several years, is apt to beat out Ernie Johnson, who went to the Browns from the Feds and for a time was Fielder Jones' choice for the short field. Lavan, however, seems to have convinced Jones that he is not an ordinary player, and as he has greatly improved in his hitting he is now leading Johnson for the position.

THOUSANDS FAIL TO SEE BIG FIGHT

NO SMOKE CLOUD, AS USUAL AT SUCH EVENTS, AS FIREMEN PROVE STRICT.

Crowd Refuses to Watch Preliminaries or Listen to Celebrated Singers.

By the Associated Press

New York, March 25.—Thousands of fight-hungry men and women surged around Madison Square Garden tonight enviously craning their necks to watch the fraction of their number who were permitted to enter the historic building.

When the doors were thrown open three-quarters of an hour after the expected time the great throng almost automatically moved forward. It looked for a few moments as if a panic might result, as hundreds tried to force their way in at the same time. It was a good natured multitude, however, and the police soon restored order.

Hundreds of stylishly-dressed women and men in evening clothes who arrived in automobiles were forced to leave their cars some distance from the Garden. After struggling through the packed streets they had to form in line with the other ticket holders.

Speculators reaped a golden harvest.

POLICE REPORT CROWD WELL BEHAVED.

Police officials declared the crowd the best behaved one they had ever seen. Up to the time the fighters entered the building not an arrest had been made.

The Garden never held a larger crowd. Carpenters worked until the last minute building seats on the floor. That was why the doors did not open on time, Promoter Tex Rickard explained. He was very sorry, he said, but his sorrow was of the cheerful order, for every one of the 13,000 seats was filled. Speculators found it easy to get four times the original price of tickets.

The smoke cloud that usually settles over a fight crowd was missing and the few who lighted cigars and cigarettes promptly stamped them out by emphatic orders of firemen scattered through the building.

In the semi-final bout Battling Levinski of New York outpointed Jim Savage of Orange. Then the crowd settled back for the real show. The gong rattled and the announcer shouted:

"Ladies and gentlemen: I wish to announce that the principals will be here in fifteen minutes——"

NOBODY LISTENS TO "CELEBRATED SINGERS."

When the roar that greeted this announcement had ebbed, he added, "and there will be singing by three celebrated singers in the meantime."

There was singing—but not to any great extent by the "three celebrated singers" for the crowd robbed them of the tune.

Moran and Willard reached the building ten minutes apart, about 9 o'clock. They went at once to their dressing rooms. Moran seemed a little nervous but Willard apparently was cool and unconcerned. As they prepared for the ring the spectators continued singing.

A burst of cheers at 9:27 heralded the arrival of Jess Willard. He bounded through the ropes into the ring with an agility surprising for one of his great bulk. The crowd gave the champion a tremendous welcome.

Three minutes later Frank Moran, tow-headed, grim faced, full five inches shorter than his opponent, entered the ring and the roar of applause swelled louder.

NO SIMILARITY BETWEEN OPPONENTS.

There seemed no point of similarity between the champion and his opponent. Willard, smiling, sat upright in his corner, a green robe over his shoulders, his head topping the ropes by two inches. Moran, chin in hand, slouched down in his seat.

The first ceremony was the introduction of notables of the ring—Bob Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Kid McCoy. All were applauded, but the appearance of John L. Sullivan made the rafters ring with cheers.

More introductions and then Charley White, referee of many battles, shedding coat, vest and collar, walked across the ring and leaned over the ropes to chat with the newspaper men.

The gong rattled violently and the announcer said something that ended with "Frank Moran," and there was a roar from the throng. Then he told the crowd the man in the other corner was Jess Willard. Again the Garden rocked with cheers.

Gloves were adjusted, the fighters shook hands, the announced said the final word and the fight was on.

"Order of the T" Formed at Texas

Austin, March 25.—The athletic council of the University of Texas announces that the old "T association" has been abolished and "The Order of the T" created. The latter organization comprises all men of the university who have been awarded unqualified T's for competing in intercollegiate sports. The organization is going to meet annually in Austin. May 16 has been chosen as the day of meeting for the present year. The new organization has taken over the officials of the old "T association" as temporary officials, the president being James A. Edmond of Waco and the secretary-treasurer C. E. Turner of Roswell, N. M. The office of treasurer, however, is largely an ornamental title, as there are no dues, fees or collections of any sort.

The only purpose of the organization is to stimulate interest in varsity athletics and to encourage loyalty to the institution. All ex-students of the university who are qualified for membership are declared to be members and are invited to be present at the university May 16th as guests of the athletic council. A special section will be reserved in the grandstand for members of the order from which they may witness the Varsity-A. & M. game. The night of the 16th the big banquet will be served, at which the athletic council again will play the host. There are about 450 men eligible to membership in this organization, and it is expected that at least 150 will be present in Austin on May 16. Every effort will be made on the part of the authorities to make the stay of the old athletes enjoyable.

The council desires the names and addresses of the old T men, many of which have been lost. A list of all those now in the possession of the council will soon be published and requests will be sent out to old students to assist in making the list complete. The council desires it understood that whether or not a special invitation is received by any of the old T men they are not only invited but are urged to participate in the festivities on May 16 as guests of the council.

WORLD CHAMPION HIGH JUMPER RETIRES

Buffs Not Ready for Season Yet

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, March 25.—With the opening of the Texas league season but a fortnight away, the keenest critics must have reached the conclusion that the Buffs are not all that they should be. To attain that belief, one must be blind to the great exhibition record of the club in which the first string teams of the Browns, Giants and Cardinals have been beaten. But nevertheless the fact remains. The Buffs are not really ready to start the Texas league season and without the addition of at least one sterling pitcher will not be.

In many respects the team at West End under Boss Newnam is a rattling good one. It can stand pat on the present make-up of the pitching staff and the receiving corps. The outfield, too, could weather through, though at present it appears that speed has been sacrificed to hitting ability. If Frierson, Northen and Al Lee make it, the Buffs will have a trio which will bat around .275. The retention of Henry might achieve the same purpose, as he is a good hitter but a slow fielder. Garner is awkward but a good fielder and he came here with a batting reputation. What will be done about the outfield proposition remains to be seen.

Criss, Rose, Edmondson and Gleen all have shown well this spring, but Buddy Napier has given little promise of doing better than last season. Rose will be a .600 per cent pitcher in the Texas league again if his outfield backs him up. The southpaw is not a strikeout pitcher and needs speedy gardeners to get under high flies. But he looked good in the thirteen-inning victory over Huggins' regulars when he went ten of the rounds.

Hickory Dickson was expected Friday and the owners are still dickering with clubs higher up.

Meanwhile, the team continues to harass the stranger within out gates. The club's exhibition record is far better than it has ever been and the outlook for a record attendance at the New York-Detroit game on April 2 improves every day.

The late reporters are considerably behind the rest of the team in training. Both Northen and Al Lee have a lot of weight to take off.

Ross Young, one of the infield candidates, was shipped to Denison last week and there is a probability that Query may follow. The other catching job lies between Query and Allen, as Jenkins is certain to be the first string man.

Baerwald Will Not Appear With Pirates

Special to the Morning News.

Galveston, March 25.—One Texas league hold-out met with success. It was Bill Johnson, star outfielder for the Pirates, who has been sent word to report by Manager Paul Sentell and President Dolson. Baerwald is to be released.

Thus three familiar faces will be missing from the Galveston line-up—Gene Moore, Gene Madden and Rudy Baerwald. Sentell thinks, however, he has strengthened his team and hopes to have everything going nicely by opening day.

Of the new outfielders tried out so far only Cutie Breaux has shown anything like desirable qualities. Breaux almost certainly will be retained for the left field place will be left for Murray, Hanna, Matthews and Harber to contest over.

The pitching squad was cut this week by the realease of four men. Ira and Linus Kraus, Gayle Harang and Sam Alberts. There remain Allen, Barfoot and Chelette, all veterans, who certainly will be retained, and Cook, Schmidt and Rankin, who will fight it out for the fourth place on Sentell's pitching staff, as four pitchers will be the limit this year, as usual.

Berger, who was bought recently from the Nashville club of the Southern Association, has failed to show any willingness to report so far, and it is not known whether he will change his mind later on.

Carl Weilman.

Carl Weilman of the St. Louis Browns was the most effective pitcher against the Detroit Tigers last year, winning eight out of nine games. His only defeat was when the Tigers knocked him out in the first inning. During his three years with the Browns Weilman took 17 games out of 24 from the Tigers. During that time Sam Crawford's batting average against him was 147.

Dallas Sends Two Teams Off on Trips

Special to the Morning News.

Dallas, March 25.—Joe Gardner sent his first team on the road Friday afternoon and it will not be home until Tuesday. Friday they played the Sherman team of the Western association and Saturday they played Muskogee. They will play the latter club again Sunday and Monday they jump to McAlester. Tuesday they drop down to Denison and battle with Babe Peebles' team. All of the teams are Western association teams and Welchonce's men will have pretty hard sledding, at least that is what the Western association managers are predicting. The Yanigans will play in Denison Sunday and then join the regulars.

As yet neither Owner Gardner nor Manager Welchonce have intimated just who is going to get on the payroll. No cut will be made until about April 1. There are now about twenty-four men in camp.

The last arrival is Same Hale of Estelline, Texas, away out in the Panhadle. The youngster had enough faith in himself to buy a railroad ticket to Dallas and report to the manager without a contract. He is going to try and chase Bordeaux or Tracy off of third base and if hard work will help any he is a likely candidate.

All of the Dallas pitchers are rounding into shape and it is believed that when the team returns from the road trip it will be in mid-season condition. Yockey's bad toes are still giving him a little trouble and Bourdeaux has a bad finger, but with these exceptions there is no hospital list.

Thompson, at first, has been clouting the old apple in big league style during the past week. Indications are that this man Thompson is going to give some of the Texas league pitchers a scare before he finishes his first round of the circuit.

TOOLS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT NEEDED FOR AUTO TOURING

"It is difficult to do more than give a general indication as to the tools and equipment necessary for touring," says Mr. Hays of the Hays Tire company. "For all cars vary, having an individuality almost as distinct as that of their drivers. Standardization has done much to make easy the replacement of various smaller parts, and superior workmanship and materials have combined to make the average car surprisingly reliable. Each driver should know his particular car and make provision for its peculiarities, whether that means carrying extra tires, spark plugs, or spring clips. The part of wisdom before starting a long trip is to carefully go over the whole car as to lubrication and general fitness, noting any irregularity of action and remedying it at once. It is easier to do a repair job in the garage than on the road.

"The trouble kit may be separated into several sections, of which the first is the actual tool roll. Here there should primarily be wrenches—a set of "N" wrenches, numbers 25 to 32, inclusive, all standard, case-hardened, and in good shape; a flat steel monkey wrench, an adjustable end-wrench, a Stillson wrench, and the special spark plug, hub cap, wheel nut and demountable rim wrenches that are usually included by the car manufacturer. There should be also a good hammer, double-jaw pliers, round and flat files, small chisel and a couple of drifts or punches. Such a kit will almost suffice to take a car in pieces and rebuild it again. The usual pump, jack and tire tools come with the car, but a portable gasoline vulcanizer is just about as important a part of the tire kit. Don't depend on patches or on extra tubes, but use the vulcanizer for regular service and you can rely on it for an emergency. Carry also a block-and-tackle outfit, either fixed to your personal taste or in some one of the patent forms now on the market. It is useful for mud-hole and emergency work and the ropes may also be used for towing. Among the extras that are most useful may be included a roll of friction tape, a roll of iron wire, a can of radiator tape, a tin of body wax (which will also keep the windshield clear in a rain), and a small wooden box containing nuts, bolts, rivets, washers, cotter and clevis pins, small coil springs and other small parts that may seem 'junk,' but often effect an emergency repair.

"Such a kit will meet almost any requirement of average touring and yet will be compact enough to stow readily in most tool boxes."

MITCHELL CAR IN REMARKABLE TEST DALLAS TO PLANO

A. Conoly Prendergast Jr. of the Waco Mitchell Motor Car company has received word of a remarkable test made by a Dallas salesman with one of the "Mitchell Six of 16" cars. The test demonstrated that it was practically impossible to boil the water in one of the Mitchell cars.

One of the prospective buyers was not convinced that the Mitchell could undergo the most trying circumstances without the water boiling, and the test was given. One of the Mitchells was run from Dallas to Plano, a distance of thirty-one miles. The first fifteen miles was made on the intermediate gear and the remaining sixteen miles was made on low gear, netting an average speed for the trip of fifteen miles an hour. At the end of the trip the water was not boiling and the statement that the water in the radiator of a "Six of 16" could not be boiled was proven.

"We can prove every statement made about the Mitchell," stated Mr. Prendergast. "It has been stated that the Mitchell will make from eighteen to twenty-five miles an hour, that it will run slower on high gear and accelerate quicker than any car on the market, and the Mitchell dealers are always ready to prove it."

MOTOR VEHICLE FOR TRANSPORTING GOODS

AUTO TRUCK MAY SOLVE MARKETING PROBLEM FOR RURAL SECTIONS, SAYS PERRY.

There is a lot of wisdom, truth and many things to think about in a recent statement made by W. H. Perry of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. His suggestions promise to form the solution of many of the marketing problems now experienced by communities quite a distance from railroads, as well as help communities which wish to reach out for more business and, incidentally, lend a helping hand at developing a new trade territory. Here's what he says. Read it and think about it:

"The motor vehicle is developing steadily as a national means of transportation of merchandise. Something like 200,000 motor trucks and delivery wagons are estimated to be in use now in the United States. Their average capacity is probably about two tons, and their average yearly mileage 15,000. It is generally calculated that they carry their loads for one-half the mileage covered. On this basis the 200,000 commercial vehicles perform a service of 1,500,000,000 ton miles. Careful investigations made by the United States government show the average cost of hauling farm crops to market is 22 2-3c a ton mile, and the average cost of haulage by horse-drawn vehicles in large cities has been found to be 17¾c. Taking 20c as the mean of these, the transportation service of the motor trucks is worth $30,000,000 a year.

"The motor trucks do not compete with the railroads, but supplement them, as they are engaged in the distribution in cities of freight after delivery at destination by the railroads and in hauling materials, produce and merchandise to the railroads for shipment. In the relatively few cases where there is competition with the steam roads, it is in short-haul work which the railroads have long maintained was unprofitable to them. In this country the railroads will find, as they have in England and on the Continent, that it is to their advantage and profit to own and operate fleets of motor trucks and omnibuses as feeders to the rail system, connecting it with communities off the rail line to which it would not pay to construct branch roads.

"The motor truck is the most economical and the only practicable means of developing new lands too remote from the railroads to be cultivated profitably under old conditions. According to a report of the department of agriculture for last year the average distance of farms of the United States from market is only six and one-half miles, while those furthest away average only eight and three-quarters miles. The average number of trips to market per day for all farms is a little over two, and for the more remote farms one and six-tenths trips.

"These trips require the entire time of a team and man all day per farm. In other words, all the time of one man and team is needed all the year around to haul the products of each farm to market. It would not pay to haul the produce from farms twelve or fifteen miles from market with horses, because two teams and two men would be needed, but one man with one motor truck could do all the hauling for a farm even further from market. Thus the truck will eventually bring great western areas of rich, virgin soil, under cultivation, and thereby increase the freight traffic of the railroads.

"Such development is dependent, however, in a large measure upon improvement of the public roads. Nearly nine-tenths of all roads in the country are unimproved earth roads. If these are properly dragged in the spring and fall, as required by law in Iowa, they will be fairly serviceable for light motor trucks during a large part of the year, and if they are properly drained and graveled, at a cost of $560 to $1,000 a mile, they will be good all the year around, even for trucks of three to five tons' capacity.

"The main market roads carrying a large volume of traffic require stronger and more durable construction. Gravel and macadam quickly go to pieces under such motor traffic. The most suitable and economical surfacing for such roads is concrete, which can be laid at a cost of about one-half more than good macadam, and will last indefinitely under the heaviest traffic by teams and motor trucks.

"With concrete roads radiating in numerous directions from the cities and connecting with well-cared-for gravel and earth roads, the average distance of farms from market can easily be doubled and the increased taxable value of the land will more than pay for the cost of road improvement—a fact that has been proved repeatedly and is vouched for by the United States office of public roads."

FORT WORTH PLANS FOR ERECTION OF CHEVROLET BRANCH

Preparations are being made as fast as possible for the start on the big assembly plant for the Chevrolet Motor Car company at Fort Worth and that city is congratulating itself upon the fact that it has secured another $600,000 business concern. Three Fort Worth men will be on the directorate of this company, which shows the proper faith in the proposition by the citizenship of the Panther City.

The Chevrolet Motor Car company has made some wonderful strides the last few months and the demand for the cars seems increasing day by day. With the added advantage of having a southwestern assembly plant at Fort Worth, dealers throughout this section are elated over the fact that they will have another advantage in making quick delivery.

The Chevrolet Motor Car company is represented in Waco by Herrick and McLarty and the sales department of this concern reports a business activity far beyond their fondest expectations. "The car is giving general satisfaction," said Mr. Herrick, "and taking into consideration the fact that the company has made manufacturing improvements that will turn out this year, up to September 1, over 75,000 cars, we feel certain that we will experience little difficulty in being able to make prompt delivery."

CONDITIONS BRIGHT IN AUTO BUSINESS

McLENDON HARDWARE CO. WILL CONSTRUCT BUILDING FOR CHALMERS STATION.

WILL BE MODERN THROUGHOUT

D. C. Ryburn Returns from Trip Where He Found Conditions to Be Thriving.

"The rain was not as great as I would like to see, but it means more Chalmers cars will be sold," remarked D. C. Ryburn, manager of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company. "I have just returned from a trip throughout our trade territory and I find conditions fine, and with the rain things will pick up in good shape.

"I have received letters from the territory around Waco from men who are financially able, wanting to take on the Chalmers line, but so far we have established only one agency, with the Brown Sales company of Belton. However, soon we will have the ground covered and things will be going in good shape.

"We will start soon on our new service building. This building will be 40 by 60 feet, a modern, fireproof building of brick, cement and steel construction, and will be rushed to completion as soon as possible. The building will be located on Second, off Franklin.

"We have secured the services of D. Morgan Daly, who is an experienced automobile man, being thoroughly acquainted with the mechanical part of automobiles and a salesman as well. Mr. Daly is especially familiar with the Chalmers car, having sold this line of cars before. We have also secured the services of Mr. Nabors, a mechanical expert, who thoroughly understands the Chalmbers car and who will gladly look after the wants and needs of Chalmers customers. Mr. Nabors is an old man in the Chalmers service and knows his business, having gone through the mill as a mechanical expert from the days of the first old model 30 to the present day improved '630.'

"H. M. Hillman, district representative for the Chalmers car, has just returned from Austin, where he placed an agency with the Thompson Motor Car company. Mr. Hillman ran into a hard proposition in placing the agency with Mr. Thompson, as he was required to make some difficult tests, such as some very hard hill climbing, running for a long pull in high gear, through bad sand, etc., all of which he not only did to his own great surprise, the tests were so difficult and unusual, but to the full satisfaction of Mr. Thompson.

"I am more convinced than ever, since some recent experiments with the Chalmers, that the sales records for 1916 are going to be swelled beyond our own expectation."

Maxwell People Move to New Headquarters

The Maxwell Motor company are very comfortably domiciled in their new home at 712 Austin avenue.

"We have some room here to do business and make our friends feel at home when they come around," said Mr. Washam.

"We will be fixed up by early in the week and I don't suppose we will give an opening reception, but we will be glad to see our friends, just the same," he continued.

Machine Shop Enjoys Increasing Business

One of the busiest places in Waco for the last few days has been the machine shop and repairing establishment of J. M. Sedberry, 929 Franklin street. Mr. Sedberry turns out a line of work that brings more business and he reports a rapid increase in sales.

MANY CARS TURNED OUT BY CHEVORLET NEW YORK PLANTS

Earnings of $1,128,590 are reported by the Chevrolet Motor company for the four months ended December 31, 1915, after deducting expenses. To this total was added $529,096 from other sources, making the aggregate revenue $1,653,686.

Cash on hand on December 31 amounted to $4,192,968 and the statement issued yesterday showed that this has been increased to $5,377,079 by March 3, a gain of nearly 28 per cent in slightly more than two months.

W. C. Durant, president of the company, in his statement to the stockholders said: "While materials at the moment are difficult to obtain and prices are considerably higher in some instances, the reduction in overhead expenses due to increased volume of product enables us to show a reduction in cost as compared to the four and one-half months covered by the report.

"Due to abnormal conditions, as a matter of protection, we are carrying extremely large inventories, fortifying ourselves to take care of contracts and orders representing a value in excess of $26,000,000 now upon our books for delivery within the next five months. The operating profits of the Chevrolet companies for the year ended December 31, 1916, should approximate $6,000,000, to which will be added the income from other sources."

The Chevrolet company produced in four and one-half months 11,888 cars through its five plants in New York, Tarrytown and Flint. The Oshawa (Ont.) and St. Louis plants, recently started, have turned out comparatively few cars, their output not being included in above figures. In February, President W. C. Durant announced that within the next six months the daily output of the company was to be doubled, at rate of 230 cars a day and stepped up monthly until the plants are producing 460 cars daily in August.

And nobody who uses gasoline, nobody who pays to have a bag of flour or a new Easter bonnet sent home by automobile delivery, is willing to let the gasoline business alone, now that the government has started to investigate.

The men at the head of the gasoline—i. e., the petroleum—industry, are quick to give off-hand excuses when you pay your astonishingly big bills. You have undoubtedly been told that the increased use of autos, motor boats, motor trucks, farm tractors is responsible for the enormous increase in the consumption of gasoline. And then there's the war, the usual handy excuse for an advance in the price of anything. The United States exported in 1914 over 5,000,000 barrels of gasoline, and in 1915 over 6,500,000 barrels, or nearly five and six times as much as was exported five years ago.

Those who believe in "letting business alone" will probably pay their bills without complaining, but the persistent will find out that the market value of the stocks of the thirty-eight oil corporations has increased remarkably in the last six months, while profits and dividends have in some instances increased as much as 100 per cent. They will also learn that fifteen per cent of the total production of crude oil in 1914, about 45,000,000 barrels, went in storage, and that there are now 200,000,000 barrels of crude oil in storage. About twenty-one per cent of this is gasoline. Obviously, the mere relation of supply to demand has not been such as to prevent cheap gasoline. What—who—has raised the price? The more interest the consumer shows in this question the more quickly the government will find an answer for it.—Pittsburg Press.

Killgore Auto Company Located in New Home

"We handle everything for the automobiles" could be appropriately placarded in front of the new home recently gone into by J. C. Killgore and which is located on corner of Franklin and Seventh streets. Mr. Kilgore has left nothing undone to make his new home both complete and give his customers every service and convenience possible. He has a complete mechanical department, a $25,000 stock of automobile accessories, an all-night service and many other things we could mention that go to make up a first-class place of its kind.

The J. C. Killgore establishment merits the business in its line, for in reality it is a credit to the city of Waco and it is just such improvements and developments that are going to make Waco take her stand in the automobile world that she must take and is going to take soon. There are unlimited possibilities for business in the automobile line throughout this section of Texas and the editor of The News' automobile section congratulates Mr. Killgore upon the splendid appearance and accommodations of his new place of business.

Mr. Killgore is among the oldest dealers in his line in Waco and has built his business on a foundation of service and efficiency.

SPENCER-CARROLL CO. IS LARGEST IN THE SOUTHWEST

With the arrival of the merchandise that goes to fill the stock and warehouse of the Spencer-Carroll company, Waco has within its limits what is considered the largest wholesale automobile accessory establishment in the entire Southwest. "I bought the best material in the market," said Mr. Spencer of the Spencer-Carroll company, "and I bought plenty of it. I figure that when the complete stock arrives we will have nearly $30,000 worth of merchandise and will be able to meet the demands of the trade in our line in every particular. We will co-operate in every way possible to better automobile conditions throughout this action and we consider that in placing a stock of merchandise as we have, we are doing a share in this line."

Many hundreds of automobile people are attracted to Waco from surrounding towns and cities throughout the Southwest and with their corps of salesmen going out from here to every nook and corner of the Southwest, will in a great way help to establish Waco as the distributing center that it should be.

IT MAKES FLYING EASY.

Wonders Worked by Use of Gyroscope on Aeroplane.

Elmer A. Sperry, a member of the naval consulting board and president of the New York Electrical society, told the society about the workings of the gyroscope as applied by him in stabilizing vessels and aeroplanes.

He said the theory of the gyroscope is simple—"it is the finest illustration of Newton's first law, that all matter is pigheaded." The stabilizer, he said, has already been tested in submarines and small surface vessels, and is soon to be tried in a battleship.

"Its properties," he continued, "are marvelous. For example, the submarine G-4 is normally so unstable that it rolls back and forth a total of 1800 degrees in a minute. You can imagine the life that is led by its crew. But with the gyroscope the G-4 can be made to roll not at all.

"France has recently decided to adopt the gyroscope for her aeroplanes on a very large scale. If he wants to do so, the operator of an aeroplane thus equipped can leave his seat and walk out to the end of one of the planes while the stabilizer does his flying for him."—New York Sun.

CONDITIONS BRIGHT IN AUTO BUSINESS

McLENDON HARDWARE CO. WILL CONSTRUCT BUILDING FOR CHALMERS STATION.

WILL BE MODERN THROUGHOUT

D. C. Ryburn Returns from Trip Where He Found Conditions to Be Thriving.

"The rain was not as great as I would like to see, but it means more Chalmers cars will be sold," remarked D. C. Ryburn, manager of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company. "I have just returned from a trip throughout our trade territory and I find conditions fine, and with the rain things will pick up in good shape.

"I have received letters from the territory around Waco from men who are financially able, wanting to take on the Chalmers line, but so far we have established only one agency, with the Brown Sales company of Belton. However, soon we will have the ground covered and things will be going in good shape.

"We will start soon on our new service building. This building will be 40 by 60 feet, a modern, fireproof building of brick, cement and steel construction, and will be rushed to completion as soon as possible. The building will be located on Second, off Franklin.

"We have secured the services of D. Morgan Daly, who is an experienced automobile man, being thoroughly acquainted with the mechanical part of automobiles and a salesman as well. Mr. Daly is especially familiar with the Chalmers car, having sold this line of cars before. We have also secured the services of Mr. Nabors, a mechanical expert, who thoroughly understands the Chalmbers car and who will gladly look after the wants and needs of Chalmers customers. Mr. Nabors is an old man in the Chalmers service and knows his business, having gone through the mill as a mechanical expert from the days of the first old model 30 to the present day improved '630.'

"H. M. Hillman, district representative for the Chalmers car, has just returned from Austin, where he placed an agency with the Thompson Motor Car company. Mr. Hillman ran into a hard proposition in placing the agency with Mr. Thompson, as he was required to make some difficult tests, such as some very hard hill climbing, running for a long pull in high gear, through bad sand, etc., all of which he not only did to his own great surprise, the tests were so difficult and unusual, but to the full satisfaction of Mr. Thompson.

"I am more convinced than ever, since some recent experiments with the Chalmers, that the sales records for 1916 are going to be swelled beyond our own expectation."

Maxwell People Move to New Headquarters

The Maxwell Motor company are very comfortably domiciled in their new home at 712 Austin avenue.

"We have some room here to do business and make our friends feel at home when they come around," said Mr. Washam.

"We will be fixed up by early in the week and I don't suppose we will give an opening reception, but we will be glad to see our friends, just the same," he continued.

Machine Shop Enjoys Increasing Business

MANY CARS TURNED OUT BY CHEVORLET NEW YORK PLANTS

Earnings of $1,128,590 are reported by the Chevrolet Motor company for the four months ended December 31, 1915, after deducting expenses. To this total was added $529,096 from other sources, making the aggregate revenue $1,653,686.

Cash on hand on December 31 amounted to $4,192,968 and the statement issued yesterday showed that this has been increased to $5,377,079 by March 3, a gain of nearly 28 per cent in slightly more than two months.

W. C. Durant, president of the company, in his statement to the stockholders said: "While materials at the moment are difficult to obtain and prices are considerably higher in some instances, the reduction in overhead expenses due to increased volume of product enables us to show a reduction in cost as compared to the four and one-half months covered by the report.

"Due to abnormal conditions, as a matter of protection, we are carrying extremely large inventories, fortifying ourselves to take care of contracts and orders representing a value in excess of $26,000,000 now upon our books for delivery within the next five months. The operating profits of the Chevrolet companies for the year ended December 31, 1916, should approximate $6,000,000, to which will be added the income from other sources."

The Chevrolet company produced in four and one-half months 11,888 cars through its five plants in New York, Tarrytown and Flint. The Oshawa (Ont.) and St. Louis plants, recently started, have turned out comparatively few cars, their output not being included in above figures. In February, President W. C. Durant announced that within the next six months the daily output of the company was to be doubled, at rate of 230 cars a day and stepped up monthly until the plants are producing 460 cars daily in August.

TRAINLOAD DODGE CARS ARRIVE HERE

ONLY TWO CARLOADS ARE NOW LEFT OF BIG SHIPMENT TO CENTRAL MOTOR CO.

"I suppose we will have to plead guilty to breaking the record when we brought to Waco our solid trainload of Dodge Brothers cars last week," said J. M. Nash of the Central Motor company.

"The Central Motor company certainly did pull some plum when they brought in the cars. It not only attracted crowds of attention, but it is really an important event in the history of Waco as an automobile center. When any concern whether automobile or other brings to this city a solid trainload of any commodity to be distributed from here, it lends a dignity to be the distributing facilities that should receive the proper attention.

The train was not only a record breaker in points of size, but it was appropriately bannered, decorated and placarded in a way that helped the more to advertise Waco as an automobile center. There were seventeen cars in the train and each car contained five automobiles each.

"This large shipment was made possible," said Mr. Nash, "by reason of the unusual salesmanship of the Dodge Brothers' representatives. We have a very extraordinary set of men as dealers and I am proud of them; and as a further result of their salesmanship and a general co-operation, we have found it necessary to place immediate orders to meet the demand for Dodge cars. We have now on hand about two carloads left out of the seventeen cars received."

The Central Motor company is located at 927 Austin avenue in their new home and maintain an up-to-date service station for the benefit of Dodge car owners.

The fact that the Dodge car is only two years old and that the Central Motor company started in business last August, and now holds first place in the southwestern division is also another important triumph for them. The following letter received by Mr. Nash from J. W. Shelor, southwestern district representative is self explanatory, and when the fact that Dallas as well as other large Texas cities are in the southwestern district is a credit mark for the Central Motor Car company that they should justly feel proud of:

Central Motor Company,
Waco, Texas.

Gentlemen:

I am pleased to advise you that your standing in the United States among the first one hundred dealers is thirty-ninth place and your standing in my district is first.

Please accept my heartiest congratulations for moving from second to first place.

Very truly yours,

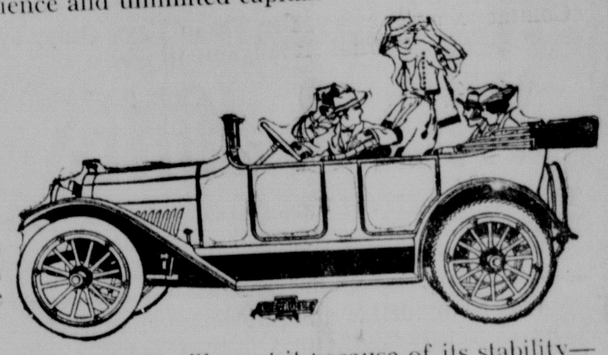
"Four-Ninety," $490 f. o. b. Factory.

"Baby Grand," $750 f. o. b. Factory.

It is the one motor car at a price for everybody—an automobile for our farmer friends as well as for the city folks. Simplicity in every detail of construction, in design, in operation, inexpensive in first cost, in upkeep and usage. Right up-to-the-minute in every feature. The result of ten years of combined efforts, experimenting, study, backed by thirty-three years of successful business experience and unlimited capital.



The Chevrolet is not in any sense the product of mushroom growth. The parent company was organized several years ago by men whose foresight led them to discern the tremendous future for the medium and low-priced automobile, combining distinctiveness in appearance, sturdiness in construction, as well as being powerful and economical. It has proven an instantaneous success. The car is built on the highest type of practical engineering.

The purchase of the Chevrolet leaves nothing to be regretted. You'll want it because of its stability—its luxurious comfort. You will buy it because it has the class of an imported car without the price. You'll buy it because its quiet "valve-in-head" motor is second to none in the world. You'll buy it because of its perfect control, and because it is in every way the car you have been looking for at the minimum price. You will take a personal pride in owning a Chevrolet.

Quick Tire Service Minute Man Answers Large Number Calls

If there is any man in the city of Waco that should be given the privilege of exceeding the speed limit, it is the man who drives the car for the Quick Tire Service of the Texas Tire and Vulcanizing company. It is hard to conceive of a more aggravating accident tha nto start out for a joy ride and run into a piece of glass and get a puncture, but even the worst of these troubles have been greatly benefited by the installation of the minute car. As for instance, the past week, A. M. Derring started out of Waco in his car. After driving out about four miles he had a puncture. He got out and made some investigations and found that he was without the required equipment to make the necessary repairs. Right then an idea struck him. In Mr. Derring's own words: "I have it that the minute man made some time and gave some service after he got there."

Doctor Will Show Boys How Deadly Are Cigarettes

Dr. S. C. Gage will operate on several rats this afternoon at the Working Boys' Sunday school. He has recently given several demonstrations showing the effect of nicotine on the rats. Several of the boys have been out this week chasing the rodents, which will meet their doom at the hands of the cigarette.

Charles Braun, a lawyer of this city, and who is well known among athletes of colleges throughout the country, will give a talk on bad habits. Before coming to this city he was connected with the boys' work in Chicago. Mr. Braun had studied boys and their habits and knows how to speak to them in an interesting manner. In addition to the above program, pleasing musical selections have been arranged by Miss Griswold, the pianist of the Sunday school.

THE MOTOR CODE

Adopted by National Automobile Chamber of Commerce

First, do not hog the middle of the street. Give the other fellow room to go by, and when he attempts to pass you do not speed up and perhaps crowd him into a safety zone. Be courteous.

When a fellow comes in from a side street give him room to turn the corner; do not crowd. When you park behind another car, remember he may wish to leave before you do. Give him room to get out; don't crowd. When you expect to stop or turn, do not keep your intentions secret; think of the fellow behind you. Be courteous.

Do not dodge in and around cars in line in traffic. Remember they were there first and have just as great a desire to get through as you have. Be courteous.

Do not presume too much when you have the right of way. Perhaps the other fellow does not know it. Be courteous.

Do not cut in front of a street car. Remember the motorman is human and most of them will learn all the courtesy you will teach them. Be courteous.

When you get the "Go" signal from a traffic officer, remember to give the pedestrian time to get out of the way. Be courteous.

When you see people on the curb trying to reach a car or vice versa, slow up, stop if necessary but let them cross without danger. This is one of the courtesies that will pay the motoring public best. Be courteous.

When a pedestrian does not or will not pay any attention to your horn it is well to remember that the deaf, hundreds of them, use the streets as well as you. Be courteous.

When you have an insane disire to speed, remember the other fellows you are passing have just as much right to break the law as you have. Think of the sentiment you are creating against you are creating against the sentiment you are creating in forming some other driver coming in from a side street or a pedestrian who does not see you coming. Think of the people in your own car, perhaps, who have a fear of speeding and you are trying to be game and not let you know it. It is not sport to drive fast in the city; it is utmost discourtesy to your fellow motorists and fellow citizens. Be courteous.

When a pedestrian sees you coming and deliberately pays no attention to you, remember that some are mentally deficient and you cannot tell them from the clothes they wear. Be courteous.

When you see a child on a curb slow up. Remember the child can start quicker than you can stop. Be courteous.

Do not open your cutout on the streets during the day. Remember there are mayn sick people and people on their death beds, whom such a sound greatly disturbs. Do not open your cutout at night for you probably remember one night when you were disturbed when trying to go to sleep by some fool whose greatest claim to fame was his noise. Be courteous.

And remember that your horn is just a few times worse than your cutout. Be courteous.

Be courteous to police officials and they will more than repay it. And if you feel like swearing at the ordinances or if you do not like the traffic arrangements remember that perhaps you may be wrong as most cities of the United States today have the very arrangements and ordinances which are in operation here.

TO SCHOOL BY TUNNEL.

Children in Northwest Village Protected From Blizzards.

At Tyee, a small railroad point in northwestern Washington, which is "snowed under" for months in winter, snowbeds connect a small frame school building with the few houses in which there are children of school age.

Through these wooden tunnels the children make their way to and from school in comfort while blizzards sweep across the snowbanks above them. The sheds are made necessary by the character of the hilly village, which has no street other than a railroad right of way. When snow is drifted so that it is from twenty to thirty feet deep in many places, and big rotary snow plows have cleared the railway, leaving high embankments of snow on either side, trackwalking is dangerous and all communication difficult.

Because of this the citizens have constructed the snowsheds through which the children, nine in number, pass. These tunnels beneath the snow also provide the people a ready means of access from one house to another when they are snow-bound.—Popular Mechanics.

TO MAKE CUT FLOWERS LIVE.

French Practice Floral Surgery With Well-Equipped Kit.

(From Stray Stories.)

The instruments used by the French florists to prolong the life of cut flowers and remove imperfections are as numerous and delicate as those on a well equipped dressing table.

They include scissors of all sizes and shapes, small cutting pliers and pinchers of many kinds, brushes, atomizers, sprays and bottles containing various gums.

A withered leaf or even one poorly developed ruins the appearance of a rosebud, consequently the one is cut off and the other if possible is reshaped. The buds are also pierced as near the base of the flower as possible, with minute wires which keep the leaves in place. An instrument very similar to a curling iron is used to dress a faulty leaf.

One of the means employed to prolong the life of the flower is to remove the anthers, so as to prevent the spreading of the pollen, for, if fertilization is allowed to take place, the flower has fulfilled its mission and soon fades.

In flowers of the lily order the anthers are removed for still another reason. They develop such an abundance of yellow pollen that it falls and taints the leaves, thus marring the spotless white beauty of the flower.

The stems of flowers that begin to hang their heads are placed in very hot water for about five minutes and then are placed in a dark and cool place for about an hour.

CANADIANS HONOR NURSE'S MEMORY BY RENAMING A MOUNTAIN MOUNT CAVELL

Mount Cavell.

This mountain, more than 11,000 feet high, has been renamed Mount Cavell by the Canadian government, in honor of the memory of Edith Cavell, the British nurse who was executed by the Germans in Belgium. This mountain was formerly called Mt. Geikie, and is one of the tallest peaks in the Dominion.

ONLY TWO CARLOADS ARE NOW LEFT OF BIG SHIPMENT TO CENTRAL MOTOR CO.

"I suppose we will have to plead guilty to breaking the record when we brought to Waco our solid trainload of Dodge Brothers cars last week," said J. M. Nash of the Central Motor company.

"The Central Motor company certainly did pull some plum when they brought in the cars. It not only attracted crowds of attention, but it is really an important event in the history of Waco as an automobile center. When any concern whether automobile or other brings to this city a solid trainload of any commodity to be distributed from here, it lends a dignity to be the distributing facilities that should receive the proper attention.

The train was not only a record breaker in points of size, but it was appropriately bannered, decorated and placarded in a way that helped the more to advertise Waco as an automobile center. There were seventeen cars in the train and each car contained five automobiles each.

"This large shipment was made possible," said Mr. Nash, "by reason of the unusual salesmanship of the Dodge Brothers' representatives. We have a very extraordinary set of men as dealers and I am proud of them; and as a further result of their salesmanship and a general co-operation, we have found it necessary to place immediate orders to meet the demand for Dodge cars. We have now on hand about two carloads left out of the seventeen cars received."

The Central Motor company is located at 927 Austin avenue in their new home and maintain an up-to-date service station for the benefit of Dodge car owners.

The fact that the Dodge car is only two years old and that the Central Motor company started in business last August, and now holds first place in the southwestern division is also another important triumph for them. The following letter received by Mr. Nash from J. W. Shelor, southwestern district representative is self explanatory, and when the fact that Dallas as well as other large Texas cities are in the southwestern district is a credit mark for the Central Motor Car company that they should justly feel proud of:

Central Motor Company,
Waco, Texas.

Gentlemen:

I am pleased to advise you that your standing in the United States among the first one hundred dealers is thirty-ninth place and your standing in my district is first.

Please accept my heartiest congratulations for moving from second to first place.

Very truly yours,
J. W. SHELOR,
Representing Dodge Brothers.

President Spencer Visits Local Co.

J. E. Spencer, president of the Spencer-Carroll company, spent part of last week in Waco looking after his interests here and shaking hands with friends. Mr. Spencer lives in Carbon, Texas, and reports business conditions in fine shape in his section of the state.

Quick Tire Service Minute Man Answers Large Number Calls

If there is any man in the city of Waco that should be given the privilege of exceeding the speed limit, it is the man who drives the car for the Quick Tire Service of the Texas Tire and Vulcanizing company. It is hard to conceive of a more aggravating accident tha nto start out for a joy ride and run into a piece of glass and get a puncture, but even the worst of these troubles have been greatly benefited by the installation of the minute car. As for instance, the past week, A. M. Derring started out of Waco in his car. After driving out about four miles he had a puncture. He got out and made some investigations and found that he was without the required equipment to make the necessary repairs. Right then an idea struck him. In Mr. Derring's own words: "I have it that the minute man made some time and gave some service after he got there."

Doctor Will Show Boys How Deadly Are Cigarettes

Dr. S. C. Gage will operate on several rats this afternoon at the Working Boys' Sunday school. He has recently given several demonstrations showing the effect of nicotine on the rats. Several of the boys have been out this week chasing the rodents, which will meet their doom at the hands of the cigarette.

Charles Braun, a lawyer of this city, and who is well known among athletes of colleges throughout the country, will give a talk on bad habits. Before coming to this city he was connected with the boys' work in Chicago. Mr. Braun had studied boys and their habits and knows how to speak to them in an interesting manner. In addition to the above program, pleasing musical selections have been arranged by Miss Griswold, the pianist of the Sunday school.

Auto Accident Near Bremond.

Special to the Morning News.

Bremond, March 25.—While on their way from the ball game in Marlin to their home in Franklin, last night about 11:30 o'clock one and one-half miles east of Bremond on a high dump the auto in which Ray Gilland, Max Dotson, Tom Hillier, Dan McCall and Dewitt Kirby were riding turned over breaking Gilland's and Dotson's legs, Hillier's nose, bruising McCall and Kirby, and also doing considerable damage to the car.

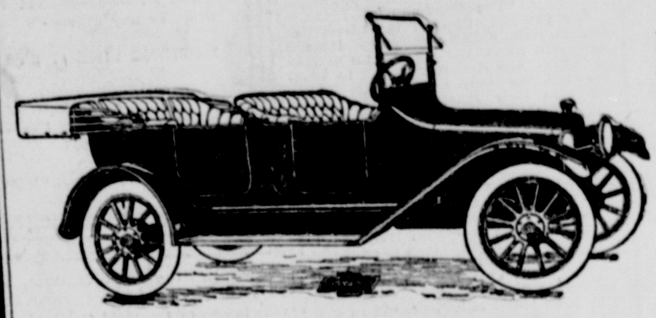
THE CAR SELLS ITSELF—RIDE IN IT AND BE CONVINCED OF ITS QUALITY

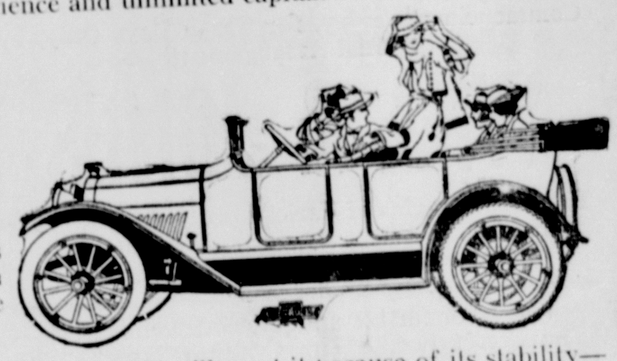


"Four-Ninety," $490 f. o. b. Factory.

The Chevrolet is not in any sense the product of mushroom growth. The parent company was organized several years ago by men whose foresight led them to discern the tremendous future for the medium and low-priced automobile, combining distinctiveness in appearance, sturdiness in construction, as well as being powerful and economical. It has proven an instantaneous success. The car is built on the highest type of practical engineering.

"Baby Grand," $750 f. o. b. Factory.

It is the one motor car at a price for everybody—an automobile for our farmer friends as well as for the city folks. Simplicity in every detail of construction, in design, in operation, inexpensive in first cost, in upkeep and usage. Right up-to-the-minute in every feature. The result of ten years of combined efforts, experimenting, study, backed by thirty-three years of successful business experience and unlimited capital.



The purchase of the Chevrolet leaves nothing to be regretted. You'll want it because of its stability—its luxurious comfort. You will buy it because it has the class of an imported car without the price. You'll buy it because its quiet "valve-in-head" motor is second to none in the world. You'll buy it because of its perfect control, and because it is in every way the car you have been looking for at the minimum price. You will take a personal pride in owning a Chevrolet.

THE MOTOR CODE

Adopted by National Automobile Chamber of Commerce

First, do not hog the middle of the street. Give the other fellow room to go by, and when he attempts to pass you do not speed up and perhaps crowd him into a safety zone. Be courteous.

When a fellow comes in from a side street give him room to turn the corner; do not crowd. When you park behind another car, remember he may wish to leave before you do. Give him room to get out; don't crowd. When you expect to stop or turn, do not keep your intentions secret; think of the fellow behind you. Be courteous.

Do not dodge in and around cars in line in traffic. Remember they were there first and have just as great a desire to get through as you have. Be courteous.

Do not presume too much when you have the right of way. Perhaps the other fellow does not know it. Be courteous.

Do not cut in front of a street car. Remember the motorman is human and most of them will learn all the courtesy you will teach them. Be courteous.

When you get the "Go" signal from a traffic officer, remember to give the pedestrian time to get out of the way. Be courteous.

When you see people on the curb trying to reach a car or vice versa, slow up, stop if necessary but let them cross without danger. This is one of the courtesies that will pay the motoring public best. Be courteous.

When a pedestrian does not or will not pay any attention to your horn it is well to remember that the deaf, hundreds of them, use the streets as well as you. Be courteous.

When you have an insane disire to speed, remember the other fellows you are passing have just as much right to break the law as you have. Think of the sentiment you are creating against ting some other driver coming in from a side street or a pedestrian who does not see you coming. Think of the people in your own car, perhaps, who have a fear of speeding and you are trying to be game and not let you know it. It is not sport to drive fast in the city; it is utmost discourtesy to your fellow motorists and fellow citizens. Be courteous.

When a pedestrian sees you coming and deliberately pays no attention to you, remember that some are mentally deficient and you cannot tell them from the clothes they wear. Be courteous.

When you see a child on a curb slow up. Remember the child can start quicker than you can stop. Be courteous.

Do not open your cutout on the streets during the day. Remember there are mayn sick people and people on their death beds, whom such a sound greatly disturbs. Do not open your cutout at night for you probably remember one night when you were disturbed when trying to go to sleep by some fool whose greatest claim to fame was his noise. Be courteous.

And remember that your horn is just a few times worse than your cutout. Be courteous.

Be courteous to police officials and they will more than repay it. And if you feel like swearing at the ordinances or if you do not like the traffic arrangements remember that perhaps you may be wrong as most cities of the United States today have the very arrangements and ordinances which are in operation here.

YOUTHFUL GENIUS INVENTS A TORPEDO THAT CAN BE CONTROLLED BY WIRELESS

John Hays Hammond, Jr., and his father.

John Hays Hammond, Jr., son of the famous mining engineer and Republican politician, has invented many wireless contrivances, several of which are now before the war department, waiting to be passed upon. He has invented a torpedo that can be controlled by wireless from the coast fortifications. He has applied for more than one hundred patents covering the sy tem in the United States and foreign countries. Th younger Hammond is only twenty-eight years old.

TO SCHOOL BY TUNNEL.

Children in Northwest Village Protected From Blizzards.

At Tyee, a small railroad point in northwestern Washington, which is "snowed under" for months in winter, snowbeds connect a small frame school building with the few houses in which there are childern of school age.

Through these wooden tunnels the children make their way to and from school in comfort while blizzards sweep across the snowbanks above them. The sheds are made necessary by the character of the hilly village, which has no street other than a railroad right of way. When snow is drifted so that it is from twenty to thirty feet deep in many places, and big rotary snow plows have cleared the railway, leaving high embankments of snow on either side, trackwalking is dangerous and all communication difficult.

Because of this the citizens have constructed the snowsheds through which the children, nine in number, pass. These tunnels beneath the snow also provide the people a ready means of access from one house to another when they are snow-bound.—Popular Mechanics.

TO MAKE CUT FLOWERS LIVE.

French Practice Floral Surgery With Well-Equipped Kit.

(From Stray Stories.)

The instruments used by the French florists to prolong the life of cut flowers and remove imperfections are as numerous and delicate as those on a well equipped dressing table.

They include scissors of all sizes and shapes, small cutting pliers and pinchers of many kinds, brushes, atomizers, sprays and bottles containing various gums.

A withered leaf or even one poorly developed ruins the appearance of a rosebud, consequently the one is cut off and the other if possible is reshaped. The buds are also pierced as near the base of the flower as possible, with minute wires which keep the leaves in place. An instrument very similar to a curling iron is used to dress a faulty leaf.

One of the means employed to prolong the life of the flower is to remove the anthers, so as to prevent the spreading of the pollen, for, if fertilization is allowed to take place, the flower has fulfilled its mission and soon fades.

In flowers of the lily order the anthers are removed for still another reason. They develop such an abundance of yellow pollen that it falls and taints the leaves, thus marring the spotless white beauty of the flower.

The stems of flowers that begin to hang their heads are placed in very hot water for about five minutes and then are placed in a dark and cool place for about an hour.

"The Bondman."

For the first time in the history of the motion picture industry Iceland has been made the setting for a feature film, and it is interesting to know that the Fox company found these settings in New England. The entire company appearing in the newest production, "The Bondman," showing at the Hippodrome theatre today, was transported to Maine, and along its picturesque coasts the camera men completed their great task. Three thousand people appear in "The Bondman," a faithful portrayal of Hall Caine's great novel, and frequent big scenes show all these at one time. Twice, at least, the converted activity of this great crowd gives the picture the degree of action and vitality which heretofore could only be found in great outdoor pageants—at the celebration of the Althing and at the festival of the Mount of Laws.

Wm. Farnum plays a dual role in this picture, those of Stephen and his son, Jason. The characters not only appear on the screen together, but in one scene Stephen is saved by Jason from a shipwreck, and is carried on the latter's back to shore. In view of the fact that Mr. Farnum plays both characters, the feat is a remarkable one. Dorothy Bernard one of the most attractive of the Fox artists, who recently appeared with pronounced success in "The Little Gypsy," plays the role of Greeba whom both Jason and his half-brother, Sunlocks, love. Harry Springler is a splendid Sunlocks, and Doris Woolridge is the mother of Jason. The story in merest detail is of Jason seeking his father to kill him for the desertion of his mother. Cheated by death of this, Jason seeks his half-brother with hate in his heart. Again fate takes a hand and at a time when love came to Jason the tragedy came also. "The Bondman" in the films follows faithfully the story of Hall Caine's great novel.

"Daphne and the Pirate."

A tale of the old wife selling times in Louisiana, of sea battles between two old sailing vessels of the seventeenth century, of Daphne who was compelled against her will to go as one of the wives-to-be and of a handsome pirate who is much nicer and more lovable than a pirate has any business being, is "Daphne and the Pirate."

The scenes are realistically handled, especially the battle scenes in which the night photography is beautiful. The shipping of the French women to Louisiana to marry the settlers is a historical fact, and the story is not at all far fetched as the advance notices might lead one to suppose. Lillian Gish in the role of Daphne is a hoydenish little French girl who has always had her own sweet way until this proposition of going to America came up. To her intense resentment and somewhat to her surprise, she is made to join the throng of wives-to-be on the French king's ship and is a virtual prisoner on board. Miss Gish plays this role with wonderful versatility; first the little hoyden, then the heroine of the battle, the stubborn, wilful girl again, resorting to every ruse imaginable to avoid marriage with the settler who choses her for his bride, and finally the lovable maid in love, just as she should be. Elliott Dexter, Texas boy, and very recently wed to Miss Marie Doro, plays the pirate. Others in the cast are Walter Long, who played "Santa Anna" in "The Martyrs of the Alamo;" Howard Gay, Lucille Young, Richard Cummings and Jack Cosgrove.

"Bullets and Brown Eyes."

"Bullets and Brown Eyes," a thriller, a drama full of daring deeds, rich comedy, and romance, is the latest play in which the ince favorite, Bessie Barriscale, is starred. Miss Barriscale is one of the most subtle, the most attractive, and the most talented of all Triangle stars, and an unusual opportunity in this romantic and exciting play, and she takes advantage of it in a thorough manner. Playing opposite the star is William Desmond, the leading man in the Billie Burke picture, "Peggy," and makes a splendid prince, a handsome and striking figure. It is said that the star named and helped in a big way to stage and direct this production, and she designed every costume that is worn in it.

Great battle scenes are shown in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," which for their realism might be thought to have been taken on the fields of Europe. All the different branches of the service, the cavalry, the infantry, the artillery, are shown in action, and to make it appear still more modern, splendid showings of armored automobiles, aeroplanes and the motorcycle regiments in the battle are given. Nearly one thousand men were employed by Directors Ince and Scott, and in addition to these several hundreds of women and children were used in scenes representing peasants fleeing from their homes. The story is one of the dashing and impetuous young prince of one mythical country who falls in love with the painting of Duchess Olga of another kingdom, and vows to find the original. The fact that Olga is a subject of a hostile country and sworn enemy of his own, means nothing to the prince. Taking his army he goes to invade her homeland and bring her back his bride. His adventures and hers and the many difficulties and incidents that rise to thwart his resolve are delightfully told.

"A Wife's Sacrifice."

Genevieve Hamper, wife of Robert B. Mantell and co-star with him in the newest Fox picture, "The Wife's Sacrifice," is declared by many of the world's best known artists to be the possessor of the "most beautiful face on earth," the perfect type of feminine beauty. Miss Hamper is a brunette, with an oval shaped face and every feature of the southern type. Miss Hamper has been an actress since early childhood and for the past ten years has played with her husband in Shakespearan roles. It is said that she photographs perfectly under the strongest lights without any make-up at all. Robert B. Mantell is recognized both in this country and in his own—England—as one of the greatest of the interpreters of Shakespeare. Since these two entered the pictures a short time ago, they have made many successful productions, always playing together and under the direction of William Fox. Stuart Holmes, the "villain" of the screen deserves special praise for his excellent work in this picture, and others important in the support are Genevieve Blinn, Claire Whitney, Walter Miller, Louise Rial, Henry Leoni, Walter McCullough, and little Jane Lee, the four-year-old child actress who is as well known as many of her famous sister actresses.

AT THE CRYSTAL.

"Drugged Waters" Today.

Most of the action takes place at High Blunff Mineral Springs, which is a beautiful resort in the Rocky mountains. Clarence Webb, manager of the Springs, has long doped it with litthia, sulphur, etc., in order to attract the wealthy patients, who imagine that they have ailments. Gladys Saunders, who owns the spring and who has just lately returned from college, knows nothing of the methods which are used to obtain business. Her father, before his death, had expressed a wish that she should marry Clarence.

A retired capitalist, Mr. Harron, and his daughter, Selma, who is in love with her father's physician, Dr. Sherwood, comes to the hotel and an attachment springs up between Gladys and Dr. Sherwood, much to the chagrin and jealousy of Selma and Clarence.

Clarence at once urges Gladys to marry him and she refuses. He then tells her that she owes everything to him, that the springs are not naturally medicated and that he is the only one who can carry on the business successfully. She is horrified at the deception and still refuses him. He afterward tells Aunt Cornelia he will tell all the guests she is defrauding the public. She, horrified, goes to try and persuade Gladys to listen to him. Clarence is then discovered putting the ingredients into the water by Dr. Sherwood, who accuses him of defrauding the public. Clarence tells him Gladys would lose all her property if it wasn't for the deception. Dr. Sherwood disagrees and tells him that the only real cure is diet, exercise and the pure spring water—that he could affect cures without the deception. Gladys, who has entered the room, unobserved, promises to back him up if he will try his plan.

Many laughable difficulties with the eccentric patients present themselves to Dr. Sherwood, but the final catastrophe occurs when Selma, who is insanely jealous of Gladys and Dr. Sherwood, learns that Clarence has not got smallpox. She bribes one of the guards to send for the health officer and constable and they release Clarence, who at once tells the guests of the false quarantine. The guests have become much benefited by Dr. Sherwood's treatment and when he asks if they will stand by him instead of taking sides with the man who would allow them to remain invalids for life, all rally to support Dr. Sherwood.

The cast:

Dr. Sherwood .....William C. Dowlan
Gladys Saunders .....Gloria Fonda
Clarence Webb .....E. P. Evers
Cornelia Wrigley ... Lule Warrenton
Dr. Jennings .....H. F. Crane
Selma ..... Mary Ruby
Dr. Perkins .....George Berrel

Wiel and Jones, Dreadnoughts of Variety.

A special treat will be offered the Waco theatre-going public commencing Tuesday, March 28. Mr. Lempke, ever watchful for something to please his patrons, found that Sam C. Wiel and his partner in vaudeville were visiting Waco to give Mr. Wiel a chance to visit his mother. This team has been playing all the leading vaudeville circuits in the United States, and just completed the Interstate circuit at Oklahoma City, where they were the feature on the bill at the Folly thaetre. Press reports from every city they have played stamp them as one of the best novelty vaudeville acts seen the last two seasons. Immediately after their appearance at the Crystal theatre in this city they leave for the east, to appear over the Lowe circuit, one of the leading vaudeville circuits of the east. They will present their singing and talking comedy travesty on the European war for three days commencing Tuesday, March 28.

The Oklahoma City Oklahoman said: "Wiel and Jones, who bill themselves the Two War Correspondents, have an act built around the European war; they have splendid voices, the act is mingled with good repartees, and is a novelty in every respect."

The Los Angeles Examiner said: "The Hippodrome bill is sparkling with song and comedy this week—Wiel and Jones in songs and stories about the war are taking hit honors from the rest by their clever way of burlesquing the war in song. Chicken Jones always keeps the audience roaring with his song "The Chicken Rag."

Mary Fuller in "The Strength of the Weak" Thursday.

The cast:

Pauline D'Arcy .....Mary Fuller
John Adams (Abbott)..Edwards Davis
Richard Adams .....Harry Hilliard
Tom Dare .....Curtis Benton

Pauline D'Arcy, a young country girl just emerging upon womanhood, meets and is attracted by a man many years her senior whom she knows by the name of Abbott. A man of distinction, wealthy and brilliant, Abbott fascinates the mind and heart of the inexperienced girl and makes her his mistress. Her submission follows the accidental death of her father, who, when dying, asks "Abbott" to become her protector and legal guardian. "Abbott," unknown to Pauline, is a married man.

He has promised to send her to college and assist her to establish herself in a literary career, promising ot marry her.

Pauline, accordingly, enters a university for women. She develops her literary talent until, as graduation approaches, she has already completed a novel founded in a large degree upon her own experience. It is accepted and published anonymously, quickly becomes a "best seller," and everyone is eager to learn the identity of the author of the brilliant work.

The success of her book has made her financially independent, and when, on graduation day, Abbott proposes to take her away with him, she rebels, claims her freedom, offers to repay him the money he has advanced for her education, and begs him to go his way and let her alone.

About this time Pauline meets a young man named Richard Adams. He is a fine manly fellow and an affection springs up between them that promises quickly to ripen into love.

They are both invited to a house party given by Mrs. Dare, a wealthy woman whose daughter Kitty, was Pauline's favorite college chum. During the party Richard Adams presses his suit, but Pauline give shim little encouragement.

At this same party a rival for her favor develops in the person of Kitty's brother, Tom Dare. Dissipated and vicious, Dare tries to force Pauline to illicit relations with him by threatening disclosure of her story to the assembled guests. She defies him and he, in a fit of rage and intoxication, soon makes good his threat.

That night in the presence of all the guests, at the Hunting club ball, Tom makes the public accusation. Driven to admit the authorship of the book (though not confessing she is its heroine) Pauline nevertheless defends in a spirited speech, a woman's right to redeem herself and make a worthy future out of an unfortunate past.

The guests are divided between admiration and horror when Richard comes to the rescue and turns the tide into a complete triumph for Pauline, when he announces that her views are his and that she has done him the honor of promising to become his wife. Later Abbott turns up with threats, but Pauline has confessed her past to Richard. Many sensational events keep the audience in suspense and the end brings out an unexpected climax.

The story of "The Golden Chance"

GOLDFISH CAME FROM CHINA.

First Specimen Brought to Europe as Gift for Mme. Pompadour.

Some centuries ago an observant Chinaman noticed a gay-colored carp swimming among some other fish in a fresh-water pool. The Chinaman did not know it then, but the attention he gave to that little fish started the world in pursuit of another hobby. And that little carp in its gay clothes became the father of millions of finny beauties scattered all over the earth. We call them goldfish.

The fish the Chinaman saw was probably an accident—it may have been an albino carp. He singled it out and bred other fish to it. That developed the type. Goldfish were swimming around in aquariums and ponds in China long before the rest of the world saw them.

About the year 1400 the Japanese imported them from China. Two centuries later they reached Europe. There is a story that the first goldfish in France came as a gift to Mme. Pompadour. It is also known that Admiral Ammen, of Uncle Sam's navy, brought some of the first goldfish to America and gave them a home in a pool at the foot of Lemon Hill, Fairmount park, in Philadelphia.

Descendants of this goldfish today are so varied and fantastic that the Chinaman of several centuries ago wouldn't recognize them. There are goldfish with two tails, goldfish with no scales, spotted goldfish and others adorned with nearly every color of the rainbow.—Philadelphia North American.

INDIGO COMES BACK.

Old-Time Dye Material Is in Demand Again.

There was a time when indigo was true to its name—the dye from India; when the great peninsula and a small district of China had a pretty close monopoly of the substance which makes the best blue coloring for textiles, and is used in producing some of the best blacks. Then German chemists began nosing into the matter, and pretty soon they were making indigo in the laboratory—as every one hopes some day to make rubber.

That was a bad time for the indigo raising ryot of the Far East. Now he is getting his revenge. The blockade has kept German dyes out of the world's markets, and the world's textile makers are calling for the old coloring material. An industry which was almost dead has been revived, the acreage sown to indigo plant in Southern India has more than trebled, and conventions are being held to see if some means cannot be found to put the business in shape to meet laboratory competition after the war.—Chicago Journal.

GOLDFISH CAME FROM CHINA.

First Specimen Brought to Europe as Gift for Mme. Pompadour.

Some centuries ago an observant Chinaman noticed a gay-colored carp swimming among some other fish in a fresh-water pool. The Chinaman did not know it then, but the attention he gave to that little fish started the world in pursuit of another hobby. And that little carp in its gay clothes became the father of millions of finny beauties scattered all over the earth. We call them goldfish.

The fish the Chinaman saw was probably an accident—it may have been an albino carp. He singled it out and bred other fish to it. That developed the type. Goldfish were swimming around in aquariums and ponds in China long before the rest of the world saw them.

About the year 1400 the Japanese imported them from China. Two centuries later they reached Europe. There is a story that the first goldfish in France came as a gift to Mme. Pompadour. It is also known that Admiral Ammen, of Uncle Sam's navy, brought some of the first goldfish to America and gave them a home in a pool at the foot of Lemon Hill, Fairmount park, in Philadelphia.

Descendants of this goldfish today are so varied and fantastic that the Chinaman of several centuries ago wouldn't recognize them. There are goldfish with two tails, goldfish with no scales, spotted goldfish and others adorned with nearly every color of the rainbow.—Philadelphia North American.

INDIGO COMES BACK.

Old-Time Dye Material Is in Demand Again.

There was a time when indigo was true to its name—the dye from India; when the great peninsula and a small district of China had a pretty close monopoly of the substance which makes the best blue coloring for textiles and is used in producing some of the best blacks. Then German chemists began nosing into the matter, and pretty soon they were making indigo in the laboratory—as every one hopes some day to make rubber.

That was a bad time for the indigo raising ryot of the Far East. Now he is getting his revenge. The blockade has kept German dyes out of the world's markets, and the world's textile makers are calling for the old coloring material. An industry which was almost dead has been revived, the acreage sown to indigo plant in Southern India has more than trebled, and conventions are being held to see if some means cannot be found to put the business in shape to meet laboratory competition after the war.—Chicago Journal.

THEATRES

HIPPODROME.

Program for Week.

Sunday—"The Bondman," Hall Caine's play in the deluxe Wm. Fox feature with Big Bill Farnum, Dorothy Bernard and company; six reels.

Monday and Tuesday—Lillian Gish and "Del" Dexter in "Daphne and the Pirate," five-reel Triangle Griffith production. "The Judge," new Keystone, two reels with Charles A. Murray and Louise Fazenda.

Wednesday and Thursday—Bessie Barriscale in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," five-reel Thos. H. Ince Triangle production; cast includes William Desmond. New Triangle, two reels.

Friday and Saturday—Robert B. Mantell in "A Wife's Sacrifice," Fox five-reel cast includes Genevieve Hamper. "A Movie Star," Keystone, two reels, with Mack Swain and Pollie Moran.

"The Bondman."

For the first time in the history of the motion picture industry Iceland has been made the setting for a feature film, and it is interesting to know that the Fox company found these settings in New England. The entire company appearing in the newest production, "The Bondman," showing at the Hippodrome theatre today, was transported to Maine, and along its picturesque coasts the camera men completed their great task. Three thousand people appear in "The Bondman," a faithful portrayal of Hall Caine's great novel, and frequent big scenes show all these at one time. Twice, at least, the converted activity of this great crowd gives the picture the degree of action and vitality which heretofore could only be found in great outdoor pageants—at the celebration of the Althing and at the festival of the Mount of Laws.

Wm. Farnum plays a dual role in this picture, those of Stephen and his son, Jason. The characters not only appear on the screen together, but in one scene Stephen is saved by Jason from a shipwreck, and is carried on the latter's back to shore. In view of the fact that Mr. Farnum plays both characters, the feat is a remarkable one. Dorothy Bernard one of the most attractive of the Fox artists, who recently appeared with pronounced success in "The Little Gypsy," plays the role of Greeba whom both Jason and his half-brother, Sunlocks, love. Harry Springler is a splendid Sunlocks, and Doris Woolridge is the mother of Jason. The story in merest detail is of Jason seeking his father to kill him for the desertion of his mother. Cheated by death of this, Jason seeks his half-brother with hate in his heart. Again fate takes a hand and at a time when love came to Jason the tragedy came also. "The Bondman" in the films follows faithfully the story of Hall Caine's great novel.

Lillian Gish Who Appears in "Daphne and the Pirate" at the Hippodrome Monday and Tuesday.

"Daphne and the Pirate."

A tale of the old wife selling times in Louisiana, of sea battles between two old sailing vessels of the seventeenth century, of Daphne who was compelled against her will to go as one of the wives-to-be and of a handsome pirate who is much nicer and more lovable than a pirate has any business being, is "Daphne and the Pirate."

The scenes are realistically handled, especially the battle scenes in which the night photography is beautiful. The shipping of the French women to Louisiana to marry the settlers is a historical fact, and the story is not at all far fetched as the advance notices might lead one to suppose. Lillian Gish in the role of Daphne is a hoydenish little French girl who has always had her own sweet way until this proposition of going to America came up. To her intense resentment and somewhat to her surprise, she is made to join the throng of wives-to-be on the French king's ship and is a virtual prisoner on board. Miss Gish plays this role with wonderful versatility; first the little hoyden, then the heroine of the battle, the stubborn, wilful girl again, resorting to every ruse imaginable to avoid marriage with the settler who choses her for his bride, and finally the lovable maid in love, just as she should be. Elliott Dexter, Texas boy, and very recently wed to Miss Marie Doro, plays the pirate. Others in the cast are Walter Long, who played "Santa Anna" in "The Martyrs of the Alamo;" Howard Gay, Lucille Young, Richard Cummings and Jack Cosgrove.

"Bullets and Brown Eyes."

"Bullets and Brown Eyes," a thriller, a drama full of daring deeds, rich comedy, and romance, is the latest play in which the ince favorite, Bessie Barriscale, is starred. Miss Barriscale is one of the most subtle, the most attractive, and the most talented of all Triangle stars, and an unusual opportunity in this romantic and exciting play, and she takes advantage of it in a thorough manner. Playing opposite the star is William Desmond, the leading man in the Billie Burke picture, "Peggy," and makes a splendid prince, a handsome and striking figure. It is said that the star named and helped in a big way to stage and direct this production, and she designed every costume that is worn in it.

Great battle scenes are shown in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," which for their realism might be thought to have been taken on the fields of Europe. All the different branches of the service, the cavalry, the infantry, the artillery, are shown in action, and to make it appear still more modern, splendid showings of armored automobiles, aeroplanes and the motorcycle regiments in the battle are given. Nearly one thousand men were employed by Directors Ince and Scott, and in addition to these several hundreds of women and children were used in scenes representing peasants fleeing from their homes. The story is one of the dashing and impetuous young prince of one mythical country who falls in love with the painting of Duchess Olga of another kingdom, and vows to find the original. The fact that Olga is a subject of a hostile country and sworn enemy of his own, means nothing to the prince. Taking his army he goes to invade her homeland and bring her back his bride. His adventures and hers and the many difficulties and incidents that rise to thwart his resolve are delightfully told.

"A Wife's Sacrifice."

Genevieve Hamper, wife of Robert B. Mantell and co-star with him in the newest Fox picture, "The Wife's Sacrifice," is declared by many of the world's best known artists to be the possessor of the "most beautiful face on earth," the perfect type of feminine beauty. Miss Hamper is a brunette, with an oval shaped face and every feature of the southern type. Miss Hamper has been an actress since early childhood and for the past ten years has played with her husband in Shakespearan roles. It is said that she photographs perfectly under the strongest lights without any make-up at all. Robert B. Mantell is recognized both in this country and in his own—England—as one of the greatest of the interpreters of Shakespeare. Since these two entered the pictures a short time ago, they have made many successful productions, always playing together and under the direction of William Fox. Stuart Holmes, the "villain" of the screen deserves special praise for his excellent work in this picture, and others important in the support are Genevieve Blinn, Claire Whitney, Walter Miller, Louise Rial, Henry Leoni, Walter McCullough, and little Jane Lee, the four-year-old child actress who is as well known as many of her famous sister actresses.

AT THE CRYSTAL.

"Drugged Waters" Today.

Most of the action takes place at High Blunff Mineral Springs, which is a beautiful resort in the Rocky mountains. Clarence Webb, manager of the Springs, has long doped it with litthia, sulphur, etc., in order to attract the wealthy patients, who imagine that they have ailments. Gladys Saunders, who owns the spring and who has just lately returned from college, knows nothing of the methods which are used to obtain business. Her father, before his death, had expressed a wish that she should marry Clarence.

A retired capitalist, Mr. Harron, and his daughter, Selma, who is in love with her father's physician, Dr. Sherwood, comes to the hotel and an attachment springs up between Gladys and Dr. Sherwood, much to the chagrin and jealousy of Selma and Clarence.

Clarence at once urges Gladys to marry him and she refuses. He then tells her that she owes everything to him, that the springs are not naturally medicated and that he is the only one who can carry on the business successfully. She is horrified at the deception and still refuses him. He afterward tells Aunt Cornelia he will tell all the guests she is defrauding the public. She, horrified, goes to try and persuade Gladys to listen to him. Clarence is then discovered putting the ingredients into the water by Dr. Sherwood, who accuses him of defrauding the public. Clarence tells him Gladys would lose all her property if it wasn't for the deception. Dr. Sherwood disagrees and tells him that the only real cure is diet, exercise and the pure spring water—that he could affect cures without the deception. Gladys, who has entered the room, unobserved, promises to back him up if he will try his plan.

Many laughable difficulties with the eccentric patients present themselves to Dr. Sherwood, but the final catastrophe occurs when Selma, who is insanely jealous of Gladys and Dr. Sherwood, learns that Clarence has not got smallpox. She bribes one of the guards to send for the health officer and constable and they release Clarence, who at once tells the guests of the false quarantine. The guests have become much benefited by Dr. Sherwood's treatment and when he asks if they will stand by him instead of taking sides with the man who would allow them to remain invalids for life, all rally to support Dr. Sherwood.

The cast:

Dr. Sherwood	William C. Dowlan
Gladys Saunders	Gloria Fonda
Clarence Webb	E. P. Evers
Cornelia Wrigley	Lule Warrenton
Dr. Jennings	H. F. Crane
Selma	Mary Ruby
Dr. Perkins	George Berrel

Wiel and Jones, Dreadnoughts of Variety.

A special treat will be offered the Waco theatre-going public commencing Tuesday, March 28. Mr. Lempke, ever watchful for something to please his patrons, found that Sam C. Wiel and his partner in vaudeville were visiting Waco to give Mr. Wiel a chance to visit his mother. This team has been playing all the leading vaudeville circuits in the United States, and just completed the Interstate circuit at Oklahoma City, where they were the feature on the bill at the Folly thaetre. Press reports from every city they have played stamp them as one of the best novelty vaudeville acts seen the last two seasons. Immediately after their appearance at the Crystal theatre in this city they leave for the east, to appear over the Lowe circuit, one of the leading vaudeville circuits of the east. They will present their singing and talking comedy travesty on the European war for three days commencing Tuesday, March 28.

The Oklahoma City Oklahoman said: "Wiel and Jones, who bill themselves the Two War Correspondents, have an act built around the European war; they have splendid voices, the act is mingled with good repartees, and is a novelty in every respect."

The Los Angeles Examiner said: "The Hippodrome bill is sparkling with song and comedy this week—Wiel and Jones in songs and stories about the war are taking hit honors from the rest by their clever way of burlesquing the war in song. Chicken Jones always keeps the audience roaring with his song "The Chicken Rag."

Mary Fuller in "The Strength of the Weak" Thursday.

The cast:

Pauline D'Arcy	Mary Fuller
John Adams (Abbott)	Edwards Davis
Richard Adams	Harry Hilliard
Tom Dare	Curtis Benton

Pauline D'Arcy, a young country girl just emerging upon womanhood, meets and is attracted by a man many years her senior whom she knows by the name of Abbott. A man of distinction, wealthy and brilliant, Abbott fascinates the mind and heart of the inexperienced girl and makes her his mistress. Her submission follows the accidental death of her father, who, when dying, asks "Abbott" to become her protector and legal guardian. "Abbott," unknown to Pauline, is a married man.

He has promised to send her to college and assist her to establish herself in a literary career, promising ot marry her.

Pauline, accordingly, enters a university for women. She develops her literary talent until, as graduation approaches, she has already completed a novel founded in a large degree upon her own experience. It is accepted and published anonymously, quickly becomes a "best seller," and everyone is eager to learn the identity of the author of the brilliant work.

The success of her book has made her financially independent, and when, on graduation day, Abbott proposes to take her away with him, she rebels, claims her freedom, offers to repay him the money he has advanced for her education, and begs him to go his way and let her alone.

About this time Pauline meets a young man named Richard Adams. He is a fine manly fellow and an affection springs up between them that promises quickly to ripen into love.

They are both invited to a house party given by Mrs. Dare, a wealthy woman whose daughter Kitty, was Pauline's favorite college chum. During the party Richard Adams presses his suit, but Pauline give shim little encouragement.

At this same party a rival for her favor develops in the person of Kitty's brother, Tom Dare. Dissipated and vicious, Dare tries to force Pauline to illicit relations with him by threatening disclosure of her story to the assembled guests. She defies him and he, in a fit of rage and intoxication, soon makes good his threat.

That night in the presence of all the guests, at the Hunting club ball, Tom makes the public accusation. Driven to admit the authorship of the book (though not confessing she is its heroine) Pauline nevertheless defends in a spirited speech, a woman's right to redeem herself and make a worthy future out of an unfortunate past.

The guests are divided between admiration and horror when Richard comes to the rescue and turns the tide into a complete triumph for Pauline, when he announces that her views are his and that she has done him the honor of promising to become his wife. Later Abbott turns up with threats, but Pauline has confessed her past to Richard. Many sensational events keep the audience in suspense and the end brings out an unexpected climax.

REX ALWAYS SHOWS THE BEST

tells of Mary Denby, the beautiful wife of the drunken, thieving Steve Denby, liivng in the slums of New York. It is easily seen that Mary is a girl of refinement and education, and in spite of her poverty, keeps herself and her house as neat as a pin.

Steve spends all the money he can get on drink, and finally forces Mary when the funds are exhausted, to seek employment.

In answer to a newspaper advertisement, Mary secures a position as seamstress in the home of a wealthy society woman, Mrs. Hillary. Mr. Hillary is a promoter and wishes to interest the wealthy young bachelor, Roger Manning, in a scheme which he is promoting. He invites him to a dinner party to meet a beautiful young woman. The beauty fails to appear. As a last resort Mrs. Hillary dresses Mary in a stunning gown and has her take the place of the absent guest. Manning promptly falls head over heels in love with Mary, who conducts herself with great dignity and modesty and he is about to become interested in Mr. Hillary's scheme when Steve Danby breaks into the Hillary house where both Manning and Mary are spending the week-end. The story breaks with intense and thrilling interest which holds the audience spellbound.

Hazel Dawn Starred in Film Set in Great Department Store.

Shy and unsophisticated, Helen falls an easy victim of the notorious band which preys upon young girls and she is easily induced to go to a boarding house which is in reality the headquarters of the gang. Failing to find employment she decides to give violin lessons and while practicing, she hears the agonized cough of a girl in the next room. Investigating, she discovers ttat the girl is in the last stages of tuberculosis and that only instant removal to the mountains will save her. Moved by compassion, Helen impulsively sells the beautiful dog which is her only source of amusement and contrives to set the girl on the path to recovery.

Practically penniless as the result of her kindness, Helen is ejected from her room but young Bruce Kerwin, a wealthy New Yorker, who has been attracted by her beauty, learns of her plight and induces one of the other girls in the house to "loan" Helen some money.

Through the efforts of Burke, a mounted policeman and his sweetheart, the girl obtained employment in a department store, where the advances of a floor walker annoy her. When she repulses him he contrives to have her discharged, but when she tells her story to the matron, she is taken to the manager and reinstated.

The floor walker, finding that Helen and young Bruce are going together, informs the boy's father that he is interested in a shop girl. In the row which follows between father and son, Bruce leaves his home and then marries Helen. Soon after, he is injured and Helen decides to try her luck on the stage. She is a tremendous success and scores a great hit, captivating among others, the elder Kerwin, who does not suspect that she is his daughter-in-law. The old gentleman meets Helen—she, of course, is aware of his identity—and the girl adroitly wins his heart before revealing her identity.

The cast of characters:

Helen .....Hazel Dawn
Bruce .....Irving Cummings

"When Love Is King."

"When Love Is King," an Edison photoplay in five parts, released through Kleine-Edison features, will be shown at the Rex theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. As its title implies it deals with a romance but there is enough action and spice in it to satisfy the most exacting. The theme deals with the love affair of a king and a young American girl whose daddy finally buys a kingdom, titles and all, to make smooth sailing for the youthful monarch and his daughter.

PUBLIC LIBRARY GETS NEW BOOKS

The following books, which represent a variety of interests, may be found at the public library, Twelfth and Austin streets. They may be borrowed for two weeks with the privilege of renewal for two weeks more. The library is free to all:

"Studies in American Elementary Law," by John C. Townes. (Second edition.) This book written by a well known authority on the subject, needs no explanation.

"Taxation of Land Values," by Louis F. Post. (Fifth edition.) The fifth edition of a book which first appeared under the title of "Outlines of Post's Lectures." The second and third editions bore the title of "The Single Tax." The fourth and fifth are entitled "Taxation of Land Values." Such differences as there are between taxation of land values and the single tax are explained in the text.

"Mothers' Pensions," selected articles compiled by E. D. Bullock. One of the "Debaters' Handbook Series," similar to those already in the library.

"The Advertising Book, 1916," by P. T. Cherrington. Articles, addresses and other productions on advertising which have appeared during the year 1915. The first of a series of yearbooks on advertising development.

"Marion Harland's Complete Etiquette." Revised and enlarged edition. "A young people's guide to every social occasion."—Preface.

"Letters and Letter Writing," by Charity Dye. Part 1 contains a group of letters well known in literature. Part 2 shows what practical use can be made of the letters in part 1, in acquiring ease and fluency in written expression.

"The Care of the Skin and Hair," by W. A. Pusey. The author asserts, "My aim has been to write a book chiefly on the hygiene of the skin, not a book on the self-treatment of skin diseases, and cerfainly not one to foster the mischievous habit of self-medication."

"Being Well-Born," a volume in the "Childhood and Youth Series." Professor Guyer of the University of Wisconsin, an authority on the problem of heredity, has prepared this book with the hope that it may be a help to parents, teachers and social workers.

"The Child and His Spelling," by W. A. Cook and M. V. O'Shea. A valuable contribution to the rather meagre literature on the subject.

"Butterfly and Moth Book," by E. B. Robertson. A practical little guide to the common butterflies and moths. Not the least of the valuable traits of the book are its unusually clear illustrations.

"Robert Browning: How to Know Him," by William Lyons Phelps. "Not since Stopford Brooke's remarkable volume of mingled analysis and rhapsody has any work on Browning been published which is likely to reach with effect so wide an audience as this book of Professor Phelps's."—New York Times Book Review.

Beautiful Reception at Mart.

Mesdames W. P. Shelton and F. F. Criswell were joint hostesses at a beautiful reception Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 at the Shelton home on Texas avenue. About a hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Master Barrington Shelton, charmingly dressed in white, opened the door of the reception hall for the guests. Here Mesdames Shelton and Criswell graciously received. Mrs. Shelton was gowned in a handsome black and green taffeta and wore carnations. Mrs. Criswell was dressed in a lovely green costume, her flowers harmonizing beautifully with the color of her gown. The reception hall was artistically decorated for this lovely occasion in luxuriant ferns and hanging baskets of red flowers. The lights were shaded with red, shedding a soft glow over the charming scene.

Upon entering the partlor the guests were met at the door by Misses Marguerite Punchard and Aetna Wolverton, who invited them to the punch bowl, where Miss Kitty Blackwood charmingly presided, round the punch bowl was a low mound of ferns and red sweet peas, the color scheme in this room being red. The lights were shaded with red and on the mantle was a vase of beautiful red carnations.

After being served to punch, the guests were led to the dining room, where Misses Etta Hutton and Beulah Kendall presided. Here a green and white motif was effectively carried out in honor of St. Patrick. Green ferns and white carnations were in evidence everywhere.

On the buffet and mantle were bouquets of white carnations and in the center of the massive dining table, which was covered with a beautiful piece of Cluny, was a handsome cut glass vase of white carnations, a large green maline bow being tied around the vase. Tapers with shades of white decorated with green shamrocks were used on the buffet and at the four sides of the dining table, while from above the lights of the chandelier cast a green glow. The St. Patrick idea was further carried out in the refreshments, white brick cream with green shamrock center and angelfood cake being served. Following the ice course, green mints were passed in cut-glass nappies tied with green maline bows.

While in the dining room the guests chatted pleasanly with Mesdames A. C. Shelton, A. H. Townsand, J. H. Punchard, Will Strange and Horace Lumpkin, who were members of the house party.

Upon leaving the dining room the guests were attracted by strains of sweet music, and, directed by Mrs. John Ed Punchard, they found their way to the music room. This room rivaled in loveliness the others. Pink being the predominant color. The lights were shaded in pink and daybreak carnations and ferns gave the floral adornment. Entertaining in this room were Mesdames Luther Spencer and T. M. Wilson, Miss Mary Wilson being at the piano.

John D. Rockefeller is assessed for $45,000,000 on personal property in New York.

"WHEN LOVE IS KING"

REX ALWAYS SHOWS THE BEST

tells of Mary Denby, the beautiful wife of the drunken, thieving Steve Denby, living in the slums of New York. It is easily seen that Mary is a girl of refinement and education, and in spite of her poverty, keeps herself and her house as neat as a pin.

Steve spends all the money he can get on drink, and finally forces Mary when the funds are exhausted, to seek employment.

In answer to a newspaper advertisement, Mary secures a position as seamstress in the home of a wealthy society woman, Mrs. Hillary. Mr. Hillary is a promoter and wishes to interest the wealthy young bachelor, Roger Manning, in a scheme which he is promoting. He invites him to a dinner party to meet a beautiful young woman. The beauty fails to appear. As a last resort Mrs. Hillary dresses Mary in a stunning gown and has her take the place of the absent guest. Manning promptly falls head over heels in love with Mary, who conducts herself with great dignity and modesty and he is about to become interested in Mr. Hillary's scheme when Steve Danby breaks into the Hillary house where both Manning and Mary are spending the week-end. The story breaks with intense and thrilling interest which holds the audience spellbound.

Hazel Dawn Starred in Film Set in Great Department Store.

Shy and unsophisticated, Helen falls an easy victim of the notorious band which preys upon young girls and she is easily induced to go to a boarding house which is in reality the headquarters of the gang. Failing to find employment she decides to give violin lessons and while practicing, she hears the agonized cough of a girl in the next room. Investigating, she discovers ttat the girl is in the last stages of tuberculosis and that only instant removal to the mountains will save her. Moved by compassion, Helen impulsively sells the beautiful dog which is her only source of amusement and contrives to set the girl on the path to recovery.

Practically penniless as the result of her kindness, Helen is ejected from her room but young Bruce Kerwin, a wealthy New Yorker, who has been attracted by her beauty, learns of her plight and induces one of the other girls in the house to "loan" Helen some money.

Through the efforts of Burke, a mounted policeman and his sweetheart, the girl obtained employment in a department store, where the advances of a floor walker annoy her. When she repulses him he contrives to have her discharged, but when she tells her story to the matron, she is taken to the manager and reinstated.

The floor walker, finding that Helen and young Bruce are going together, informs the boy's father that he is interested in a shop girl. In the row which follows between father and son, Bruce leaves his home and then marries Helen. Soon after, he is injured and Helen decides to try her luck on the stage. She is a tremendous success and scores a great hit, captivating among others, the elder Kerwin, who does not suspect that she is his daughter-in-law. The old gentleman meets Helen—she, of course, is aware of his identity—and the girl adroitly wins his heart before revealing her identity.

The cast of characters:

Helen .....Hazel Dawn
Bruce .....Irving Cummings
Lizzie .....Dorothy Rogers
Bruce's Father ...Clarence Handysides
Officer Burks .....Arthur Morrison

"When Love Is King."

"When Love Is King," an Edison photoplay in five parts, released through Kleine-Edison features, will be shown at the Rex theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. As its title implies it deals with a romance but there is enough action and spice in it to satisfy the most exacting. The theme deals with the love affair of a king and a young American girl whose daddy finally buys a kingdom, titles and all, to make smooth sailing for the youthful monarch and his daughter.

PUBLIC LIBRARY GETS NEW BOOKS

The following books, which represent a variety of interests, may be found at the public library, Twelfth and Austin streets. They may be borrowed for two weeks with the privilege of renewal for two weeks more. The library is free to all:

"Studies in American Elementary Law," by John C. Townes. (Second edition.) This book written by a well known authority on the subject, needs no explanation.

"Taxation of Land Values," by Louis F. Post. (Fifth edition.) The fifth edition of a book which first appeared under the title of "Outlines of Post's Lectures." The second and third editions bore the title of "The Single Tax." The fourth and fifth are entitled "Taxation of Land Values." Such differences as there are between taxation of land values and the single tax are explained in the text.

"Mothers' Pensions," selected articles compiled by E. D. Bullock. One of the "Debaters' Handbook Series," similar to those already in the library.

"The Advertising Book, 1916," by P. T. Cherrington. Articles, addresses and other productions on advertising which have appeared during the year 1915. The first of a series of yearbooks on advertising development.

"Marion Harland's Complete Etiquette." Revised and enlarged edition. "A young people's guide to every social occasion."—Preface.

"Letters and Letter Writing," by Charity Dye. Part 1 contains a group of letters well known in literature. Part 2 shows what practical use can be made of the letters in part 1, in acquiring ease and fluency in written expression.

"The Care of the Skin and Hair," by W. A. Pusey. The author asserts, "My aim has been to write a book chiefly on the hygiene of the skin, not a book on the self-treatment of skin diseases, and certainly not one to foster the mischievous habit of self-medication."

"Being Well-Born," a volume in the "Childhood and Youth Series." Professor Guyer of the University of Wisconsin, an authority on the problem of heredity, has prepared this book with the hope that it may be a help to parents, teachers and social workers.

"The Child and His Spelling," by W. A. Cook and M. V. O'Shea. A valuable contribution to the rather meagre literature on the subject.

"Butterfly and Moth Book," by E. B. Robertson. A practical little guide to the common butterflies and moths. Not the least of the valuable traits of the book are its unusually clear illustrations.

"Robert Browning; How to Know Him," by William Lyons Phelps. "Not since Stopford Brooke's remarkable volume of mingled analysis and rhapsody has any work on Browning been published which is likely to reach with effect so wide an audience as this book of Professor Phelps's."—New York Times Book Review.

Beautiful Reception at Mart.

Mesdames W. P. Shelton and F. F. Criswell were joint hostesses at a beautiful reception Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 at the Shelton home on Texas avenue. About a hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Master Barrington Shelton, charmingly dressed in white, opened the door of the reception hall for the guests. Here Mesdames Shelton and Criswell graciously received. Mrs. Shelton was gowned in a handsome black and green taffeta and wore carnations. Mrs. Criswell was dressed in a lovely green costume, her flowers harmonizing beautifully with the color of her gown. The reception hall was artistically decorated for this lovely occasion in luxuriant ferns and hanging baskets of red flowers. The lights were shaded with red, shedding a soft glow over the charming scene.

Upon entering the parlor the guests were met at the door by Misses Marguerite Punchard and Aetna Wolverton, who invited them to the punch bowl, where Miss Kitty Blackwood charmingly presided, round the punch bowl was a low mound of ferns and red sweet peas, the color scheme in this room being red. The lights were shaded with red and on the mantle was a vase of beautiful red carnations.

After being served to punch, the guests were led to the dining room, where Misses Etta Hutton and Beulah Kendall presided. Here a green and white motif was effectively carried out in honor of St. Patrick. Green ferns and white carnations were in evidence everywhere. On the buffet and mantle were bouquets of white carnations and in the center of the massive dining table, which was covered with a beautiful piece of Cluny, was a handsome cut glass vase of white carnations, a large green maline bow being tied around the vase. Tapers with shades of white decorated with green shamrocks were used on the buffet and at the four sides of the dining table, while from above the lights of the chandelier cast a green glow. The St. Patrick idea was further carried out in the refreshments, white brick cream with green shamrock center and angelfood cake being served. Following the ice course, green mints were passed in cut-glass nappies tied with green maline bows.

While in the dining room the guests chatted pleasanly with Mesdames A. C. Shelton, A. H. Townsand, J. H. Punchard, Will Strange and Horace Lumpkin, who were members of the house party.

Upon leaving the dining room the guests were attracted by strains of sweet music, and, directed by Mrs. John Ed Punchard, they found their way to the music room. This room rivaled in lovelieness the others, pink being the predominant color. The lights were shaded in pink and daybreak carnations and ferns gave the floral adornment. Entertaining in this room were Mesdames Luther Spencer and T. M. Wilson, Miss Mary Wilson being at the piano.

Praetorians Have Rousing Meeting

Central Texas council No. 574, Modern Order of Praetorians, met in open session Thursday evening, March 23, with about 100 in attendance. Sublime Augustus L. G. Stewart was master of ceremonies for the evening. After the opening address by Judge E. C. Street, which was enjoyed very much, Judge Tom L. McCullough made a fine talk on "Praetorianism."

With Judge Tom L. McCullough acting as installing officer and District Manager W. A. Laughlin as Praetorian herald, the following officers were installed for the ensuing year: L. G. Stewart, sublime Augustus; H. O. Starling, senior tribune; B. F. Durr, junior tribune; H. S. Moore, recorder; J. E. Proffitt, soothsayer; George H. Smith, Lygian; T. A. Dukes, attorney; F. O. Post, first centurion; R. E. Barron, second centurion; Mrs. H. S. Moore, sentinel; Mrs. Mabel McGinnis, musician, and Miss Lizzie Mae Pouncey, queen.

The following program gave much pleasure to all:

Reading, Miss Mary Joe Derr.

Solo, Miss Clara Bunata.

Fancy dance, Miss Bettie Lou Zimmerman.

Reading, Miss Gertrude Austin.

Character song, George H. Smith.

Reading, Miss Joie D. Williams.

After the program the meeting was turned over to the ladies and refreshments were served. Every one present declared it to be one of the most enthusiastic Praetorian meetings they had ever attended.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to use this method of expressing our deep felt gratitude to those good people who were so kind to us during the long illness and death of our beloved wife, mother and sister, Mrs. Lucy Nicholson. We shall never fail to remember the kindly services and gentle ministrations of the host of friends in our trials and bereavements. We can never repay them, but will hold them in kindly remembrance. A part of their reward will be the knowledge that they brought comfort to her in suffering, and consolation to us in our grief.

May the great God smile kindly upon each of you, and may many tender friends comfort you if sorrow should at any time enter your home.

Very sincerely,
D. L. NICHOLSON AND CHILDREN.
MRS. BILL BILIS.
MRS. GUY ROBERSON.

COMMUNITY CIRCLE IDEA IS GROWING

NORTH WACO CITIZENS RALLY TO NEIGHBORHOOD SOCIAL CIRCLE PLAN.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD

Many Addresses Made by Citizens of Neighborhood and School Men of City.

When the people of North Waco met for the second time Friday night to discuss the proposed organization of the community for the purposes of betterment of civic and social conditions, there was a good attendance, and every one in the gathering was enthusiastic as to the purposes and plans. The first meeting had been held a week previous, and a committee had been named to select a committee that would outline the work, and during the interim the questions had been generally discussed among the people.

Dr. L. S. Downs called the Friday night meeting to order. He was the prime mover in the proposed co-operative movement. He stated there was need for a closer fraternal relation between all mankind and a better means of knowing each other. "I want each one of you to become a member of this organization," he said, "and to agree to work diligently for its success, and to bring about such social spirit among us that it will entitle each member to recognition, to a smile and a kind word from every other member."

Dr. Downs emphasized his ideas with this verse:

"'Tis not for money the poor man pleads,
But love and sympathy he so much needs,
A grasp of the hand and a kindly word
Should more oft' be felt and more often heard."

"So, kind friends," he said, "let us give freely of that which costs us nothing and is so priceless to others."

"Kind words and a smile are worth while.
It matters but little the size of your pile,
The cut of your clothes or your style;
And will always come back with a smile."

There were about 150 present, including men, women and children. They were much impressed with the remarks of the chairman.

The committee which has been selected by direction of the meeting held March 17 was then called on. It is composed as follows: Mrs. T. D. Whiteman, home; Mrs. W. A. Goodwin, entertainment; Mrs. J. A. McAtee, social; Mrs. S. E. Schaefer, music; Dr. L. S. Downs, industry; Dr. R. B. Bell, economics; Dr. W. B. Morrison, education; Col. W. A. Poage, civics; Charles L. Wilie, sports; Prof. L. P. Bailey, information; J. M. Pattillo, publicity; J. S. Shaw, fires; Dr. H. W. Gates, health; Luke Moore, sidewalks and streets; Dr. W. S. Ferguson, sanitation.

PURPOSE OF THE ORGANIZATION SET FORTH.

This executive committee then submitted the following report:

"Realizing the vast importance to our community of the North Waco School Civic Center, we, the executive bureau, feel it our duty to more fully inform our neighbors and friends relatively to the real objects of the organization.

"Feeling the need of a more neighborly and fraternal spirit between the citizens of North Waco and realizing the vast advantages and importance of co-operation for civic, social and intellectual improvement, the people of North Waco have perfected the above organization.

"Through the kindness and hearty co-operation of the Waco school board we have been granted the privilege of using the North Waco school building as a civic center and meeting place. The work of the organization will be under the supervision and management of a bureau of fifteen men and women elected annually by the organization. Each one of the bureau will act as the head of an auxiliary bureau or department having supervision over certain lines of work.

"Business meetings will be held once a month and social meetings every week or every two weeks."

This report was adopted and the program for the evening was then enjoyed. This program began with a piano solo by Miss Edith Fields, and was followed with a reading by Miss Jewell Johnson.

STRESS SPIRIT OF NEIGHBORLINESS.

Prof. B. B. Cobb, superintendent of the city schools, was a visitor by invitation and made an address on "Our Neighbors." He related how necessary it is for community co-operation and for neighborly feeling between people living near each other. He related incidents of people who did not know those who lived in the same block with them, but he was charitable enough to attribute it to the fact that people are so busy they do not get time to become acquainted. He urged that they take time, that they know each other and learn in this way how each can help the other and thus both be benefited.

Col. W. A. Poage made an address on organization and emphasized the fact that small though the start may be, great things may grow out of it. He has been a member of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association for more than thirty years. While attending the meeting in Houston during the week of the association, which is now forty years old, and there he saw five of the original nineteen members of the organization. Starting with but nineteen, forty years ago, it has grown to be one of the largest and strongest organizations in this country. He said that a few could gather together as the people of North Waco have done and make a start that would grow in strength and influence to cover a wide territory and embrace many people.

President W. E. Darden of the Waco school board was among those attending and made an address approving of the purposes and plans of the people of North Waco. He said it gave the school board pleasure to be able to invite them to the North Waco building, which was erected primarily for education of the children, but that it would fully meet its purposes if it became a meeting place for the people of the neighborhood where they could plan for their own affairs, help each other and do those things that would bring more enlightenment to the people who are busy by day and cannot seek out for themselves so much of the necessary information that must be brought to them. Mr. Darden made a very pleasing talk and was thanked cheerfully for what he said.

"What Can I Do?" was taken as a subject by Dr. L. S. Downs. He made a strong appeal to the individual to co-operate in this movement and enumerated many ways in which the individual can be helpful to himself, his friends and his community. He closed with this bit of verse:

"What can I do
To help my town along?
I can be good and true,
I can smile and sing a song,
I can be here every night,
I can give my little mite
And I can fight a wrong.

"What can I do?
I can beautify my home,
Be kind and gentle, too.
I can stop a brother's moan,
I can plant a tree or shrub or flower,
I can utilize an hour
Cultivating seeds that I have sown.

"What can I do?
I'll tell you, friend:
Try something new,
If the old offend.
A change sometimes is all we need
If we stop this grind and greed
And strive our life to mend.

"What can I do?
Help some needy child or man,
For helping others is helping you.
Do it, neighbor, if you can.
More joy will come from a kindly deed
Than hoarded wealth of sordid greed,
In Life's terrestrial span.

"What can we do?
A hundred things or more,
The whole day through.
We can help the needy poor,
We can work and sing and play,
And always find a way
To do a little more."

Short talks were made by Dr. W. S. Ferguson, Edward T. Sharp, J. E. Oliver, Dr. H. W. Gates, L. D. Leonard, O. B. Crow, Capt. Luke Moore, Prof. L. P. Bailey, Dr. R. B. Bell, J. S. Shaw, J. S. Fields Sr. and Mesdames T. D. Whiteman, W. A. Poage, L. P. Bailey, W. A. Goodwin, J. M. Pattillo and L. S. Downs.

"I want each one of you to become a member of this organization," he said, "and to agree to work diligently for its success, and to bring about such social spirit among us that it will entitle each member to recognition, to a smile and a kind word from every other member."

Dr. Downs emphasized his ideas with this verse:

"'Tis not for money the poor man pleads,
But love and sympathy he so much needs,
A grasp of the hand and a kindly word
Should more oft' be felt and more often heard."

"So, kind friends," he said, "let us give freely of that which costs us nothing and is so priceless to others."

"Kind words and a smile are worth while.
It matters but little the size of your pile,
The cut of your clothes or your style;
And will always come back with a smile."

There were about 150 present, including men, women and children. They were much impressed with the remarks of the chairman.

The committee which has been selected by direction of the meeting held March 17 was then called on. It is composed as follows: Mrs. T. D. Whiteman, home; Mrs. W. A. Goodwin, entertainment; Mrs. J. A. McAtee, social; Mrs. S. E. Schaefer, music; Dr. L. S. Downs, industry; Dr. R. B. Bell, economics; Dr. W. B. Morrison, education; Col. W. A. Poage, civics; Charles L. Wilie, sports; Prof. L. P. Bailey, information; J. M. Pattillo, publicity; J. S. Shaw, fires; Dr. H. W. Gates, health; Luke Moore, sidewalks and streets; Dr. W. S. Ferguson, sanitation.

PURPOSE OF THE ORGANIZATION SET FORTH.

This executive committee then submitted the following report:

"Realizing the vast importance to our community of the North Waco School Civic Center, we, the executive bureau, feel it our duty to more fully inform our neighbors and friends relatively to the real objects of the organization.

"Feeling the need of a more neighborly and fraternal spirit between the citizens of North Waco and realizing the vast advantages and importance of co-operation for civic, social and intellectual improvement, the people of North Waco have perfected the above organization.

"Through the kindness and hearty co-operation of the Waco school board we have been granted the privilege of using the North Waco school building as a civic center and meeting place. The work of the organization will be under the supervision and management of a bureau of fifteen men and women elected annually by the organization. Each one of the bureau will act as the head of an auxiliary bureau or department having supervision over certain lines of work.

"Business meetings will be held once a month and social meetings every week or every two weeks."

This report was adopted and the program for the evening was then enjoyed. This program began with a piano solo by Miss Edith Fields, and was followed with a reading by Miss Jewell Johnson.

STRESS SPIRIT OF NEIGHBORLINESS.

Prof. B. B. Cobb, superintendent of the city schools, was a visitor by invitation and made an address on "Our Neighbors." He related how necessary it is for community co-operation and for neighborly feeling between people living near each other. He related incidents of people who did not know those who lived in the same block with them, but he was charitable enough to attribute it to the fact that people are so busy they do not get time to become acquainted. He urged that they take time, that they know each other and learn in this way how each can help the other and thus both be benefited.

Col. W. A. Poage made an address on organization and emphasized the fact that small though the start may be, great things may grow out of it. He has been a member of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association for more than thirty years. While attending the meeting in Houston during the week of the association, which is now forty years old, and there he saw five of the original nineteen members of the organization. Starting with but nineteen, forty years ago, it has grown to be one of the largest and strongest organizations in this country. He said that a few could gather together as the people of North Waco have done and make a start that would grow in strength and influence to cover a wide territory and embrace many people.

President W. E. Darden of the Waco school board was among those attending and made an address approving of the purposes and plans of the people of North Waco. He said it gave the school board pleasure to be able to invite them to the North Waco building, which was erected primarily for education of the children, but that it would fully meet its purposes if it became a meeting place for the people of the neighborhood where they could plan for their own affairs, help each other and do those things that would bring more enlightenment to the people who are busy by day and cannot seek out for themselves so much of the necessary information that must be brought to them. Mr. Darden made a very pleasing talk and was thanked cheerfully for what he said.

"What Can I Do?" was taken as a subject by Dr. L. S. Downs. He made a strong appeal to the individual to co-operate in this movement and enumerated many ways in which the individual can be helpful to himself, his friends and his community. He closed with this bit of verse:

"What can I do
To help my town along?
I can be good and true,
I can smile and sing a song,
I can be here every night,
I can give my little mite
And I can fight a wrong.

"What can I do?
I can beautify my home,
Be kind and gentle, too.
I can stop a brother's moan,
I can plant a tree or shrub or flower,
I can utilize an hour
Cultivating seeds that I have sown.

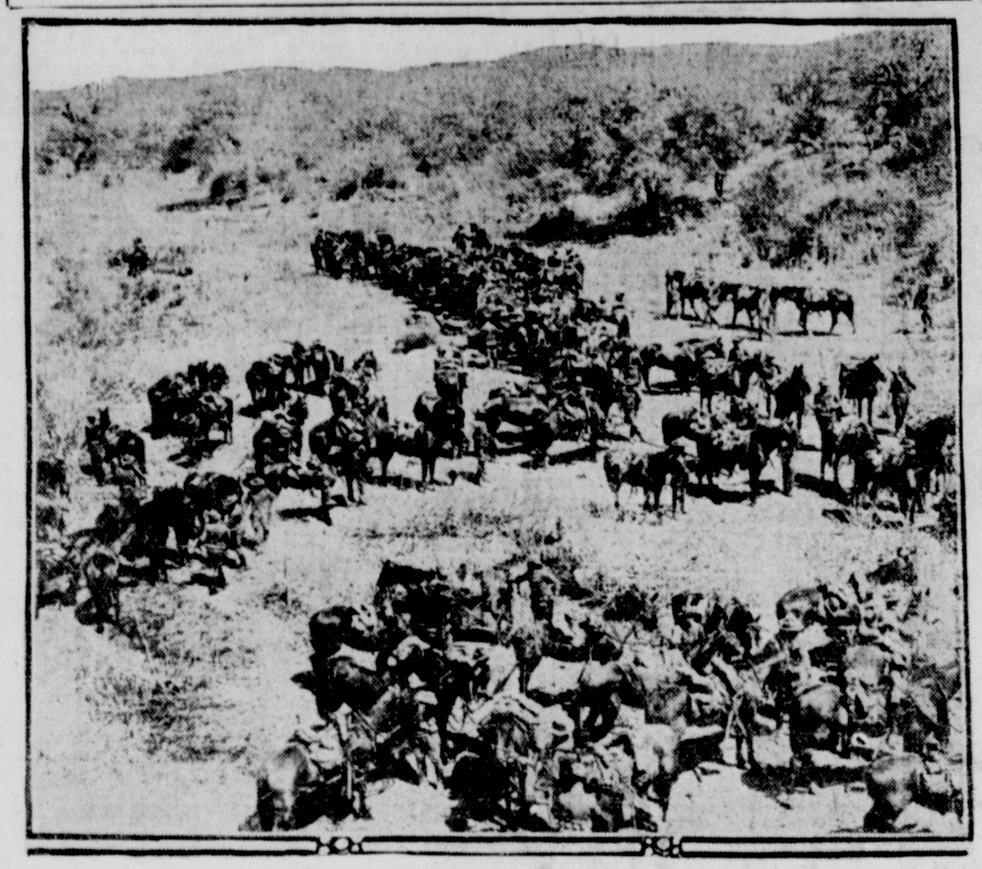
"What can I do?
I'll tell you, friend:
Try something new,
If the old offend.
A change sometimes is all we need
If we stop this grind and greed
And strive our life to mend.

"What can I do?
Help some needy child or man,
For helping others is helping you.
Do it, neighbor, if you can.
More joy will come from a kindly deed
Than hoarded wealth of sordid greed,
In Life's terrestrial span.

"What can we do?
A hundred things or more,
The whole day through,
We can help the needy poor,
We can work and sing and play,
And always find a way
To do a little more."

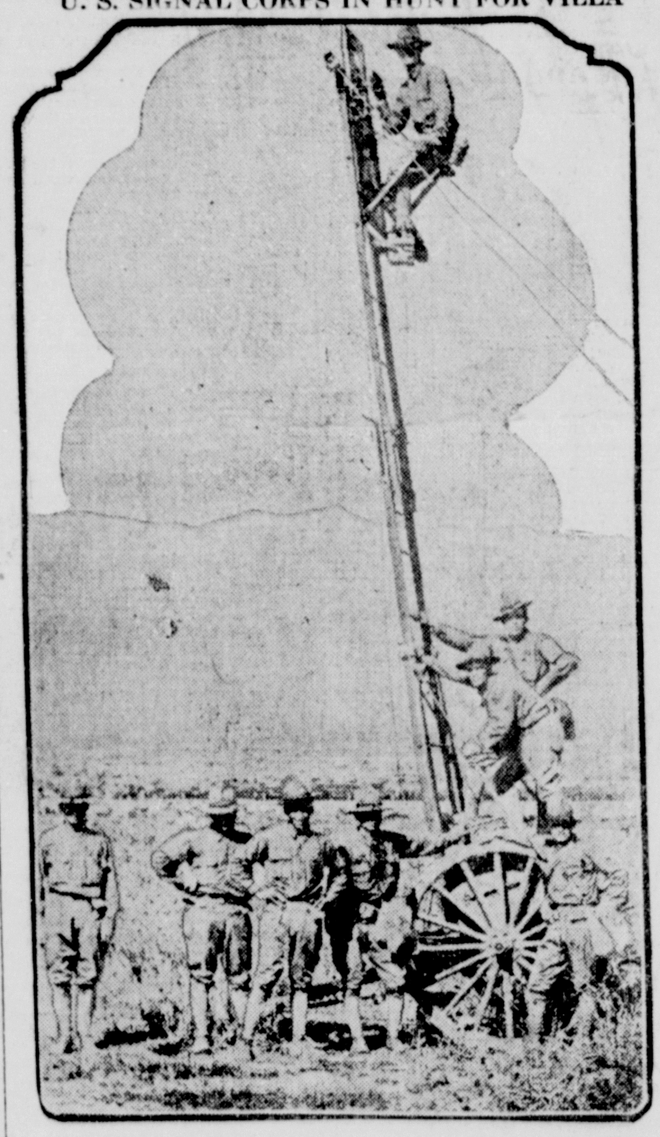
Short talks were made by Dr. W. S. Ferguson, Edward T. Sharp, J. E. Oliver, Dr. H. W. Gates, L. D. Leonard, O. B. Crow, Capt. Luke Moore, Prof. L. P. Bailey, Dr. R. B. Bell, J. S. Shaw, J. S. Fields Sr. and Mesdames T. D. Whiteman, W. A. Poage, L. P. Bailey, W. A. Goodwin, J. M. Pattillo and L. S. Downs.

U. S. CAVALRYMEN IN VILLA HUNT HALT SOMEWHERE IN MEXICO



This picture, showing the American pursuers of Villa far below the international boundary, was taken while the troops halted for water. The scarcity of water in the arid wastes that the troops have already passed through and must still cross make the water problem a serious obstacle in the pursuit of Villa.

U. S. SIGNAL CORPS IN HUNT FOR VILLA



Signal corps squad operating field observation tower in Mexico.

This type of observing tower is proving of great service to the signal corps in the Mexican expedition. The tower is demountable and is easily carried on a caisson. It can be run up in a few minutes and once the observer has climbed up the rungs of the ladder and is safely ensconced behind the protective shield, he may view the surrounding country with little fear of bullets from snipers.

Praetorians Have Rousing Meeting

Central Texas council No. 574, Modern Order of Praetorians, met in open session Thursday evening, March 23, with about 100 in attendance. Sublime Augustus L. G. Stewart was master of ceremonies for the evening. After the opening address by Judge E. C. Street, which was enjoyed very much, Judge Tom L. McCullough made a fine talk on "Praetorianism."

With Judge Tom L. McCullough acting as installing officer and District Manager W. A. Laughlin as Praetorian herald, the following officers were installed for the ensuing year: L. G. Stewart, sublime Augustus; H. O. Starling, senior tribune; B. F. Durr, junior tribune; H. S. Moore, recorder; J. E. Proffitt, soothsayer; George H. Smith, Lygian; T. A. Dukes, attorney; F. O. Post, first centurion; R. E. Barron, second centurion; Mrs. H. S. Moore, sentinel; Mrs. Mabel McGinnis, musician, and Miss Lizzie Mae Pouncey, queen.

The following program gave much pleasure to all:

Reading, Miss Mary Joe Derr.

Solo, Miss Clara Bunata.

Fancy dance, Miss Bettie Lou Zimmerman.

Reading, Misa Gertrude Austin.

Character song, George H. Smith.

Reading, Miss Joie D. Williams.

After the program the meeting was turned over to the ladies and refreshments were served. Every one present declared it to be one of the most enthusiastic Praetorian meetings they had ever attended.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to use this method of expressing our deep felt gratitude to those good people who were so kind to us during the long illness and death of our beloved wife, mother and sister, Mrs. Lucy Nicholson. We shall never fail to remember the kindly services and gentle ministrations of the host of friends in our trials and bereavements. We can never repay them, but will hold them in kindly remembrance. A part of their reward will be the knowledge that they brought comfort to her in suffering, and consolation to us in our grief.

May the great God smile kindly upon each of you, and may many tender friends comfort you if sorrow should at any time enter your home.

Very sincerely,
D. L. NICHOLSON AND CHILDREN.
MRS. BILL BILIS.
MRS. GUY ROBERSON.

Your Figure and Your Corset

The prominent feature in corseting today is the tendency toward a quite well defined figure line. Those favored with an ideal figure welcome the change in dress from the loosely draped garments.

To secure today's fashion line necessitates very careful corseting. Especially is this true where the corset must overcome figure defects and give a pleasing line.

Justrite models are authentic in style and form a perfect foundation for the latest styles in dress.

G-D Justrites have the reputation of making good figures.

MISS KATE FRIEND GUEST OF HUBBARD TUESDAY CLUB

On Monday evening, Miss Kate Frjend goes over to give radiopticon art lecture under auspices of the Tuesday club of Hubbard. This is a close to the club's study of art, and will find a large attendance of Hubbard's men, women and children. Miss Friend will use a collection from her hundreds of famous pictures gathered during her trips abroad.

HOME ECONOMICS TOUCHES LIVES OF THE POETS

In preparing her toast for the Baylor Round Table birthday dinner, Mrs. J. G. Kendall remarked upon her surprise to find so many of our standard authors mentioning cooks and cooking. This makes the remark timely, that poets of present day, catching all the talk about food values, are amassing verses to be classed as "Poetry of Food." Awaiting entrance is Herrick's "The Wedding Cake" (which, by the way, has been theme of one of Abbey's pictures), Sidney Smith's recipe for a salad, Southey's "Gooseberry Pie," "Tennyson's appetizing meat pie and home-made bread. Browning's meal as a whole, Aldrich with his lunch, Perdita's sheep shearing ingredients, the wedding feast of Juliet and Paris, pumpkin pie by Whittier, all these are tribute to Home Economics by men who perhaps never heard the word which we women of today have so overworked.

INTERESTING VISITORS ARRIVE AT LORENA

On Friday, after a voyage which consumed time between January 28 and March 24, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Anderson with Mrs. Arthur Bassett, reached Lorena. They are guests of the mother, Mrs. C. A. Westbrook, for an indefinite time. Mr. Bassett is due with autumn. As the Misses Lucile and Hallie Westbrook, these are old home girls returned from far-away Japan and China. They encountered illness, stranded boat, and inconvenience untold, but are now safe at the home of their birth, enjoying America, Texas and life-long friends. Motor trips almost daily bring the Mesdames Anderson and Bassett into Waco.

SUBJECT HAS COME AGAIN, THAT OF THE HOUSE FLY

It sounds like the hackneyed subject, but too much can never be said concerning the dangerous fly. First of all, the season is about here for the fly influx. The much heard proverb applies, prevent rather than attack. If the flies are numerous about your premises, remember this: a fly never, in all its life, leaves the home of its birth further than a city block. If you are troubled, then you have the dangerous spot very near your door. Again, the fly seeks its food voraciously in two places, filth and decay. Therefore, if the flies are numerous about your home, something needs attention. Remember, too, that one fly deposits two million eggs. This means, every fly "swatted" is two million flies prevented. Flies carry disease more than all to the babe's crib. Be careful not only to screen, but to see that no open screens, doors and windows are allowed. Read this, woman of the home, this very morning to your maid of all work. Try to educate her to what menace lies in the presence of the fly. And, above all, swat the fly. Be humane, even to the fly. When he is "swatted" take the precaution that he is really dead. Many are stunned, and left to die cruelly.

Your Figure and Your Corset

The prominent feature in corseting today is the tendency toward a quite well defined figure line. Those favored with an ideal figure welcome the change in dress from the loosely draped garments.

To secure today's fashion line necessitates very careful corseting. Especially is this true where the corset must overcome figure defects and give a pleasing line.

Justrite models are authentic in style and form a perfect foundation for the latest styles in dress.

G-D Justrites have the reputation of making good figures.

G-D Justrite Bustless CORSETS

Look for the Justrite tag inside each corset. It is the guarantee.

SPANISH BEAUTY IS DIPLOMATIC HOSTESS

PARAGUAY'S WAR LOSS.

Majority of Her Population Wiped Out a Generation Ago.

There is a little South American country called Paraguay. About the time of our civil war Paraguay boasted a population of 1,200,000 souls. Then the reigning dictator plunged her into war with the powerful neighboring countries of Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay. For years Paraguay kept up the unequal struggle, although she was outnumbered twenty to one. When she finally succumbed in 1870 her population was a little more than 200,000. She had no men left—literally none. Her last levies were composed of tottering old men, boys not out of the nursery and women. This, too, mind you, was warfare in the nineteenth century, not in the Middle Ages; warfare with gunpowder, muskets and cannon. Paraguay literally was extinguished for a generation. The proportion of males to females even now is just becoming normal. It shows what even a small country can do if it is ready to sacrifice all for victory and independence.—Army and Navy Journal.

Members of the Mary West chapter are notified that their business session, which will be an important one, will be held at the public library on Wednesday afternoon.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEET IN REGULAR SESSION

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes announces a regular monthly meeting of Parent-Teachers' association at high school on Wednesday afternoon. Business will be introduced, as well as a pleasing speaker, one who has a message worth the hearing of every mother whose child is in the Waco public school. More of detail will be announced on Wednesday morning.

WACO SOCIETY ATTENDS BALL DOWN AT MARLIN

The annual ball of the New York Giants, followed by the ball game on next afternoon, was occasion for quite a number to go down from Waco. Noticed among the dancers were the Misses Lilian Taylor, Mary Louise Shumate of Dallas, Alice Brazelton, Katherine Lewis, Lucy Lazenby, Louise Lawson, Frances Hays, Ethel Foster, Nora Gorman, Mildred Smith, Frances Van Boddie, Edwina Sturgis, the Mesdames Frank Wheeler, E. A. Sturgis, the Messrs. and Mesdames Joney Smith and William Cameron, Harold Shear, with Henry Smith, William Duncan, W. R. Davidson, Jr., Douglas Hamilton, Bira Adams, John Fort, W. B. Hays, Jr., Nelson Smith, Jr., Wallace Riviere, Lin Orand, Coman Shear, Granville Smith.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MRS. H. H. BOONE

The members of the Herring Avenue Woman's Home Missionary Auxiliary gave their president, Mrs. H. H. Boone, a birthday greeting at the home of Mrs. T. D. Whiteman. Arrangements had been made to make this event a complete surprise to the president and while she is wide awake and has eyes and ears for everything she was completely surprised. She was greeted with the little "Style" song and the remainder of the afternoon was a real good time.

On entering the dining room was found a birthday cake with candles, each lady lighting a candle and making a birthday wish to Mrs. Boone. A color scheme of purple and gold was carried out, these being the auxiliary's colors. The main feature of the afternoon were an acrostic by Mrs. Brown, toasts and a presentation of a large bouquet of violets.

MRS. MOSES SCHWARTZ IS BRIDGE HONOREE

The short visit of Mrs. Moses Schwartz of New York City, with Mrs. Sam Freund was inspiration to several afternoon bridge courtesies.

Following the Wednesday game of the Matinee Bridge with Mrs. Dan Wise where Mrs. Schwartz was guest, Mrs. A. S. Haber invited eight players to while Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Schwartz.

On Friday the Matinee Bridge club was again called for a game. Additional guests including the visitors within members' homes were added. This pleasantry was matronized by the Mesdames Herman Mayer and S. J. Davidson, in the home of Mrs. Mayer. Leading in score was Mrs. Eli Marks, but in waiting as souvenirs of the game were pieces of recent fiction for Mrs. Schwartz, Miss Matilda Kohn of New York City, Mrs. Sol Gordon of Beaumont and Miss Isador Levy of Marlin.

MRS. W. E. SPELL AT HOME FOR MRS. JOSEPH DIBRELL

Having made frequent visits to this city both public and private, Mrs. Joseph Dibrell of Seguin, is known to many. Her present visit being so hurried, it was the pleasure of Mrs. W. E. Spell to have Mrs. Dibrell with her on Friday afternoon so that all might call. A number were invited to drop in, have the sociable greeting, and the more sociable cup of tea. The response found quite a pleasant little company. The hour was informal, scarce more than the call, yet with pretty little touches, such as Mrs. Spell always makes. Mrs. Charles Moore and Mrs. Nelson Smith presided at the tea table. The Mesdames C. E. Smith and Allan Sanford welcomed guests, while Mrs. Spell introduced Mrs. Dibrell. Noticed about the rooms were the Mesdames Charles Anderson, Charles Richardson, A. H. Newman, W. W. Woodson, A. V. Cross, Eugene McNutt, Edward Rotan, Mirian Herz, Susan Thornton Price, Thomas Caufield, Aganinta Branson, W. M. Foster, W. O. Wilkes, Bolivar Nettles, Thomas Padgitt, E. P. Hunter, William Kelly, M. B. Willis, Buford McWhirter, A. R. McCollum, Mattie D. Willis, John Sleeper, H. B. Mistrot, with the Misses Nellie Dancy and Kate Friend.

GIVES $100,000 TO AMERICAN RED CROSS

Edna May.

This is the latest photograph of Edna May, who in private life is Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn. She starred in the photoplay, "Salvation Joan," and received $100,000 for her share in the production. Miss May donated the entire amount to the American Red Cross Society.

Society Notes

Japan will have to look to her laurels if the wistaria vines attain much more beauty than they have in Waco this season.

Lingering from Mardis gayety in New Orleans for a visit with relatives and old former friends, Mrs. H. C. Black is not due at home before early April.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Talmadge Hicks, who have enjoyed their honeymoon trip to Dallas, will reach home today. They will be with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hopkins, North Twelfth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Clark will add gayety to their household for the coming week in a house party of relatives. These will be Mr. and Mrs. Burton Rhodes of Missouri, Mrs. Roy Burnett of San Antonio, Mrs. J. M. McCelvey from Temple, and Mrs. E. D. McCaa from Houston.

Gardner Gillespie arrives with his bride, who was Miss Esther Cornwall of New Jersey, at the Raleigh today. After a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie will be with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gardner, Rose Park Place.

Miss Jimmie Horne was hostess to the informal little South Side Bridge club, who plays without a name. This pleasure came with Friday.

Be it said to the commendation of the Waco women, there is not yet any hard feeling resulting from arguments over the superiority of one's car over the other. We hear of all sorts of heated remarks on this subject elsewhere.

The Temple Sisterhood, working as it does in circles, is planning a monthly entertainment. Two bridge matinees and the children's Purim ball are the series so far.

A second telegram from Mrs. Freda Jackson Marshall, who was one of the victims of the Augusta, Georgia, fire, states that she with husband and little ones, escaped with nothing but what could be hastily scrambled into an automobile. Both family and friends are in the hopes that Mrs. Marshall may come out for a visit here.

Is it not a joy these days of bursting nature, to take a glimpse into the woodland? Even our own yards and trees are a pleasing change from winter barrenness.

They say, those who live adjacent, that it is worth the trip out, to see all that is going on to make C. M. Seley park one of the beauty spots of our city.

We have often wondered why Waco women have not long ago adopted the custom of their Eastern sisters in Lenten sewing classes. In vogue these many years elsewhere, the Lenten Sewing class is yet to become general here.

There is nothing like bringing a subject close home for it to have intelligent discussion. The Waco girl who never heard of the "allies" except that they were two Waco bachelor chums, is now talking glibly all about the Mexican bandit and the United States soldier.

Possibly it is the lateness of the season which has made the violet so seldom seen on Lenten gown. Heretofore, violet bunches have proclaimed the penitential time.

How quickly the dancing craze, that is, the abortive steps, and the freakish fashions attending, subsided! Up in New York City, fashionable folks attribute this to the distraction with the ice skate.

The women are wondering if consolidation of telephone companies means disappearance of half the unsightly telephone poles.

Many of us have already adopted telephone etiquette; a few more of us might. This refers to the conversation where a "cut-out" is made. Always, the woman who makes the call is the one to re-establish the connection. She has the number fresh, while the one called does not know with which number she is connected.

It is heard that the seniors at high school have given order for invitations. These, when sent, should retain the tissue slip, be addressed with street and a number on outer envelope, which is sealed; have name of the one to whom sent only, on inside envelope; mail with two-cent stamp. This is the correct form of sending by mail. If delivered at door, have street address on outer envelope and deliver unsealed if by person, sealed if by messenger; have name only on inner envelope. If the visiting card is enclosed, the prefix "Mr." or "Miss" is proper. This prefix is assumed with entrance into the "'teens." It is perfectly proper for several classmates to enclose their cards within the same invitation.

For those who are wrestling with the proposition shade tree or lawn grass, it is suggested that some have used the English ivy as terrace screen with very pleasing result.

The friends of Mrs. A. F. Sonntag will be sorry to learn that from her continued illness she is not yet able to receive company.

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexion

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion and one soon acquires a brand new, spot less, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.

25 MILES OF RECORDS.

England's Public Document Office in Chancery Lane.

Unknown to the millions who pass through the city of London every week, a work of unparalleled magnitude at what is known as the public record office in Chancery lane, has been going on for a number of years. In this office there are twenty-five miles of shelves, all full of historical material, going back through the centuries to "Doomsday Book."

It costs over 26,000 pounds a year to keep up the record office, the keeper of records being the master of the rolls. The office was established by the public records act in 1838, and the records were taken there from the tower, the chapter house, Westminster, the rolls chapel, and elsewhere. Ever since that time the office has been constantly receiving accretion from the lower courts, the government departments, and from various other quarters.

All sorts of records are kept—legal, historical, genealogical, statistical—and so varied are the contents of the office that antiquarian research of almost every kind can be made. There you will find the records of the star chamber and the old wards and liveries. State papers, domestic, colonial and foreign, formerly perceived in the state paper office in Whitehall, are also to be seen there. Unually fifty or sixty students are seen working in the record office every day, and at any time there is the fascinating thought that one of them may make some interesting historical discovery. —London Tit-Bits.

Today's Beauty Help

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterward rinsing thoroughly with clear water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and very fluffy, so fluffy in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. This simple, inexpensive shampoo cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all dandruff and dirt, and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. All scalp irritation will disappear, and the hair will be brighter and glossier than ever before.

PARAGUAY'S WAR LOSS.

Majority of Her Population Wiped Out a Generation Ago.

There is a little South American country called Paraguay. About the time of our civil war Paraguay boasted a population of 1,200,000 souls. Then the reigning dictator plunged her into war with the powerful neighboring countries of Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay. For years Paraguay kept up the unequal struggle, although she was outnumbered twenty to one. When she finally succumbed in 1870 her population was a little more than 200,000. She had no men left—literally none. Her last levies were composed of tottering old men, boys not out of the nursery and women. This, too, mind you, was warfare in the nineteenth century, not in the Middle Ages; warfare with gunpowder, muskets and cannon. Paraguay literally was extinguished for a generation. The proportion of males to females even now is just becoming normal. It shows what even a small country can do if it is ready to sacrifice all for victory and independence.—Army and Navy Journal.

Members of the Mary West chapter are notified that their business session, which will be an important one, will be held at the public library on Wednesday afternoon.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEET IN REGULAR SESSION

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes announces a regular monthly meeting of Parent-Teachers' association at high school on Wednesday afternoon. Business will be introduced, as well as a pleasing speaker, one who has a message worth the hearing of every mother whose child is in the Waco public school. More of detail will be announced on Wednesday morning.

WACO SOCIETY ATTENDS BALL DOWN AT MARLIN

The annual ball of the New York Giants, followed by the ball game on next afternoon, was occasion for quite a number to go down from Waco. Noticed among the dancers were the Misses Lilian Taylor, Mary Louise Shumate of Dallas, Alice Brazelton, Katherine Lewis, Lucy Lazenby, Louise Lawson, Frances Hays, Ethel Foster, Nora Gorman, Mildred Smith, Frances Van Boddie, Edwina Sturgis, the Mesdames Frank Wheeler, E. A. Sturgis, the Messrs. and Mesdames Joney Smith and William Cameron, Harold Shear, with Henry Smith, William Duncan, W. R. Davidson, Jr., Douglas Hamilton, Bira Adams, John Fort, W. B. Hays, Jr., Nelson Smith, Jr., Wallace Riviere, Lin Orand, Coman Shear, Granville Smith.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MRS. H. H. BOONE

The members of the Herring Avenue Woman's Home Missionary Auxiliary gave their president, Mrs. H. H. Boone, a birthday greeting at the home of Mrs. T. D. Whiteman. Arrangements had been made to make this event a complete surprise to the president and while she is wide awake and has eyes and ears for everything she was completely surprised. She was greeted with the little "Style" song and the remainder of the afternoon was a real good time.

On entering the dining room was found a birthday cake with candles, each lady lighting a candle and making a birthday wish to Mrs. Boone. A color scheme of purple and gold was carried out, these being the auxiliary's colors. The main feature of the afternoon were an acrostic by Mrs. Brown, toasts and a presentation of a large bouquet of violets.

MRS. MOSES SCHWARTZ IS BRIDGE HONOREE

The short visit of Mrs. Moses Schwartz of New York City, with Mrs. Sam Freund was inspiration to several afternoon bridge courtesies.

Following the Wednesday game of the Matinee Bridge with Mrs. Dan Wise where Mrs. Schwartz was guest, Mrs. A. S. Haber invited eight players to while Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Schwartz.

On Friday the Matinee Bridge club was again called for a game. Additional guests including the visitors within members' homes were added. This pleasantry was matronized by the Mesdames Herman Mayer and S. J. Davidson, in the home of Mrs. Mayer. Leading in score was Mrs. Eli Marks, but in waiting as souvenirs of the game were pieces of recent fiction for Mrs. Schwartz, Miss Matilda Kohn of New York City, Mrs. Sol Gordon of Beaumont and Miss Isador Levy of Marlin.

MRS. W. E. SPELL AT HOME FOR MRS. JOSEPH DIBRELL

Having made frequent visits to this city both public and private, Mrs. Joseph Dibrell of Seguin, is known to many. Her present visit being so hurried, it was the pleasure of Mrs. W. E. Spell to have Mrs. Dibrell with her on Friday afternoon so that all might call. A number were invited to drop in, have the sociable greeting, and the more sociable cup of tea. The response found quite a pleasant little company. The hour was informal, scarce more than the call, yet with pretty little touches, such as Mrs. Spell always makes. Mrs. Charles Moore and Mrs. Nelson Smith presided at the tea table. The Mesdames C. E. Smith and Allan Sanford welcomed guests, while Mrs. Spell introduced Mrs. Dibrell. Noticed about the rooms were the Mesdames Charles Anderson, Charles Richardson, A. H. Newman, W. W. Woodson, A. V. Cross, Eugene McNutt, Edward Rotan, Mirian Herz, Susan Thornton Price, Thomas Caufield, Araminta Branson, W. M. Foster, W. O. Wilkes, Bolivar Nettles, Thomas Padgitt, E. P. Hunter, William Kelly, M. Society Notes

Japan will have to look to her laurels if the wistaria vines attain much more beauty than they have in Waco this season.

Lingering from Mardis gayety in New Orleans for a visit with relatives and old former friends, Mrs. H. C. Black is not due at home before early April.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Talmadge Hicks, who have enjoyed their honeymoon trip to Dallas, will reach home today. They will be with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hopkins, North Twelfth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Clark will add gayety to their household for the coming week in a house party of relatives. These will be Mr. and Mrs. Burton Rhodes of Missouri, Mrs. Roy Burnett of San Antonio, Mrs. J. M. McCelvey from Temple, and Mrs. E. D. McCaa from Houston.

Gardner Gillespie arrives with his bride, who was Miss Esther Cornwall of New Jersey, at the Raleigh today. After a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie will be with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gardner, Rose Park Place.

Miss Jimmie Horne was hostess to the informal little South Side Bridge club, who plays without a name. This pleasure came with Friday.

Be it said to the commendation of the Waco women, there is not yet any hard feeling resulting from arguments over the superiority of one's car over the other. We hear of all sorts of heated remarks on this subject elsewhere.

The Temple Sisterhood, working as it does in circles, is planning a monthly entertainment. Two bridge matinees and the children's Purim ball are the series so far.

A second telegram from Mrs. Freda Jackson Marshall, who was one of the victims of the Augusta, Georgia, fire, states that she with husband and little ones, escaped with nothing but what could be hastily scrambled into an automobile. Both family and friends are in the hopes that Mrs. Marshall may come out for a visit here.

Is it not a joy these days of bursting nature, to take a glimpse into the woodland? Even our own yards and trees are a pleasing change from winter barrenness.

They say, those who live adjacent, that it is worth the trip out, to see all that is going on to make C. M. Seley park one of the beauty spots of our city.

We have often wondered why Waco women have not long ago adopted the custom of their Eastern sisters in Lenten sewing classes. In vogue these many years elsewhere, the Lenten Sewing class is yet to become general here.

There is nothing like bringing a subject close home for it to have intelligent discussion. The Waco girl who never heard of the "allies" except that they were two Waco bachelor chums, is now talking glibly all about the Mexican bandit and the United States soldier.

Possibly it is the lateness of the season which has made the violet so seldom seen on Lenten gown. Heretofore, violet bunches have proclaimed the penitential time.

How quickly the dancing craze, that is, the abortive steps, and the freakish fashions attending, subsided! Up in New York City, fashionable folks attribute this to the distraction with the ice skate.

The women are wondering if consolidation of telephone companies means disappearance of half the unsightly telephone poles.

Many of us have already adopted telephone etiquette; a few more of us might. This refers to the conversation where a "cut-out" is made. Always, the woman who makes the call is the one to re-establish the connection. She has the number fresh, while the one called does not know with which number she is connected.

It is heard that the seniors at high school have given order for invitations. These, when sent, should retain the tissue slip, be addressed with street and a number on outer envelope, which is sealed; have name of the one to whom sent only, on inside envelope; mail with two-cent stamp. This is the correct form of sending by mail. If delivered at door, have street address on outer envelope and deliver unsealed if by person, sealed if by messenger; have name only on inner envelope. If the visiting card is enclosed, the prefix "Mr." or "Miss" is proper. This prefix is assumed with entrance into the "teens." It is perfectly proper for several classmates to enclose their cards within the same invitation.

For those who are wrestling with the proposition shade tree or lawn grass, it is suggested that some have used the English ivy as terrace screen with very pleasing result.

The friends of Mrs. A. F. Sonntag will be sorry to learn that from her continued illness she is not yet able to receive company.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work in Texas

Reported Weekly in The Waco Morning News by Miss Kate Friend, Editor, 525 Terrace Row, Waco, Texas.

MARLIN CIVIC LEAGUE HAS TENACITY OF PURPOSE

Good for the Marlin women! The story of their procedure is worth the passing on to other less aggressive Texas women. There is in Marlin a flourishing body of women known as the Civic league. Some weeks ago they brought pressure to bear upon the city fathers for an ordinance which would protect them from the scratching hen and the trespassing cow. We do not know the entire story, but, somehow, the city fathers failed to come up with their part of the contract. So, at the last meeting of the league the women planned an all-day onslaught on the city council rooms. They are to go in a body, with their lunch baskets, and remain in the council chamber until they get what they want, relief from nuisances, and means by which their work of beautifying Marlin can proceed. The outcome is watched with interest. In the meantime, women all over Texas congratulate the Marlin Women's league.

FOURTH DISTRICT CLUBS HAVE OFFICIAL LETTER

Miss Decca Lamar West, presiding officer of the Fourth district, has sent the following to each club president within her district. Since there has been election within many clubs since the state roster by which all officers work was published, it is timely that every president within this district make note of Miss West's instructions, whether recipient of her letter or not:

Waco, Texas, March 21, 1916.

Dear Madam President:

It is nearing the time for our district meeting in Brenham, April 13-14-15, and it is urged by the state and district presidents and the hostess town that delegates to the district meeting be elected at once and their names sent to Mrs. T. W. Robertson, secretary-treasurer of Fourth district, and Mrs. M. Hetty Curry, chairman "homes committee," 410 West Main street, Brenham, Texas. If your club is a member of the General Federation, please also elect delegate and alternate to the Biennial in New York City, May 23rd. Please, if you have not done so, send the name of your (a) president and corresponding secretary, (b) number of members in your club, (c) course of study, (d) outside work, to Mrs. Robertson, and dues. The district dues are 50 cents per club or per department.

Enclosed you will find the delegates' credential cards. Under the new constitution each club is entitled to send its president, her appointee and one delegate. Your president would advise, where you have a member (not chairman) of a district committee, that you shall send her as your delegate, for every committee is to have its conference with the chairman; and allied committees meet together, which we feel will greatly assist them in the next year's work. Have your corresponding secretary report each line of work you have accomplished to the district chairman of committee in charge of that work. If you've observed "Baby Week," it may be reported either to chairman of civics, public health or home economics, since those three committees had the matter in charge. If you have had a particularly fine paper, requiring much research, send it to your chairman of literature, Mrs. George Willrich of La Grange, Texas. This committee has a collection of such material for reference and exchange, which may be of inestimable value to club workers in small towns, who do not have access to large libraries. You should urge those who have special gift for writing to enter the literary contest, for particulars of which you may write Mrs. Willrich.

If your year book for 1916-1917 has not been completed, can you not add a few programs on the "Women of the Pan-American Countries"? An entire year's program devoted to this topic, or the study of Spanish, would make a splendid course, and is in line with suggestions from Mrs. Pennybacker to the General Federation.

Endowment Fund Pledges.

Mrs. R. E. Buchanan, state chairman of endowment fund, urges that all pledges be paid by the time of the district meetings. Will not every club or individual in the Fourth district send the amount they have pledged to Miss Mary Roper, chairman Fourth district, 1320 Fairview avenue, Hyde Park, Houston, Texas? It would be most gratifying to have the Fourth district reported as having paid all endowment pledges.

If you have not contributed to the "Interscholastic League Prize," will you not send a small contribution to Mrs. M. Hetty Curry, 410 Main street, Brenham? Remember that attention to the details of the requests in this letter will insure a complete roster in your State Annual, facilitate the work of your credentials committee, make the committee reports full and complete.

So it is for you to make our convention interesting and instructive. Will you not respond at once as to number of delegates to be entertained to Mrs. Curry at Brenham, as it is necessary for the hostess town to know at least two weeks in advance. Also your corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. W. Robertson, and win the everlasting gratitude of your district president.

DECCA LAMAR WEST.

TUESDAY CLUB AT HUBBARD PATRONIZES ART LEAGUE

On Monday evening the Tuesday club of Hubbard presents Miss Kate Friend in radiopticon lecture. Miss Friend will use the great pictures from old world galleries in natural colors as illustrative of the course in art which the Tuesday club has pursued. This club has studied a dual subject for the past year, art and music. Two weeks ago an artistic musicale was given, and this art lecture by Miss Friend is the climax of this section in club study.

BIENNIAL PRESS BUREAU REPORTS GREAT INTEREST

Those who keep within close touch of the vital movement which looks towards the largest body of women ever assembled, reports enthusiasm unprecedented over the coming Biennial. Hundreds are being listed daily at the leading hotels; so many have been the demands that additional hotels have been included.

All the patriotic societies of women will have local entertainments for visitors of their respective orders. Not only special functions but individual homes are being put into readiness for the reception of visitors.

The neighbor state of New Jersey will have grand reception by their State Federation.

One of the novelties within the many conferences will be moving picture illustrations of subjects discussed.

National Decoration Day falling within Biennial dates, special exercises will be arranged for this observance.

Mrs. Pennybacker is herself arranging details for Presidents' evening. In this, as heretofore, greetings will be given from all the Federation states.

The different state societies within New York City will hold receptions for the visitors from their former homes. Kentucky will have luncheon at Hotel Plaza; Indiana, a reception at Hotel McAlpin, and so on. The Texas society will honor Mrs. Pennybacker.

A special New York song has been composed. A copy will be sent to each state president. This means a lusty sound when 25,000 women's voices unite in honor to the hostess state.

Following the Biennial, opportunity will be given for a number of attractive trips, the most pretentious being into Canada.

WACO CURRENT EVENT CLUB STUDIES THE AMERICAS

Adopting suggestion of Mrs. Pennybacker that club women of North America seek to know more of the women of other Americas, and following this suggestion by request for one afternoon in each club for introduction to this subject, the Current Event club of Waco has gone further. This club will devote the new year, 1916-'17 to the study of "The Americas." This of course means woman and her activity as well as man.

CLUB WOMEN OF PARIS HAVE GENERAL SYMPATHY

Nothing official has come, but it goes without saying that the club women of Paris suffer in common with other women of their town. The devastation by fire is too recent for exact conditions to be known. Yet women of the state feel safe in the judicious action of their president. Living in Dallas, Mrs. Fleming is in position to know just how serious the situation is in Paris. If the necessity is here, the call will be given. It goes without saying that the Texas women will respond in whatever way they can.

CONSUMERS' LEAGUE ADOPTS RESOLUTION

Although adopted locally, whatever the Consumers' League endorses, the women of the country heed. The latest is investigation along the line of the shopping evil, the taking out of goods on approval, and the tardy return or request for exchange. The league finds that this habit among women has reached such proportion as to become a matter for public concern. Details show that hardship is practiced upon the girl behind the counter for extra labor, and in the case of wearing apparel, health has been thereby impaired. Also, this practice adds to cost of running business, which is ultimately met by the consumer. In this way the women bring hardship upon themselves through higher cost of articles they wear. The league is working towards abatement of this shopping nuisance.

MISS KATHERINE FRAZIER IS AN APRIL BRIDE

Club women throughout the state will hear with interest that Miss Katherine Frazier of Morgan is to be an Easter bride. Miss Frazier has been prominently identified with both home and state club work for such time as to give her state-wide acquaintance. Indeed, it was as state chairman of Civil Service committee that she met the groom-to-be during the Federation at Corpus Christi. This groom is Mr. Barnard, a well known merchant of the Panhandle, his home being Quanah. The wedding has been announced in the bride's home, with late April.

WOMEN ARE ABSORBED IN IDEA OF PREPAREDNESS

Women in the east are heart and soul into the "preparedness" work. They have organized their "Special Aid Society for American Preparedness," and are holding meetings for local organizations. The president is Mrs. Barrett Wendell of Massachusetts. So far action has been confined to Massachusetts; however a late week press notice tells of organizing the first military camp for women at Philadelphia. One feature in the work, to which wealthy women are already commited, is the enlisting for personal work in gardens. These women are planning to convert their country grounds into truck gardens. This is to see just how well we are "prepared" to sustain ourselves with food stuff in case of a war. Of course this will be decided by multiplication process, after these women have made the experiment.

The military training camp is proposed as work for the woman's auxiliary to the Army and Navy league, which, for the first time, will be in joint session with the men in early April. The training will be in national service for women in time of war. Society women are to live in army tents, and will occupy their time by daily army calesthenics. Surgical dressing of wounds is another phase of "preparedness" for the American women.

Joint Responsibility.

The idea with the women is, that, if it is advisable for men to be prepared should our nation become involved in war, just as much is there a responsibility with women; and these should also be prepared. The tocsin is "Be prepared against war, rather than for war." One of the leaders in the movement uses in her address the argument that we insure against fire but that does not mean that it is positive a fire is to come; we insure our lives against accident, but it does not follow positively that we are to meet with an accident. Therefore we should insure against meeting with war.

The society as organized last fall is to mobilize all American women, so that each may be so trained that she can render a little service to her country should the war call come. Nor, is it admitted but what such training is valuable even if the war bugle is never heard within our boundaries. Value of home nursing, first aid to the injured, food value, prevention of waste, these are worth while to every woman.

Classes for Study.

The society proposes to organize study in American history, in civic duties, in training for care of the sick, in values of food preparation, and the key to signalling and telegraphy.

Press mention, news and editorial, is being made all over the east. The membership is already very large, with representative women in the lead.

When will Texas organize?

SUFFRAGE WOMEN LAUNCH WESTERN SPEAKERS' TOUR

In New York City the other day the Women's Congressional Union of Women held luncheon at the St. Regis. This was for the purpose of planning the grand tour of western states. The purpose of the tour is to bestir women to personal activity on the subject of votes for women. It is the chief argument among men in opposing equal franchise that the great majority of women are indifferent on this subject. It is admitted by leading suffragists themselves that the greatest thing they have to combat is the lethargy upon the part of the women. The few are active; the many consent but remain silent. The Congressional Union had a representative in Texas all last winter, and state organization was made at Houston. The union is working for the amendment which allows women the ballot to come fom congress, rather than from the states, one by one. This failed to carry in the last congress. It is claimed that the next congress will pass it. The campaign is a direct appeal to the women in the west, those who now have the ballot. There are now 4,003,500 women voters in America. These are to be enlisted in the pressure brought to bear for the federal amendment to pass.

MONSTER PETTICOATS.

Hoops in the Age of Queen Anne and the Early Georges.

During the reign of Charles I. the hoop petticoat was worn only by wives of the lower gentry and by the wives of the citizens. In the latter part of the reign of Queen Anne it rose again, this time in another form—that of an enormous hoop. This grew to such immense proportions that during the time of George I and II eight yards was considered the proper width.

These hoops had outstanding steel or whalebone foundations at the bottom of the skirt. In Elizabeth's time this whalebone had been used at the top, near the waist, enlarging the hips for several feet. Addison expressed himself about the subject as follows, through his Sir Roger de Coverley:

"My great-great-grandmother has on a new-fashioned petticoat, except that hers is gathered at the waist. My grandmother appears as if she stood in a large drum, whereas the ladies now walk as if they were in a go-cart."—London Chronicle.

Reports from Every State

All Agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Wonderfully Relieves Woman's Suffering.

From all parts of this country the clearest evidence is constantly coming to the office of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., proving the wonderful power shown by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in controlling ills peculiar to women. Here are letters from Vermont, Arkansas and New Jersey:

It Cured Me!

Roxbury, Vt.—"A year ago last December I was taken with a female trouble and doctored for it but did not get any help until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back troubled me a good deal and these troubles lasted so long that I grew terribly poor and I felt a great deal easier lying down. No one knows what I suffered. I did not dare consult another doctor I was so afraid he would say I had got to have an operation. I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a god-send to me for after suffering about eight months this wonderful medicine cured me."—Mrs. Nellie E. French.

Her Best Friend.

Weehawken, N. J.—"I must call you my best friend for what your remedies have done for me. I am 50, and am passing through the Change of Life and for some time I felt bad but since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel fine and will recommend it to every woman who suffers as I did."—Mrs. Kathie Leonhardt, 419 7th St., Weehawken, N. J.

Had Awful Pains in Side.

Branch, Ark.—"Every month I suffered with cramping pains and I had awful pains in my left side. I was very irregular. I had a tired feeling all the time and did not sleep good at night. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in three months I was well."—Mrs. Mae Gattis, Branch, Ark.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work in Texas

Reported Weekly in The Waco Morning News by Miss Kate Friend, Editor, 525 Terrace Row, Waco, Texas.

MARLIN CIVIC LEAGUE HAS TENACITY OF PURPOSE

Good for the Marlin women! The story of their procedure is worth the passing on to other less aggressive Texas women. There is in Marlin a flourishing body of women known as the Civic league. Some weeks ago they brought pressure to bear upon the city fathers for an ordinance which would protect them from the scratching hen and the trespassing cow. We do not know the entire story, but, somehow, the city fathers failed to come up with their part of the contract. So, at the last meeting of the league the women planned an all-day onslaught on the city council rooms. They are to go in a body, with their lunch baskets, and remain in the council chamber until they get what they want, relief from nuisances, and means by which their work of beautifying Marlin can proceed. The outcome is watched with interest. In the meantime, women all over Texas congratulate the Marlin Women's league.

FOURTH DISTRICT CLUBS HAVE OFFICIAL LETTER

Miss Decca Lamar West, presiding officer of the Fourth district, has sent the following to each club president within her district. Since there has been election within many clubs since the state roster by which all officers work was published, it is timely that every president within this district make note of Miss West's instructions, whether recipient of her letter or not:

Waco, Texas, March 21, 1916.
Dear Madam President:

It is nearing the time for our district meeting in Brenham, April 13-14-15, and it is urged by the state and district presidents and the hostess town that delegates to the district meeting be elected at once and their names sent to Mrs. T. W. Robertson, secretary-treasurer of Fourth district, and Mrs. M. Hetty Curry, chairman "homes committee," 410 West Main street, Brenham, Texas. If your club is a member of the General Federation, please also elect delegate and alternate to the Biennial in New York City, May 23rd. Please, if you have not done so, send the name of your (a) president and corresponding secretary, (b) number of members in your club, (c) course of study, (d) outside work, to Mrs. Robertson, and dues. The district dues are 50 cents per club or per department.

Enclosed you will find the delegates' credential cards. Under the new constitution each club is entitled to send its president, her appointee and one delegate. Your president would advise, where you have a member (not chairman) of a district committee, that you shall send her as your delegate, for every committee is to have its conference with the chairman; and allied committees meet together, which we feel will greatly assist them in the next year's work. Have your corresponding secretary report each line of work you have accomplished to the district chairman of committee in charge of that work. If you've observed "Baby Week," it may be reported either to chairman of civics, public health or home economics, since those three committees had the matter in charge. If you have had a particularly fine paper, requiring much research, send it to your chairman of literature, Mrs. George Willrich of La Grange, Texas. This committee has a collection of such material for reference and exchange, which may be of inestimable value to club workers in small towns, who do not have access to large libraries. You should urge those who have special gift for writing to enter the literary contest, for particulars of which you may write Mrs. Willrich.

If your year book for 1916-1917 has not been completed, can you not add a few programs on the "Women of the Pan-American Countries"? An entire year's program devoted to this topic, or the study of Spanish, would make a splendid course, and is in line with suggestions from Mrs. Pennybacker to the General Federation.

Endowment Fund Pledges.

Mrs. R. E. Buchanan, state chairman of endowment fund, urges that all pledges be paid by the time of the district meetings. Will not every club or individual in the Fourth district send the amount they have pledged to Miss Mary Roper, chairman Fourth district, 1320 Fairview avenue, Hyde Park, Houston, Texas? It would be most gratifying to have the Fourth district reported as having paid all endowment pledges.

If you have not contributed to the "Interscholastic League Prize," will you not send a small contribution to Mrs. M. Hetty Curry, 410 Main street, Brenham? Remember that attention to the details of the requests in this letter will insure a complete roster in your State Annual, facilitate the work of your credentials committee, make the committee reports full and complete.

So it is for you to make our convention interesting and instructive. Will you not respond at once as to number of delegates to be entertained to Mrs. Curry at Brenham, as it is necessary for the hostess town to know at least two weeks in advance. Also your corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. W. Robertson, and win the everlasting gratitude of your district president,

DECCA LAMAR WEST.

TUESDAY CLUB AT HUBBARD PATRONIZES ART LEAGUE

On Monday evening the Tuesday club of Hubbard presents Miss Kate Friend in radiopticon lecture. Miss Friend will use the great pictures from old world galleries in natural colors as illustrative of the course in art which the Tuesday club has pursued. This club has studied a dual subject for the past year, art and music. Two weeks ago an artistic musicale was given, and this art lecture by Miss Friend is the climax of this section in club study.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

HIGHWAYS TO HELP PUT WACO ON MOTOR MAP

MOTOR car registrations in McLennan county are increasing rapidiy and have been for several months. Present indications are that the registrations for 1916 in this county will equal any county in the state in proportion to population. There are many reasons automobile sales will be made thick and fast in Waco and McLennan county during the present year.

Many automobile men have seen the advantages Waco offers as an automobile center. Aside from its many miles of paved streets and $1,500,000 worth of highways in the county it has another great advantage—its location.

D. E. Colp, president of the Texas branch of the Meridian Road association, and secretary of the Texas Good Roads association, was in Waco Friday with a logging party completing the log of the Texas end of the great Meridian highway. Mr. Colp stated that Waco is on the line for the Meridian highway, extending from Winnipeg, Canada, to Laredo, Texas; the Colorado-to-the-Gulf highway, extending from Denver, Colo., to Galveston, and the National paved road, extending from Chicago to Laredo.

Then Waco is in line with three of the greatest highways of the nation. To be included on such a highway as any of the three mentioned above means a great deal to a city. These highways will be traversed by multitudes of motorists. With the European war shutting the American off from his European trips he will turn his attention to America, to the automobile and to the highway.

Shortly after the war started the "See America First" slogan started. It was passed over the nation and resulted in tourists viewing the prides of America before crossing the ocean. Tourists will again turn their attention to America this year. The highways will be crowded with summer tourists.

With Waco in line with these three highways many tourists will pass through here. This will help put Waco on the automobile map and put it there to stay. The highways will furnish routes for the tourists of this city for their pleasure trips. The highways already in the county and the paved city streets are one of the reasons why registrations have increased so rapidly within the last few months in this county.

Mohawk Auto Tires Are Given Praise by Local Citizens

"The cheapest in the long run" is the expression used by J. H. Adams, of the piano firm, Adams & Alicorn of Waco, Texas, in speaking of Mohawk tires.

In a letter to his local dealer, Rosen & Cory, he says: "I have used a number of other makes, but experience has caused me to decide on the Mohawk exclusively. Allow me to speak a word of praise for your Mohawk casings. I can conscientiously recommend Mohawks to anyone who wants to save money on casings."

G. W. Seawall of the June Machinery company, Waco, Texas, has a Mohawk tire on his car that has given him more than 12,000 miles of actual service on rough country roads. He says: "I estimate my average service in the eighteen months I have used Mohawks is from 10,000 to 12,000 miles per tire."

Mr. Seawell travels about seventy-five miles a day, making the towns in his territory, and he says "Mohawks are the only tires I have ever had to fully meet my requirements."

In calling on his customers Mr. Seawell recommends Mohawks. He tells them it is poor economy to buy any but the best tire.

"Above all," says Mr. Seawell, "has been the ease of mind since using Mohawks. I am never in fear of having a blowout at some remote spot, as was the case before I started using Mohawks."

Cadillac President Enjoys Trip Among Clouds in Biplane

President Henry M. Leland, of the Cadillac Motor Car company, recently enjoyed his first flight in an aeroplane at Ormond Beach, Florida.

The machine, which was a Wright biplane, piloted by Miss Ruth Law, reached an altitude of more than 1800 feet.

In writing of his experience to B. C. Nettles, local agent, Mr. Leland said: "I was fearful before mounting the plane that I might become dizzy and sick, so my pilot promised to go gently. After we started, it seemed to me that we were near the ground and going very slowly.

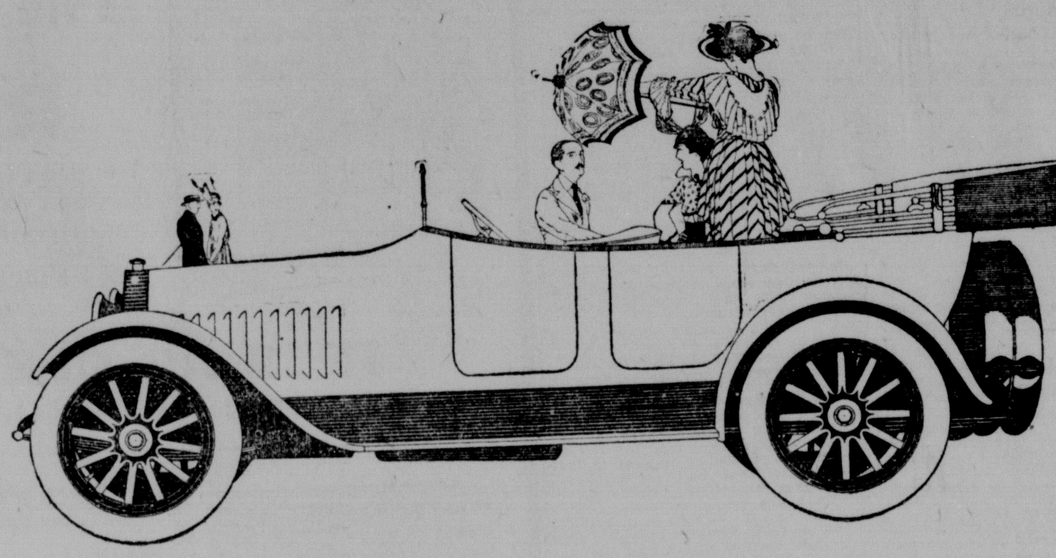
"When I found that there were no unpleasant sensations, I kept motioning and calling for her to go faster and to go up higher. At last she yelled 'You're up sixteen hundred feet, and are going sixty miles an hour. For heaven's sake, what do you want? This isn't a Cadillac Eight.'"

Highly Excitable.

"Brown is rather an excitable chap, isn't he?"

"I should say so! Why, he almost got a stroke of apoplexy the other night watching a chess tournament."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Cardinal Bourne speaks six or seven languages with ease.



3400 r. p. m. Chalmers Moves off Swiftly and Sweetly—Careful of Every Drop of Fuel

Dixieland beholds the arrival of the magnificent new 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers at an hour when her cotton, steel, textile and munitions industries are sending tidal waves of prosperity through the South.

The cream of Chalmers production has hitherto been absorbed by the North. Most of the South had to go without.

Vastly enlarged facilities of production which usher in the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers have changed all that.

This is the car that performs.

Almost superhuman engineering achievements have wrung from her small, compact, high-speed motor the sought-for secret of supreme acceleration.

This energetic engine spins at the uncanny rate of 3400 revolutions per minute.

The swift, silent, aluminum-lunged breathing of this engine is what makes the car perform.

The more explosions per minute and the greater the number of revolutions of the motor, the lesser amount of heat is lost through the cooling jacket. And heat is power.

A small engine—a small area in which heat can be thrown away by radiation—a short, cooling process between explosions. Hence 18 miles of splendid flight for every gallon of gas, supreme fuel economy the last ounce of energy exacted from every jet of gas that spins through the carburetor.

The pick-up of this car passes all understanding. You need never take another car's dust. You take hills "on high." You overcome most of the adversities of the road without change of gear.

Once you put your foot on the accelerator button and lay hold of the steering wheel, you'll feel that here is the car you must own.

That's why I say: Bring your check-book when you come for a ride in the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

Raw materials of every sort are growing scarcer every day. This condition may improve. But to be on the side of absolute safety record your order now when you are sure of delivery with but slight, if any, delay.

U. S. Rubber Co. Guarantees Goods

Since the United States government has no standard hallmark for rubber goods, the United States Rubber company, the largest rubber company in the world, has adopted a super trademark to be placed on all ruber products which it and its subsidiaries manufacture.

The United States government guarantees the sterling-mark on silver, and the United States Rubber company wishes to assume the same responsibility for articles of rubber behind which the company stands.

The super trademark of the United States rubber company is very simple. It consists of a ribbon appearing either on the article itself or in the advertising about any given article of rubber for which the company assumes responsibility. The ribbon is made up of three equal stripes; the center stripe is white and the other two blue. Upon the ribbon is placed the United States Rubber company's seal or the trademark of one of the various subsidiary companies of the system.

This ribbon carrying the seal or a merchandise trademark will be used to distinguish cartons, tire wrappings, boxes, etc., in which rubber products of known quality are packed.

One of the officers of the United States Rubber company, when interviewed recently about the adoption of the ribbon as the super trademark, said:

"The United States Rubber company's products are made to sell on quality and really the ribbon marking is all that anyone needs to know to be an expert buyer of rubber products.

"The public can count upon the full limit of service from any rubber article which bears the blue and white ribbon, and may feel certain that it represents the greatest value for the least money.

PITTSBURGH'S CRIME BELL.

Commission of a Felony is Tintinnabulated From the City Hall.

Pittsburgh has put its old bell in the city hall to a new use: Whenever a crime is committed within five miles of the seat of municipal government three resounding whacks are bestowed upon the bell and all policemen within hearing get into immediate connection with headquarters.

Perhaps the scheme will work in Pittsburg, but in Chicago it would be one continuous chime. Possibly an extra deep bass bell would have to be instaled to record any unusual rush of depredations. At that it might be of benefit. Citizens would be constantly awakened to problems of city government and of law enforcement and our public morality would have a constant measure of its failings.—Chicago Tribune.

Story of Goodyear Company Interesting

The story of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company reads like a romance, with each chapter in its history more wonderful than the previous one. Commencing business in 1898 with a capital of $45,000 and a factory having a floor space of some 38,000 square feet, the company has grown to monumental proportions, with a capital stock of $25,000,000 and a factory which is really thirty-one factories joined in one massive whole, with a floor space of fifty-five acres. Originally 100 workers were employed in making Goodyear products; today 12,000 workmen swarm to and from their daily tasks, with the number constantly increasing.

"The original factory has passed from existence and is now only a memory. There remains not one brick on another of the original buildings. The factory was rebuilt and practically doubled three years ago, and it was thought that ample provision had been made for normal growth for some years. But the great motoring public of the country would not have it so. There has been a constant race between the building erectors and the demand for Goodyear tires—with the demand for tires still leading.

In 1907 Goodyear made 26,685 automobile tires—less than two days' product now. A most impressive idea of the wonderful progress Goodyear has made in the rubber world can be gained by contrasting the sales force of seven men in 1902 with the wonderful army of 500 loyal and enthusiastic men who are now representing the company in the United States and other important countries.

One of every three automobiles and three of every four motorcycles manufactured in America start their careers on Goodyear tires. Goodyear uses 1500 car loads of crude rubber annually—10 per cent of the world's production. The cotton alone which enters into Goodyear products every day is 45 tons. It would require the services of an experienced cotton picker for 75 years to pick the cotton which Goodyear uses in one day.

Studebaker Makes Preparations for Motor Car Demands

"As a move of preparedness for the 1916 demand for Studebaker cars, additions costing $1,000,000 have just been made to the Detroit factories of the Studebaker corporation. The work on these extensions, begun last October, is now practically completed and will enable the manufacturers of Studebaker cars to carry out their plans of producing 100,000 cars during this year," says B. C. Nettles, local agent.

With the completion of the increased plant facilities, the production schedule will shortly be jumped from 300 cars a day to 400, thus placing the Studebaker corporation as the largest builders of cars at or above the prices of the Studebaker Fours and Sixes.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

HIGHWAYS TO HELP PUT WACO ON MOTOR MAP

MOTOR car registrations in McLennan county are increasing rapidiy and have been for several months. Present indications are that the registrations for 1916 in this county will equal any county in the state in proportion to population. There are many reasons automobile sales will be made thick and fast in Waco and McLennan county during the present year.

Many automobile men have seen the advantages Waco offers as an automobile center. Aside from its many miles of paved streets and $1,500,000 worth of highways in the county it has another great advantage—its location.

D. E. Colp, president of the Texas branch of the Meridian Road association, and secretary of the Texas Good Roads association, was in Waco Friday with a logging party completing the log of the Texas end of the great Meridian highway. Mr. Colp stated that Waco is on the line for the Meridian highway, extending from Winnipeg, Canada, to Laredo, Texas; the Colorado-to-the-Gulf highway, extending from Denver, Colo., to Galveston, and the National paved road, extending from Chicago to Laredo.

Then Waco is in line with three of the greatest highways of the nation. To be included on such a highway as any of the three mentioned above means a great deal to a city. These highways will be traversed by multitudes of motorists. With the European war shutting the American off from his European trips he will turn his attention to America, to the automobile and to the highway.

Shortly after the war started the "See America First" slogan started. It was passed over the nation and resulted in tourists viewing the prides of America before crossing the ocean. Tourists will again turn their attention to America this year. The highways will be crowded with summer tourists.

With Waco in line with these three highways many tourists will pass through here. This will help put Waco on the automobile map and put it there to stay. The highways will furnish routes for the tourists of this city for their pleasure trips. The highways already in the county and the paved city streets are one of the reasons why registrations have increased so rapidly within the last few months in this county.

Mohawk Auto Tires Are Given Praise by Local Citizens

"The cheapest in the long run" is the expression used by J. H. Adams, of the piano firm, Adams & Alicorn of Waco, Texas, in speaking of Mohawk tires.

In a letter to his local dealer, Rosen & Cory, he says: "I have used a number of other makes, but experience has caused me to decide on the Mohawk exclusively. Allow me to speak a word of praise for your Mohawk casings. I can conscientiously recommend Mohawks to anyone who wants to save money on casings."

G. W. Seawall of the June Machinery company, Waco, Texas, has a Mohawk tire on his car that has given him more than 12,000 miles of actual service on rough country roads. He says: "I estimate my average service in the eighteen months I have used Mohawks is from 10,000 to 12,000 miles per tire."

Mr. Seawell travels about seventy-five miles a day, making the towns in his territory, and he says "Mohawks are the only tires I have ever had to fully meet my requirements."

In calling on his customers Mr. Seawell recommends Mohawks. He tells them it is poor economy to buy any but the best tire.

"Above all," says Mr. Seawell, "has been the ease of mind since using Mohawks. I am never in fear of having a blowout at some remote spot, as was the case before I started using Mohawks."

Cadillac President Enjoys Trip Among Clouds in Biplane

President Henry M. Leland, of the Cadillac Motor Car company, recently enjoyed his first flight in an aeroplane at Ormond Beach, Florida.

The machine, which was a Wright biplane, piloted by Miss Ruth Law, reached an altitude of more than 1800 feet.

In writing of his experience to B. C. Nettles, local agent, Mr. Leland said: "I was fearful before mounting the plane that I might become dizzy and sick, so my pilot promised to go gently. After we started, it seemed to me that we were near the ground and going very slowly.

"When I found that there were no unpleasant sensations, I kept motioning and calling for her to go faster and to go up higher. At last she yelled 'You're up sixteen hundred feet, and are going sixty miles an hour. For heaven's sake, what do you want? This isn't a Cadillac Eight.'"

Highly Excitable.

"Brown is rather an excitable chap, isn't he?"

"I should say so! Why, he almost got a stroke of apoplexy the other night watching a chess tournament."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Waco Auto Dealers Optimistic Over Prospects for Successful Summer Business

The Proof

DON'T accept claims or opinions. Every man selling an automobile will tell you his car can be run at low cost.

He'll tell you this because he knows and you know that gasoline, oil and tires are costing more and more all the time. He knows and you should know that the operating cost of any automobile during five years' time is worth your careful consideration.

We don't give you any guesswork. We tell you what we know. We state the facts and figures—proved and verified figures. Here they are:

Maxwell World's Non-Stop Record Facts

Miles without a motor stop	22,023
Average miles per day (44 days)	500.6
Miles per gallon of gasoline	21.88
Miles per gallon of oil	400
Average miles per tire	9,871

Most Maxwell owners get even better results than these but we are just giving the actual figures set when the Maxwell stock touring car broke the World's Motor Non-Stop Record.

When you get your Maxwell you can be sure it will give you economical service—probably far more economical than these figures indicate. But to be sure that you can get your Maxwell, ORDER NOW.

We have a few here but don't know when we can get more. Freight cars are scarce and the Maxwell factories, in spite of doubled production, are away behind in shipments.

AMONG THE BOYS

News and Facts and General Round-up from Among the Boys Who Get the Orders—Patronize It Next Sunday.

Henry Miller of Reisel, Texas, rolled out a bran new Chevrolet car early in the week.

Harry L. Knight of the Spencer-Carroll company reports rushing conditions in West Texas.

Frank Macha purchased a Maxwell roadster from Harry L. Smith of the Maxwell Automobile company.

C. E. Bird, of the Dodge sales force, reports more business than he could take care of the past week.

Mr. Allen of Waco has been added to the Maxwell list the past week. Harry L. Smith made the sale.

Arthur Stewart, one of Waco's prominent horse and mule buyers, purchased his third Buick the past week.

H. H. Shear of the Rotan Grocery company purchased his fourth Buick car the past week from the Herrick Hardware company.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder of some other car. Moral: Advertise in the Automobile Section of the Waco Morning News.

J. W. Chapman of the B. C. Nettles automobile force, has kept busy the past week, demonstrating for the Cadillac and the Studebaker.

Mr. Hunt, of the Hunt Motor company, made a flying trip to Valley Mills Friday of this week. As usual, he brought back some business.

M. C. Daley has joined the sales force of the McLendon Hardware company. Daley is a full-fledged Chalmers and perfectly regular in every way.

Randolph Williams, one of the Overland car men, represents conditions fine in the country and the supply of spring chickens even greater than the demand.

One of the busiest places I found in the city is the machine shop and garage of Clay Francis. Clay believes in putting his trade mark on every job that goes out.

A new Chalmers agency was established at Belton, Texas, with the Brown Auto Sales company, the past week by the McLendon Hardware automobile department.

Action is the proper fruit of knowledge and the rule applies to buying automobiles. How is a man going to buy your car—act—unless he has some knowledge about it?

"I did not know there were so many automobile people in Waco," said Geo. P. Nettles, of the B. C. Nettles Automobile company. "That five-page section certainly looks good."

W. G. Fuller completed a very successful weeek last night for the Percy Willis Auto company. "I believe everybody is going to buy an automobile this year," said Mr. Fuller.

Selling cars without advertising is like catching wind with a net; there's plenty of buyers round about, but they don't buy because they haven't been given the proper chance. Advertise.

Charles Bezdek of West, Texas, is the proud owner of an Overland 83. Jack Oates did it, and he admits that he is as proud of making the sale as is Mr. Bezdek of being the owner of the car.

T. W. Miller has joined the Overland Roll of Honor club. Mr. Williams of the local force made the sale. Mr. Williams makes his living selling Overlands and he doesn't look a bit hungry these days.

Ted O'Neal is taking the fresh-air cure in the country, for his health, however. Ted expects to be back in the game in a few days and also expects to keep up his record as an Overland salesman.

How are you going to go fishing this summer if you don't buy a car? You've got to fish; that's what the Brazos was made for. Besides, everybody goes fishing in Waco and most of them go in their car.

Wilkerson Bros. of Cameron, Texas, spent the day Friday of this week in Waco looking over the automobile situation and shaking hands with friends. While here they made some purchases from the Spencer-Carroll company.

E. H. Borden, salesman for the Spencer-Carroll Auto company, has just returned from a successful business trip in East Texas. "They poke a lot of fun at East Texas," says Mr. Borden, "but believe me, there is some business down there."

Amusement to an observing mind is study. Did you ever try riding in an automobile for amusement? Look over the pages of the News Auto Section, if you're in the market for a car. It's the one proper place to find out just which car to buy.

Another thing the auto has done: it has saved thousands of horses being mercilessly driven by folks who "whip up because I'm paying for you." Of course, such people most generally have big tire bills, repair bills, etc., to pay, but the horse doesn't suffer.

Fred Muhl of Third and Washington streets, reports business too rushing for ad writing this week. "Will be with you next week," Fred says. Here's to you, Fred. There is no better place to go if you are looking for business in your line than to the Waco Morning News Automobile Section.

"We will be with you next week," comes from the Clifton Manufacturing company, one of the largest manufacturers of their line in this section of the country. The Clifton people make a specialty of automobile tops and they will have some interesting information for the readers of the Automobile Section.

Wallace Bradly of the Dodge sales force, represents a rush of business after the arrival of the full trainload of Dodges last Sunday. "I thought we had enough automobiles to supply this part of Texas when they first arrived, but we have only two cars left now, and believe me, that is some business, isn't it?"

R. H. Brown, representative of the Dort Auto company, was in the city the latter part of the week looking after business interests for his company. Mr. Brown expressed himself as greatly surprised at the development of Waco and this section, and likewise the demand for automobiles.

Here's hoping that Synthetic oil will, as it promises to do, reduce the cost of gasoline. Even down here where we make up on the gas bill with our good roads, we could get along some better with cheaper juice. Let it go down; we might get it down to where we can make a hundred miles on a half gallon, who knows?

One may live in a house without being an architect, and as surely is true one may own an automobile without being rich. If your business demands it or if your social position will warrant it, why should you deny yourself the pleasure a car affords. Then comes a decision of what car to buy. Just watch the columns of this section, you'll get the right hunch.

What has become of the Waco Auto club? Waco needs such an organization and unless the auto editor of the Waco Morning News gets some straight dope on the situation we're going to get the matter straightened through the "Among the Boys" column. We reiterate our interrogation, what has become of the Waco Automobile club?

There has been no national chirstening of automobiles such as was pulled off at the white house last week, but believe me, there has been something doing just the same. There is not an automobile company in the city but has made a new record the past seven days, and things look "brighter than ever" for the coming seven, I am told.

A. K. Weymouth of the Herrick-M cLarty Auto company, returned early in the week from Rosebud, where he has sold and delivered six Chevrolet cars in that and surrounding vicinity. "Things look mighty good in the Rosebud vicinity," Mr. Weymouth said. "The people down there held their cotton for the past two years and are just now turning it loose, hence the good business in the auto business."

San Antonio claims she has more automobiles than Dallas, and Dallas claims she leads the state. What about it, Houston? Let's hear from the city where seventeen railroads meet. Speak out, or we'll be persuaded to leave it to J. J. Taylor of the Dallas News, or else call on our friend, Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald of the town of Fort Worth. If this plan fails, we'll wait a few months and Waco will settle the dispute with a good lead in number of cars.

Herbert Chase of the Automobile Clubs of America thinks the price of gasoline is being greatly offset by car makers using lighter material in the manufacturing of automobiles, eliminatng extra parts, etc., and further states that smaller tires have added to lowering high gas prices. Herbert is some authority on automobile construction and his suggestion has been carried out by many of the manufacturers.

There are two things that every McLennan county farmer who is able to do should do this year. One of them is plant a few acres of peanuts and purchase that long-promised car. At least plant the peanuts for the car's sake. It can't eat them, but you can buy the car with them. Peanut prices promise prosperity for peanut farmers the coming year and from reports over the state, hundreds of farmers are going to do the psycological thing; plant peanuts. A peanut farmer doesn't mean what it did a few years ago, either. He is now most generally the owner of a car and that car is put to a diversity of uses.

We read in the papers from the "oil centers" that within the next year gasoline is going to be cheaper. Good news and hurrah for hurrah, but what do the people of McLennan county and Waco care about the price of juice. We have a million and a half of the best roads in the world—the world, mind you get that, Dallas—and it don't cost so much per mile to get over the ground. The people of this section of the country have been saving at least five cents per gallon on the riding proposition for the past year and while it is true that gas has advanced, we've not suffered one bit. Let her go up or let her go down; what do we care? We're fully insured with good roads in every direction.

Wallet Lost In Automobile Tire

Securely wrapped in one of the last 1,000 tires sent out by the Savage Tire company is a pocketbook containing a sum of money. The pocketbook and its contents belong to Harry Easton, who works in the finishing and wrapping department at the Savage Tire company's San Diego plant.

When Easton went to work one day last week, he had his pocketbook with him. While the amount of money it contained was comparatively small, the pocketbook itself was large and Easton found it hampered him in his work at one of the wrapping machines, so he removed the wallet and placed it on his workbench.

Just for a joke, a fellow workman placed the pocketbook in a partially wrapped casing, intending to tell Easton about it, but while this workman's attention was attracted elsewhere, another workman came along. In a moment, the tire was securely wrapped, Easton's pocketbook and all, in the black paper labelled with the usual red arrow and placed among a hundred others in the truck on which the first leg of its journey to its ultimate purchaser was made.

Before the loss of the wallet was discovered, these tires had been distributed among thousands of others in the warehouse and Easton bid his belongings a temporary good-by. He is confident that his loss is only temporary, as the wallet contained a number of papers bearing his name and address and Easton is sure that everything will be eventually returned to him. He says the Savage casing, aside from the prize package feature, is such an exceptional value that whoever gets it will not "have the heart" to keep his pocketbook and that you can count on the honesty of the people in general, anyway.

The sum of money the wallet contained is not large. It is, however, important to Easton, as he has a wife and a large family to support. We unite with him in his belief that wherever the pocketbook be found, whether it be in San Francisco or New York, Vancouver or San Diego, it will be promptly returned to him.

Waco Auto Dealers Optimistic Over Prospects for Successful Summer Business

Maxwell

The Proof

DON'T accept claims or opinions. Every man selling an automobile will tell you his car can be run at low cost.

He'll tell you this because he knows and you know that gasoline, oil and tires are costing more and more all the time. He knows and you should know that the operating cost of any automobile during five years' time is worth your careful consideration.

We don't give you any guesswork. We tell you what we know. We state the facts and figures—proved and verified figures. Here they are:

Maxwell World's Non-Stop Record Facts

Miles without a motor stop	22,023
Average miles per day (44 days)	500.6
Miles per gallon of gasoline	21.88
Miles per gallon of oil	400
Average miles per tire	9,871

Most Maxwell owners get even better results than these but we are just giving the actual figures set when the Maxwell stock touring car broke the World's Motor Non-Stop Record.

When you get your Maxwell you can be sure it will give you economical service—probably far more economical than these figures indicate. But to be sure that you can get your Maxwell, ORDER NOW.

We have a few here but don't know when we can get more. Freight cars are scarce and the Maxwell factories, in spite of doubled production, are away behind in shipments.

AMONG THE BOYS

News and Facts and General Round-up from Among the Boys Who Get the Orders—Patronize It Next Sunday.

Henry Miller of Reisel, Texas, rolled out a bran new Chevrolet car early in the week.

Harry L. Knight of the Spencer-Carroll company reports rushing conditions in West Texas.

Frank Macha purchased a Maxwell roadster from Harry L. Smith of the Maxwell Automobile company.

C. E. Bird, of the Dodge sales force, reports more business than he could take care of the past week.

Mr. Allen of Waco has been added to the Maxwell list the past week. Harry L. Smith made the sale.

Arthur Stewart, one of Waco's prominent horse and mule buyers, purchased his third Buick the past week.

H. H. Shear of the Rotan Grocery company purchased his fourth Buick car the past week from the Herrick Hardware company.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder of some other car. Moral: Advertise in the Automobile Section of the Waco Morning News.

J. W. Chapman of the B. C. Nettles automobile force, has kept busy the past week, demonstrating for the Cadillac and the Studebaker.

Mr. Hunt, of the Hunt Motor company, made a flying trip to Valley Mills Friday of this week. As usual, he brought back some business.

M. C. Daley has joined the sales force of the McLendon Hardware company. Daley is a full-fledged Chalmers and perfectly regular in every way.

Randolph Williams, one of the Overland car men, represents conditions fine in the country and the supply of spring chickens even greater than the demand.

One of the busiest places I found in the city is the machine shop and garage of Clay Francis. Clay believes in putting his trade mark on every job that goes out.

A new Chalmers agency was established at Belton, Texas, with the Brown Auto Sales company, the past week by the McLendon Hardware automobile department.

Action is the proper fruit of knowledge and the rule applies to buying automobiles. How is a man going to buy your car—act—unless he has some knowledge about it?

"I did not know there were so many automobile people in Waco," said Geo. P. Nettles, of the B. C. Nettles Automobile company. "That five-page section certainly looks good."

W. G. Fuller completed a very successful weeek last night for the Percy Willis Auto company. "I believe everybody is going to buy an automobile this year," said Mr. Fuller.

Selling cars without advertising is like catching wind with a net; there's plenty of buyers round about, but they don't buy because they haven't been given the proper chance. Advertise.

Charles Bezdek of West, Texas, is the proud owner of an Overland 83. Jack Oates did it, and he admits that he is as proud of making the sale as is Mr. Bezdek of being the owner of the car.

T. W. Miller has joined the Overland Roll of Honor club. Mr. Williams of the local force made the sale. Mr. Williams makes his living selling Overlands and he doesn't look a bit hungry these days.

Ted O'Neal is taking the fresh-air cure in the country, for his health, however. Ted expects to be back in the game in a few days and also expects to keep up his record as an Overland salesman.

How are you going to go fishing this summer if you don't buy a car? You've got to fish; that's what the Brazos was made for. Besides, everybody goes fishing in Waco and most of them go in their car.

Wilkerson Bros. of Cameron, Texas, spent the day Friday of this week in Waco looking over the automobile situation and shaking hands with friends. While here they made some purchases from the Spencer-Carroll company.

E. H. Borden, salesman for the Spencer-Carroll Auto company, has just returned from a successful business trip in East Texas. "They poke a lot of fun at East Texas," says Mr. Borden, "but believe me, there is some business down there."

Amusement to an observing mind is study. Did you ever try riding in an automobile for amusement? Look over the pages of the News Auto Section, if you're in the market for a car. It's the one proper place to find out just which car to buy.

Another thing the auto has done: it has saved thousands of horses being mercilessly driven by folks who "whip up because I'm paying for you." Of course, such people most generally have big tire bills, repair bills, etc., to pay, but the horse doesn't suffer.

Fred Muhl of Third and Washington streets, reports business too rushing for ad writing this week. "Will be with you next week," Fred says. Here's to you, Fred. There is no better place to go if you are looking for business in your line than to the Waco Morning News Automobile Section.

"We will be with you next week," comes from the Clifton Manufacturing company, one of the largest manufacturers of their line in this section of the country. The Clifton people make a specialty of automobile tops and they will have some interesting information for the readers of the Automobile Section.

Wallace Bradly of the Dodge sales force, represents a rush of business after the arrival of the full trainload of Dodges last Sunday. "I thought we had enough automobiles to supply this part of Texas when they first arrived, but we have only two cars left now, and believe me, that is some business, isn't it?"

R. H. Brown, representative of the Dort Auto company, was in the city the latter part of the week looking after business interests for his company. Mr. Brown expressed himself as greatly surprised at the development of Waco and this section, and likewise the demand for automobiles.

Here's hoping that Synthetic oil will, as it promises to do, reduce the cost of gasoline. Even down here where we make up on the gas bill with our good roads, we could get along some better with cheaper juice. Let it go down; we might get it down to where we can make a hundred miles on a half gallon, who knows?

One may live in a house without being an architect, and as surely is true one may own an automobile without being rich. If your business demands it or if your social position will warrant it, why should you deny yourself the pleasure a car affords. Then comes a decision of what car to buy. Just watch the columns of this section, you'll get the right hunch.

What has become of the Waco Auto club? Waco needs such an organization and unless the auto editor of the Waco Morning News gets some straight dope on the situation we're going to get the matter straightened through the "Among the Boys" column. We reiterate our interrogation, what has become of the Waco Automobile club?

There has been no national chirstening of automobiles such as was pulled off at the white house last week, but believe me, there has been something doing just the same. There is not an automobile company in the city but has made a new record the past seven days, and things look "brighter than ever" for the coming seven, I am told.

A. K. Weymouth of the Herrick-M cLarty Auto company, returned early in the week from Rosebud, where he has sold and delivered six Chevrolet cars in that and surrounding vicinity. "Things look mighty good in the Rosebud vicinity," Mr. Weymouth said. "The people down there held their cotton for the past two years and are just now turning it loose, hence the good business in the auto business."

San Antonio claims she has more automobiles than Dallas, and Dallas claims she leads the state. What about it, Houston? Let's hear from the city where seventeen railroads meet. Speak out, or we'll be persuaded to leave it to J. J. Taylor of the Dallas News, or else call on our friend, Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald of the town of Fort Worth. If this plan fails, we'll wait a few months and Waco will settle the dispute with a good lead in number of cars.

Herbert Chase of the Automobile Clubs of America thinks the price of gasoline is being greatly offset by car makers using lighter material in the manufacturing of automobiles, eliminatng extra parts, etc., and further states that smaller tires have added to lowering high gas prices. Herbert is some authority on automobile construction and his suggestion has been carried out by many of the manufacturers,

There are two things that every McLennan county farmer who is able to do should do this year. One of them is plant a few acres of peanuts and purchase that long-promised car. At least plant the peanuts for the car's sake. It can't eat them, but you can buy the car with them. Peanut prices promise prosperity for peanut farmers the coming year and from reports over the state, hundreds of farmers are going to do the psycological thing; plant peanuts. A peanut farmer doesn't mean what it did a few years ago, either. He is now most generally the owner of a car and that car is put to a diversity of uses.

We read in the papers from the "oil centers" that within the next year gasoline is going to be cheaper. Good news and hurrah for hurrah, but what do the people of McLennan county and Waco care about the price of juice. We have a million and a half of the best roads in the world—the world, mind you get that, Dallas—and it don't cost so much per mile to get over the ground. The people of this section of the country have been saving at least five cents per gallon on the riding proposition for the past year and while it is true that gas has advanced, we've not suffered one bit. Let her go up or let her go down; what do we care? We're fully insured with good roads in every direction.

Wallet Lost In Automobile Tire

Securely wrapped in one of the last 1,000 tires sent out by the Savage Tire company is a pocketbook containing a sum of money. The pocketbook and its contents belong to Harry Easton, who works in the finishing and wrapping department at the Savage Tire company's San Diego plant.

When Easton went to work one day last week, he had his pocketbook with him. While the amount of money it contained was comparatively small, the pocketbook itself was large and Easton found it hampered him in his work at one of the wrapping machines, so he removed the wallet and placed it on his workbench.

Just for a joke, a fellow workman placed the pocketbook in a partially wrapped casing, intending to tell Easton about it, but while this workman's attention was attracted elsewhere, another workman came along. In a moment, the tire was securely wrapped, Easton's pocketbook and all, in the black paper labelled with the usual red arrow and placed among a hundred others in the truck on which the first leg of its journey to its ultimate purchaser was made.

Before the loss of the wallet was discovered, these tires had been distributed among thousands of others in the warehouse and Easton bid his belongings a temporary good-by. He is confident that his loss is only temporary, as the wallet contained a number of papers bearing his name and address and Easton is sure that everything will be eventually returned to him. He says the Savage casing, aside from the prize package feature, is such an exceptional value that whoever gets it will not "have the heart" to keep his pocketbook and that you can count on the honesty of the people in general, anyway.

The sum of money the wallet contained is not large. It is, however, important to Easton, as he has a wife and a large family to support. We unite with him in his belief that wherever the pocketbook be found, whether it be in San Francisco or New York, Vancouver or San Diego, it will be promptly returned to him.

Bicycle Days Not Over, According to Last Year's Sales

"The statement that close to half a million bicycles were made and sold in 1915 may be a surprise to some people. Yet it is absolutely true. The bicycle industry is neither dead, nor even sleeping, and the slogan of the trade now is 'A million bicycles in 1916.'" says Mr. Hall of the Hall Cycle company.

"Careful investigation shows that even in the so-called 'boom bicycle days' not more than three quarters of a million bicycles were sold. That was some fifteen years ago. The increase of population and many other factors make the bicycle market much larger today than then. Bicycles cost less, and are better today than ever, for riding for pleasure. The services they perform, economically and well, in business are more numerous than ever. The Great American Boy is as great a bicycle enthusiast as he ever was—and the bicycle helps to make boys strong, sturdy, manly and often helps them make money and cultivate habits of thrift and business instincts."

What a Woman Should Know About a Modern Automobile

In a recent article in the Pictorial Review, the matter of what a woman should know about an automobile is given considerable attention. Among other things, it says:

"Women! Automobiles? Most certainly! Yet it was only a few years ago that to the average woman an automobile meant only a distinguished and luxurious conveyance, which would cradle her over the city streets or rough country roads with the comfort and speed of an express train, so it seemed. The idea of a woman driving a motor car was preposterous, outlandish, to women as well as men. She didn't know anything about it; she couldn't even start it.

"But to her an automobile ride was always an exhilarating experience, much more so than to trail behind 'faithful old Dobbin' or a spirited thoroughbred in an unromantic vehicle, even though she had to relinquish the driver's seat together with the pleasure of handling the reins, and had not the slightest opportunity of experiencing the thrill of driving a powerful motor car.

"Since we came to think about it, the best automobile made then was only partially perfected compared with a modern car, and the tendency of manufacturers being toward big, heavy machines, it was impossible for any one but a strong man, thoroughly versed in the whims and caprices of gasoline motors, to handle a motor car.

"Remember, I am recalling to your mind facts about automobiles which existed several years ago.

"Of course, the development of the automobile has been influenced by the experience which manufacturers had with those cars of previous years, the result being that the modern car is the extreme antithesis of earlier models. Light weight, simple construction, dependable service, comfortable, easy to operate, and reasonable in price, the motor car of today can be operated with equal facility by either women or men.

"That is the first thing a woman ought to know about an automobile—about a modern automobile—that she can run it with perfect ease and safety.

"She can wind in and out through crowded traffic, go any place with greater ease and more safety than if she were walking. She doesn't need to worry about the car. It is designed to be operated entirely from the driver's seat. The motor is started by simply pressing a button, another button lights all the lamps on the car. Everything necessary to run it can be done easily with the hands and feet.

"Remember this! More women are driving automobiles today than ever before. On the busiest city streets, on the boulevards and on the country roads far from home, you will find women—thousands of them—driving all kinds of motor cars with as much confidence and skill as a man.

"The automobile has brought greater contentment into the lives of women than any other one thing in recent years. It has shattered the shackles of custom which kept women in the narrow confines of the home, entirely dependent upon men, and has opened up a new world for them—a world of better health, wholesome recreation, self-confidence, convenience, independence, joy, pleasure and contentment.

"It is no longer necessary to set aside a whole afternoon for making just a few calls because so much time must be squandered in riding on street cars. Your automobile is waiting. It invites you to go any time and drop in on your friend for just a short chat

"Yours is the great satisfaction of giving pleasure to your friends—of doing good for others. This is something else women ought to know about owning an automobile.

"How often you find it necessary to resort to the telephone in the endeavor to get something done with dispatch, only to be sorely disappointed because of any one of a hundred opportunities for making mistakes which exist when instructions are given at long distance.

"There was no other way—you simply could not spare the time that morning to go downtown. And you say, 'Oh, well! Just another disappointment,' and then worry about it all day long.

"Yet how easily you could have stepped into your car and skipped downtown, selected exactly what you wanted, perhaps attended to two or three other things, then arrived back home after an absence of only a short time.

"The automobile is the bright light which has dispelled the nightmare of crowded street cars.

"Yes, that is what an automobile means to a woman every day.

"But of infinitely more concern to her is the effect which the motor car has upon the whole family, especially the children.

"The big problem of parents today is to make the home interesting enough to keep the children there. Parents are in direct competition with all the allurements which are provided on every hand to attract the attention of the young folks. But the automobile has come into the family as a trump card in the hands of the parents. It is big enough to win out over every other attraction devised to draw the youngsters out on the streets.

"What other attraction can offer such gasps of delight—such a variety of scenes? What boy or girl or even grown-up would want to miss a trip into the country by moonlight when the most commonplace things take on weird shapes and the shadows reach out as though directing you along the best road or calling your attention to the wondrous scene painted by the moonbeams on the slumbering landscape.

"And another thing you women ought to know about an automobile is that the confidence and self-reliance which the girls of today are acquiring as a result of driving motor cars will be reflected in future generations, just as the fortitude and determination of the pioneers who settled this country is responsible for the vivaciousness, independence and intelligence of the American girl of today who is the envy and despair of all other races.

"It is the things that we do that become a part of our daily life—that mold our character—and are handed down to posterity. Future historians and economists will point to the motor car as one of the vital factors responsible for the sturdiness and aggressiveness of the American people, who will lead the world in all lines of human endeavor.

"The evolution of the automobile is one of the wonders of the world. From an article of luxury, it was developed into an indispensable factor in business, as well as in the daily lives of men, and now the biggest and probably most important development in the business is that the motor car has become an institution in the American family, big enough to attract and hold the interest of every member—probably the most valuable thing for the welfare of the entire family outside of the home itself. That is the big thing every woman ought to know about an automobile."

Nineteen of Twenty Persons Who Buy New Cars Following Bad Fire Decide on Buick.

Speaking about backing up what you say with facts and figures, W. E. Brown, manager of the automobile department of the Herrick Hardware company, has some facts and figures with reference to Buick cars that he is not ashamed to pull on a customer and which read well.

Here they are as given to the editor of the automobile section yesterday: "Not long ago a fire destroyed a garage in Lander, Wyoming, and before the flames could be checked thirty-four cars were burned. On the day following the fire twenty-two of those who lost cars in the fire placed their orders for new cars, and nineteen of these selected the Buick. Railroad Conductor Mistakes Salesman for Secret Service Officer.

A certain salesman, representing one of the subsidiaries of the largest rubber company in the world, was recently mistaken by a railroad conductor for a United States secret service officer, this misapprehension being caused by a pin carrying the seal of his company which the salesman was wearing.

A few days before this incident occurred a mail pouch had been stolen from the depot platform of one of the small towns along the line of the railroad, and on the morning of this particular day a federal officer had arrested the culprit and taken him before the United States marshal on the incoming trip of the train.

The salesman in question was sitting in the rear seat of a day coach. When the conductor reached him he looked at the lapel of the salesman's coat, puniched his ticket and then asked him where he expected to find his next victim.

The salesman—who represented the United States Tire company—states that for the life of him he could not imagine why the conductor chose to class dealers who sell such remarkably good tires as "victims." Or, in fact, why a railroad official should show such interest in United States tires, because no railroad uses "Nobby" or "Chain Treads" on any of its rolling stock.

On being asked what he meant by applying the term "victim" to the reliable, wide-awake business men who sell United States tires, the conductor took hold of the lapel of the salesman's coat, scrutinized the button closely, and when he saw that it bore the seal of the United States Rubber company, remarked in a very disgusted voice: "Shucks, I thought you were a United States postoffice inspector."

Bicycle Days Not Over, According to Last Year's Sales

"The statement that close to half a million bicycles were made and sold in 1915 may be a surprise to some people. Yet it is absolutely true. The bicycle industry is neither dead, nor even sleeping, and the slogan of the trade now is 'A million bicycles in 1916,'" says Mr. Hall of the Hall Cycle company.

"Careful investigation shows that even in the so-called 'boom bicycle days' not more than three quarters of a million bicycles were sold. That was some fifteen years ago. The increase of population and many other factors make the bicycle market much larger today than then. Bicycles cost less, and are better today than ever, for riding for pleasure. The services they perform, economically and well, in business are more numerous than ever. The Great American Boy is as great a bicycle enthusiast as he ever was—and the bicycle helps to make boys strong, sturdy, manly and often helps them make money and cultivate habits of thrift and business instincts."

What a Woman Should Know About a Modern Automobile

In a recent article in the Pictorial Review, the matter of what a woman should know about an automobile is given considerable attention. Among other things, it says:

"Women! Automobiles? Most certainly! Yet it was only a few years ago that to the average woman an automobile meant only a distinguished and luxurious conveyance, which would cradle her over the city streets or rough country roads with the comfort and speed of an express train, so it seemed. The idea of a woman driving a motor car was preposterous, outlandish, to women as well as men. She didn't know anything about it; she couldn't even start it.

"But to her an automobile ride was always an exhilarating experience, much more so than to trail behind 'faithful old Dobbin' or a spirited thoroughbred in an unromantic vehicle, even though she had to relinquish the driver's seat together with the pleasure of handling the reins, and had not the slightest opportunity of experiencing the thrill of driving a powerful motor car.

"Since we came to think about it, the best automobile made then was only partially perfected compared with a modern car, and the tendency of manufacturers being toward big, heavy machines, it was impossible for any one but a strong man, thoroughly versed in the whims and caprices of gasoline motors, to handle a motor car.

"Remember, I am recalling to your mind facts about automobiles which existed several years ago.

"Of course, the development of the automobile has been influenced by the experience which manufacturers had with those cars of previous years, the result being that the modern car is the extreme antithesis of earlier models. Light weight, simple construction, dependable service, comfortable, easy to operate, and reasonable in price, the motor car of today can be operated with equal facility by either women or men.

"That is the first thing a woman ought to know about an automobile—about a modern automobile—that she can run it with perfect ease and safety.

"She can wind in and out through crowded traffic, go any place with greater ease and more safety than if she were walking. She doesn't need to worry about the car. It is designed to be operated entirely from the driver's seat. The motor is started by simply presesing a button, another button lights all the lamps on the car. Everything necessary to run it can be done easily with the hands and feet.

"Remember this! More women are driving automobiles today than ever before. On the busiest city streets, on the boulevards and on the country roads far from home, you will find women—thousands of them—driving all kinds of motor cars with as much confidence and skill as a man.

"The automobile has brought greater contentment into the lives of women than any other one thing in recent years. It has shattered the shackles of custom which kept women in the narrow confines of the home, entirely dependent upon men, and has opened up a new world for them—a world of better health, wholesome recreation, self-confidence, convenience, independence, joy, pleasure and contentment.

"It is no longer necessary to set aside a whole afternoon for making just a few calls because so much time must be squandered in riding on street cars. Your automobile is waiting. It invites you to go any time and drop in on your friend for just a short chat

"Yours is the great satisfaction of giving pleasure to your friends—of doing good for others. This is something else women ought to know about owning an automobile.

"How often you find it necessary to resort to the telephone in the endeavor to get something done with dispatch, only to be sorely disappointed because of any one of a hundred opportunities for making mistakes which exist when instructions are given at long distance.

"There was no other way—you simply could not spare the time that morning to go downtown. And you say, 'Oh, well! Just another disappointment,' and then worry about it all day long.

"Yet how easily you could have stepped into your car and skipped downtown, selected exactly what you wanted, perhaps attended to two or three other things, then arrived back home after an absence of only a short time.

"The automobile is the bright light which has dispelled the nightmare of crowded street cars.

"Yes, that is what an automobile means to a woman every day.

"But of infinitely more concern to her is the effect which the motor car has upon the whole family, especially the children.

"The big problem of parents today is to make the home interesting enough to keep the children there. Parents are in direct competition with all the allurements which are provided on every hand to attract the attention of the young folks. But the automobile has come into the family as a trump card in the hands of the parents. It is big enough to win out over every other attraction devised to draw the youngsters out on the streets.

"What other attraction can offer such gasps of delight—such a variety of scenes? What boy or girl or even grown-up would want to miss a trip into the country by moonlight when the most commonplace things take on weird shapes and the shadows reach out as though directing you along the best road or calling your attention to the wondrous scene painted by the moonbeams on the slumbering landscape.

"And another thing you women ought to know about an automobile is that the confidence and self-reliance which the girls of today are acquiring as a result of driving motor cars will be reflected in future generations, just as the fortitude and determination of the pioneers who settled this country is responsible for the vivaciousness, independence and intelligence of the American girl of today who is the envy and despair of all other races.

"It is the things that we do that become a part of our daily life—that mold our character—and are handed down to posterity. Future historians and economists will point to the motor car as one of the vital factors responsible for the sturdiness and aggressiveness of the American people, who will lead the world in all lines of human endeavor.

"The evolution of the automobile is one of the wonders of the world. From an article of luxury, it was developed into an indispensable factor in business, as well as in the daily lives of men, and now the biggest and probably most important development in the business is that the motor car has become an institution in the American family, big enough to attract and hold the interest of every member—probably the most valuable thing for the welfare of the entire family outside of the home itself. That is the big thing every woman ought to know about an automobile."

Frisky Navigators Play Rings Around Detroit Colts

DETROIT COLTS STAGE VAUDEVILLE SHOW

INCIDENTALLY, NAVIGATORS COP LONG END OF 18 TO 5 SCORE.

ERICKSON HAS VERY BAD DAY

Former Dallas Pitcher Walks Five in Row—Same Teams Play Again Today.

The Detroit Colts and the Navigators staged a sterling vaudeville performance at Katy park yesterday. The term is used after mature deliberation, for the game could be described by no other term than a vaudeville performance. It wasn't any little four-a-day show, either, composed of three song-and-dancers and a ham-and-egg single. It was big-time stuff from a vaudeville standpoint, although when referred to as baseball it was the worst ever. Incidentally, the score was 18 to 5 in favor of the Navs.

A good big-time vaudeville bill must have a touch to music to it, a lot of comedy, some acrobatics, preferably humorous, as well a dash of tragedy. And yesterday's show had even the latter.

One Erickson, erstwhile Dallas Giant, who was drafted or purchased by Jennings last year, or acquired by the peppery Tiger boss in some other way, furnished the serious stuff. The young man, having selected baseball as his life's work, threw his whole soul into it, as one of his nationality is apt to do. He gave Dallas all he had last year and was rewarded by receiving The Call. After warming the bench all during the training season, he went in yesterday to show what he could do. He seemed to be in grand condition. He had dazzling speed, blinding curves and all the rest of it except control. Referring to a baseball pitcher as having no control is like referring to an automobile without any engine. Erickson slammed 'em in like bullets—nineteen balls in a row without a strike. If you happen to be a mathematician you can figure that this walked the first four men up and gave the fifth one three balls. Then he finally got one over. He got so excited over this that he made an illegal delivery of his twenty-first heave and this allowed the fifth straight man to walk. Then Malmquist came up and when Erickson's twenty-second offering went wide of the plate Jimmy Burke, in charge of the Colts, sent for Erickson. One strike out of twenty-two heaves may not be a world's record, but it ought to be. To the heartless fans—only a few heartless ones were present and they were heartless because they were trying to draw four-bits worth out of the show—Erickson's efforts were comedy; to Erickson the happening could be viewed in no light but that of tragedy. No doubt he had planned all winter how hard he was going to try to make good this spring; who knows? maybe somewhere up in Minnesota or out in Utah or over in Georgia, a fair-haired Swedish lass may be eagerly awaiting the news of his first appearance this spring; maybe a lot depended on it that nobody but these two know about. But why speculate?

Some 200 fans laughed at the spectacle with fiendish glee. It was the only real gruesome spectacle of the evening, and they seemed to enjoy it.

And the tough part of it was that the only thing he had last year was control.

But while the fans insisted on regarding Erickson's terrible flivver as comedy, it was only because they were looking for comedy right at that time. Had he relieved somebody later in the game after the Detroit boys had pulled all the real funny stuff in baseball maybe the tall, long-necked one wouldn't have drawn a laugh.

Lowdermilk wasn't must stronger on the control stuff than Erickson, although he drew his defection out over somewhat longer a period. He walked many and beaned some few and in between he stood on his head as an extra attraction. Out in the field some real big league pitchers spent a busy afternoon trying to keep from getting hit on the head by fly balls. The infield booted and heaved wild and dropped thrown balls and let pop flies drop down in the middle of the diamond. And during all this vaudeville stuff, the Navs were playing a fair article of ball and pounding the old apple in between.

Perhaps the best bet of the fan in going to see the aggregation called the Tiger Colts is the opportunity afforded to see some really big league pitchers—all the Tiger veterans. Also Vitt was along—Tiger regular third baseman who reported late and who has a sore arm and who played second base on that account. In left field was Gene Dubuc, in center George Dauss and in right James—who is not Big Bill James of the Braves. In the box was Lowdermilk and warming up on the sidelines somebody said Coveleskie was getting ready to go in. These five pitchers are all old-timers and compose probably Jennings' chief hope of a pennant. They are finding a little trouble in rounding into shape, but they are taking their time, like most veterans, and all of them are here with the Colts.

Today's game will be called at 3:30 o'clock, and it was thought last night that the great Coveleskie would be seen on the Tiger mound. It may be possible that Burke, who is known to have a big Irish heart, will get to thinking of the vine-clad cottage in Minnesota or Utah or Georgia that is threatened with not materializing, and send Erickson back this afternoon. At that, the betting is even that the long-necked one will go out there and show a lot of stuff if he does get a chance.

Tickets for today's game will go on sale at 10 o'clock at Herz Brothers. At 2 o'clock the gates will open.

More Good Pitchers, Cry at San Antonio

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, March 25.—The San Antonio Bronchos, unable to book a game with the major league clubs now touring Texas for today and Sunday, has agreed to take on the Ahrens & Ott baseball team of San Antonio, post-season champions for 1915 of the local lots. While these lads are simon pure rooks, some of the best baseball material in Texas has been produced through the amateur games. The Ahrens & Ott team are members of the San Antonio City league, of which Frank Noel, a local sport editor, is the head.

In the words of Harrison J. Benson, the local president: "Amateurs will be professionals in course of time, and from the bushes do the major leagues secure their Ty Cobbs, Honus Wagners, Benny Kauffs and others."

It's true, too, that amateurs must be finished amateurs before they join the ranks of the pros; and finished, or almost finished pros when they go up into the big circle. Occasionally a college youth jumps into major league uniform and makes good, but the majority of big leaguers are products of the small town lots.

The coming baseball year looks most promising to Prexy Benson and the fans are showing more interest in the national pastime than has heretofore been the case. The prexy, too, is catering to young America, having reduced the price of the bleacher seats to the youngsters to 10 cents—just a thin dime, and, according to word received from the youngsters they will root for the Bronchos as they never have before.

Then again these youngsters who are getting educated in the fine points of baseball will, in a few years to come, be grandstand and box seat patrons and anything that will improve the popularity of the game goes for Benson.

In the pre-season games to date against the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants one glaring defect of the Broncho personnel has been shown to a nicety. The Nags need pitchers—need them badly, too. Harding, upon whom Cap Leidy has been relying to date, has shown little, while Ben Davenport, another carded regular, is meteoric. Some-days he twirls like a whirlwind and then again he twirls like a gentle zephyr. He's an awful in-and-outer. Neal Stair, a Luling lad, has the build of a real twirler, and can pitch, too, albeit he is lacking in experience. Haynes, another youngster, and Pott, a lad from Ohio, both twirled good ball, but lack of judgment probably will cause Manager Leidy to tie the can to them—at least, farm them out.

Can you imagine a pitcher passing a man to first to get to Larry Doyle, champion national league batsman, or to Kauff, Federal league swatter? Can you imagine it? Yet that's exactly what our promising buds did here last Monday and Tuesday. It was heart-rending. Needless to say that Doyle and Kauff both fattened their batting average or more properly their batting eye, for they certainly did pound the old apple to all corners of league park.

Hatton Ogle, last year with the Waco Navigators, reported during the week and along with Harry Stewart the Nags have two reliable .667 per cent twirlers, but outside of these two celebrities the pitching staff goes for naught.

With Dunckel on first, Love or Fagan Burch at second, Mike Balenti at short and Westerzil at third the Nags figure to have the best infield in the Texas league. With Baggan, Wotell and Simmang in the outfield that part of the program is fairly well looked after, although "Higgy" Simmang, the local amateur, may be farmed out and another gardener secured.

With Lester Cook and Claude Soper behind the bat, with Burch as another, in case of necessity the backstopping looks O. K. but the pitchers! Oh, Louie!

From the shoulders down they are world-beaters; from the shoulders up—spare me, dear reader, spare me the pain.

Bob Burman Wins Fifty Mile Race

By The Associated Press

San Diego, Cal., March 25.—Bob Burman won the fifty-mile Panama-California international exposition cup race here today. The time was 57:30 4-5.

The course was slightly over one mile. Teddy Tetzlaff was second, Barney Oldfield third and Clifford Duran fourth. No others started.

A. & M. College for Interscholastic Track Meet in April

Special to the Morning News.

College Station, March 25.—Indications are that the coming interscholastic track meet to be held at the A. & M. College April 14-15, will be the largest in the history of that event. The committee having this feature in charge pays the railroad fare of a team of four men that has won out in a district meet, and of every individual who has won as many as 12 points in a preliminary meet in which three schools competed.

More than 175 men competed in this meet at the college last year and Dean Kyle, chairman of the committee, and Athletic Director Driver are preparing to accommodate an even larger number of athletes this year than last.

April 13 and 14 will be the date for two games between the A. & M. and the University ball teams. On the night of April 13 the queen's ball, honoring the queen for the annual spring carnival, will be given.

Oilers Are Looking Formidable Now

Special to the Morning News.

Beaumont, March 25.—Beaumont has its first test of strength on the ball field today, when it will meet Paul Sentell's Pirates in the opening exhibition game here. Later on Mike Finn's men will meet Benny Kauff and Ty Cobb and the other Giants and Tigers.

The Oilers were late in getting started but are rounding into shap in good style. The fans here think the team will be the best ever. President Stedman has just wired the New York Americans to send Catcher Sweeney. Sweeney has a $7500 berth on the Yanks' paywagon, and it's a cinch the Oilers will not be able to kick in with the full amount. It is understood the Highlanders will make up the deficiency.

Stedman also has wired for Goodbred, a Dodger slabman who is said to be considerable performer.

Mike Finn, the manger, has not fully recovered from his recent operation at Little Rock and hasn't come to town, but he'll blow in pretty pronto, it is expected. Jim Delehanty, the former Brookfed, has been whipping the Finnigans into shape and appears to be a corking good man. All the Oilers are showing a fine spirit, and there's hot competition for every job.

The old timers on the job are Ty Cook, first baseman; Ona Dodd, second; J. B. McMahon, third; Jimmy Clark and Al Nixon, outfield; Chester Bobo, catcher; Ollie Jost, pitcher, and Art Schwind, shortstop.

Raymond Fagan, who led the Western association last year with a clean thousand and was sold to the White Sox and later to the Tigers, came here from the Waxahachie training camp with a Detroit string tied to him. Another likely hilltop candidate is Fred Troutman, from the old Fed farm, the Colonial. Other pitching possibilities are Ed Wright, a husky smoke merchant from Arkansas; Paul May, a youngster who did good work for Macon in the South Atlantic league last year; Earl Hill of Springtown, and Bill Prince of Cirsicana. Rynearson, the former Canadian leaguer picked up by a Detroit scout, and Veazey, the ex-Pirate who was on the way to becoming the wonder of the league last year, were not on hand for the early practice.

In Phil Chouinard, outfielder (another Fed. farm hand), the Oilers have a man of promise. Jack Johnston, with Chattanooga last year and with the New York Giants and St. Louis Americans before that, already is solid with the fans. He is a slugger and about as peaceful a citizen as Bugs Raymond. Chouinard is also a one-time big leaguer, having played with the White Sox.

Brooks Ellison, a big Georgian who had some experience with the Boston Braves in their great dash in 1914, looks to be a tiptop backstop. Warwick Comstock, who has never been higher than semi-pro., looks like a phenom and Finn will keep a string to him very likely.

The old spirit never was stronger among the Beaumont bugs than it is now. They feel sure they have a winning team and have the utmost confidence in Finn and Delehanty.

From this corner of the geographical diagram it looks like the hottest race since Hector was a small pup.

HELPFUL HINTS TO BASEBALL PLAYERS

In sliding to second, much time can be saved by first carpeting the baseline with banana peels.

Spike wounds may be entirely prevented by not going near anybody's spikes.

If you are pitching, and the call is three balls, no strikes and the bases are full and a .330 hitter is up, it might be well to try the efficacy of prayer.

A batting average will grow much more satisfactorily if real hits are used in its composition. Phantom hits and those you made in the Class X company do not produce proper results.

If you lack pep and fire, and do not get around actively enough to suit the manager, go into the dressing room and sit on a hot stove. The resulting in crease of energy and agility will be immediate and astonishing.

Detroit Pitchers Work Well and Are Backed Up With Timely Bingles.

By the Associated Press.

Dallas, March 25.—Good pitching and timely hitting won this afternoon for the Detroit Americans 5 to 2 over the New York Nationals in the second major league pre-season game in Texas this season. The same teams played at Marlin Friday, New York winning 4 to 1. Both were first squad teams. The same clubs will meet here again tomorrow.

About 7000 enthusiastic fans from all sections of the southwest saw the game. It is estimated that fully 12,000 will pay to see the Sunday game.

The absence of Ty Cobb was a great disappointment, his arrival having been delayed by the fire at Augusta, Ga., his home, Wednesday.

Baylor Scrubs and Waco High Play Tie Game

The Baylor scrubs and the Waco High school played a 12-inning tie game on Carroll field yesterday morning. The score was 4 and 4. In the first inning, Waco hit the Cub pitcher hard and ran in three scores and by a stolen base and a hit by Boynton the other run was made in the third.

The Cublets were unable to score until the last of the fourth and then Thompson scored on a hit by Eastland. The score remained 4 to 1 in favor of the high school until the eighth when the Little Bears opened up and made another in the ninth the score was tied.

The three extra innings brought only one man on each team as far as third, but neither was able to score the extra run.

The Baylorites outhit the high school nine, getting nine hits to Hi's 5, but on account of the good work of Boynton on third and McCullough on second the score was held down on that side while the Baylor men made five errors against Hi's three, thereby giving the visitors the edge on runs per hits.

The Baylor pitchers at first were wild, but Ellis went in in the fifth and saved the thing from being a slaughter by the high school aggregation.

The line-up:

Baylor—Wiebusch, first base; Byrom, left field; Crossiyn, shortstop; Walker, right field; Thompson, center field; Woods, catcher; Lindsey, second base; Eastland, third base; Denton, pitcher. Subs: Austin for Byrom, Alexander for Wood, Rickman for Denton and Ellis for Rickman.

Umpires, Silbert and Mundy, Baylor.

Galveston Beats Beaumont but Nixon Gets Two Homers

Beaumont, March 25.—Although the local club made three home runs, Galveston won the first exhibition game, played here this season, by a score of 10 to 6. Nixon got two home runs.

Panthers Can't Tell Who to Turn Loose

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, March 25.—Even though the days for cutting down are drawing nigh, there still remains that big infield puzzle, for Jakey Atz, manager of the Fort Worth Panthers, to solve. Also Jakey has had a pitchers' puzzle develoo on his hands in the past week or so. The infield puzzle shapes up about thusly: Atz has on hands two rattling good third basemen, either one of which he would have given an eye tooth for last year, for he had no real honest-to-gosh third basemen then. The two third sackers are Manda and Wratten, both experienced, heady ball palyers, good fielders and good hitters. Manda seems to have the edge on the argument so far, and that problem may settle itself satisfactorily. Then he has two shortstops, Dee from New England, and Bobbie Stow of last year. Of course, had he known Stow would come back from Oakland he never would have hired Dee, but good coin of the realm was paid out for the classy man, and it is a safe bet that Owner Weaver would be glad to see Dee placed with some club that needs a shortstop or a third baseman, for Dee can play either. He is one of the niftiest fielders and all around good men that has been seen in these parts in some time, but of course he won't beat Stow out, for Stow was about the classiest in the league last year. Then Jakey has on hand Eddie Holloway, a peach of a young second baseman, who is playing great ball every day; but Manager Atz himself was a great second baseman last year, and he has no real need for another.

The pitching problem was made more difficult by the obtaining of A. Rankin Johnson from the Red Sox. Johnson jumped to the Feds last year, which undoubtedly is the only reason he ever got out of the majors. Every big leaguer and big league sport writer who has been here with clubs on spring exhibition visits has expressed surprise that he ever got by the AA leagues, to land in the Texas. But he is here and Atz has Harrah, Redford, Harbin, Lefty Mapel, Tretter and two amateurs on hand. The amateurs probably will go, but about the rest of it is very much of a guess as to which are the best. Mapel is the only left hander in camp and undoubtedly will stick. Redford is going good and will stick. Harrah is developing a spit ball and if he succeeds he has a good chance. Harbin is performing nicely and Tretter is a classy, experienced man from the Three-I league. So there you are.

In Woodall, the club has a second Al Walters. He is due to set the league afire as a catcher and a hitter. Betts is going good, also.

In the outfield Atz has Melver and McLaurin, who will play regularly. McCoy is a nice-looking youngster and Scherer, another new man, is hitting like a house afire. He also is a good fielder. Both new men have had plenty of experience. In fact there is not a green man in camp, except the two pitchers already mentioned. It's not a matter of picking youngsters on a gamble, but of eliminating really good ball players, any of whom are good enough to play in this league.

Undoubtedly the most regretful thing of all is that Shortstop Dee will go. He is too good a man to go a-begging for a job, but it is hoped by all here he will land a berth in this league. He has fallen in love with Texas, although a Boston boy, and has the goods. He would never have been brought here had Stow been known to have been available again, and had Stow not come back he would have had the job in a walk. This is the statement of officials of the club themselves.

The announcement that Manager John McGraw will bring the regulars here for two days was received with rejoicing by local fans. McGraw has seen fit to pass up this place for three years on account of some old soreness resulting from a panning given the big league manager which he thought not deserved. But fans here want to see the Giants and the big crowds that have attended all the exhibition games so far is a good argument to the big league managers to come here for exhibition games.

Aggie Students Take Three Days' Hike

Special to the Morning News.

College Station, March 25.—Life as it is lived by the soldier boys in Uncle Sam's army was tasted by the cadets of the A. & M. college during Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the week just closing. The annual spring hike, which began at noon Wednesday closed today.

The week was full of practice marches, all sorts of field drills and skirmishes.

A feature of the week-end was the daylight attack Friday on College Station with the first battalion under Major L. C. Dennis defending the college and the second and third, under the command of Major U. Stephens attacking. The attacking cadets, about 700 in number, succeeded in outflanking the defending battalion and took them prisoners after two hours of skirmishes and maneuvers.

Saturday the regiment went on a practice march to the Brazos river, a distance of about fourteen miles for the round trip. A barbecued dinner was served at the river and the college band gave an open-air concert.

The three-day hike is demanded by the war department of all colleges holding the rank of "distinguished military college," which rank A. & M. college has held for five years.

The hike covered all instructions given to the regulars in field practice and is designed to give the collegians a touch of real soldier life. Until the destruction of the tents belonging to the college the hike always has been spent in an encampment somewhere on the river or near the college. This year the men are sleeping in the dormitories, however.

Frisky Navigators Play Rings Around Detroit Colts

DETROIT COLTS STAGE VAUDEVILLE SHOW

INCIDENTALLY, NAVIGATORS COP LONG END OF 18 TO 5 SCORE.

ERICKSON HAS VERY BAD DAY

Former Dallas Pitcher Walks Five in Row—Same Teams Play Again Today.

The Detroit Colts and the Navigators staged a sterling vaudeville performance at Katy park yesterday. The term is used after mature deliberation, for the game could be described by no other term than a vaudeville performance. It wasn't any little four-a-day show, either, composed of three song-and-dancers and a ham-and-egg single. It was big-time stuff from a vaudeville standpoint, although when referred to as baseball it was the worst ever. Incidentally, the score was 18 to 5 in favor of the Navs.

A good big-time vaudeville bill must have a touch to music to it, a lot of comedy, some acrobatics, preferably humorous, as well a dash of tragedy. And yesterday's show had even the latter.

One Erickson, erstwhile Dallas Giant, who was drafted or purchased by Jennings last year, or acquired by the peppery Tiger boss in some other way, furnished the serious stuff. The young man, having selected baseball as his life's work, threw his whole soul into it, as one of his nationality is apt to do. He gave Dallas all he had last year and was rewarded by receiving The Call. After warming the bench all during the training season, he went in yesterday to show what he could do. He seemed to be in grand condition. He had dazzling speed, blinding curves and all the rest of it except control. Referring to a baseball pitcher as having no control is like referring to an automobile without any engine. Erickson shammed 'em in like bullets—nineteen balls in a row without a strike. If you happen to be a mathematician you can figure that this walked the first four men up and gave the fifth one three balls. Then he finally got one over. He got so excited over this that he made an illegal delivery of his twenty-first heave and this allowed the fifth straight man to walk. Then Malmquist came up and when Erickson's twenty-second offering went wide of the plate Jimmy Burke, in charge of the Colts, sent for Erickson. One strike out of twenty-two heaves may not be a world's record, but it ought to be. To the heartless fans—only a few heartless ones were present and they were heartless because they were trying to draw four-bits worth out of the show—Erickson's efforts were comedy; to Erickson the happening could be viewed in no light but that of tragedy. No doubt he had planned all winter how hard he was going to try to make good this spring; who knows? maybe somewhere up in Minnesota or out in Utah or over in Georgia, a fair-haired Swedish lass may be eagerly awaiting the news of his first appearance this spring; maybe a lot depended on it that nobody but these two know about. But why speculate?

Some 200 fans laughed at the spectacle with fiendish glee. It was the only real gruesome spectacle of the evening, and they seemed to enjoy it.

And the tough part of it was that the only thing he had last year was control.

But while the fans insisted on regarding Erickson's terrible flivver as comedy, it was only because they were looking for comedy right at that time. Had he relieved somebody later in the game after the Detroit boys had pulled all the real funny stuff in baseball maybe the tall, long-necked one wouldn't have drawn a laugh.

Lowdermilk wasn't must stronger on the control stuff than Erickson, although he drew his defection out over somewhat longer a period. He walked many and beaned some few and in between he stood on his head as an extra attraction. Out in the field some real big league pitchers spent a busy afternoon trying to keep from getting hit on the head by fly balls. The infield booted and heaved wild and dropped thrown balls and let pop flies drop down in the middle of the diamond. And during all this vaudeville stuff, the Navs were playing a fair article of ball and pounding the old apple in between.

Perhaps the best bet of the fan in going to see the aggregation called the Tiger Colts is the opportunity afforded to see some really big league pitchers—all the Tiger veterans. Also Vitt was along—Tiger regular third baseman who reported late and who has a sore arm and who played second base on that account. In left field was Gene Dubuc, in center George Dauss and in right James—who is not Big Bill James of the Braves. In the box was Lowdermilk and warming up on the sidelines somebody said Coveleskie was getting ready to go in. These five pitchers are all old-timers and compose probably Jennings' chief hope of a pennant. They are finding a little trouble in rounding into shape, but they are taking their time, like most veterans, and all of them are here with the Colts.

Today's game will be called at 3:30 o'clock, and it was thought last night that the great Coveleskie would be seen on the Tiger mound. It may be possible that Burke, who is known to have a big Irish heart, will get to thinking of the vine-clad cottage in Minnesota or Utah or Georgia that is threatened with not materializing, and send Erickson back this afternoon. At that, the betting is even that the long-necked one will go out there and show a lot of stuff if he does get a chance.

Tickets for today's game will go on sale at 10 o'clock at Herz Brothers. At 2 o'clock the gates will open.

More Good Pitchers, Cry at San Antonio

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, March 25.—The San Antonio Bronchos, unable to book a game with the major league clubs now touring Texas for today and Sunday, has agreed to take on the Ahrens & Ott baseball team of San Antonio, post-season champions for 1915 of the local lots. While these lads are simon pure rooks, some of the best baseball material in Texas has been produced through the amateur games. The Ahrens & Ott team are members of the San Antonio City league, of which Frank Noel, a local sport editor, is the head.

In the words of Harrison J. Benson, the local president: "Amateurs will be professionals in course of time, and from the bushes do the major leagues secure their Ty Cobbs, Honus Wagners, Benny Kauffs and others."

It's true, too, that amateurs must be finished amateurs before they join the ranks of the pros; and finished, or almost finished pros when they go up into the big circle. Occasionally a college youth jumps into major league uniform and makes good, but the majority of big leaguers are products of the small town lots.

The coming baseball year looks most promising to Prexy Benson and the fans are showing more interest in the national pastime than has heretofore been the case. The prexy, too, is catering to young America, having reduced the price of the bleacher seats to the youngsters to 10 cents—just a thin dime, and, according to word received from the youngsters they will root for the Bronchos as they never have before.

Then again these youngsters who are getting educated in the fine points of baseball will, in a few years to come, be grandstand and box seat patrons and anything that will improve the popularity of the game goes for Benson.

In the pre-season games to date against the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants one glaring defect of the Broncho personnel has been shown to a nicety. The Nags need pitchers—need them badly, too. Harding, upon whom Cap Leidy has been relying to date, has shown little, while Ben Davenport, another carded regular, is meteoric. Some-days he twirls like a whirlwind and then again he twirls like a gentle zephyr. He's an awful in-and-outer. Neal Blair, a Luling lad, has the build of a real twirler and can pitch, too, albeit he is lacking in experience. Haynes, another youngster, and Potts, a lad from Ohio, both twirled good ball, but lack of judgment probably will cause Manager Leidy to tie the can to them—at least, farm them out.

Can you imagine a pitcher passing a man to first to get to Larry Doyle, champion national league batsman, or to Kauff, Federal league swatter? Can you imagine it? Yet that's exactly what our promising buds did here last Monday and Tuesday. It was heart-rending. Needless to say that Doyle and Kauff both fattened their batting average or more properly their batting eye, for they certainly did pound the old apple to all corners of league park.

Hatton Ogle, last year with the Waco Navigators, reported during the week and along with Harry Stewart the Nags have two reliable .667 per cent twirlers, but outside of these two celebrities the pitching staff goes for naught.

With Dunckel on first, Love or Fagan Burch at second, Mike Balenti at short and Westergil at third the Nags figure to have the best infield in the Texas league. With Baggan, Wotell and Simmang in the outfield that part of the program is fairly well looked after, although "Higgy" Simmang, the local amateur, may be farmed out and another gardener secured.

With Lester Cook and Claude Soper behind the bat, with Burch as another, in case of necessity the backstopping looks O. K. but the pitchers! Oh, Louie!

From the shoulders down they are world-beaters; from the shoulders up—spare me, dear reader, spare me the pain.

Bob Burman Wins Fifty Mile Race

By The Associated Press.

San Diego, Cal., March 25.—Bob Burman won the fifty-mile Panama-California international exposition cup race here today. The time was 57:30 4-5.

The course was slightly over one mile. Teddy Tetzlaff was second, Barney Oldfield third and Clifford Duran fourth. No others started.

WHITE SOX TO COME BACK IN 1917.

By the Associated Press.

Mineral Wells, March 25.—The Chicago American league baseball club will train here again in 1917, according to a contract signed today.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX ARRIVE AT SPRING TRAINING CAMP

White Sox squad leaving train at Mineral Wells, Texas, for training camp.

Clarence Rowland, manager of the Chicago White Sox, arrived at Mineral Wells, Texas, a few days ago, accompanied by a husky squad of regulars and recruits. The White Sox training camp has since been a busy place, and games with Texas teams are scheduled at an early date.

A. & M. College for Interscholastic Track Meet in April

Special to the Morning News.

College Station, March 25.—Indications are that the coming interscholastic track meet to be held at the A. & M. College April 14-15, will be the largest in the history of that event. The committee having this feature in charge pays the railroad fare of a team of four men that has won out in a district meet, and of every individual who has won as many as 12 points in a preliminary meet in which three schools competed.

More than 175 men competed in this meet at the college last year and Dean Kyle, chairman of the committee, and Athletic Director Driver are preparing to accommodate an even larger number of athletes this year than last.

April 13 and 14 wil be the date for two games between the A. & M. and the University ball teams. On the night of April 13 the queen's ball, honoring the queen for the annual spring carnival, will be given.

Oilers Are Looking Formidable Now

Special to the Morning News.

Beaumont, March 25.—Beaumont has its first test of strength on the ball field today, when it will meet Paul Santell's Pirates in the opening exhibition game here. Later on Mike Finn's men will meet Benny Kauff and Ty Cobb and the other Giants and Tigers.

The Oilers were late in getting started but are rounding into shap in good style. The fans here think the team will be the best ever. President Stedman has just wired the New York Americans to send Catcher Sweeney. Sweeney has a $7500 berth on the Yanks' paywagon, and it's a cinch the Oilers will not be able to kick in with the full amount. It is understood the Highlanders will make up the deficiency.

Stedman also has wired for Goodbred, a Dodger slabman who is said to be considerable performer.

Mike Finn, the manger, has not fully recovered from his recent operation at Little Rock and hasn't come to town, but he'll blow in pretty pronto, it is expected. Jim Delehanty, the former Brookfed, has been whipping the Finnigans into shape and appears to be a corking good man. All the Oilers are showing a fine spirit, and there's hot competition for every job.

The old timers on the job are Ty Cook, first baseman; Ona Dodd, second; J. B. McMahon, third; Jimmy Clark and Al Nixon, outfield; Chester Bobo, catcher; Ollie Jost, pitcher, and Art Schwind, shortstop.

Raymond Fagan, who led the Western association last year with a clean thousand and was sold to the White Sox and later to the Tigers, came here from the Waxahachie training camp with a Detroit string tied to him. Another likely hilltop candidate is Fred Troutman, from the old Fed farm, the Colonial. Other pitching possibilities are Ed Wright, a husky smoke merchant from Arkansas; Paul May, a youngster who did good work for Macon in the South Atlantic league last year; Earl Hill of Springtown, and Bill Prince of Cirsicana. Rynearson, the former Canadian leaguer picked up by a Detroit scout, and Veazey, the ex-Pirate who was on the way to becoming the wonder of the league last year, were not on hand for the early practice.

In Phil Chouinard, outfielder (another Fed. farm hand), the Oilers have a man of promise. Jack Johnston, with Chattanooga last year and with the New York Giants and St. Louis Americans before that, already is solid with the fans. He is a slugger and about as peaceful a citizen as Bugs Raymond. Chouinard is also a one-time big leaguer, having played with the White Sox.

Brooks Ellison, a big Georgian who had some experience with the Boston Braves in their great dash in 1914, looks to be a tiptop backstop. Warwick Comstock, who has never been higher than semi-pro., looks like a phenom and Finn will keep a string to him very likely.

The old spirit never was stronger among the Beaumont bugs than it is now. They feel sure they have a winning team and have the utmost confidence in Finn and Delehanty.

From this corner of the geographical diagram it looks like the hottest race since Hector was a small pup.

HELPFUL HINTS TO BASEBALL PLAYERS

In sliding to second, much time can be saved by first carpeting the baseline with banana peels.

Spike wounds may be entirely prevented by not going near anybody's spikes.

If you are pitching, and the call is three balls, no strikes and the bases are full and a .320 hitter is up, it might be well to try the efficacy of prayer.

A batting average will grow much more satisfactorily if real hits are used in its composition. Phantom hits and those you made in the Class X company do not produce proper results.

If you lack pep and fire, and do not get around agtively enough to suit the manager, go into the dressing room and sit on a hot stove. The resulting increase of energy and agility will be immediate and astonishing.

Detroit Pitchers Work Well and Are Backed Up With Timely Bingles.

By the Associated Press.

Dallas, March 25.—Good pitching and timely hitting won this afternoon for the Detroit Americans a to 2 over the New York Nationals in the second major league pre-season game in Texas this season. The same teams played at Marlin Friday, New York winning 4 to 1. Both were first squad teams. The same clubs will meet here again tomorrow.

About 2000 enthusiastic fans from all sections of the southwest saw the game. It is estimated that fully 12,000 will pay to see the Sunday game.

The absence of Ty Cobb was a great disappointment, his arrival having been delayed by the fire at Augusta, Ga., his home, Wednesday.

Baylor Scrubs and Waco High Play Tie Game

The Baylor scrubs and the Waco High school played a 12-inning tie game on Carroll field yesterday morning. The score was 4 and 4. In the first inning, Waco hit the Cub pitcher hard and ran in three scores and by a stolen base and a hit by Boynton the other run was made in the third.

The Cublets were unable to score until the last of the fourth and then Thompson scored on a hit by Eastland. The score remained 4 to 1 in favor of the high school until the eighth when the Little Bears opened up and made another. in the ninth the score was tied.

The three extra innings brought only one man on each team as far as third, but neither was able to score the extra run.

The Baylorites outhit the high school nine, getting nine hits to Hi's 5, but on account of the good work of Boynton on third and McCullough on second the score was held down on that side while the Baylor men made five errors against Hi's three, thereby giving the visitors the edge on runs per hits.

The Baylor pitchers at first were wild, but Ellis went in in the fifth and saved the thing from being a slaughter by the high school aggregation.

The line-up:

Baylor—Wiebusch, first base; Byrom, left field; Crosslyn, shortstop; Walker, right field; Thompson, center field; Woods, catcher; Lindsey, second base; Eastland, third base; Denton, pitcher. Subs: Austin for Byrom, Alexander for Wood, Rickman for Denton and Ellis for Rickman.

Umpires, Silbert and Mundy, Baylor.

Galveston Beats Beaumont but Nixon Gets Two Homers

Beaumont, March 25.—Although the local club made three home runs, Galveston won the first exhibition game, played here this season, by a score of 10 to 6. Nixon got two home runs.

Panthers Can't Tell Who to Turn Loose

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, March 25.—Even though the days for cutting down are drawing nigh, there still remains that big infield puzzle, for Jakey Atz, manager of the Fort Worth Panthers, to solve. Also Jakey has had a pitchers' puzzle develop on his hands in the past week or so. The infield puzzle shapes up about thusly: Atz has on hands two rattling good third basemen, either one of which he would have given an eye tooth for last year, for he had no real honest-to-gosh third basemen then. The two third sackers are Manda and Wratten, both experienced, heady ball palyers, good fielders and good hitters. Manda seems to have the edge on the argument so far, and that problem may settle itself satisfactorily. Then he has two shortstops, Dee from New England, and Bobbie Stow of last year. Of course, had he known Stow would come back from Oakland he never would have hired Dee, but good coin of the realm was paid out for the classy man, and it is a safe bet that Owner Weaver would be glad to see Dee placed with some club that needs a shortstop or a third baseman, for Dee can play either. He is one of the niftiest fielders and all around good men that has been seen in these parts in some time, but of course he won't beat Stow out, for Stow was about the classiest in the league last year. Then Jakey has on hand Eddie Holloway, a peach of a young second baseman, who is playing great ball every day; but Manager Atz himself was a great second baseman last year, and he has no real need for another.

The pitching problem was made more difficult by the obtaining of A. Rankin Johnson from the Red Sox. Johnson jumped to the Feds last year, which undoubtedly is the only reason he ever got out of the majors. Every big leaguer and big league sport writer who has been here with clubs on spring exhibition visits has expressed surprise that he ever got by the AA leagues, to land in the Texas. But he is here and Atz has Harrah, Redford, Harbin, Lefty Mapel, Tretter and two amateurs on hand. The amateurs probably will go, but about the rest of it is very much of a guess as to which are the best. Mapel is the only left hander in camp and undoubtedly will stick. Redford is going good and will stick. Harrah is developing a spit ball and if he succeeds he has a good chance. Harbin is performing nicely and Tretter is a classy, experienced man from the Three-I league. So there you are.

In Woodall, the club has a second Al Walters. He is due to set the league afire as a catcher and a hitter. Betts is going good, also.

In the outfield Atz has McIver and McLaurin, who will play regularly. McCoy is a nice-looking youngster and Scherer, another new man, is hitting like a house afire. He also is a good fielder. Both new men have had plenty of experience. In fact there is not a green man in camp, except the two pitchers already mentioned. It's not a matter of picking youngsters on a gamble, but of eliminating really good ball players, any of whom are good enough to play in this league.

Undoubtedly the most regretful thing of all is that Shortstop Dee will go. He is too good a man to go a-begging for a job, but it is hoped by all here he will land a berth in this league. He has fallen in love with Texas, although a Boston boy, and has the goods. He would never have been brought here had Stow been known to have been available again, and had Stow not come back he would have had the job in a walk. This is the statement of officials of the club themselves.

The announcement that Manager John McGraw will bring the regulars here for two days was received with rejoicing by local fans. McGraw has seen fit to pass up this place for three years on account of some old soreness resulting from a panning given the big league manager which he thought not deserved. But fans here want to see the Giants and the big crowds that have attended all the exhibition games so far is a good argument to the big league managers to come here for exhibition games.

Aggie Students Take Three Days' Hike

Special to the Morning News.

College Station, March 25.—Life as it is lived by the soldier boys in Uncle Sam's army was tasted by the cadets of the A. & M. college during Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the week just closing. The annual spring hike, which began at noon Wednesday closed today.

The week was full of practice marches, all sorts of field drills and skirmishes.

A feature of the week-end was the daylight attack Friday on College Station with the first battalion under Major L. C. Dennis defending the college and the second and third, under the command of Major U. Stephens attacking. The attacking cadets, about 700 in number, succeeded in outflanking the defending battalion and took them prisoners after two hours of skirmishes and maneuvers.

Saturday the regiment went on a practice march to the Brazos river, a distance of about fourteen miles for the round trip. A barbecued dinner was served at the river and the college band gave an open-air concert.

The three-day hike is demanded by the war department of all colleges holding the rank of "distinguished military college," which rank A. & M. college has held for five years.

The hike covered all instructions given to the regulars in field practice and is designed to give the collegians a touch of real soldier life. Until the destruction of the tents belonging to the college the hike always has been spent in an encampment somewhere on the river or near the college. This year the men are sleeping in the dormitories, however.

COLORED SOCIETY ACTIVE IN CONTEST TO BEAUTIFY CITY

In a meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People held Thursday night, plans were discussed for the promotion of a "City Beautiful" campaign. The association will give a prize to the school having the most beautiful campus, and a proze will be given to the individual that has the most beautiful campus, and a prize will extend until the last week in May.

As a means of stimulating interest in the campaign, a prize will be given to the young man or young woman who induces the largest number of residents to plant flowers and to put forth other efforts to beautify their yards.

This contest is open to the colored young men and young women of the city, and those who desire to take part will kindly give their names to the principal of the school in their district.

The members of the association will canvass every colored home in Waco in an effort to secure unanimous support and co-operation in the execution of this great movement. Efforts are being made by a special committee of the association to secure a sufficient amount of flower seed to be distributed free, among the school children, and to supply those homes that are not able to purchase them.

Iron Is Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200 Per Cent Stronger In Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remady, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

ELDORA STANFORD IN FAREWELL RECITAL

On Monday evening, March 20, Miss Eldora Stanford gave her farewell recital at the Auditorium under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary society of the Provident Heights Baptist church.

Miss Stanford gave the same program which she first gave in Waco on her return from New York, and many who had not heard her took advantage of this opportunity of enjoying an evening of pure lyric song.

Although Miss Stanford had given eight recitals during her month's stay in Texas, and was suffering from overwork, encores were most graciously given throughout the evening. Among the favorites were "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Annie Laurie" and "Absent," while "Larks" and "I Dreamed My Beloved," by Fred E. Eggert, with words by Mrs. Lessing, were so well liked that a repetition was demanded.

Mr. Joseph Evans presided at the piano with his usual finished and artistic accompaniments. Miss Stanford has returned to New York, where she will continue her studies with Oscar Seagle, and from present indications bids fair to become famous as a singer.

THE "CHOIRS" OF A SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Although the three "choirs of a symphony orchestra have been designed as the "string," the "bass" and the "woodwind," such modifications have crept in since the days when symphony orchestras were conceived that the three classifications have been found inadequate. Thus, percussion instruments have been added, like the tympani, while instruments like cymbals and the xylophone have no classification whatever. The harp, which is in reality a stringed instrument, is not included among the "strings," which term belongs only to the instruments of the violin family.

Also, of recent years the silver-flute has superceded the wooden instrument in many symphony orchestras, although it is still classed among the "woodwinds."

Josef Stransky, the conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, has found the silver flute so conducive to tonal balance with the other members of the so-called wood group (oboes, clarinets and bassoons), and its pure carrying quality so well adapted to symphonic work that the three flutists of the Philharmonic orchestra have been equipped with the metal instruments.

BACH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION AT BAYLOR

Members of Baylor university music faculty celebrated the anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach on Tuesday evening, March 21, by giving a program of Bach compositions.

Prof. Rudolf Hoffmann, dean of the music faculty, directed the program and also gave a splendid performance of the B Minor Prelude for organ and the Adagio, Toccata and Fugue in C major, the contrapuntal beauties being most artistically brought out by both manual and pedals.

Mr. Anton Navratil played in fine style a tender little Siciliano, which is a Sicilian peasant dance of pastoral character, the ever beautiful Aur on the G string, and the Sonata in B minor for violin and piano, with Mr. Hoffmann at the piano. This latter, which has probably not been played here before, is a masterly work and served to show the musicianship and artistic taste of both players in a finished performance.

Two of the dance forms, a Gigue and Gavotte (arranged by Saint Saens) for piano, were well given by Miss Eschol Taylor.

Mr. John De Heck was well received in the aria "Komin in Mein Herzenhaus," and the tenor solo, "I Would Beside My Lord Be Watching," with the choral response, "So Slumber Shall My Sins Befall," given by Mr. de Heck's choral class, Mr. Hoffmann conductin gand Miss Everett accompanying at the piano. Mr. De Heck's tones were beautiful in this solo, which he sang with much expression, while the work of the chorus was especially good as to attack, unity and balance. It was particularly fitting to give this selection at this time, for in Leipsic, the home of Sebastian Bach, the passion music was a part of the Lenten service, and the master, who was a man of deep piety, made it more than once his aim to give to the most touching and significant of all dramas an artistic and appropriate musical setting.

Bach is said to have written five Passions, two of them having been lost; the one according to St. Luke is of minor importance; the St. John Passion would impress as a master work were it not overshadowed by that according to St. Matthew. In this work music reaches its highest level. Since Bach's day there has been no attempt to improve on his ideals, and his peer will probably never be known. Bach was a violinist, organist and clavichordist, hence his greatness in writing for all instruments. If the Bach festival idea, originated here by Mr. Hoffmann, should become an institution in Baylor university, its influence on musical taste of central Texas would be inestimable.

JUNIOR EUTERPEANS TO HOLD OPEN MEETING

On Friday evening, April 7, the Junior Euterpeans will present a musical program to the public, at the Central Christian church. Mrs. Ryan is directing the program and the public will have an opportunity of hearing these young musicians.

The regular meeting will be held Saturday, April 1 at 2 o'clock.

EQUAL FRANCHISE CLUB PRESENTS WACO ARTISTS

On Thursday evening, March 23, Mrs. Eugene McNutt, chairman of the music committee of the Equal Franchise club, presented some of Waco's best musical talent in recital at the Central Christian church.

The program opened with the Old English folk song, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and the brilliant song, "Birthday," by Huntington Woodman, sung by Mrs. Stella Prendergast Wren. Mrs. Wren's ability as a singer is well known throughout the state. Possessing a voice of sweetness, power and wide range, it is expected that she will attain internatianal renown as a singer.

Grieg's "An Dem Fruhlings," and "Cradle Song," by Karganoff, were artistically played piano numbers by Mrs. Bernard Schroeder. Mrs. Schroeder is a comparatively new-comer in Waco and her musical accomplishments and charm of manner have made her popular in musical circles.

Miss Beulah Duncan, who is well known as one of Texas' most talented and artistic singers, sang in her usual finished manner "Sylvelin," by Sinding, "Hayfields and Butterflies," by Del Riego, and "Oh Thou Billowy Harvest Field," by Rachmaninoff, with F. Arthur Johnson at the piano.

Two songs, "Larks" and "The Monologue," by Fred E. Eggert were sung by Mrs. Jacques Rousseau, and also "I Dreamed My Beloved" given as an encore. Mrs. Rouseau is the possessor of a lovely voice and always delights her audience.

Mrs. Carl Mick, the gifted violinist, charmed the audience with the "Romance," from Wiemaski's Second Concerto, Mrs. McNutt accompanying.

Mendelssohn's Capriccio Concerto was especially well played by Miss Mattie Watson, with orchestral accompaniment played on second piano, by Joseph Evans. Mr. Evans also played acompaniments for Mrs. Wren and Mrs. Rosseau.

EUTERPEAN CLUB IN REGULAR SESSION

On Saturday afternoon, March 18, the Euterpean club met in regular session, the important business of the club being the election of officers for the coming year. The nominating committee, Mrs. Alex Sanger and Miss Zuma Walace, presented Miss Beulah Duncan's name as candidate for president. Mrs. Stella Prendergast Wren, who has done such splendid work as president of the club, expects to be absent from Waco next season, but has consented to become busniess manager.

Miss Duncan accepted the nomination and was unanimously elected president.

It was with regret that the club accepted Mrs. Wren's resignation, but it was particularly fortunate that one so capable and efficient as Miss Duncan could be secured for this important position. With Mrs. Wren's assistance in the Artists' bureau and with Mrs. James R. Wright, vice president; Miss Charlotte Ligon, second vice president; Mrs. E. E. Haddox, as recording secretary; Mrs. T. M. Bishop, corresponding secretary; Miss Bianca McKenny, treasurer; Mrs. George Nevin, director of study programs, and Mrs. Virginia Ryan, director of the Junior Euterpeans, the club has a staff of officers which is capable of accomplishing great things.

After the business meeting the following program was rendered, Mrs. Helen Owen directing:

Piano, Sonata Op. 2, No. 2..Beethoven
Miss Edith Aleiman.
Violin, Scottish Lullaby.....Schwab
Mrs. Theodor Ray.
Piano, Gems From Il Trovatore (arranged by Smith).....Verdi
Mrs. J. O. Hall.
Voice, "Dearest Name," from Rigoletta ..... Verdi
Mrs. T. M. Bishop.

MAXIMILIAN PILZER, CONCERTMEISTER OF PHILHARMONIC

The New York Philharmonic orchsetra, which will appear at the Cotton Palace coliseum May 2, boasts an American concertmeister, and thereby proves the contention that is being constantly made by musical authorities in this country that the American artist needs but opportunity to prove his capability. Maximilian Pilzer, at the age of twenty-five, is very young to lead the string choir of this famous organization. More than that—the concertmeister leads the entire body of musicians, being second only to the conductor himself.

Mr. Pilzer was born in New York in 1890 and studied there for ten years. He then went to Berlin, where he studied under the famous master, Josheh Joachim. Until 1905 he traveled abroad, playing in concerts in Berlin, Dresden and other cities, where he was accepted as a boy prodigy. His first orchestral experience was obtained in the Queen's Hall orchestra in London, where for six months, while he was still in knickerbockers, he played first violin.

In the fall of that year he came back to America, and soon after appeared as concertmeister and soloist with the Volpe Symphony orchestra, the Russian Symphony and the People's Symphony. Last year, while only twenty-four years old, he was appointed concertmeister of the Philharmonic to take the place left vacant by Leopold Kramer, who had been detailed abroad by the war.

Since he was fifteen years old Mr. Pilzer has worked over his instrument without the assistance of a teacher, and besides having brought himself to his present position of soloist and concertmeister, has learned to play the piano and written several violin compositions.

The Victrola records of Mr. Pilzer serve to show the excellent solo work of this artist.

RAGMEN MAKING MONEY.

All the Rags They Can Gather Are Wanted by Paper Mills.

Look not with scorn now on the raggatherer, as he wends his way about the city streets and over country roads. He is making a margin of profit such as has not been known in generations to men of his humble vocation.

Whereas formerly the buyer for the paper mill perhaps stood aloof and was frigidly distant when the peddler drove up to his door and showed his garnering from the ragbags of thrifty housewives, now he rather fawns upon the vender. For have not European and Asiatic supplies for American paper mills been shut off so that prices have risen from 40 to 100 per cent?

Now the ragman who brings his goods to the mill practically names his own price and his economic service to the paper trade has just been lauded by the secretary of commerce. Owners of ragbags, if commercially inclined, can increase their income.—Christian Science Monitor.

AT THE QUEEN.

"The Yellow Passport."

Evidently intent upon giving Clara Kimball Young a vehicle in which she might duplicate the success scored in "Hearts in Exile," the World Film selected another photoplay concerned with Russian life in its most brutal aspects. In dealing with persecutions in Russia it recalls the earlier work; but it is even more unmistakably reminiscent of "The Yellow Passport," the sensational stage melodrama that gave the hitherto uninformed American public a knowledge of the Russian government's method of dealing with unfortunate women. The similarity is not in detail, rather in the use of the official license as the basis of the plot. Probably this is the first photoplay to introduce this particular phase of the social evil, and obviously it is rife with opportunities for dramatic situations.

"The Yellow Passport" is best described as a picture of persistent punches. Very little that could be expected to reach the emotions, produce excitement, or appeal to an ever active interest in sex relationships, has been overlooked. It almost goes without saying that a photoplay of this type will succeed, granting an adequate production, such as it received, and the more than adequate acting of Miss Young.

Playing Sonia, a beautiful Jewess whose family, barring a devoted uncle, is slaughtered in a massacre at Kiev, Miss Young has a chcaracter allowing no end of opportunity for emotional expression. Even before the massacre she is placed in a trying predicament, owing to the amorous attentions of Fedia, a police spy, and afterwards when she must leave Kiev, or remain under the sanction of a yellow passport, her difficulties become appalling. The chief weakness of the plot at this point is the failure to give a convincing reason for Conia's determination to remain at Kiev under such frightful conditions. Her wish to continue a musical education is hardly sufficient, for competent instructors might be found elsewhere.

At all events, the girl and her uncle, following especially harrowing experiences that need not be described, sail for America and on the boat she meets a producer of opera and his son. Fame, love and the punishment of the perfidious Fedia, all come in good season.

Director Edwin August put plenty of spirit into scenes such as the massacre of the Jews, and with a few exceptions the players supporting Miss Young gave convincing performances. John Sainpolis was a good type for the police spy, although he rather overworked a sardonic smile. "The Yellow Passport" is not without defects but they are more than balanced by merits of a popular nature.

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY.

A short synopsis of the $100,000 production featuring Clara Kimball Young which will be seen at the Queen theatre tomorrow and Tuesday follows:

Sonia Sokoloff, the daughter of a well-to-do Jewish family in Kiev, is ambitious to become a grand opera singer.

Fedia, a Russian police spy, is employed by the trusting Sokoloffs as a valet. Fedia desires Sonia, and when she is alone, he attacks her. She escapes from him but in order not to alarm her parents, discharges Fedia and tells them nothing of her experience. Fedia, to revenge himself, swear allegiance to the notorious Black Hundred, a mob organized to destroy the Jews.

Fedia incites Ivan, a leader of the Black Hundred, to a terrible massacre. The Sokoloffs are all killed except Sonia and her uncle, Myron, who escapes from his own home and comes to her rescue.

Fedia, during the massacre, steals into the house in search of Sonia. Ivan returning for loot, hears Sonia's cries for help. Seeing her beauty, he and Fedia fight for possession of her. Ivan is killed. Sonia escapes, throwing a lamp at Fedia, knocking him unconscious.

Weeks later Sonia, no longer considered a citizen, is ordered to leave Russia. Loath to be torn from the graves of her family and give up her music lessons, Sonia in spite of her uncle Myron's protests, registers with the police as a public woman and takes out a yellow passport. (Only Jewish women with yellow passports are allowed to remain outside the Pale, which is the Jewish settlement.)

Suspecting that Sonia is a moral woman living under false pretenses, the police master finds out that she has paid the landlords and neighborhood police for protection. Fedia, now a police inspector, is sent to spy upon her. Sonia and her uncle, Myron, on th ship are Carl Resenheimer and his son, Adolph. They hear of the Russian Nightingale among the steerage passengers and interview her. During the voyage Adolph and Sonia fall in love.

Reaching Ellis Island Sonia and her uncle, Myran, once more trick the officials, concealing from them all knowledge of the yellow passport and making it possible for Sonia to be admitted.

In America Sonia becomes a famous opera singer and is formally engaged to Adolph. Fedia is sent by the Russian government to this country. At the height of her success and happiness, Fedia appears on the scene and discloses to the Rosenheimers the history of Sonia's yellow passport.

The proofs of her innocence the letters written by her to the police master, were left in Russia when she and her uncle, Myron, flew to America. Akulena and Fiodor, expelled from Russia, come to America carrying with them these letters, in hopes of finding Sonia.

Adolph regrets his denouncement of Sonia even before the proofs of her innocence are produced.

PAUL QUINN CLUB OF GLEE SINGERS TO MAKE LONG TRIP

The Paul Quinn college choral club will leave April 29 on a tour of the north and east in an effort to raise money for the erection of a central building. The club has been preparing for the trip for about two years. Its repertoire includes the best there is in nego folk song and its concerts in the north will consist almost entirely of this class of music.

During the month of April several concerts will be given in and around Waco, the first being scheduled for St. Paul A. M. E. church Sunday evening, April 2, from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., admission free. On April 8, "Queen Esther" will be rendered in the Majestic theatre. Meantime a short tour will include Austin and intervening points, with probably a date at the State University, and also one at the Southwestern university at Georgetown.

Waco people will remember that the Paul Quinn choral club rendered the music at the banquet tendered the National Editorial association in the Cotton Palace auditorium about three years ago. The club made good impression upon the body of editors attending the banquet and many of the visitors in writing up the trip took occasion to specially mention the folk song singing of the Paul Quinn students. Many of the visitors declared that the folk song concert was an agreeable surprise and that the students were probably unsurpassed in rendering the plantation melodies.

Lad Who Was Held for Farley Burglary Receives Sentence

Louis Trott, aged 15, who was tried in the juvenile court yesterday in connection with the robbery of considerable boys' clothing from the furnishing house of W. T. Farley, was given a term in the state reformatory at Gatesville yesterday by Special Judge G. W. Marcus. The youngster was given a sentence of not less than one year with a probationary sentence until he is of age if his conduct is not exemplary.

Orrine Destroys Liquor Craving

We would not under any circumstances endorse a remedy for the liquor habit, until we had absolutely satisfied ourselves that it did all claimed for it. ORRINE is the only treatment for the liquor habit that has sufficient merit to be sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money, if the desired results are not obtained. It has stood the test of years and we know of many whom it has cured of the drink habit.

You have nothing to risk and everything to gain in giving ORRINE a trial, because the guarantee in each box thoroughly protects you. ORRINE is in two forms: No. 1 for secret use and No. 2 for those who wish to take it voluntarily. Costs $1.00 a box. Ask us for free booklet. Powers-Kelly Drug Co., Austin at Fifth street.

ELDORA STANFORD IN FAREWELL RECITAL

On Monday evening, March 20, Miss Eldora Stanford gave her farewell recital at the Auditorium under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary society of the Provident Heights Baptist church.

Miss Stanford gave the same program which she first gave in Waco on her return from New York, and many who had not heard her took advantage of this opportunity of enjoying an evening of pure lyric song.

Although Miss Stanford had given eight recitals during her month's stay in Texas, and was suffering from overwork, encores were most graciously given throughout the evening. Among the favorites were "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Annie Laurie" and "Absent," while "Larks" and "I Dreamed My Beloved," by Fred E. Eggert, with words by Mrs. Lessing, were so well liked that a repetition was demanded.

Mr. Joseph Evans presided at the piano with his usual finished and artistic accompaniments. Miss Stanford has returned to New York, where she will continue her studies with Oscar Seagle, and from present indications bids fair to become famous as a singer.

THE "CHOIRS" OF A SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Although the three "choirs of a symphony orchestra have been designed as the "string," the "bass" and the "woodwind," such modifications have crept in since the days when symphony orchestras were conceived that the three classifications have been found inadequate. Thus, percussion instruments have been added, like the tympani, while instruments like cymbals and the xylophone have no classification whatever. The harp, which is in reality a stringed instrument, is not included among the "strings," which term belongs only to the instruments of the violin family.

Also, of recent years the silver-flute has superceded the wooden instrument in many symphony orchestras, although it is still classed among the "woodwinds."

Josef Stransky, the conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, has found the silver flute so conducive to tonal balance with the other members of the so-called wood group (oboes, clarinets and bassoons), and its pure carrying quality so well adapted to symphonic work that the three flutists of the Philharmonic orchestra have been equipped with the metal instruments.

BACH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION AT BAYLOR

Members of Baylor university music faculty celebrated the anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach on Tuesday evening, March 21, by giving a program of Bach compositions.

Prof. Rudolf Hoffmann, dean of the music faculty, directed the program and also gave a splendid performance of the B Minor Prelude for organ and the Adagio, Toccata and Fugue in C major, the contrapuntal beauties being most artistically brought out by both manual and pedals.

Mr. Anton Navratil played in fine style a tender little Siciliano, which is a Sicilian peasant dance of pastoral character, the ever beautiful Aur on the G string, and the Sonata in B minor for violin and piano, with Mr. Hoffmann at the piano. This latter, which has probably not been played here before, is a masterly work and served to show the musicianship and artistic taste of both players in a finished performance.

Two of the dance forms, a Gigue and Gavotte (arranged by Saint Saens) for piano, were well given by Miss Eschol Taylor.

Mr. John De Heck was well received in the aria "Komin in Mein Herzenhaus," and the tenor solo, "I Would Beside My Lord Be Watching," with the choral response, "So Slumber Shall My Sins Befall," given by Mr. de Heck's choral class, Mr. Hoffmann conductin gand Miss Everett accompanying at the piano. Mr. De Heck's tones were beautiful in this solo, which he sang with much expression, while the work of the chorus was especially good as to attack, unity and balance. It was particularly fitting to give this selection at this time, for in Leipsic, the home of Sebastian Bach, the passion music was a part of the Lenten service, and the master, who was a man of deep piety, made it more than once his aim to give to the most touching and significant of all dramas an artistic and appropriate musical setting.

Bach is said to have written five Passions, two of them having been lost; the one according to St. Luke is of minor importance; the St. John Passion would impress as a master work were it not overshadowed by that according to St. Matthew. In this work music reaches its highest level. Since Bach's day there has been no attempt to improve on his ideals, and his peer will probably never be known. Bach was a violinist, organist and clavichordist, hence his greatness in writing for all instruments. If the Bach festival idea, originated here by Mr. Hoffmann, should become an institution in Baylor university, its influence on musical taste of central Texas would be inestimable.

JUNIOR EUTERPEANS TO HOLD OPEN MEETING

On Friday evening, April 7, the Junior Euterpeans will present a musical program to the public, at the Central Christian church. Mrs. Ryan is directing the program and the public will have an opportunity of hearing these young musicians.

The regular meeting will be held Saturday, April 1 at 2 o'clock.

EQUAL FRANCHISE CLUB PRESENTS WACO ARTISTS

On Thursday evening, March 23, Mrs. Eugene McNutt, chairman of the music committee of the Equal Franchise club, presented some of Waco's best musical talent in recital at the Central Christian church.

The program opened with the Old English folk song, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and the brilliant song, "Birthday," by Huntington Woodman, sung by Mrs. Stella Prendergast Wren. Mrs. Wren's ability as a singer is well known throughout the state. Possessing a voice of sweetness, power and wide range, it is expected that she will attain internatianal renown as a singer.

Grieg's "An Dem Fruhlings," and "Cradle Song," by Karganoff, were artistically played piano numbers by Mrs. Bernard Schroeder. Mrs. Schroeder is a comparatively new-comer in Waco and her musical accomplishments and charm of manner have made her popular in musical circles.

Miss Beulah Duncan, who is well known as one of Texas' most talented and artistic singers, sang in her usual finished manner "Sylvelin," by Sinding, "Hayfields and Butterflies," by Del Riego, and "Oh Thou Billowy Harvest Field," by Rachmaninoff, with F. Arthur Johnson at the piano.

Two songs, "Larks" and "The Monologue," by Fred E. Eggert were sung by Mrs. Jacques Rousseau, and also "I Dreamed My Beloved" given as an encore. Mrs. Rouseau is the possessor of a lovely voice and always delights her audience.

Mrs. Carl Mick, the gifted violinist, charmed the audience with the "Romance," from Wiemaski's Second Concerto, Mrs. McNutt accompanying.

Mendelssohn's Capriccio Concerto was especially well played by Miss Mattie Watson, with orchestral accompaniment played on second piano, by Joseph Evans. Mr. Evans also played acompaniments for Mrs. Wren and Mrs. Rosseau.

EUTERPEAN CLUB IN REGULAR SESSION

On Saturday afternoon, March 18, the Euterpean club met in regular session, the important business of the club being the election of officers for the coming year. The nominating committee, Mrs. Alex Sanger and Miss Zuma Walace, presented Miss Beulah Duncan's name as candidate for president. Mrs. Stella Prendergast Wren, who has done such splendid work as president of the club, expects to be absent from Waco next season, but has consented to become busniess manager.

Miss Duncan accepted the nomination and was unanimously elected president.

It was with regret that the club accepted Mrs. Wren's resignation, but it was particularly fortunate that one so capable and efficient as Miss Duncan could be secured for this important position. With Mrs. Wren's assistance in the Artists' bureau and with Mrs. James R. Wright, vice president; Miss Charlotte Ligon, second vice president; Mrs. E. E. Haddox, as recording secretary; Mrs. T. M. Bishop, corresponding secretary; Miss Bianca McKenny, treasurer; Mrs. George Nevin, director of study programs, and Mrs. Virginia Ryan, director of the Junior Euterpeans, the club has a staff of officers which is capable of accomplishing great things.

After the business meeting the following program was rendered, Mrs. Helen Owen directing:

Piano, Sonata Op. 2, No. 2..Beethoven
Miss Edith Aleiman.

Violin, Scottish Lullaby.....Schwab
Mrs. Theodor Ray.

Piano, Gems From Il Trovatore (arranged by Smith).....Verdi
Mrs. J. O. Hall.

Voice, "Dearest Name," from Rigoletta ..... Verdi
Mrs. T. M. Bishop.

MAXIMILIAN PILZER, CONCERTMEISTER OF PHILHARMONIC

The New York Philharmonic orchestra, which will appear at the Cotton Palace coliseum May 2, boasts an American concertmeister, and thereby proves the contention that is being constantly made by musical authorities in this country that the American artist needs but opportunity to prove his capability. Maximilan Pilzer, at the age of twenty-five, is very young to lead the string choir of this famous organization. More than that—the concertmeister leads the entire body of musicians, being second only to the conductor himself.

Mr. Pilzer was born in New York in 1890 and studied there for ten years. He then went to Berlin, where he studied under the famous master, Joseph Joachim. Until 1905 he traveled abroad, playing in concerts in Berlin, Dresden and other cities, where he was accepted as a boy prodigy. His first orchestral experience was obtained in the Queen's Hall orchestra in London, where for six months, while he was still in knickerbockers, he played first violin.

In the fall of that year he came back to America, and soon after appeared as concertmeister and soloist with the Volpe Symphony orchestra, the Russian Symphony and the People's Symphony. Last year, while only twenty-four years old, he was appointed concertmeister of the Philharmonic to take the place left vacant by Leopold Kramer, who had been detailed abroad by the war.

Since he was fifteen years old Mr. Pilzer has worked over his instrument without the assistance of a teacher, and besides having brought himself to his present position of soloist and concertmeister, has learned to play the piano and written several violin compositions.

The Victrola records of Mr. Pilzer serve to show the excellent solo work of this artist.

COLORED SOCIETY ACTIVE IN CONTEST TO BEAUTIFY CITY

In a meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People held Thursday night, plans were discussed for the promotion of a "City Beautiful" campaign. The association will give a prize to the school having the most beautiful campus, and a proze will be given to the individual that has the most beautiful campus, and a prize will extend until the last week in May.

As a means of stimulating interest in the campaign, a prize will be given to the young man or young woman who induces the largest number of residents to plant flowers and to put forth other efforts to beautify their yards.

This contest is open to the colored young men and young women of the city, and those who desire to take part will kindly give their names to the principal of the school in their district.

The members of the association will canvass every colored home in Waco in an effort to secure unanimous support and co-operation in the execution of this great movement. Efforts are being made by a special committee of the association to secure a sufficient amount of flower seed to be distributed free, among the school children, and to supply those homes that are not able to purchase them.

Iron Is Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200 Per Cent Stronger In Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remady, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

Waco people will remember that the Paul Quinn choral club rendered the music at the banquet tendered the National Editorial association in the Cotton Palace auditorium about three years ago. The club made good impression upon the body of editors attending the banquet and many of the visitors in writing up the trip took occasion to specially mention the folk song singing of the Paul Quinn students. Many of the visitors declared that the folk song concert was an agreeable surprise and that the students were probably unsurpassed in rendering the plantation melodies.

Lad Who Was Held for Farley Burglary Receives Sentence

Louis Trott, aged 15, who was tried in the juvenile court yesterday in connection with the robbery of considerable boys' clothing from the furnishing house of W. T. Farley, was given a term in the state reformatory at Gatesville yesterday by Special Judge G. W. Marcus. The youngster was given a sentence of not less than one year with a probationary sentence until he is of age if his conduct is not exemplary.

Orrine Destroys Liquor Craving

We would not under any circumstances endorse a remedy for the liquor habit, until we had absolutely satisfied ourselves that it did all claimed for it. ORRINE is the only treatment for the liquor habit that has sufficient merit to be sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money, if the desired results are not obtained. It has stood the test of years and we know of many whom it has cured of the drink habit.

You have nothing to risk and everything to gain in giving ORRINE a trial, because the guarantee in each box thoroughly protects you. ORRINE is in two forms: No. 1 for secret use and No. 2 for those who wish to take it voluntarily. Costs $1.00 a box. Ask us for free booklet. Powers-Kelly Drug Co., Austin at Fifth street.

SINCE PORFIRIO DIAZ RESIGNED ON MAY 26, 1911, MEXICO HAS BEEN ASSAILED BY ONE REVOLUTION AFTER ANOTHER

Retiring President Then Prophesied That Anarchy Would Follow His Departure.

LASTING PEACE NOT POSSIBLE, HE SAID

By N. A. JENNING.

Three weeks before Porfirio Diaz resigned the Presidency of Mexico, which he did May 26, 1911, he granted me an interview in his rooms in the National Palace, Mexico City, and said at that interview:—

"I am an old man and I am very tired. I would have resigned the Presidency long, long ago if I could have found in all of Mexico one man to succeed me and rule the country. But I know of not one. I know my people, and I fear that after I go there will be anarchy in Mexico. I love my country and I would give my life willingly for it, but if I must resign to bring peace I can see nothing ahead but anarchy. There will be no lasting peace."

But in those weeks the people turned against the man who had governed their country for more than a third of a century and had brought peace and great prosperity to it, and he was forced to resign. His last words when he bade goodby to a friend on the night that he left Mexico City for Vera Cruz were:—

"I am the first President of Mexico who ever left office and left money in the treasury."

Francisco Leon de la Barra, who was the Minister of Foreign Relations in the Cabinet of President Diaz, succeeded him according to the law of succession laid down in the Mexican constitution and became Provisional President on May 26, 1911, to hold office until a new Presidential election could be held.

Francisco I. Madero, who had been defeated by Diaz for the Presidency in 1910, and who had started his revolution in November of that year, made a triumphal entry into Mexico City June 8, 1911, reaching the capital a few hours after an earthquake had shaken the city and killed nearly 300 persons. The Mexicans, always superstitious, declared that the earthquake was a bad omen, but they gave Madero a great reception and acclaimed him as the saviour of the nation.

MEXICO'S RULERS AND PRESIDENTS SINCE DIAZ'S DAY.

Porfirio Diaz, resigned May 26, 1911.

Leon Francisco de la Barra, May 26, 1911, to November 9, 1911.

Pedro Lascurain, President for twenty-six minutes, November 19, 1913.

Victoriano Huerta, November 19, 1913, to July 15, 1914.

Francisco Carbajal, July 15, 1914, to August 12, 1914.

Venustiano Carranza, August 12, 1914, to November 10, 1914.

Eulalio Gutierrez, November 10, 1914, to January 16, 1915.

Roque Gonzalez Garza, from January 16, 1915, to January 18, 1915.

Venustiano Carranza, January 18, 1915, to ——.

Zapatas There to Fight.

Emiliano and Eufemio Zapata, the Morelos bandits, were among those who gave their vivas for Madero, but they fought him afterward, and they fought De la Barra even before Madero was elected President. Then they fought President Victoriano Huerta and his numerous successors, and are now fighting Venustiano Carranza just as wholeheartedly.

Madero was inaugurated President of Mexico on November 9, 1911. On the day before his election he said to me:—

"I will have perfect peace throughout Mexico within ninety days. Mexico now will have a real republic, a real democracy for the first time in her history. The people will be free and there will be lasting peace."

From that time until to-day there has been no peace in Mexico. Not for one day has the country been free from revolutions since President Madero made that statement. He had many enemies throughout the republic and they kept his armies busy.

On January 31, 1912, a new revolt of importance began with a battle in Ciudad Juarez, opposite El Paso, and a considerable number were killed on both sides. The next day Emilio Gomez, who had rebelled against Madero, was proclaimed Provisional Governor. On February 5 President Taft sent four battalions of United States regulars to the Rio Grande to protect the border. Madero tried to compromise with the rebels, and offered Pascual Orozco the Governorship of Chihuahua. Orozco declined, and on February 7 went over to the rebels. On February 27 Ciudad Juarez was captured by the rebels, and the revolt spread to many States. Then President Taft forbade the exportation of arms and ammunition to Mexico under a law passed by Congress on March 14, 1912. On March 29 President Taft ordered rifles to be sent to the Americans in Mexico City, for there was a decided anti-American sentiment there at the time, and many Americans had been murdered in different portions of the republic. On April 15, 1912, it was figured that eighty-five Americans had been killed since the war began.

Outrages Against Americans.

The fighting in the north against Orozco and in the south against the Zapatistas continued throughout the summer, and reports of outrages upon Americans and their property in many parts of Mexico poured in.

On October 13, 1912, Felix Diaz, a nephew of the deposed President, put himself at the head of a few hundred men and seized Vera Cruz, the chief sea port of Mexico. His revolution was of short duration, for on October 23 Madero's forces entered Vera Cruz waving white flags and crying "Viva Felix Diaz!" Then when Diaz was greeting the officers of the newcomers they pointed their pistols at his head and he had to surrender.

Diaz was taken to Mexico City and put in jail there, and at first Madero declared that he would be put to death, together with General Bernardo Reyes, who had tried to start another revolution in the north and had been captured. Many petitions were made to Madero to spare the lives of those two men, and he listened to the pleas and postponed action. In the meantime the secret agents of Diaz and Reyes were working against Madero in the army, and early on Sunday morning, February 9, 1913, the First Cavalry and part of the mounted police and other soldiers liberated Diaz from Belem Prison, while cadets from the military school at Tlalpam, a suburb of Mexico City, liberated General Reyes from the penitentiary. Reyes and Diaz, with their liberators, went to the National Palace and attempted to take possession of it, but were repulsed by the Twenty-ninth infantry, which formed the palace guard. There was a sharp fight. General Reyes was killed at its beginning, and machine guns were turned loose on the roof of the palace, sweeping the crowded Zocalo, or main plaza, and the Avenida de San Francisco, which was thronged with people going to church. Diaz and his men were driven off after many of the cavalrymen had been killed and on the plaza 619 non-combatants were killed, according to the official records of the police. Men, women and children were killed throughout the length of Avenida de San Francisco.

Successful Attack on Arsenal.

Diaz and his men stormed the Ciudadela, or arsenal, about a mile from the National Palace and took it after a fight lasting half an hour. There they found huge stores of arms and ammunition and prepared for a siege. All day Sunday and Monday they remained quietly in the Ciudadela, while Madero was gathering his forces to oust them. The battle began in the city on the morning of February 11 and continued until February 18, with a daily cannonading and machine gun and rifle firing between the Ciudadela and the palace and many other places where the Federals had planted batteries. In the "Decena Tragica," as the time of the battle is called in Mexico, more than 4,000 persons, mostly non-combatants, were killed and about 18,000 wounded. Several Americans were among the killed.

February 18 General Victoriano Huerta, who had been commanding the Madero forces, met Felix Diaz at the American Embassy by request of the American Ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, and they came to an agreement for the overthrow of Madero as the only means to stop the fighting and slaughter of citizens. It was agreed at that conference that Huerta should become the Provisional President and that Diaz should have the naming of the new Cabinet. Madero was arrested at the National Palace and his brother, Gustavo Madero, was arrested in the Gambrinus Cafe, where he was entertaining friends at dinner. Madero and Pino Suarez, his Vice President, were locked up in the Palace and Gustavo Madero was taken to the Ciudadela.

On the night of February 22 Madero and Pino Suarez were removed from the Palace and taken to the penitentiary, but were murdered shortly after midnight close to the walls of the prison. Gustavo Madero was murdered in the Ciudadela the morning after his arrest under the excuse that he had attempted to escape—la ley fuga.

Signed Their Resignations.

Before Madero and Pino Suarez were removed from the palace they were forced to sign their resignations, thus making Pedro Lascurain, Minister of Foreign Affairs, President, according to the constitutional provision. Lascurain was President exactly twenty-six minutes, however, for he immediately appointed Victoriano Huerta as his Minister of Foreign Affairs and then resigned, making Huerta the President.

On March 11, 1913, President Woodrow Wilson formally announced that the United States would not recognize assassination as a means for acquiring office and would only recognize a government in Mexico which should be formed after a genuine and free election.

Two or three days before the overthrow and death of Madero, Venustiano Carranza, Governor of the State of Coahuila, it is stated on good authority, had started a revolution against Madero, but as soon as he heard that Huerta had usurped the Presidency he began a revolt against Huerta.

The rebellion against Huerta spread rapidly in many States and Carranza and Francisco Villa headed it, Carranza being made "First Chief of the Constitutionalist armies" and Villa taking active command of the troops.

Advise Americans to Leave.

All the European nations recognized the Huerta government, and on July 15 a number of the foreign Ambassadors to the United States asked President Wilson to outline his Mexican policy. The next day he recalled Henry Lane Wilson from Mexico. Charges had been preferred by Mexican Free Masons that Ambassador Wilson was guilty of complicity in the assassination of Madero and Pino Suarez, but they never produced any proof to back such assertions.

The revolutions against Huerta's government grew and multiplied, and he ruled the country with a rod of iron. He sent Felix Diaz to Japan on a mission to thank the Japanese government for the part it had taken in Mexico's centennial in 1910, gradually got rid of all the Cabinet members who had been named by Diaz, frightened any other Presidential aspirants out of the country, and on October 11, 1913, arrested all the Deputies while they were in session and locked them up in the penitentiary.

In the meantime William J. Bryan, Secretary of State, by direction of President Wilson, had ordered the American Consuls throughout Mexico to advise all Americans to leave that country. On August 27 President Wilson delivered a speech to Congress advising Americans to get out of Mexico and money was appropriated on September 13 to bring "destitute Americans" away from threatened danger.

Huerta declared to me at that time that Americans would be in no danger in any territory he controlled, whether they were at war with the United States or not, and that he would strictly comply with the stipulations of the treaties between Mexico and the United States concerning Americans in Mexico in the event of war between the two countries. In the same interview he said that he had always liked the Americans, had done his best to further their interests, had always protected them in Mexico, and even offered to pay first class passages for them on steamships leaving Vera Cruz when Mr. Bryan wanted some of them to travel third class.

Villa continued to make headway all through the year, and the constitutionalists were assisted in getting arms from the United States to fight Huerta, whose cause was becoming hopeless because he could not get money to finance the government.

On April 7, 1914, a boat's crew from the U. S. S. Dolphin was arrested by one of Huerta's officers at Tampico while the town was being defended from an attack by the Villa forces. Admiral Mayo, who was in command of the United States naval forces at Tampico, demanded that an apology be made and that the American flag be saluted because of the insult. Huerta apologized through Nelson W. O'Shaughnessy, the American Charge d'Affaires in Mexico City, but refused to order a salute to the flag until he had received a report on the occurrence and until he was satisfied that the salute would be returned.

On April 21 Admiral Frank F. Fletcher landed marines and sailors from the American fleet in Vera Cruz Harbor and seized the Custom House. The Mexican soldiers fought as well as they could, but Admiral Fletcher took the town and the hills around it. The Americans lost seventeen killed and several wounded. Two of the wounded died later.

Then President Wilson invited Argentina, Brazil and Chili to co-operate with the United States to try to bring peace between the warring factions in Mexico, but nothing came of their conferences, as Carranza declined to cease his efforts to oust Huerta.

Huerta resigned on July 15, 1914, and left Mexico with a large number of his immediate followers. Huerta went to Kingston, Jamaica, and then to Spain.

Francisco Carbajal succeeded Huerta and remained in that office about a month. The constitutional army entered Mexico City on August 15 and took peaceful possession. Carbajal left the country. Carranza established his headquarters in Mexico City and an early election was talked about.

There was comparative peace for a short time, but Francisco Villa and Carranza quarrelled, and Villa issued an ultimatum that Carranza must retire. A convention of all the revolutionary chiefs was called to meet at Aguas Calientes to decide upon the establishment of a government. The Villa supporters got control of the convention and announced that Carranza had resigned and that Francisco Carbajal had succeeded him as President. The convention remained in session until November and then proclaimed General Eulalio Gutierrez Provisional President of Mexico.

Villa immediately undertook to see that Gutierrez was installed in office, and began his march to Mexico City, reaching there with little opposition from the Carranzistas. Carranza fled from the capital and went toward Vera Cruz. The Americans evacuated Vera Cruz November 23, 1914, and shortly thereafter Carranza made the sea port his capital.

Zapata in Mexico City.

Gutierrez was forced out of the Presidency on January 10, 1915, and Roque Gonzalez Garza, another Provisional President appointed by the convention of chiefs, was forced to leave Mexico City, and two days later Carranza's army took possession.

Villa proclaimed himself in charge of the Mexican Presidency, and on February 16 Carranza's forces under General Obregon evacuated the capital and Emiliano Zapata marched in.

Then Ignacio de la Torre started a new revolution in the south.

The fighting between the Villa and Carranza forces continued, and on April 7, 1915, Obregon defeated Villa in a terrific battle near Celaya. May 19 the Carranza forces took Saltillo and on the same day serious food riots took place in Mexico City.

SPRING EARLIER IN THE CITY.

Urban Citizen Has His Fill of Fruits Before They Are Ripe on Farm.

(Boston Globe.)

A city woman with a tender conscience was visiting in the country in June. She confided to a friend that as fast as the fresh fruits and vegetables came her hosts skimped their own share in order that she, who was supposed never to have a chance to enjoy such things, might have her fill. The truth was, she had had her fill of everything, from rhubarb to strawberries, between the last of February and the beginning of April, and she was much puzzled whether to accept their sacrifices or disappoint them by telling the truth.

The hothouse has stolen a long march on the season. To walk through the market at certain times of the year would be to suppose that the year was anywhere from one to three months ahead of itself.

The result is that while country folks are pitying city folks for having to wait so much longer for the spring to arrive in the big towns, the fact is that the big towns have begun to celebrate the advent of that season long before, in the florists' shops (where, as a matter of market, in the seed stores, in the scientific record, the spring flowers first bloom) and, though last but not least—in the windows of the haberdashers.

Each man in the regular army is said to cost Great Britain $1500 a year.

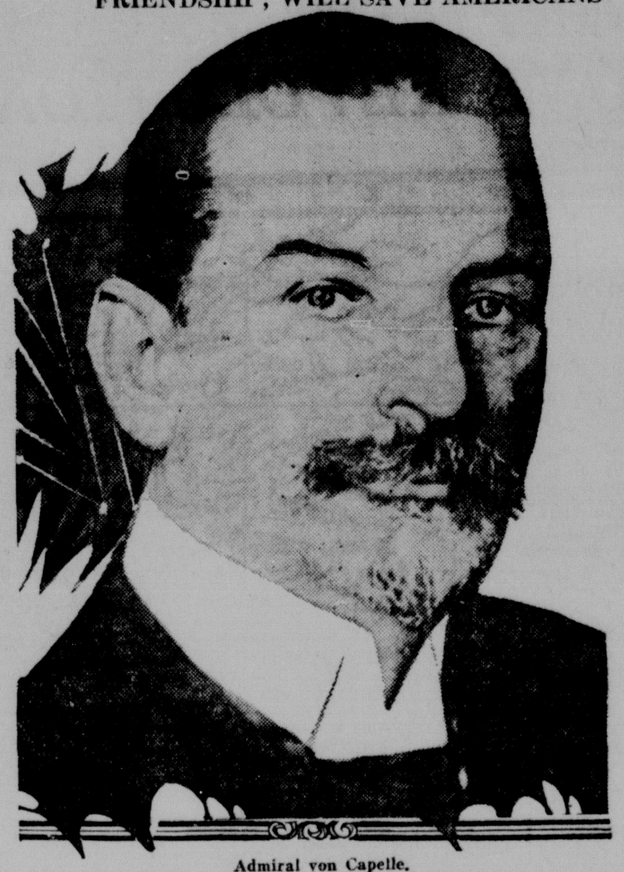
NEW GERMAN NAVY HEAD SEEKS U. S. FRIENDSHIP; WILL SAVE AMERICANS



Admiral von Capelle.

Admiral von Capelle, successor of Admiral von Tirpitz as German minister of marine, is known to be desirous of retaining the friendship of the United States. For this reason it is understood he will respect the rules of international law insisted upon by President Wilson, and will not sink without notice merchant vessels carrying American citizens.

NEW FRENCH MINISTER OF WAR KNOWN AS FATHER OF FRENCH MILITARY AVIATION

General Pierre Roques.

Special to the Morning News.

Paris, March 25.—Gen. Pierre Auguste Roques, whose appointment as minister of war in succession to General Gallieni was recently announced, is best known for his work as inspector general of aeronautics. He occupied this post from 1910 to 1912, at a time when the military importance of aviation was beginning to be fully realized. The efficiency shown by this arm of the French service during the war is due in large part to the sound organization built up by General Roques.

Like General Joffre, the commander-in-chief, the new minister of war is an engineer, and, like him, he is a southerner, having been born in Marseillan, department of Herault, on December 28, 1856. After going through the usual college course he entered the polytechnic school in which engineers, civil and military, and artillery officers are trained. He was graduated with the rank of second lieutenant. In 1877 he was made a lieutenant, and was assigned to the second regiment of engineers two years later.

He showed such ability that, in 1889, he was sent to Algiers as captain of staff. On returning he took a post at the war ministry. When hostilities broke out in Dahomey he went out as a major in command of one of the battalions of his old regiment of engineers. For his distinguished services he was made lieutenant colonel.

In 1901 he spent some time in special work at Paris, being then a full colonel. He took charge of important public works at Madagascar, and so thoroughly established his reputation that when the post of director of engineer corps at the ministry of war became vacant in 1906 he was appointed, with the rang of general of brigade. Three years later he attained the rank of general of division, the highest in the Frenc harmy, inasmuch as marshals are no longer appointed.

After serving two years as permanent inspector general of aeronautics he was placed in command of the seventh infantry division. When the war began he was in command of the fourth army corps at Liboges, "from which," the army orders say, "he obtained the most brilliant services, both of his own personal bravery and by masterly leadership. He was placed at the head of an army (the first army) on January 6, 1915, and continued to show the highest qualities of activity and intelligence, possessing the gift of inspiring subordinates with the splendid sentiments which he himself animated." For his services he was decorated with the grand cross of the Legion of Honor and with the military cross.

The new war minister is cool, deliberate, and undemonstrative; a clear thinker and a businesslike organizer. He possesses traits which in many ways resemble characteristics of General Joffre, his lifelong friend. He served under General Joffre in 1888, in Admiral Courbet's expedition to Tongking, French Indo-China. He was again associated with General Joffre in Madagascar at the time of the construction of the great Diego Suarez harbor.

The appointment of General Roques is well received by the press, which characterizes him as a bold and skillful soldier, with no political leanings and with a knowledge of administrative methods obtained during past service in the war office, whic his expected to make him acceptable to the officials there.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press

New York, March 25.—The cotton market was very quiet today, with fluctuations correspondingly narrow. July contracts, for instance, sold at 11.97 at the start, rallied to 12.02 and closed at 12.01, with the general list closing steady, net unchanged to 2 points lower.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 6 points in response to relatively easy cables. May sold at 11.95 and October at 12.09 on the call, but the decline seemed to meet a little renewed demand from trade interests below 12 cents for July contracts, while there was also some buying here for Liverpool account, and the market soon became steadier.

The idea of local map readers that barometric conditions pointed to clearing and cooler weather over the southwest may have tended to restrict offerings as the light scattering rains in Texas have not generally been considered sufficient to relieve drouthy conditions.

A comparatively small increase in the amount of cotton on shipboard aawiting clearance as reported by a local statistical authority probably had some influence, but trading was not active enough either way to suggest any fresh sentiment and after the rally to 11.91 for May and 12.14 for October the market showed practically no feature.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, March 25.—While the cotton market here was steady today, fluctuations were extremely narrow and trading was small in volume. Week-end covering by shorts furnished much of the demand. The close was unchanged to 1 point down, compared with yesterday's final prices.

The market opened at the decline in sympathy with lower cables than due and the small spot trading in Liverpool. In the early business here prices lost 4 to 5 points, which carried the market to the lowest levels of the day. The failure of rains to extend to south Texas and somewhat better accounts from interior spot markets created uneasiness among holders of short contracts and on buying from them the market recovered late in the morning and stood unchanged to 1 point higher than yesterday's close.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press

Chicago, March 25.—Torpedoing of vessels with Americans aboard resulted today in lower prices for wheat. The market closed unsettled ⅝@½ to ⅝c down at $1.08¼ for May and $1.06⅜@1.06⅜ for July. Corn gained ⅛@¼c net, oats finished ¼@⅜c to ½c off and provisions up 2½@10c.

Wheat had rallied from an early decline, but when attention was turned to the notable increase of hostilities against shipping, the market headed sharply downgrade. The weakness at the outset was due chiefly to rains in the southwest, where the lack of adequate moisture of late has been impeding growth. Advices, however, that prolonged winter conditions in Canada and a scarcity of labor there were virtually certain to cause a big decrease in the extent of seeded acreage led afterward to an advance above yesterday's closing prices.

Aggressive selling and a lack of support characterized the wheat market in the final hour of the session.

Weather of a kind to retard the movement of the corn crop brought about strength in the corn market.

In the oats trade, bears had an advantage owing to reports that planting was actively going on, especially throughout central Illinois.

Provisions rose with hogs.

SPRING EARLIER IN THE CITY.

Urban Citizen Has His Fill of Fruits Before They Are Ripe on Farm.

(Boston Globe.)

A city woman with a tender conscience was visiting in the country in June. She confided to a friend that as fast as the fresh fruits and vegetables came her hosts skimped their own share in order that she, who was supposed never to have a chance to enjoy such things, might have her fill. The truth was, she had had her fill of everything, from rhubarb to strawberries, between the last of February and the beginning of April, and she was much puzzled whether to accept their sacrifices or disappoint them by telling the truth.

The hothouse has stolen a long march on the season. To walk through the market at certain times of the year would be to suppose that the year was anywhere from one to three months ahead of itself.

The result is that while country folks are pitying city folks for having to wait so much longer for the spring to arrive in the big towns, the fact is that the big towns have begun to celebrate the advent of that season long before, in the florists' shops (where, as a matter of market, in the seed stores, in the scientific record, the spring flowers first bloom) and, though last but not least—in the windows of the haberdashers.

Each man in the regular army is said to cost Great Britain $1500 a year.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 25.—Torpedoing of vessels with Americans aboard resulted today in lower prices for wheat. The market closed unsettled ⅝@⅞ to ⅝c down at $1.08¼ for May and $1.06⅝@1.06¾ for July. Corn gained ¼@⅜c net, oats finished ¼@⅝c to ½c off and provisions up 2½@10c.

Wheat had rallied from an early decline, but when attention was turned to the notable increase of hostilities against shipping, the market headed sharply downgrade. The weakness at the outset was due chiefly to rains in the southwest, where the lack of adequate moisture of late has been impeding growth. Advices, however, that prolonged winter conditions in Canada and a scarcity of labor there were virtually certain to cause a big decrease in the extent of seeded acreage led afterward to an advance above yesterday's closing prices.

Aggressive selling and a lack of support characterized the wheat market in the final hour of the session.

Weather of a kind to retard the movement of the corn crop brought about strength in the corn market.

In the oats trade, bears had an advantage owing to reports that planting was actively going on, especially throughout central Illinois.

Provisions rose with hogs.

LANE BIDS THE NATION TO SHOW PATIENCE

Necessary if U. S. Is to Gain Recognition of Its Rights Through Diplomacy.

(Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, in Harper's Weekly.)

We have no enemies but we have rights which we cannot yield. The man who has anything which anyone else wants must protect himself or it will be taken from him.

Broadly, the question has been presented from the first day of the administration: Shall we go to war because foreign nations do things which are opposed to the pledges they have given to us and to the world? Our policy is shown in our preparedness program, our treatment of Mexico and our attitude toward Europe.

As to the war in Europe, Chief Justice White said that in securing from Germany a declaration that she would carry on submarine warfare in accordance with the rules on which we insisted the United States has achieved the greatest diplomatic victory of the last generation. We have sought through diplomatic means to gain the recognition of those rights which we might have secured by war. This is the function of diplomacy but of course it is not picturesque. It always requires time and patience.

The good lawyer settles his case out of court if he can. And in dealing with foreign powers the president of the United States is the attorney for the people of the United States. He is not a patient man by nature. His own affairs he handles in a very direct and forthright manner. But in handling the affairs of his country the president dare not be rash or do the attractive, dramatic, impulsive thing when the burden of his act must fall on others.

This nation is not willing to sacrifice self-respect rather than fight. But a courageous and virile people with such a war record as ours and resources of men, money and minerals such as we have is not looking for a fight just to establish its position in the world or out of an insane egoistic notion that it is its duty to police a world that is the victim of national egoism.

The king of Italy has kept a diary of his life for the past twenty-eight years.

Argentina will import camels to use in the place of horses in semi-arid regions.

LANE BIDS THE NATION TO SHOW PATIENCE

Necessary if U. S. Is to Gain Recognition of Its Rights Through Diplomacy.

(Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, in Harper's Weekly.)

We have no enemies but we have rights which we cannot yield. The man who has anything which anyone else wants must protect himself or it will be taken from him.

Broadly, the question has been presented from the first day of the administration: Shall we go to war because foreign nations do things which are opposed to the pledges they have given to us and to the world? Our policy is shown in our preparedness program, our treatment of Mexico and our attitude toward Europe.

As to the war in Europe, Chief Justice White said that in securing from Germany a declaration that she would carry on submarine warfare in accordance with the rules on which we insisted the United States has achieved the greatest diplomatic victory of the last generation. We have sought through diplomatic means to gain the recognition of those rights which we might have secured by war. This is the function of diplomacy but of course it is not picturesque. It always requires time and patience.

The good lawyer settles his case out of court if he can. And in dealing with foreign powers the president of the United States is the attorney for the people of the United States. He is not a patient man by nature. His own affairs he handles in a very direct and forthright manner. But in handling the affairs of his country the president dare not be rash or do the attractive, dramatic, impulsive thing when the burden of his case must fall on others.

This nation is not willing to sacrifice self-respect rather than fight. But a courageous and virile people with such a war record as ours and resources of men, money and minerals such as we have is not looking for a fight just to establish its position in the world or out of an insane egoistic notion that it is its duty to police a world that is the victim of national egoism.

The king of Italy has kept a diary of his life for the past twenty-eight years.

Argentina will import camels to use in the place of horses in semi-arid regions.

POLLYAND HER PALS

By CLIFF STERRETT

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

IT BECOMES BEAUTIFULLY SOFT, WAVY, ABUNDANT AND GLOSSY AT ONCE.

Save Your Hair! All Dandruff Goes and Hair Stops Coming Out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

MISSIONARY MEETING OF STUDENTS GREAT AFFAIR

Many Prominent Speakers at Convention—Baylor Has Large Delegation.

Returning members of the Baylor delegation say that the Baptist Student Missionary movement which closes tonight in Fort Worth has been even more successful than its promoters anticipated. Some four hundred delegates registered during the convention. This series of meetings brought together one of the most noted arrays of Baptist leaders that has ever addressed a Texas audience.

Some of the more noted of those who have delivered addresses include Dr. O. C. S. Wallace of Montreal, Canada, who is well known for his book on Baptist principles and who has a son serving in the allied armies; Dr. B. W. Spillman of Dallas, the great Sunday school leader of the Baptists; Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of Baltimore and now editor of the Watchman-Examiner of New York City; Drs. P. F. Love and T. B. Ray, the secretaries of the Baptist foreign mission board; Dr. W. A. Carver of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Ky., and many others, including missionaries from foreign fields. Practically all the leading Texas pastors were in attendance and have had part on the programs. George W. Truett of Dallas, J. M. Dawson of Waco, B. H. Porter of San Antonio, O. L. Hailey of Plainview, J. L. Grass of Houston, Lee R. Scarborough, president of the Southwestern Theological seminary and several others were the Texas speakers.

Most of the meetings were held at the Broadway Baptist church, but Friday the convention was the guest of the seminary, and on that day was held the most impressive service of the entire convention. Dr. Lee R. Scarborough, president of the seminary, made an appeal for volunteers, and fifty-five from various schools all over the South pledged themselves for special service. Most of these will go to the foreign fields.

In the afternoon service Friday, reports were given from the various schools represented. Baylor university of Waco led all visiting delegations with thirty-three registered delegates. W. H. Duff spoke in behalf of the Baylor people. Baylor College followed with twenty-five present, while Simmons College at Abilene boasted twenty-three delegates. Most of the Baptist schools of Texas were represented, as well as the University of Texas, while Oklahoma State U. and various denominational schools from all over the south boasted from 1 to twenty delegates.

The greater part of the students from Baylor University will leave for Waco tonight, although several already have returned.

An invitation to hold the next convention at Louisville was received from the Southern Baptist Theological seminary. Many professed themselves in favor of going to the Kentucky school next year, but no definite action was taken yesterday.

Easter and Our Preparation in Every Department

Just a few weeks to Easter Sunday. Make the selection of Easter Apparel this week. We have unexcelled displays of new Spring attire. Every requisite and need of the wardrobe may be readily supplied from our large and diversified stocks, indicative of our complete readiness for the Spring season. No other event is so important in the world of fashion as is Easter Sunday, and at no other time are we quite so thoroughly prepared for the demand which every woman inevitably makes in acquiring dress needs. Exclusive and elegant novelties are everywhere throughout the store and the frequency with which one-of-a-style articles of dress may be chosen evidences that individuality was never so much in demand as now. A rare fund of suggestions that will add to the charm of every woman's and child's Easter appearance and a display that furnishes information of all that is new and correct is to be found in a visit to the Sanger Store at this time.

Strong Interest in Scout Movement Over Country

Many people in Waco do not realize it is declared, the extent of the Boy Scout movement as it is sweeping over the whole country. Locally the interest is becoming greater since the Waco council has announced its financial campaign for $10,000 to conduct Boy Scout activities in this city for the next three years. The list of the national officers is suggestion of the wide extent of the interest in this great work.

The officers are:

Honorary president, Hon. Woodrow Wilson; honorary vice president, Hon. William H. Taft; honorary vice president, Hon. Theodore Roosevelt; president, Colin H. Livingstone, Washington, D. C.; vice president, B. L. Dulaney, Bristol, Tenn.; vice president, Milton A. McRae, Detroit, Mich.; vice president, David Starr Jordan, Leland Stanford university, California; vice president, F. L. Seely, Asheville, N. C.; vice president, A. Stamford White, Chicago, Ill.; national Scout commissioner, Daniel Carter Beard, Flushing, N. Y.; treasurer, George D. Pratt; chief Scout executive, James E. West; additional members of executive board, Ernest P. Bicknell, Robert Garrett, John Sherman Hoyt, Charles C. Jackson, Jeremiah W. Jenks, William D. Murray, Charles P. Neill, John H. Nicholson, Judge Franklin Chase Hoyt, George D. Porter, Frank Presbrey, G. Barrett Rich Jr., Edgar M. Robinson, Mortimer L. Schiff.

Each city having a Boy Scout council is granted the privilege of electing one member of the national council. For every 1,000 Scouts registered from a council an additional member may be elected. The Waco member of the national council is Turner E. Hubby. Mr. Hubby has served in this capacity ever since the formation of the local council. It is hoped that within the next two years, through the success of the local financial campaign, Mr. Hubby will have a Waco colleague on the national council. As this is an honor signifying recognition of the interest and endeavor for boy life, it is a much coveted election in most cities.

The Waco financial campaign will begin tomorrow at noon with a lunch at the Y. M. B. L. rooms. At the conclusion of the meeting the twelve teams under the leadership of Frank J. Trau and Robert Frazier will start on their race for the honor of securing the largest amount before the campaign closes. As it is a definite sum which is asked of the citizens of Waco, the contest will be called off whenever the amount is raised. Under these rules the struggle is expected to be brief and well within the time limit. Mr. Trau will announce the personnel of his captains in the morning.

Yesterday the Waco Scouts entertained over 250 visitors at their park at their first field day rally. A band concert opened the rally and was followed by games and contests of skill and dexterity. Baseball, basketball, jumping, wrestling, knights' battles, tent pitching, first aid signaling and running were among the events under the supervision of Commissioner Nat Hayes. A feature of the afternoon was the action of the various Scout patrols in showing their visitors about the park. The city authorities had assisted the Scouts greatly by opening a new road and bridge into the park this week. Their action was commented upon very favorably by the guests of the Scouts.

WINNERS GET RIBBONS FOR ABILITY.

The spirit of competition proved to be strong among the boys and the coveted ribbons were fought for with a vim. Attractive ribbons for each event had been prepared by National Commissioner H. M. Butler.

Winners in the various events were as follows:

Rescue race and knights' battle, both won by Frank Owen and Jim Perry, the former of the Bear patrol and the latter of the Fox patrol.

Ground wrestling, Cappell Campbell of the Stag patrol.

Hand wrestling, Rembert Matthews of the Fox patrol.

Indian wrestling, Clatco Moseley of the Bear patrol.

Bear hug, Lero Winthrop.

Catch-as-catch-can wrestling, Frank Owen and Charles Lungston of the Bear patrol.

100-yard dash, Harold Lungston of the Bear patrol.

High jump, Clatco Moseley of the Bear patrol.

Broad jump, George Matthews of the Fox patrol.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

IT BECOMES BEAUTIFULLY SOFT, WAVY, ABUNDANT AND GLOSSY AT ONCE.

Save Your Hair! All Dandruff Goes and Hair Stops Coming Out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

MISSIONARY MEETING OF STUDENTS GREAT AFFAIR

Many Prominent Speakers at Convention—Baylor Has Large Delegation.

Returning members of the Baylor delegation say that the Baptist Student Missionary movement which closes tonight in Fort Worth has been even more successful than its promoters anticipated. Some four hundred delegates registered during the convention. This series of meetings brought together one of the most noted arrays of Baptist leaders that has ever addressed a Texas audience.

Some of the more noted of those who have delivered addresses include Dr. O. C. S. Wallace of Montreal, Canada, who is well known for his book on Baptist principles and who has a son serving in the allied armies; Dr. B. W. Spillman of Dallas, the great Sunday school leader of the Baptists; Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of Baltimore and now editor of the Watchman-Examiner of New York City; Drs. P. E. Love and T. B. Ray, the secretaries of the Baptist foreign mission board; Dr. W. A. Carver of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Ky., and many others, including missionaries from foreign fields. Practically all the leading Texas pastors were in attendance and have had part on the programs. George W. Truett of Dallas, J. M. Dawson of Waco, S. J. Porter of San Antonio, O. L. Hailey of Plainview, J. L. Grass of Houston, Lee R. Scarborough, president of the Southwestern Theological seminary and several others were the Texas speakers.

Most of the meetings were held at the Broadway Baptist church, but Friday the convention was the guest of the seminary, and on that day was held the most impressive service of the entire convention. Dr. Lee R. Scarborough, president of the seminary, made an appeal for volunteers, and fifty-five from various schools all over the South pledged themselves for special service. Most of these will go to the foreign fields.

In the afternoon service Friday, reports were given from the various schools represented. Baylor university of Waco led all visiting delegations with thirty-three registered delegates. W. H. Duff spoke in behalf of the Baylor people. Baylor College followed with twenty-five present, while Simmons College at Abilene boasted twenty-three delegates. Most of the Baptist schools of Texas were represented, as well as the University of Texas, while Oklahoma state U. and various denominational schools from all over the south boasted from 1 to twenty delegates.

The greater part of the students from Baylor University will leave for Waco tonight, although several already have returned.

An invitation to hold the next convention at Louisville was received from the Southern Baptist Theological seminary. Many professed themselves in favor of going to the Kentucky school next year, but no definite action was taken yesterday.
